YOUR ANTIQUES.

by Jack Jamieson

Boesge is an archaic word that means woodland or trees and shrubs in a woodland setting. When used to describe an antique in porcelain it means two things simultaneously. Firstly, it means that the selling price will be astronomical and secondly that part of the object will represent trees and shrubs.

In early pieces such as the one shown the figures, base, and the support for the decorative flowers are cast separately and then assembled. Usually the small floral details are added to the assembled form, separately and individually by hand.

Picture Credit: Crown Derby

A vast amount of patience and skill went into the manufacture of boesge ornaments. Many were candlesticks. They were popular in the 18th century and are still being turned out usually in very debased forms. The piece illustrated, one of a pair, is identified as Chelsea Derby circa 1758.

Chelsea Derby is the name of two concerns, both in England, one at Chelsea and one at Derby. They were started by William Duesbury, a china decorator who eventually closed the Chelsea works. The mark for Chelsea ware was an anchor, usually red or later gold. In the Chelsea - Derby period pieces were marked with a copital D incorporating an anchor.

Copying of Chelsea works began at an early date and presumably still continues. Much of the original was not marked at all. It can be identified sometimes by what are known as pad marks. In order to separate pieces in the kiln they were set on circular pads usually three, which left a set of circular faint stains on the bottom. Pad marked pieces are often accepted as Chelsea-Derby on the basis of similar marked pieces or by identifiable shards.

Chelsea-Derby is not common in North America although a considerable amount must have found its way here. In England it would be recognized immediately and if genuine would fetch a high price. In North America there is a strong chance it would not be recognized. Because pieces are very decorative it is unlikely they would be sold cheaply, however they would possibly realize just a fraction of their true value.

Late 19th century copies of Chelsea are marked and can be identified. Modern copies are usually clumsy and earlier ones are closer to bone glass than porcelain. European factories turned out their own versions of boesge through out the period it appeared elsewhere and the range varies from junk to price less. The best advice about boesge applies to all antiques. If you like it buy it. If you are selling, assume your piece is the best and get the most you can for it.

AULD ACQUAINTANCE

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot and never brought to mind" — Robert Burns.

* * *

On a recent visit to Ayr, Ontario, where we have "friends and relations," it was interesting to note in the Ayr News a number of villagers were visiting relatives, or "on the trail of their ancestors" in Ayr, Scotland, while on their way to attend the Walter Scott's bicentenary celebrations in Edinburgh.

It also mentioned that The Ayr Advertiser (Scotland) and the "Ayr News" "swop" newspapers every week and the following letter appeared from the Ayr Advertiser:

"Dear Sir: A few weeks ago you published a photograph of a couple from Ayr, Scotland, showing off a copy of our Ayr Advertiser in your office.

I am enclosing a copy of the photograph in case you wish to use it and to show we Scots are not at all mean, we won't even charge a reproduction fee.

The good folks in Ayr, Scotland haven't forgotten the visit of the Ayr Pants Band and look forward to the return visit when it comes.

The entire staff of this newspaper send their regards to the 'News' staff. — Yours Sincerely, A. B. Stewart. (Editor)."

A photograph accompanied the letter of two Canadian Ayr visitors to Scotland Ayr, holding a copy of their local Canadian paper The Ayr News which had just arrived.

Another strengthening tie between Canada and Scotland and the two Ayrs is the fact that this year is the 175th anniversary of Robert Burn's death which occurred on July 21, 1796. In the town of Dumfries (Ayr, Ontario is situated in the township of South Dumfries). Admirers the world over have been making pilgrimages to the south western part of Scotland to pay homage to the bard, who died, a neglected genius in poverty at the age of 37.

The Scots idolize Rabbie as do indeed fans in many parts of the world; 50,000 tourists visit this part of Scotland year by. Other than the British, the majority are Russians a nd Americans. It is said the poet was considered to be "so close to the Chinese thought and spirit that the Chinese have sent gested that he was one of their race." The Russians adore him.

The tour begins at Alloway, near Ayr, down the Clyde coast and across to Dumfries where the pilgrimage ends. Burns lies buried in a mausoleum along with his wife Jean.

In the house where he lived in Dumfries, are his teapot, his dram glasses, his Masonic apron, his original manuscripts where he wrote a hundred of his songs. For Auld Lang Syne he received a shawl for his wife, a picture of The Cotter's Saturday Night and £5. He wrote an angry letter and avere again composed for money.

The only likeness presereved of him is a painting as he was in his 20's. "he was h a andsome, virile, self-confident."

"Nobody's thought to picture him any other way . . . and more's the thanks," said one of this man who has given the world an enduring philosophy:

"A man's a man for a' that.
The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley.
O wad the pow'r the giftie gie us to see ourselves as others see us. . ."

Ann Landers

This Husband Speaks For Many Others

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As I write this letter I have the feeling I am speaking for thousands of others who are in the same boat. I'm male, approaching 40, been married about 17 years. We have three children, a paid-for home, middle-income bracket, well-entrenched in a career. Problem: The wife:

I look back at our romance. I was 21. She was 20, pretty, slender (117 pounds), happy to get in the car and go for a drive anywhere. Loved to walk. "Enjoyed swimming, biking. Everything was fun.

Today she weighs 150 at least. Won't walk anyplace. Hasn't been on a bike or in a swim suit in 10 years. Car riding makes her sick. Screams at the kids incessantly. Has gone on 10 diets and can't stay with it.

Her life is wrapped around her card club, her telephone yakking, girl friends, clothes and the hairdresser. She doesn't care for cooking and I'm tired of talking about it so we settle for hamburgers and French fries which she asks me to pick up at the drive-in on my way home.

When I hear her on the phone gossiping about the latest divorcee, I wonder what she'd say if she knew I had considered it many times. Too bad these women don't see the trouble until it's too late. Sign me — YOUR HUSBAND.

* * *

DEAR HUSBAND: Here's your letter, but don't expect the wife to recognize herself. Why not slip this column in the bag the next time she asks you to bring home some hamburgers from the drive-in? Let it be her dessert.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I see so many things wrong with the way my son's wife is raising her children that it makes me miserable. Today's mothers are so puffed up with psychology and book learned nonsense that they make dreadful mistakes. When we were kids if we said a dirty word we caught it right in the mouth. Now our grandchildren blurt out disgusting things and my daughter-in-law says, "We don't use that word," and she just changes the subject. I wrote about this problem last year and you told me to keep quiet unless I was asked. Maybe when you have grandchildren of your own you'll change your mind. Please let me know. — UTICA L.

* * *

DEAR U.: I have grandchildren, the same ones I had last year and my advice is the same. Keep quiet unless asked. Most authorities believe kids use dirty words as an attention getting device. They want a reaction. Your daughter-in-law's approach is a good one. Let her alone.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In the last few months you have printed several letters from women who have lost babies. They have written to tell you some of the thoughtless and hurtful things people have said to them.

Last year we lost our first baby in my sixth month of pregnancy. The doctor said it was a blessing because the baby was deformed. I am pregnant again and understandably I am apprehensive. You can't believe the number of people who have gone out of their way to say, "I hope this one is all right."

Don't these fools realize this is what is on my mind night and day? Why must they bring it up? I know they mean well, but it's so stupid. Print my letter please and tell me, if you can, why people are like this? — MICHIGAN CITY

* * *

DEAR MICH.: Your answer is in your letter. They mean well but they're stupid. Thanks for writing and good luck to you.

Turn Grapes Into Jelly

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: We will have bushels of grapes this year and I want to make enough grape jelly to last my kids all winter. Would you please? — Martha L.

ANSWER: Lucky girl.

GRAPE JELLY

Use grapes that are not fully ripened for jelly. Wash well, pull from stems, drain. Put in preserving kettle and add water to come below top layer of grapes. Simmer until seeds float, facilitating this by crushing with potato masher gently. Pour through jelly bag and let drip overnight. Do not press bag. Measure juice. Bring to boiling point and boil 3 min. It is advisable to test for pectin by measuring 1 tsp. each of grape juice and methyl hydrate (rubbing alcohol) into saucer. After 30 seconds if a clot will form juice contains sufficient pectin. Discard this. It is poisonous. Add an equal quantity of sugar. (If juice will not jell with less, boil longer until it does.) Bring to brisk boil, skim off scum. Test for jelly stage by dipping some juice up on metal spoon, let it run off side. When it separates in to 2 drops which tend to "sheet off" it is ready to pour. Remove from heat, remove scum and pour into sterile jelly jars and seal with paraffin, add one second coating when first is set. Cover with lid, label, store in cool place.

SPICED GRAPE JELLY

Five pounds slightly underripe Concord grapes, 1 cup undiluted grape juice (bottled if necessary, but homemade grape juice is more logical), 1 tbsp. whole cloves, ½ stick cinnamon, broken, 1 cup vinegar, sugar (see below). Wash and stem grapes and drain. Put in a large kettle with grape juice, spices tied in a bag, and vinegar. Cook until the grapes are mushy and tender. Remove spice bag and strain the mixture through a jelly bag or cheesecloth lined colander overnight. Discard grape pulp. Return the juice to the heat and boil for 20 min. Measure the juice into a kettle and add 1 cup of sugar for each cup of juice. Boil rapidly to the jelly stage. Test by dipping up a spoonful of boiling hot syrup, holding it above kettle and allowing to run off side of spoon. When stream separates into 2 drops which flow together, jelly stage has been reached. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses. Seal.

Successful Living

Don't Be Afraid of Changes, Face Them With Sense of Anticipation and Hope

By DORIS CLARK

"A generation reared to expect change could regard change not as a feared catastrophes, but as a privileged human environment in which they could continue growing all their lives, instead of settling into the narrow vistas of a world which achieves stability by unfitting its children to live in any but one way." — Margaret Mead

How wonderful it is when we find a family whose child can face life with wide eyes and a sparkle, as if they were eager to see just what it was they were going to find around the next corner!

I remember one little girl who approached friendly adults with the question, rather breathlessly, "Do you know what?" Invariably, the adult would get a little breathless too as she replied, "No, what?"

Let's never lose our sense of wonder, of anticipation, of hopefulness. More than that, if sure things refuse to happen, let's make them happen!

In this changing world it is not enough to have in your head nothing more than was there yesterday.

* * *

Dear Doris: Why is it that a woman and her children have to leave their home if the woman wants a separation? This woman I know put up with cruel and inhuman treatment for years because she couldn't move her boys to some two-bit apartment where she would have to mingle them and where they would have no place to play. Meanwhile her husband would have the big house all to himself!

I have been through hell too. And I have stayed with my sadistic husband for the same reason. — Baffled

Is there any law to make him:

1. Move out, or give me money for an apartment?

2. Allow me and my children to leave — without stopping us with his usual violent ways? — A Shaking Wreck

Dear Wreck: Husbands and wives have a right to separate from each other, if not by agreement, then by the wife:

1. Applying to force the sale of their jointly owned home, take her share of assets and move.

2. Borrowing or saving up a first month's rent to get started. Some wives have friends they can stay with while taking non support action.

3. Leaving, alone, funds, work and then taking the children.

4. Suing for divorce on grounds of physical or mental cruelty.

Much depends on how determined she is. Present laws do not make it easy.

* * *

Dear Doris: There is a boy whom I have a crush on. He is 19 and used to like me. I don't know if he still does but would like to find out.

I saw him at a ball tournament and he said hi to me. I am going to another ball tournament and I think he will be there. Should I make conversation with him or what? — Baffled

Dear Baffled: I'm trying to picture it. Supposing he does say "Hi!" again. Could you see yourself stopping in your tracks, and stopping him in his, to begin a conversation about the weather or the tournament? I can't. But if you should find yourself sitting in same block of seats — beside him, maybe — Conversation might just flourish!

If at intermission you both happen to be at the hot dog stand, no harm in having a laugh or two about how hot the mustard is. Keep it casual.

* * *

Doris cannot begin to answer all your questions in the column. To make sure of your reply, remember to enclose a stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Davis Has to Force Way Through RC Students

WELLAND (CP) — Premier William Davis was met Friday by about 600 pushing, shouting Roman Catholic students, angry over his decision not to extend provincial aid to separate high schools.

The premier, his wife Kath leen, and others in his party had to force their way from his tour bus to the auditorium of Niagara College as he arrived to continue his campaign for the Oct. 21 provincial election.

"We want Davis. Clean up Davis," the students chanted as they crowded around the official party. They carried placards reading, "Uncle Bill wants you unless you're Catholic" and "Don't we rate?"

Doors to the college were locked after the premier's party entered.

It was the angriest demonstration the premier has faced in this campaign on his decision not to subsidize separate schools past Grade 10.

Mr. Davis and the other two political leaders had expressed the hope that separate schools would not become an issue in the campaign.

The premier obviously was disturbed by the demonstration, but his voice was firm and his expression grim when he defended his decision before the Niagara students.

At Niagara College, he was loudly applauded when he explained he is not against separate schools.

He said provincial contributions made up almost 79 per cent of the total expenditures by separate schools, compared with only 44 per cent for public schools.

But Grades 11, 12 and 13 in Roman Catholic schools were private schools, not separate schools, he said.

Mr. Davis said if the government policy was to assist private schools, it also would have to help other schools than Roman Catholic ones, such as the Jewish and Christian Reform schools, independent schools and "super-schools," a reference to free schools such as Toronto's Rochdale College.

"I'm in favor of a high school system for all faiths and all creeds and I can't see laying the groundwork for fragmentation of the school system. . . ."

Can't Make It Pay

Bob Nixon Sells Dairy Herd

GUELPH (CP) — Robert Nixon took a last look at some old acquaintances Friday.

For the Liberal leader, and 150 provincial farmers, the action was at the Brubacher Sales Arena where the Brubachers and Orton Bauman were selling off Mr. Nixon's herd of 44 dairy cows.

They were all sold—every last Holstein.

Mabel, described by auctioneer Mike Brubacher as "a pretty smart heifer" went for $300.

The Liberal leader mingled with the crowd and munched a cheese sandwich as the bidding for Eloise went to $800.

Mr. Nixon, who began raising his dairy herd in 1954, decided recently to sell his herd when his herdsman decided to leave his employ.

All the cows were sold in eluding Sally, Shirley, Bess, Lucy, Rosanne and Sunbelle who brought most of the top prices of about $2,000.

Mr. Brubacher cajoled a crowd with sarcasm comments and entreaties such as

When Mr. Nixon arrived, he said:

"These cows aren't going for liberal prices, Bob."

Before Mr. Nixon arrived, Mr. Brubacher had told the gathering, in Mr. Nixon's absence: "Nixon's short of campaign funds and these cows are going at fire sale prices."

When Eloise was sold, Mr. Bauman said reflectively:

"She's got a good home but she's going to Conservative country."

Mr. Nixon said he didn't want anyone to think he was selling his birthright since his farm near Brantford has been in the family for 140 years.

He says he will now grow wheat, alfalfa, corn and other crops.

With his dairy herd, "we were breaking about even or worse."

Lewis Promises Indian Power

WIARTON, Ont. (CP) — Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, said Friday a government under his leadership would give Indians "the power and autonomy necessary to govern their own affairs."

Mr. Lewis, who charged the Ontario government with a "casual indifference" towards Indians, was speaking to representatives of about 20 Indian reserves in southwestern Ontario.

He told Indian leaders during a meeting on the Saugeen reserve near here that Ontario Indians "are fully justified in their sense of frustration and alienation."

Mr. Lewis said his government would overhaul the establishment of an Indian Development Corporation to replace the Indian development branch of the provincial department of lands.

He said the corporation would become involved in employment opportunities, manpower training, housing, social services and community development.

The corporation's board of directors, he said, would be composed of Indians responsible to a specific minister.

Other proposals included:

—Establishment of a system of Indian-elected social advisers to help Indians in difficulty with the law.

—Amendment of the assessment act to give the assessment audit and provincial treasurer the power to withhold parts of Indian reserve land leased to non-Indians as long as those areas do not receive the benefit of municipal services in return for tax dollars.

—Provision of representatives of fishing licences at consultation meetings between Indians and fish and game officials.

—Provision of transfer of parcels of surplus land to Indians.

—Provision of services to the poor to be made directly to Indians rather than to their participation in services from the Ontario government and municipalities.

The NDP leader, whose proposals were accepted enthusiastically by the Indian speakers, said the NDP had tried to find Indian candidates to run for the NDP for the Oct. 21 election.

Mr. Lewis later visited Sault Ste. Marie where he held a news conference the long range solution to many of the problems of Northern Ontario would be to take more money from the resource industries.

Davis-Lewis In Exchange

BRAMALEA Ont. (CP)— Premier William Davis replied in kind Friday night to personal criticism from Stephen Lewis leader of the New Democratic Party, during the campaign for the Oct. 21 provincial election.

"He (Lewis) says I'm not completely interested in the people of this province," Mr. Davis told a nominating rally in 1,500 Progressive Conservatives who nominated him to represent Peel North.

"I'm more interested in the people of this province than he will ever be," the premier said.

Mr. Davis said he did not regard as a compliment Mr. Lewis's remark Thursday that Pierre Elliott Trudeau's cabinet was better than that of the previous campaigner, Liberal Prime Minister Trudeau in the 1968 federal election.

However, Mr. Davis added: "I commend (Lewis) should look to Lewis that Mr. Trudeau won't

Winter Plan In Works

WELLAND (CP)— Provincial spending on winter works may surpass the record 417 million spent last year if unemployment conditions warrant, Premier William Davis said Friday.

Mr. Davis said in an interview he has asked his cabinet ministers to put together a package of employment relief measures capable of providing the biggest winter works program in the province's history.

And he has asked the program to be ready by the end of October because he wants "immediate utilization" of them than last winter's programs, he added. Many were not available until March.

He stressed he is not "pushing the panic button" but "I don't know no one knows if unemployment will be better than last winter but we want to be ready."

Among the projects being discussed are highway and park work and reforestation of a program for removing dead elm trees.

Hellyer's Protest Group To Outline Policy Oct. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — After next week, the country will know a great deal more about Action Canada, the political "movement" founded six months ago by Paul Hellyer in protest against existing government policies.

For one thing, the movement's membership will be revealed for the first time. And decisions will be made on Action Canada's stance in the next general election.

Since Mr. Hellyer, former Liberal leadership candidate and long time cabinet minister, formed the movement there has been little information about its growth, except for occasional statements that it was "exceeding expectations."

But at the Oct. 13 convention in Toronto the movement's first all the details will be revealed. The meetings will be open to everyone wanting to attend, although only Action Canada members may vote, and Canadians will get a good idea of what the movement plans for the future.

Action Canada could even decide to become a full-fledged party, as opposed to a movement. But Mr. Hellyer doesn't appear to favor such a move.

"We're more a rebirth of realignment rather than a party," he says. "Perhaps a combination of existing parties could be realigned and put on out of base ness, perhaps we could be the vehicle that would put an existing party out of business, or we could join forces with an existing party on the basis of what we have in common.

"I think that three parties in Canada are enough."

Because Action Canada is a "movement" and not a party, Mr. Hellyer says this convention will be different than most meetings held to discuss political policies.

"We won't be there to attack government policies. There will be members of existing political parties there and we will, I hope, be having positive discussions on the type of country we want and how we want to achieve it."

Earlier Mr. Hellyer said that he would like to see someone else put his policies into effect.

But if that doesn't happen, I'll have to do it myself because I believe they're right and it must be done."

His policies include, among other things, immediate tax cuts, an expanded income supply, mandatory wage and price guidelines, a more decentralized bureaucracy, improved housing and transportation, and a greater attack on poverty and pollution.

Mr. Hellyer, who still predicts a fall general election, says it's important the Ottawa convention to be held as soon as possible so Action Canada will have the necessary directions. The membership has already voted in support of nine candidates in the next election.

Giants Two Up

Downing's Dandy Gives Dodgers Life

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers gave Al Downing the white carpet treatment, while Cincinnati Reds left San Francisco Giants black and blue.

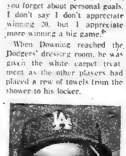
Downing, the rejuvenated Dodger left-hander, became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career Friday night, scattering eight hits as the Dodgers blanked Atlanta Braves 2-0 and moved within two games of the first-place Giants in the hectic National League West Division race.

The Giants, who have had two division since April 12, blew a 4-0 lead against Cincinnati and were beaten by the Reds 6-5.

The Giants and Dodgers each have five games remaining—San Francisco with two more against Cincinnati and two against San Diego Padres, and Los Angeles with two against Atlanta Braves and three against Houston Astros.

Elsewhere in the National League Friday, Pittsburgh Reds, the East Division champions, edged New York Mets 3-2, St. Louis Cardinals beat Montreal Expos 10-6 in 10 innings, Houston Astros outlasted San Diego Padres 2-1 in 25 innings of the first game of their twi-night doubleheader, but the Padres took the nightcap 3-1 and Philadelphia Phillies downed Chicago Cubs 6-1.

Downing, whose previous high was 14 victories in 1967 with New York Yankees, walked only a one and struck out two in shutting out the Braves for the second time in five days.



His only difficult spot came in the eighth inning when Mueller filled the bases with one out on singles by Felix Millan and Hank Aaron and a walk to Earl Williams. But Downing got Mike Lum to line into a double play, ending the threat.

"I was concerned that Downing was getting tired because of the hot weather," said Dodger manager Walt Alston. "But when I went out in the eighth he assured me he wasn't and catcher Tom Haller said his stuff was still good."

Downing proved it by retiring Lum.

Despite winning his 20th game, the veteran southpaw said: "It's a tight pennant race, so forget about personal goals. I don't say I don't appreciate winning 20, but I appreciate more winning a big game."

When Downing reached the Dodgers' dressing room, he was greeted with white carpet treatment as the other players had placed a row of towels from the shower to his locker.

WILLIE DAVIS

Willie Davis scored both Dodger runs, batting in 18th homer in the fourth inning and scoring in the seventh inning on Ted Sizemore's double. Alston's other run-producing moves also paid off.

The shaky Giants lagged Cincinnati started Ross Grimsley for Billy Grabarkewitz in the Reds' first inning. Bench swung one over with a double and scoring on Willie McEwen's sacrifice and added a run in the fourth before the Reds began striking back.

George Foster led off the fifth with a homer and the Reds collected two more runs in the inning on a walk to Ty Cline and singles by Tommy Helms, Pete Rose and Tony Perez. They tied the score 4-4 in the sixth on a run-scoring single by Grimsley. Dave Johnson led off the seventh with a single and Johnny Bench blasted his 25th homer.

"I just made a bad mistake," said Johnson referring to the pitch Bench smashed into the second tier in left field. "He had taken a high pitch and I threw him a hanging slider that my three-year-old daughter could have hit out of the park."

The Giants rallied for a run in the ninth on a pinch single by Jim Ray Hart, a passed ball and a pinch double by Willie Mays. May went to third on Ken Henderson's grounder, before Tito Fuentes struck out, ending the game.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, honored by the Puerto Rican fans of New York in pre-game ceremonies, celebrated his special night by driving in two runs in the Pirates' victory over the Mets. Clemente singled in a run in the first inning and broke a 2-2 tie with a run-producing double in the eighth.

Joe Hague's first career grand slam homer and his 16th homer of the season, a blast into the right field stands in the 20th inning, carried St. Louis past Montreal.

Matty Alou belted a three-run homer for the Cards in the seventh and triggered the winning rally with a leadoff double in the 10th. Ted Sizemore, the National League leader in RBI, raised his total to 134 with a run-scoring triple in the sixth.

The Houston-San Diego first game marathon lasted two hours and 22 minutes and was finally decided when Padres' relief Lerrin Gary Ross balked with the 20th batter with two out in the 21st inning.

Clay Kirby went the first 15 innings for San Diego, striking out 14 and allowing only eight hits.

In the nightcap, Ollie Brown's run-scoring single into a dense fog in the bottom of the ninth off Drake (4-1) scored Reed and lifted the Padres to victory.

Philadelphia's Barry Lersch posted his first victory since May 22 breaking an 11 game losing streak with a five hitter against the Cubs. Willie Mercado had his 29th homer tying the Phils' record for a rookie, and Mike Anderson cracked his first major league homer.

Astros Socked In

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ollie Brown smacked a run-scoring single in a dense fog in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving San Diego Padres a 3-1 victory over Houston Astros in the second game of a National League Doubleheader Friday night.

The Astros had won the opener of the Friday twi-night doubleheader 2-1 in 21 innings.

Don Mason led off the Padres' ninth of the second game with an infield single. After John Jeter filed out, Nate Colbert hit a high fly to left field, which Jesus Alou lost in the fog and it fell for a single.

After the umpires halted the game briefly in hopes that the fog would clear, Brown singled to right. Jim Wynn apparently never saw the ball and it dropped for a single as Mason scored.

The first game lasted five hours and 22 minutes and was decided when San Diego reliever Gary Ross balked in Alou from third with two out in the 21st.

Padres Polite

SAN DIEGO (AP) — E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi, president of San Diego Padres, said Friday that a proposal to move the National League baseball team in Washington, D.C., will be listened to out of politeness.

But the city attorney's office quickly countered that legal action can be suggested if the Padres try to leave San Diego.

An agreement signed in 1968 for use of San Diego Stadium requires the Padres to stay 20 years, said Curtis Fitzpatrick, chief deputy city attorney.

"We've got 17 years to go," Fitzpatrick said.

Expos Beaten by Trump Card in Tenth

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Hague blasted a grand slam home run in the 10th inning, powering St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-6 victory over Montreal Expos Friday night.

Hague's homer his 16th of the season, sailed into the right field stands and scored Matty Alou who had doubled. Joe Torre, who was intentionally walked, and Jose Cruz, who walked following a sacrifice by Ted Simmons.

Alou's three run homer in the seventh inning and solo shot by Louis and Steve Carlton, who was going for his 20th victory, to a 6-3 lead.

But Montreal tied it in the ninth knocking out Carlton on a walk to Ron Hunt, Ron Woods' single to the fourth hit of the game and Rusty Staub's RBI double. Stan Williams replaced Carlton but Cruz singled home Hunt to Bob Bailey and a run-scoring single to Gary Sutherland, tying the score.

The Cardinals had taken a 3-2 lead in the sixth when Alou singled and Torre tripled for his 13th run batted in. Torre then scored on a passed ball.

But the Expos tied the score in the seventh on a walk to Hunt, Woods' single and a single by Staub.

Soda Pop Served At Pennant Party

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The setting was considerably less than ideal for a pennant clinching, but the Orioles will take it.

For now.

"I felt we were going to win it all the way," declared Baltimore manager Earl Weaver after the Orioles clinched their third consecutive American League East Division pennant Friday night, beating Cleveland 9-2 in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

"This is it, big," he added, "but the next one puts you in the World Series."

Weaver was referring to the best-of-five American League playoffs against Oakland Athletics, which begin Oct. 2 in Baltimore.

Only 3,311 fans were on hand in Cleveland's cool, 49,000-seat Municipal Stadium as Mike Cuellar won his 20th game of the season by limiting the Indians to eight hits.

What's more, the Orioles couldn't even celebrate the clinching with the traditional locker room champagne splurge, since another game still had to be played. They had to limit the celebration to between-game sandwiches and soda pop.

Their restraint, apparently paid off, as Baltimore went on to take the second game 7-0 behind Pat Dobson, who also registered his 20th victory of the season. It was Baltimore's sixth consecutive victory.

In other American League action, all at night, Boston Red Sox defeated Washington Senators 4-0, Detroit Tigers trounced New York Yankees 8-3, Milwaukee Brewers routed Oakland Athletics 10-1, California Angels stopped Chicago White Sox 4-3 and Minnesota Twins game at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

Dobson became the Orioles' third 20-game winner, and the seventh in the American League, by shutting out the Indians on six hits in the night cap. Dobson joined teammates Cuellar and Dave McNally, Detroit's Mickey Lolich, Kansa City's Blue and Catfish Hunter of Oakland and Wilbur Wood of Chicago White Sox in the 20-game circle.

Weaver said he plans to rest as many of his regulars as possible before the American League playoff against Oakland, which starts Oct. 2 in Baltimore.

"We can't rest them too much," Weaver commented, "because we don't have that much time left. But we and to get everybody ready physically for Oakland."

Two of CFL's Top Quarterbacks Watching Argo-Stamp Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sports adage that says injuries can be a leveller will be put to a test in Canadian Football League action this weekend.

Two of the CFL's foremost quarterbacks will be watching from the sidelines when Toronto Argonauts, Eastern Football Conference leaders, oppose Calgary Stampeders, so far the best in the Western Conference, at CNE Stadium tonight.

The same situation won't prevail Sunday when Hamilton Tiger-Cats line up at home against Ottawa Rough Riders, but that has other quarterback overtones.

The Calgary-Toronto game, starting at 8 p.m. EDT, will be carried nationally by CBC television. The Ottawa-Hamilton game will be televised on the CTV eastern network.

One of Argos' starting quarterbacks, Greg Barton, will remain inactive, despite an intense desire to see action. He has a broken little finger encased in a heavy cast.

Toronto coach Leo Cahill has an edge, being able to give Joe Theismann the nod to direct Argos on the field. Like Lindsey, Theismann is a rookie, but he has been alternating with Barton, a former National Football League player with Detroit Lions.

Theismann has gained much more experience than Lindsey as the Argos sailed into the EFC lead with a 7-2 record.

Apparently as a result of Keeling's injury, Toronto oddsmakers are giving the Argonauts a seven-point edge over the Stampeders.

Defensive halfback star Dick Thornton will be standing in the wings to back up Theismann in an emergency.

But both clubs have other players hurting. Calgary running back Hugh McKinnis has a pulled muscle and defensive lineman John Helton is trying to disguise a gimpy knee.

Cahill says he has not altered his game plan because of the absence of Keeling.

"You might expect Lindsey to run more than Keeling, but I don't think the Stamps will want to take any chances."

Although Duncan had little to say, Lindsey adopted an air of confidence as he predicted his performance will be better against Argonauts than it was in Montreal, where Stamps were crushed 26-11 Wednesday.

"In Montreal, I was just sitting on the bench, enjoying the game, when suddenly—boom—I was in it. This time I'll be prepared."

Meanwhile, the Rough Riders plan a more pronounced running game and a strong over-all offence against the Tiger-Cats.

Terry Swarn will be in the offensive backfield for his second game. He'll be working on reverses and sweeps and be eligible to catch passes.

Ottawa coach Jack Gotta said Wednesday he will stick with quarterbacks Gary Wood and Rick Cantada, squelching speculation he might sign former British Columbia Lion Paul Brothers.

Veteran quarterback Joe Zuger will get the call in Hamilton Sunday, but Ticats released all American Rock Perdoni to sign John Baker, recently cut by New York Giants of the National Football League. The big defensive end will see action Sunday.

Another NFL cast-off, Lewis Porter, formerly with Kansas City Chiefs, will play despite a twisted ankle he suffered in his Hamilton debut.

Tiger-Cat coach Al Dorow locks upon Sunday's game as a four-pointer. "If we in, we've practically eliminated Ottawa from the playoffs." he said.

Would Rent Gardens

Staff Welcomes NHL Rivals

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and boss of the building in which they play, said Friday he would welcome the formation of another major league.

He also said he would be happy if the World Hockey Association put a franchise in Toronto.

"The more hockey leagues the merrier. The better it is for all concerned."

The only cities mentioned by the WHA in their plans for Canada have been Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg.

"Why not Toronto," Smythe asked.

"It's the logical place. It's certainly as logical as New York. "And if they want to put a team in here, I'll rent them the Gardens." .

Other than that, the status was quo around the NHL where the teams are in training camp.

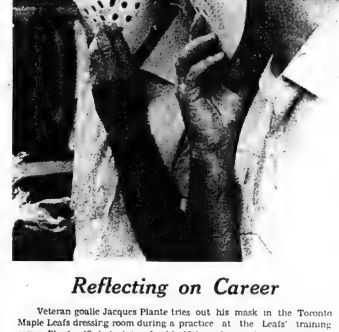
Over in Brantford, Pittsburgh Penguins are rebuilding after missing the playoffs last year when they suffered a series of injuries.

Coach Red Kelly hopes to align young Syl Apps, a centre picked up in mid-term last year, with left-winger Greg Polis and Jean Pronovost.

Polis had 18 goals last season but missed the last 18 games when he came down with mononucleosis. Pronovost is a solid 20 goal scorer.

And in London, Ont., coach Tom Johnson of Boston Bruins admits his strong club has looked terrible in exhibition action.

However, steps will be taken should players continue lagging—"we might remind the players of their defensive plays a little more."



Later in Los Angeles, Gary L. Davidson, president of the proposed WHA, said 16 major urban areas have been awarded or are under consideration for franchises in the league.

Davidson, a Santa Ana, Calif., attorney, made the announcement at the conclusion of a two-day meeting.

The WHA will commence play Oct. 1, 1972, Davidson said. He added that he and Dennis Murphy, organizers of the association, were "especially gratified at the interest and enthusiasm shown by the participants."

The names of the areas either awarded or under consideration were announced in the following order:

Miami, Atlanta, New York, Ohio, the Carolinas, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Kentucky, Indiana and Albuquerque, N.M.

Reflecting on Career

Gaudaur Sets Precedent By Fining Als' Ed George

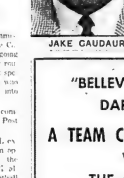
TORONTO (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, commissioner of the Canadian Football League, broke two precedents Friday when he overruled a game official two days after a controversial call and fined a player $50.

Ed George, offensive tackle for Montreal Alouettes, hit punt returner Jim Silley of Calgary Stampeders inside the five-yard safety zone granted kick receivers in the CFL.

The incident occurred in the dying moments of the game, won 26-11 by Montreal.

"Ed George has been fined $50 and informed that similar conduct in the future will result in more severe disciplinary action," the commissioner said.

The commissioner said he made the decision after receiving reports of game officials and Hap Stoudicoe, supervisor of officials.



Montreal was penalized 25 yards—10 for being inside the five-yard zone and 15 for unnecessary roughness.

"I judged the act was such that it merited the maximum penalty of 25 yards," Gaudaur said.

The commissioner said that so far as he knew, it was unprecedented to fine a player who had not been ejected from a game and added.

"Yes, I'm overruling the official who made the judgment," another unprecedented action.

The official was Jim King of Montreal.

JAKE GAUDAUR

CFL Move South Unlikely

TORONTO (CP) — Commissioner Jake Gaudaur of the Canadian Football League is going to New York next week for routine television talks and not specifically to talk to people who want to put a CFL team into Yankee Stadium.

The commissioner was commenting on a New York Post story.

Gaudaur said he and CFL executives have "always been opposed to expansion into the United States," because "it always felt Canadian football would follow the same evolution as hockey and the smaller Canadian cities would fall by the wayside."

"I haven't changed my views and have no reason to suspect that the executive committee has changed theirs."

Homebrew Leafs Draw Raves from Ottawa Crowd

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two players who graduated from Ottawa minor leagues came back Friday night to lead Toronto Maple Leafs to a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia Flyers in a National Hockey League exhibition game in Ottawa.

Right winger Ron Ellis scored two goals and defenceman Jim McKenny scored the other for Toronto. Gerry Dornbusfer and Lew Morrison were the Flyers' snipers.

Both Ellis and McKenny are graduates of the Ottawa minor leagues and a Civic Centre Ardha standing room crowd of 9,500 gave them a big hand.

In Edmonton, Vancouver Canucks beat Minnesota North Stars 3-1 before 5,200 fans and in Flint, Mich., St. Louis Blues rallied to edge New York Rangers 4-3.

Barry Wilkins, Orland Kurtenbach and Paul Popeil were the scorers for Vancouver, but the Canucks got outstanding goaltending from George Gardner to fend off the Stars. Bill Gold overtly broke his shutout.

Chris Bordeleau led St. Louis Blues' attack with three goals after the Rangers enjoyed a 3-0 lea.

Back in Montreal, the Canadiens recalled defenceman Bob Murdoch from Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League for two weekend games. He will replace Guy Lapointe when the Habs visit Toronto tonight and travel to Chicago against the Black Hawks Sunday. Lapointe has a throat infection.

It Only Takes Nine

Kemptville Juniors didn't have any players to spare, but talent to burn in their 7-2 OASA semi - final win over Willowdale at the Alemite Field Friday.

Kemptville won the neutral ground game with only nine players, took the series two games to one, and went home to prepare for tonight's OASA final opener against Grimsby.

Starting pitcher Murray Hindeman tossed three perfect innings before arm trouble moved him to the outfield.

Reliever Bob McClintock held Willowdale at two baserunners until the top of the eighth inning.

Kemptville's big innings were the three-run third, and the four - run fourth.

A good backfield is only as good as its blocking, and Centennial Secondary School senior Bob Vanderwater (18) was given his share of running room Friday. Vanderwater scored the only touchdown in a 7-1 win by the Chargers over Trenton, the first-ever Centennial verdict over the senior Tigers.

Charge Comes in Final Minute

It took Centennial Chargers 59 minutes to get rolling in their Bay of Quinte senior high school football game Friday, but once they did, there was no stopping them.

A two-yard plunge by Bob Vanderwater with 15 seconds to play capped a drive that enabled Centennial to record their first - ever win over Trenton Tigers, a rousing 7-1 home-field triumph.

Trenton's first quarter scoring drive up until Glenn Carleton replaced Steve Ford at the Centennial controls and got the Chargers moving.

With less than a minute remaining, Carleton hit Ford for a long gain to the Trenton end.

Two plays later Vanderwater drove across with the winning margin, which was converted by Bevan Clarke.

The first-ten Chargers to covered the ball on their kick off deep in Trenton territory, but the clock ran out before they had a chance to add to their total.

The win was the first in four years of Centennial senior football over Trenton representing the perennial conference threats from Trenton. Friday showed Chargers of losing all but two members of last year's starting backfield.

Trenton misses gained a spot for their school on the day by losing a 13-0 verdict over Centennial.

Quintes' Statistics To Be Kept Two Ways

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

New Belleville senior hockey coach Gene Poirier is a stickler for statistics — so long as they tell both sides of the story.

"I'm really interested in the plus - minus system," the Quinte's coach said, referring to the method of keeping track of how often a player is on the ice for-opposition scorers, as well as those of his own team.

"It's something I think we are going to try and do this year, although it's a complicated thing to keep track of."

Poirier will start keeping track during an inter-squad game, complete with referees, in tonight's 6:8 o'clock Quinte training camp session in Trenton's Community Gardens.

Poirier will make his second major cut following this weekend's scrimmages, and has some new faces to replace any who might be leaving.

One will be Pete Stoutenburg, a 20-point producer in 31 games last winter for third place Barrie Flyers. Stoutenburg, who has moved to Peterborough, scored 14 goals while splitting his time between defence and forward.

New faces that have impressed Poirier in the Quintes' first week of pre-season preparation include Perry Chittick, a Peterborough native. A graduate who played last winter in Europe. "He can play right wing or centre — he shoots left and he's always moving," said Poirier.

Goalie Ron Jury has also impressed the rookie coach.

RON JURY

"He's a comer. He lacks experience, but he'll be good if he's given a chance."

"If some of these younger players pan out, we could be in good shape. Players like Bothy, Marchen, Jones, and Steve Rose are already established in this league."

Two established players not table by their absence are centres Doug Senior and George Godson, who were one-two in the Belleville entry's scoring last winter.

"If we can get those two out, along with Dave Jones, we're going to be pretty strong up the middle," Poirier noted.

The Quintes' are also keeping their fingers crossed-pending the outcome of discussions between right winger Meehan Boustar and his Ontario Provincial Police superiors.

Bonnar, a first-round amateur draft choice of Boston Bruins in 1967, was refused permission to play senior hockey on his arrival in Belleville last year. He has looked impressive in this week's Quinte camp.

Arthur Hiller To Direct Movie

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Hiller, film director of Love Story and Plaza Suite, will produce and direct the movie version of Man of La Mancha, United Artists has announced.

The film of the musical, to star Peter O'Toole and Sophia Loren, is set to start production in Italy early next year.

PARIS (AP) — Actor Yul Brynner married Jacqueline De Croisset, a French widow, in a private ceremony two days ago "somewhere in Normandy," a friend of Brynner's said today.

It was the third wedding for Brynner, the 51-year-old screen star and the second for his bride whose first husband, Philippe De Croisset, a journalist, died a few years ago. Brynner's marriages to Virginia Gilmore, an American, and Doris Kleiner, a Chilean, ended in divorce.

MILAN, Italy (Reuter) — A Milan judge ruled Friday that the Ken Russell film The Devils, which includes a scene showing an orgy by nude, sex-crazed nuns, is not obscene.

Judge Giuseppe Patrone overturned a country-wide ban on the film, imposed last week by the deputy public prosecutor of Verona.

Patrone was backed in his decision by the deputy public prosecutor of Milan, Dr. Giovannia Caizzi, who said that since the film depicted well-documented historical facts, it could not be considered offensive to religion.

The British film, which stars Oliver Reed and Vanessa Redgrave, is based on the life of a corrupt priest in 17th-century France.

BOSTON (AP) — Gene Autry left the Massachusetts Eye and Ear infirmary Friday after surgery on a detached retina.

The former singing star was said to be in "splendid condition" before he left and praised the surgeons who operated on him.

Autry said his vision began to fade about three or four months ago.

Margaret's Day Busy, Low Key

WINNIPEG (CP) — Except for the effects of two long standing labor disputes, the first full day of Princess Margaret's four-day visit to Manitoba turned out as billed Friday — busy but low-key.

The princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, here to open the new $4.5 million Winnipeg Art Gallery, walked through two mild-mannered lines of pickets for a private visit to the gallery Friday morning, then spent most of the remainder of the day visiting the city's cultural showpieces.

Except for about 500 cheering spectators at a stop in Assiniboine Park in the city's southwest, the royal couple's scheduled, arranged-day gallery officials, kept them generally clear of large crowds.

Today, however, the 41-year-old sister of Queen Elizabeth will officially open the art gallery, an event to be attended by a brass band and a 21 gun salute. With a continuation of sunny skies and the 70-plus temperatures that greeted the Snowdons Friday, throngs of spectators also are expected.

The pickets, some of whom were expected to return today, had entered concern earlier among tour organizers, who doubted whether the princess and her husband would cross a picket line.

However, police and spectators confessed off the entrance to the gallery and the 45 metres of the gallery lines stepped marching temporarily. The picketing is not directly connected with the royal visit.

Electricians, on strike against electrical contractors for more than two months, have been picketing the building for several weeks. The other placard bearers were technicians from CJAY TV, who set up lines when they assisted the station would like the princess to wear employees hired after the strike started.

A union spokesman said Friday the technicians would not picket any future functions.

The Snowdons other functions Friday included a luncheon with the Manitoba Arts Council, the visit to Assiniboine Park, a brief stop at a residence for Indian students, dinner at the centennial concert hall and 90 minutes of ethnic entertainment at the Pan-old Manitoba Theatre Centre.

The princess, making her first visit to Manitoba, began the day's activities dressed in a flame red hat and coat before changing in the evening to a cream-colored gown with silver accessories for dinner with about 600 guests at the concert hall.

After dining on filet of sole almondine, crepes surette and South African wine, the royal couple, accompanied by a group that included Federal Supply Minister James Richardson, provincial Finance Minister Saul Cherniack and LL-Gov. W. J. McKeag, crossed downtown Market Street for the theatre centre performance.

At Assiniboine Park, the royal couple was accorded its most enthusiastic reception of the tour as pupils, students, many of them school children, lined a 100 foot walkway to the park's plant conservatory.

Dupuis Jailed

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert Dupuis, accused of delivering food to brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Pierre Laporte in exile, was sentenced by Mr. Justice Antonio Lamer Friday to two years.

The Rose brothers and Simard were being sought on warrants in connection with the kidnap murder last October of Pierre Laporte at the time Dupuis was taking food to them.

High Rise Study

TORONTO (CP) — A group of Toronto architects wants the city to restrict high density apartment building until it investigates the financial and social implications of high-rise living.

The Urban Action Committee of the Toronto chapter of the Ontario Association of Architects has asked for a report disclosing financial effects in Toronto of redistributing living accommodation from low to high density, and another on the social implications.

Master Stolen

"BRUSSELS (AP) — One of the most famous paintings of Johannes Vermeer, 17th Century Dutch master, was dumped when it was stolen overnight from the Louvre Museum, police reported Friday. It became the latest masterpiece to disappear in a string of art thefts that hit European cities this month.

Police said the painting, titled The Love Letter, was discovered Thursday night when the thief cut it out of its frame for removal from an exhibition hall. The frame was left behind.

A Real Suport

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Loyalists Association, which opposes the establishment of French as an official language, has endorsed the Conservatives in the Ontario election campaign.

The Conservatives are "the only party that is prepared to limit accommodation of the French language," says a letter from the group's national president, Stewart Crawford, to all Ontario members.

BA in Two Years By Semester System

LONDON, Ont. (CP)— A semester system which would allow some students to cut a bachelor of arts degree into two semesters from September to December and from January to April.

With the academic day extended by five hours to run from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., a hard-working student who took extra courses could receive a bachelor's degree after four semesters—two years.

The present program requires three years' study.

He also recommends setting up a quota system which would reserve 75 per cent of freshman student places for Grade 13 graduates by 1973. Students with an average high school graduation mark of 67 per cent or more would be admitted unconditionally while others would be selected for admission at random.

The remaining 25 per cent of student places would be allocated to special students—those whose academic background is not necessarily Grade 13 graduation. They would complete a special application form and attend a personal interview.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

Re Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

X-Ray Test May Stop You Worrying

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: This I don't worry. Don't know I can't. I could stop worrying if I knew.

If I'm going to lose my rectal colonic, I want to know now so I can get my affairs in order. Many years ago my brother and sister-in-law died of cancer a few months apart. I was told by three doctors. The only kind I have nothing too worry about. Even though I had two colonics, doctors assure me it's a benign cyst. I still think they might be something worse. What can I do?

COMMENT: You are not alone. Many people have the doctor's office. Don't be alarmed. I have a suggestion that could help you worry less. Why not ask your doctor to send you to an X-ray specialist for special X-rays of the bowels, a colon examination.

The procedure sounds unpleasant but it helps to relieve the fear. Its ordinary examination

If the report comes back negative, then you should feel better.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: In 61 years I have rarely had a serious illness and earn morning I gratefully awaken feeling just about like the day before.

But during the last two months I have noticed that my urine was dark with blood and a few blood clots. In a day or two this would clear up. Since I have no pain, I have assumed that I am well and that it is nothing. What is your advice? — Mr. B.

COMMENT: Blood, like pain, may be a signal that something is wrong somewhere. My advice is that you visit your family doctor or an internist for a complete check-up. If he cannot find the reason, then he will refer you to a urologist who will examine your bladder, ureters (kidney tubes) and kidneys — and, of course, prostate gland — to discover the source of the bleeding. The fact that you have no pain between attacks is no proof that there is nothing really wrong.

What causes the bleeding? Bladder infection? Stone or tumor in the bladder? Stone in the kidney, or some actual kidney disease? It is due to some weakness in the blood vessels? Better get your doctor the opportunity to go on the diagnostic trail — even though you have no discomfort.

• • •

For Mr. L.: There are certain privileges in being 60 years of age. You say your 80 year old friend enjoys a hot shower at the pool, followed by a cold shower. Then walks around the pool for about 15 minutes. Then takes a sunbath for about half an hour. He says he is too exhausted to take the shower after his walk around the pool.

If that is the way he likes it, I see no reason why he should change. Do you really?

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Our family doctor of 25 years does something which bothers me very much. When giving a shot, he picks up a syringe which has been lying on a table with others, rinses it under tap water, gives the shot and puts the syringe back with the others.

How do I know she has not used it on someone else? Is this dangerous? He also uses a piece of cotton out of an alcohol jar on my arm and then puts it back in the jar.

This does not seem sanitary to me. When my daughter and I go for our allergy shots the nurse uses the same syringe on both of us with a tap water rinse between shots. What shall I do about it? — Mrs. F.

COMMENT: I think readers will agree that you have given your own answer. I can only tell you by inference what I think you should do. Change doctors? That must be your own decision.

Judges' Salary Increases Raises Questions in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — Would hefty salary increases for judges provide greater insurance of judicial independence, or make them eyes more "comfortably insulated" from the problems of the poor who appear in their courts?

MPs offered both ideas in the Commons Friday before passing a government bill that would provide raises up to 39.06% for about 450 federally-appointed judges from the Supreme Court of Canada down to the county court level.

The chief justice of the Supreme Court will get $47,000 a year starting Jan. 1 as a result of a $7,000 increase. The other eight judges on the court will get a $7,000 raise to $42,000 a year.

Federal Court of Canada justices and provincial superior court chief justices will get $3,000 raises to $39,000. Provincial superior court justices will get, the same increase, bring them to $33,000.

County and district court judges will be raised $6,000 to $33,000 yearly. Per to chief judges will rise $8,000 to $17,000.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North), Conservative justice critic, approved of the bill.

A good salary was one way of ensuring the independence of the bench, the Calgary lawyer said.

But Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) said the bill widens the gap between rich and poor Canadians, and would separate judges even more from the world of those they judge.

Even more than now, the poor who found themselves in court would feel they were being judged by "people who don't know what it feels like" to be poor.

Half the increases in the bill, which amends the Judges Act, take effect retroactive to last January. The rest take effect next January.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) offered an amendment to the bill's clauses that call for a judicial council made up of chief justices to oversee the behavior of their colleagues.

But change would have installed laymen—neither judges nor lawyers—on the council.

Mr. Peters said judges' impartiality isolates them. Like Caesar's wife, they were above reproach "and above everything else."

Mr. Woolliams opposed the NDP amendment—later defeated—because he said it could carry with it political and other pressures that could harm the independence of judges.

Justice Minister John Turner agreed and said the provinces felt the same way.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) opposed the pay increases and attacked the pension plan because it involves no contributions from judges themselves.

The bill also includes a pay raise to $20,000 for Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson.

It's the first raise since 1965 for Mr. Henderson, who has undergone recurring attacks from cabinet benches for his energetic reporting of wasteful government spending.

The bill would increase the number of judges in several provinces.

Mr. Peters said he had not been shown why that was necessary.

Anytime he had been caught speeding, a judge always seemed ready.

Douglas Hogarth (L—New Westminster) said judges work so hard that the work load deters young lawyers from going to the bench.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) said the poor were not getting equal justice with the rich. He wanted to see more emphasis on rehabilitation instead of mere punishment.

Too many judges sentenced people to jail when they really needed psychiatric help.

Society is not prepared to accept complete concentration on the rehabilitation side, he said.

Fish Stocks Protection Sought by Industry

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — A new organization representing all segments of the fishing industry in Eastern Canada will propose to the federal government next month that it undertake immediate steps to protect declining fish stocks from foreign fishing fleets.

The Save Our Fishery Association, organized in Newfoundland where overfishing has endangered the four most important species, elected an executive Friday and immediately began drafting proposals for a meeting in Ottawa Oct. 4 with Fisheries Minister Jack Davis, Transport Minister Don Jamieson and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

A. A. (Gus) Etchegary of St. John's, Nfld., president of the association, said there is a fear that Canadian steps to conserve and protect fish stocks through the international conference of North Atlantic fishers and the law of the sea conference will deal with the problem.

The association was not on an opposite course to the federal government's plan, Mr. Etchegary said, however, and would not appear at the meeting with a "mailed fist" approach.

Overfishing of the cod and had resulted in the haddock being "commercially extinct," driven cod prices to their highest level ever, and diverted the attention of fishing fleets to the remaining species.

The redfish or ocean perch is no longer found in profitable quantities and only the flounder is still abundant.

Officer Killed in Siege

ILE DES CHENES, Man. (CP) — Police are holding a young man in custody following the 12-hour siege of a house in this southern Manitoba village that took the life of an RCMP officer.

The slain officer, married and with a three-year-old son, was identified as Constable Harold Stanley Seigel, 28, of Cobden, Ont., who had been with the force for eight years.

Constable Seigel had been stationed throughout Manitoba and was with the St. Pierre detachment when he met his death on duty in this village south of Winnipeg.

The siege ended when RCMP carried the young man semi-conscious from a bungalow and took him to hospital by ambulance. He was not immediately identified.

Inspector M. R. Godfrey of RCMP Winnipeg subdivision told reporters the man had apparently been overcome by tear-gas fumes. He was found under the bed in one of the two bedrooms in the white frame house on the main street of the 1,000-resident village.

Inspector Godfrey said two police cars had been called to the home early Sunday after noon to answer a complaint that a youth had fired shots at his father through the door of the house.

He said police tried to talk to the youth but about 6:30 p.m. a tear gas canister was thrown into the house. Moments later a single shot was fired which killed the constable, who was standing about 25 yards behind the house by the doors of a garage.

Inspector Godfrey said the youth did not have a gas mask with him in the house. Neighbors said the youth's father, an electrician, was known to have a gas mask which he used in his work.

The first call was answered by the nearby St. Pierre RCMP detachment, but by early evening 30 police had arrived to surround the bungalow. Residents of surrounding houses were evacuated.

With the area lit by headlights from their cars, police circled the neat, tree-shaded bungalow for hours, peering through and breaking windows.

Except for the explosion of several tear gas shells, no sounds had been heard from the house for several hours before police finally entered the back door about 2:30 a.m.

When the youth was carried out and placed on a stretcher, many of the 250 residents of the village, about 20 miles south of Winnipeg, circled the house and a neighboring service station.

Residents described the youth, an only child, as a "loner" who rarely left the house except to do target shooting or go hunting with a neighbor.

Moscow Threatens Reprisal

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The British community in Moscow waited nervously today for any sign that at least some of them may be expelled in retaliation for a mass expulsion by Britain of Soviet officials.

The Soviet government warned Britain Sunday that if it did not change its mind over expelling 90 Russians from London and barring another 15 from returning it would have no choice but to take corresponding measures. Britain announced the moves Friday.

But it was noted that the Soviet protest, which denied that Russians had engaged in activities endangering British security, avoided stating exactly how many officials would be involved in the expulsions.

They might indicate Soviet unwillingness to retaliate on a numerical basis, which would stir

Quebec Police On Study Day

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Exhausted officers and negotiators pondered a new tactic today in the hope of ending a bloody prison siege that has claimed the lives of two hostages and wounded 11 persons.

Hundreds played overnight, exchanging shots on occasion and throwing rocks and bottles at police.

Quebec Corrections Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal and Justice Minister Jerome Choquette were expected to meet with the prisoners' representatives at 9 a.m. today.

The walkout, which began 24 hours earlier, continued at 6 p.m. today, hours after a night following a brief but furious hand-clanging session that ended at 3 a.m.

The prisoners ended 900 to 1,000 inmates in the jail's two cell blocks.

Nearly 2,000 provincial police men already have filled the centre for the siege, called to dramatize an inter-prison pay dispute with the provincial government.

Bank Robber Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Louis Bourret, wounded by a resident of Mascouche, Que., after a bank robbery there Friday, died in Montreal hospital Saturday afternoon without regaining consciousness.

Bourret, a junior college student, was found Friday after a chase in suburban Laval slumped in a car and bleeding from the head.

He was one of six persons including two women, who drove into the town 20 miles north of Montreal Friday morning in three cars and divided into two groups. One went to the police station, handcuffed the lone patrolman and cut telephone wires, while the other robbed the credit union of $5,000.

A local resident ran into his house, grabbed his shotgun and fired at a getaway car fatally wounding Bourret.

The car in which Bourret was found contained a briefcase with part of the stolen money, police said.

Russian Spies Still in UK

LONDON (AP) — Britain said today that 105 Russians branded as spies will be expected despite a Soviet warning of retaliation.

A foreign office spokesman told a news conference the expulsion order stands as the first official reply to a Soviet government demand that it be cancelled.

The accused Soviet spies termed to be known to move. They have been given two weeks to get out. A half-empty Soviet jetliner took off during the day for Moscow.

Aeroflot, the Soviet national airline, banned by the British foreign office as part of a spy ring, had announced earlier that all 180 seats on the flight were reserved. But the Ilyushin-62 took off with 88 empty seats.

The British action in its expulsion order last Friday, gave the alleged spies two weeks to leave the country. The crash down followed what the British said was the detection of a high agent of the KGB, the Soviet intelligence gathering bureau.

The cloak-and-dagger Russians, most of whom live in the fashionable Highgate district of London, worked in the Soviet embassy, Aeroflot, the Intourist travel agency, the Russian press centre, the Moscow Narodny Bank and other offices, the British government said.

There are 350 Soviet officials in Britain with diplomatic passports.

Scotland Yard detectives and the foreign office meanwhile, kept strict secrecy over the defector. He was reported to have stolen a file three weeks ago, sped to a British government office with a load of secret documents on the spy ring and asked for asylum.

Sources disclosed only that he was still under constant questioning somewhere outside London and at least part of the information he was disclosing was being turned over to the American Central Intelligence Agency and other Western Intelligence services.

Police Have 'A Few Clues'

No Arrests Yet in Kidnap-murder of Hull Youngster

HULL, Que. (CP) — Tension, concern and confusion continue today in the wake of the kidnap-killing of 10-year-old Gyles Leblanc.

Although word spread quickly Sunday that a man had been taken into custody, investigators with the case in any position spokesman said no charges had been laid and the search for a killer was continuing.

He said a number of persons were questioned by police as a matter of routine, but said no one of them was being held in connection with the affair.

Adding to the general concern of parents and officials was the call Sunday by the Quebec Provincial Policemen's Association for all 1,000 members of the force to join a 24-hour study session to discuss compensation for extra shifts worked during the August crisis last October.

Indications from the local detachment were that many, if not most, QPP officers on western Quebec would heed the call and withdraw their services for the 24 hour period.

Hull and Ottawa city police and the Ontario Provincial Police continued the search for the person or persons who kidnaped the youngster Thursday and killed him.

The body of the youngster was found Saturday in dense bush about a mile from a scenic federal driveway inside the city limits.

The boy's head had been crushed by a 55-pound rock found near the body, which also showed two stab wounds in the chest and another in the back of the neck.

Inspector Jacques Charron of the Hull force, in charge of the investigation, said Saturday at a news conference that "police have a few clues, but we don't know how good they are."

At the news conference, Inspector Charron said the boy was lured from his Grade 5 class at St. Raymond School by a telephone call from a man identifying himself as the boy's father—Jean Paul Leblanc, operator of a neighborhood supermarket.

The caller said there was an emergency at home and Gilles was to come right away. He was sent home shortly after 9 a.m., but was waylaid on the way.

Within an hour the first of three ransom calls was received, asking that $3,000 be left in exchange for the return of the boy, coupled with the warning that the police not be notified.

Although Mr. Leblanc followed ransom instructions three times the money was never picked up. The last call was at 5 p.m. Thursday.

The body of the boy was discovered by a group of young hikers on a day's tramp through the woods of Gatineau Park and was identified by both the family parish priest and by Mr. Leblanc. The boy was the Leblancs' only child.

Inspector Charron said dogs from the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Kemptville, Ont., had been brought in.

Dufferin-Sidor Dispute Settled

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — In a dramatic round of meetings in the back seat of an automobile, and in council chambers here, a large part of the Dufferin Development dispute was settled over the weekend.

Councillor Pete Aziz gets a large share of the credit for ending the months of deadlock on the "lasting of supplying water to the 400 home housing area.

The settlement saga began Friday afternoon, says Mr. Aziz who explained in an interview today he had driven up to the foot of McGill Street in his car to survey the situation along the frontier between Dufferin and the Sidor subdivision at the top of McGill Street.

He said he saw builder Stan Klemencic at the site and called him over for a chat about the subdividers' conflict in his car. He quoted Klemencic as saying he was still a friend of Wasi Sidor and that he very much wanted to come to terms with him.

Aziz mentioned that as he was on his way to the end of McGill he had passed the office of Mr. Sidor and had seen Sidor nearby. He then drove back with the consent of Klemencic and asked Sidor if he was willing to talk things over with his competitor in the privacy of his automobile.

Sidor agreed and following a lengthy Sidor - Klemencic - Aziz pow-wow in the streets of west Trenton, an agreement was ironed out between the two parties.

Klemencic agreed to pay Mr. Sidor a sum of money or give him two building lots (of about the same value) in exchange for an "in perpetuity" easement. Sidor had maintained he had built the services on McGill Street and should have compensation if another developer hooked into them. The settlement provides this compensation and permits Klemencic to use them forever.

"Then I called up the clerk to arrange an emergency meeting of council," recalled Aziz. The meeting was held behind closed doors in the council chambers Saturday afternoon.

During this session, council agreed to pay Sidor $1,750 to satisfy the builder in another related dispute of costs he had incurred in some servicing work on Parkview Heights. With this settled, Sidor has agreed to hand over the ope foot reserve at the top of Mc Gill Street to the town as well as one on Eldeview Ave. foot.

Stan Klemencic told The Intelligencer today he expects water service to be extended to Dufferin Developments today or tomorrow through the McGill Street line which Sidor had blocked to Dufferin's use in July. Natural gas will also be hooked up across the one foot reserve this week.

Councillor Ted Parker said today that the parties had come to terms to put an end to lengthy delays. "It just got to the point that it was worth their while to pay," he stated.

"I am simply delighted," commented Mr. Aziz, "because I got sick of the town paying out all those legal fees.

"The next thing I want to do is settle the post office business" — a reference to difficulties facing the town in realizing the post office mall project on Dundas Street West.

The Public Utilities Commission still has issues to be settled with Sidor but it will be several days before the PUC will be able to reach financial assessments. Charles Hilton ex-officio commissioner, Mayor Duncan McDonald and PUC manager Doug Manton are in Halifax for a conference.

Trucking Firms Hope Strike Will Be Averted

Local officials of the major highway transport companies are keeping their fingers crossed today hoping that a wage settlement can be reached with truckers in time to avert a drivers' strike on Friday.

Truckers in four Ontario centres voted overwhelmingly Sunday to reject an industry wage and contract offer and to authorize a strike to back their demands.

The truckers, who will be in a legal position to go on strike Friday, are members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

They voted Sunday in Kingston, Ottawa, Hamilton and London. Members of the Toronto local are expected to take a vote soon.

The five locals have been demanding that the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, which represents 26 major trucking companies, provide wage parity with truckers in the Central United States.

The truckers' current contract, which runs out Thursday, provides for a base rate of $3.80. Parity with truckers in Central United States would require a wage increase of about $2.18 an hour over 21 months.

The transport companies have proposed a wage increase of $1.26 an hour over three years, plus improvements in fringe benefits.

Arthur Dearman, manager with Maislin Transport in Belleville said that his firm as well as Smith Transport and Direct Winters would be involved if a strike was called by the drivers.

"It would shut down operations" he said.

However, Mr. Dearman was still hopeful that a strike could be averted.

"They are still negotiating," he said.

Mr. Dearman was a bit critical of the truckers' demands calling for a wage increase of $2.18 over 21 months.

He said that union demands "go beyond common sense sometimes."

He noted that four years ago truckers were out on strike for 14 weeks and doubled if the drivers had yet caught up from the last time.

Ron Godden, manager of Direct Winters Transport Ltd. had no comment regarding the possibility of a strike.

He admitted, however, that they were concerned and hoped a strike could be averted.

Don Boyle, manager at Smith Transport, said also that he was "still hoping" for a settlement which would avert a strike.

"They're still talking anyway and I am hopeful."

Trailer Rally At Trenton

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton's Centennial Park was packed with house trailers this weekend as over 100 caravan families gathered here for a rally.

Other such events have been held here before and organizers of this latest event say they were drawn by the superior facilities of the park and the co-operation of municipal officials.

This weekend's get-together was organized by the caravan association for American trailer owners.

Man Injured In One-car Crash

PICTON (Staff) — A Prince Edward County man was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital with unspecified injuries Friday evening following a single-car collision on a township road near Cherry Valley.

Injured was Miles Morgan, 31, RR1, Picton.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said damage to the vehicle was estimated at $100. The accident was investigated by Constable W. Walby.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and adopted. The clerk was instructed to send Raymond Reid a bill for a calf killed by his dog belonging to Bernard Ashley and valued at $100.

The appointment of the assessment between Levi Mast and Gwelyn Post was approved.

The Clerk was instructed to write a letter to Mr. Bassett stine, Cemetery Inspector, and request some further information regarding the deserted cemeteries in the Township that government has instructed the Council to assume the care of. The treasurer and clerk were instructed to purchase the McComb property in part of Lots 7 in Con. 1 and 2 to be used to straighten a road.

A letter was received from some cottage owners in Lot 8, Concession 14 and in Lot 7, Concession 13 requesting the road leading from the river road to their cottages be repaired. Drainage Inspector was appointed.

Patrick Bradley was appointed bylaw enforcement officer. A bylaw was passed to raise $5,400, under the Tile Drainage Act for installing tile drains. The following land divisions were approved. Rear 31, Cross Lots 12, Concession 14, Lyall McCollister. Lot 29 Concession 13 and 31, Neelands, Lot 10, Concession 13.

Council will meet again October 4.

St. John Brigade Tops in Province

The Belleville St. John Ambulance Cadets have been judged the most outstanding combined division in Ontario for 1970.

The announcement of the Belleville honor was made at the Eastern Ontario conference held in Arnprior over the weekend with the certificate to be officially presented to the cadet division at its annual inspection November 8.

Area staff officer John Hodgson of Belleville attended the conference for the Eastern Ontario area which extends from Peterborough to Cornwall and north in Pembroke.

Mr. Hodgson said the award made by the national body and signed by the St. John Ambulance commissioner Judge Redmond Robbe, was made on the basis of division efficiency and community service.

Brigade efficiency covers growth in members, quality of inspections, and competitiveness, while community service covers baby-sitting and care of the elderly at Quinte Exhibition, working with the elder ly sick and making toys for sick children in hospital.

Divisional superintendent for the 130 C Belleville brigade is Al J. Eady with Miss Ruth Brintnell as divisional officer.

The brigade, numbering 22 boys and girls was formed in January 1970.

Woman Mugged On Front Street

Mrs. Mamie Richardson, 56, of 79 Dundas Street, was walking south on North Front Street early Sunday morning, when she was suddenly grabbed from behind and dragged into a nearby alley.

As she screamed near Moira Street, Mrs. Richardson was assaulted by a youth whom police describe as "a young male in his twenties, dark hair, medium long, slim, and approximately six feet tall." At the time of the confrontation, he was reported as wearing "a light blue shirt and dark trousers."

Dragged into the alley beside Riverside Grocery, the youth was momentarily distracted by an approaching car. This interruption gave the distraught woman time to scream for help and the mugger made good his escape.

Called in at 4.22 a.m., police believe the attack took place sometime between 3.30 and 4 a.m.

Mrs. Richardson received a bloody nose in the fracas.

All Systems Go!

In a summary of the Economic Council of Canada's eighth annual review we encounter passages such as the following: "Considerable work has been done in a number of countries to find new ways of aiding and improving the decision-making process. This chapter discusses some of these new approaches under the headings of goals and priorities, social reporting, futurism, systems analysis, and policy science.

"The process of government decision-making stretches potentially across the whole spectrum of public interest and welfare. Chart 5-2 illustrates the breadth of society's political, economic and social concerns in a simple and admittedly arbitrary arrangement of goal areas. The inter-relationships among these goal areas, which may be very complex and very powerful, cannot unfortunately be shown in this type of classification. But the categories shown in the chart provide a starting point for organizing the development of measures — called goal indicators — to serve as links between abstract goals and operational policy objectives.

"The goal indicators for each goal area should be of two types: goal output indicators, to give a broad summary view of levels and changes in output; goal distribution indicators, to show distribution of the aggregate output indicators among regions, income groups etc.

"For example, the goal output indicators would be concerned with the 'outputs' of our health and social system — infant mortality as opposed to expenditures on prenatal care. Goal distribution indicators would concern themselves with 'which infants' with respect to mortality.

Note in the second paragraph the hint of government paternalism . . . the implication that Ottawa knows best. Or, to be fair though, that thought is later counter-balanced in this fashion: "Expertise in developing and analysing information to guide and monitor policy decisions is important, but it would be both misleading and dangerous to leave the impression that all is required to improve public policy-making is more and better technocrats." Improved decision-making can also be fostered by meeting the need for wider distribution of knowledge and information among all the participants in the decision process."

Good. But the Council betrays a bureaucratic bias as to who comes first in the pecking order, thus: "A variety of participants or actors engage in this (decision-making) process — politicians, public servants, policy analysts . . . with the media and the general public raising only fourth and fifth respectively.

The Council lists possible avenues of increased involvement as follows: learning opportunities for politicians to increase their individual effectiveness, assistance to government advisors in understanding and using sophisticated policy analysis techniques, development of policy-oriented private and independent research organizations, inclusion in the existing education system of much more 'policy content' with greater accessibility to these courses for people outside the formal schooling system, and greater interchange of personnel among government, universities, business enterprises trade unions, the communications media and other private organizations. . . "

And so on. As with any Government-inspired document, this more involved it can be made, the more interspersed it is with terms like decision-making process and feedback (both occur in this release) the more effective, its authors presume it to be. However, we have selected a few of the passages which do seem to provide some genuine enlightenment and clues to what Government has in mind for Canadians.

The principal message is that we, the general public should maintain our awareness of what government is doing, and be as busy in the ideas field as are the professional think-tank people up in Ottawa. More than they, moreover, we can attempt to cut through the gobbledegook and restore some degree of humanism to contemporary concepts of what is best for Canadians in the days ahead.

NDP Face Obstacles

Three-man Race for Liberal Seat in Sudbury

By IAN PORTER
Canadian Press Labor Writer

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Theoretically, Sudbury and district should be next thing to a snap for the New Democratic Party if this indeed is to be the year of its breakthrough in Ontario politics.

There is no lack of ripe political issues: The housing shortage is acute, the pollution problem is notorious, a sense of being exploited by the outside world is ingrained as deeply as the dust in a miner's pores.

And in the three ridings in the area, a population of less than 200,000 includes at least 40,000 voting-age union members.

— Surely, then, a party on the make, with the official endorsement of organized labor in its pocket, should be licking its lips over the three seats as it heads toward the Oct. 21 provincial election.

Certainly, the NDP is not letting anything slip away by chance as it goes after Sudbury riding and Nickel Belt to go with the Sudbury East seat taken for the party in 1967 by the incumbent Elil Martel.

Pre-election planning called for seven full-time workers to direct door-to-door canvassing by more than 300 volunteers. Sudbury also was selected as a potential kick-off centre for the province-wide campaign and party leader Stephen Lewis has been scheduled to visit the city on Thursday, the last for a motorcade and rally five days before the election.

But even meticulous planning cannot obscure the basic problem facing the party in Sudbury: The issues here result from boom-time bottlenecks rather than economic recession and insecurity.

The housing shortage: Sudbury is over-crowded because it is one place in Canada where jobs are relatively plentiful.

The New York-based International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. dominates the local economy, but more than 17,000 employees in its mines and smelters are among the best-paid industrial workers in the country.

Pollution is deplored by all parties. Yet running counter to the issue is a consuling thought on the order of: "Where there's smoke, there's jobs."

Mr. Martel, who feels he has every reason to be optimistic about his chances of re-election in Sudbury East, grants that the local issues are confused.

Claudette Bonhomme, the party's full-time paid worker in Sudbury, admits there are obstacles to the NDP mission in the area.

"This is the kind of town that drains people, that takes away their will to better themselves," she said. "A lot of people just seem to live from payday to payday."

A lot of others "just don't believe the party is going to change things."

The heavy concentration of union workers in the three constituencies should, in theory, be the party's strategic edge over both the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals. Of particular advantage should be the affiliation with the party of Local 6500, United Steelworkers of America, representing most iron workers in the three-city local in Canada and contributing more than $10,000 a year to NDP headquarters in Ottawa.

The alliance with steel, however, brings mixed blessings. Like it or not, the party tends to be identified in Sudbury with Local 6500. The problems facing the union, both its leaders and its rank-and-file, influence the party's fortunes.

The party also suffered from the bitter feelings brewed during steel's successful raids in the 1960s on the Inco locals, previously represented by the Independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union.

Mine-Mill, which still holds out at the smaller Falconbridge Nickel operations, has a strong community presence in Sudbury. District of the MMP was widespread after the inter-union war and the cost in votes was high. Now the bitterness is cooling but Mine-Mill will endorse no political party and its members can be found on the campaign staffs of all three parties.

And finally, in Sudbury as elsewhere, workers of people cheerfully divide their votes among all parties.

The most recent evidence was the defeat of all but one member of a labor slate of candidates in the 1970 municipal elections.

If nothing else, the washout provided assurances for Conservative and Liberal supporters that they are not about to be crushed in the coming provincial election by monolithic labor support for the NDP.

By now, a tight three-man race has emerged for the Sudbury seat vacated this year by Liberal MLA Elmer Sopha. Conservative candidate Bob Rafih and Liberal Michael Meehan both say they expect to receive a fair share of union members' votes.

Obviously well aware of the pitfalls for a labor-oriented candidate is the NDP entry in Sudbury, Bud Germa. 51, a smelter worker at Inco and, prior to Trudeaumania in 1968, a federal MP.

"If labor was a solid block I could use it to win but a lot of guys just don't care that way," he said.

In Sudbury, he said, "a lot of people thought that when 6500 affiliated with the party, the result would be a wildfire movement.

"Now they're finding out that the president of the local doesn't have a button he can press to get out the vote. The education process has been longer than people thought it would be."

Nixon Advisors Say Firm Hand Needed on Economy

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon, on the basis of information leaking from the White House, apparently is in the throes of once again reviewing his thinking on how to cope with domestic end of the economic crises.

His first about-face came after months of agonizing when he bowed to the weight of evidence and the advice of coal leagues and announced last month a system of wage-price rent freeze. Part the start of his presidency he had vowed he would never invoke such medicines, but years as a young lawyer working on such wartime measures having convinced him they simply don't work fairly.

At the time he told Congress that the second phase of the plan to come into effect when the 90-day freeze ends Nov. 13 would need the fullest possible co-operation," implying voluntary guidelines rather than imposed regulations.

"Nothing would be more detrimental to the new prosperity on the long run," he said then, "than to put the nation's economy in the straitjacket of government controls."

Since then, however, there has been a parade of advisors, labor leaders, business representatives and spokesmen for agriculture and consumer groups into the president's oval office.

From what White House insiders report, it appears the range of diverse opinions has convinced Nixon that his administration will have to use a much firmer hand after the actual freeze expires than he hoped when he addressed Congress.

By last week, when Nixon called a surprise press conference in his office, he pointedly put aside talk of co-operation and instead dwelt on the idea of putting teeth into any new regulations.

The principal point of disagreement between labor and industry is what sort of body should administer the new plan.

Labor, quite realistically, believes business has more friends within this Republican administration than the working man and is pushing the idea of a tripartite agency made up of representatives of unions, management and the public.

Business, after years of protest against what it terms too much government control, now wants the administration of the second phase put in the hands of a government agency, with any tripartite body acting only in an advisory capacity. The feeling apparently is that in such a three-sided panel labor and public representatives would gang up on business.

As the Washington Post sees it, the problem in advance of a Cabinet meeting on Tuesday is that the various sides will "commit themselves to irreconcilable positions or . . . announce non-negotiable demands even before they know what the administration is proposing."

All this "posturing and jockeying of position seems unconstructive," the Post says.

Many observers agree that compromise is the name of the game and it will be a test of an automobile owned by Frank Smith, taximan. The damage was slight.

U.K. Pair's Spartan Regime To Reach Peak as Skaters

From The Peterborough Examiner

In March, after eight years of pursuing prizes as British ice dancing champions, Roy and Sue Rodbourn decided to turn professional.

They finished fourth in the world champion-ships held in Lyons, France, in two short-term show competition in March. Then for eight weeks they taught at the Altrincham arena, near Manchester, England and, after their wedding on June, packed up to come to Peterborough.

A friend in Winnipeg had sent them an advertisement asking for professionals to teach for the Peterborough Figure Skating Club.

"We got to the point where we wanted to have some money to spend and we wanted to come to Canada anyway," Roy said.

To make ends meet in'Eng land, Roy worked as a pastry cook at a newspaper office in Manchester and Sue was a secretary. With part time jobs and training for competitions, skating was all they had time for.

From 6 a.m. to about 8:30 a.m. when they went to work, Sue and Roy were out on the ice. After work and a quick lunch they would spend the afternoon skating and most evenings until 8 p.m. Just before a championship, they'd be at it again from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m.

It was hard work without much sleep, but life at the top of the skating world was "smashing", Sue said.

In England, unlike the United States, the industrial and business world doesn't lavish gifts on skating champions.

"Look at Tim Wood, the U.S. champion, Ford gave him a car," Roy said, "in the United States they don't have to work at something else. You don't get any government support in Britain either."

Roy and Sue met in their mid 20s, started to skate together in their early teens. Sue can Roy at a rink one day. Immediately he looked like a good dancing partner and asked him to join her lesson.

"We haven't looked back since," she said.

In 1963 they started to move to the top when they won second place in the junior British championships and silver in the senior.

In 1970 they joined the British skating team and were third in the international ice dancing competition held in France. They were sixth in the European competition and ninth in the world.

Roy and Sue said Canadian ice dancing is not as good as British nor is it popular here as it is in Britain.

"In Britain during public skating sessions everyone clears off the ice three or four times during the evening for dancing. People like to watch and want to try it," Roy said.

Sue and Roy will be teaching all kinds of skating with the Peterborough Figure Skating Club. Roy will also take on the hockey skating school with an expected enrolment of 400.

They also hope to encourage ice dancing in their new teaching role.

They arrived in Montreal from England and drove to Peterborough with a friend. Because of a few car troubles on the way, they arrived in town at 3 a.m. They were hoping their baggage would arrive so they would have their skating gear in time to start teaching in the afternoon.

While they waited, they were apartment hunting. Although they have never been in Canada in any of their travels, they think they'll like it.

"Sometimes you step off at a new place and say 'This isn't for me'," Sue said, "But every one has been so friendly to us, we just instinctively think we'll like it here."

Actor Bombards Belfast With Peace Pamphlets

By The Branford Expositor

It must have been like a scene from one of his films for movie star Peter Sellers when he and a yogi recently roamed over Belfast in a multi-coloured jeep and bombed the city with peace leaflets, notes the Hamilton Spectator.

Had it been anyone else, a publicity stunt might have been suspected. But Mr. Sellers is a sensitive man to a point and so undoubtedly has all the passionate convictions of the concerned and desires to spread the good tidings of his new - found faith to all the world.

Not that the good citizens of Belfast are likely to lay aside their grievances because Mr. Sellers has bombarded them from above with exhortations on the virtues of peace. The problems are too old and stubborn to be solved by such mild measures. Yet one must give Mr. Sellers credit for his willing to do something about his convictions, bizarre though the expression may be.

Dispute Over Overtime Pay

Quebec Provincial Police Leave Posts for 'Study Session'

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Scores of provincial police posts were closed and many others manned only by supervisory personnel early today after a massive walkout Sunday night by policemen involved in a pay dispute with the provincial government.

Hundreds of policemen walked out late Sunday afternoon to take part in a 24-hour "study session" called during a foot-stomping, hand-clapping rally at the Drummondville Cultural Centre in this city 75 miles southeast of Montreal.

Some 2,000 policemen packed the smoke-filled auditorium. By a vote of 980 to 482 they rejected an offer by Justice Minister Jerome Choquette to form a committee of the national assembly within three days to study all problems affecting the provincial police.

It was not known how many men were to attend the study session where tension among policemen was described late Sunday as being "at its peak."

A spokesman at the centre said the study sessions "could carry on indefinitely" until a positive settlement is achieved in the association's claim for full compensation at time-and-a-half rates for extra shifts worked during the kidnapping crisis last October.

Some 4,000 men normally operate the QPP's 113 stations throughout the province. But by early today, scores of stations were being manned only by supervisory personnel or had shut down completely.

This left many areas of the province without any police force at all as the QPP, like its Ontario counterpart, is the sole law enforcement agency in many municipalities.

The force also serves as highway patrol throughout the province and is charged with guarding provincial courthouses and protecting various government officials.

Once the magnitude of the walkout became known, it brought swift and critical response from Maurice St. Pierre, QPP director-general.

He said in a statement that those leaving their posts "will have reason to regret the consequences that are to come.

"For our part, we will not hesitate to take the responsibilities which the law gives us in these cases of illegal conduct by our policemen." He termed the decision to participate in the study sessions as a "thoughtless gesture."

Late Sunday night, Premier Robert Bourassa, following a meeting in Montreal statement saying Mr. Choquette's offer still stands that "the government is always ready to discuss the matter under normal work conditions."

He said: "The government emphasizes that it has taken all the necessary measures to assure the security of all Quebec citizens."

The premier's statement did not elaborate on this last point, but a Canadian Forces spokesman in Ottawa said early today that no request for intervention in the case of a full-scale strike had been received from the Quebec government.

He added that the army intervention in such cases is usually a last resort and that municipal forces, then RCMP forces, are first called in.

A spokesman for the Montreal police department said the city's forces were not being heeded up to fill any gaps in police protection caused by the absence of the QPP.

The dispute involves an estimated 3,000 days overtime accumulated by 1,200 force members during the three-month kidnap crisis beginning Oct. 5, 1970.

Their collective agreement states that the men may receive compensating time off but no extra pay for shifts worked on days off.

Prior to Mr. Choquette's offer to establish a national assembly committee, the government offered to pay time-and-a-half for 50 per cent of time off worked during the crisis and give compensating time off for the other 50 per cent.

Policemen unable to take their accumulated time off within three months would be paid this entire amount at the time-and-a-half pay scale.

A mediation report handed down recently by Superior Court Judge Allan Gold called for a strict interpretation of the men's collective agreement, but the association members rejected it.

Meantime, QPP officers in Montreal, Sherbrooke, and Hull were being operated by officers and three few employees not members of the policemen's association.

Left unmanned early today were the North Shore St. Lawrence River centres of Shawinigan, Joliette and Berthierville and Trois-Rivieres, mid-way between Quebec City and Montreal.

In the same region but on the south shore, QPP did not answer their telephones in Victoriaville, Becancourt or Drummondville.

Northeast of the provincial capital, all was reported normal at Chicoutimi and Rimouski but posts in St.-Joseph de Beauce, Riviere du Loup, and Montmagny were reported unmanned.

Crowded autoroutes leading to Montreal from the Laurentians and the Eastern Townships were unaffected by the shortage of police manpower as they are served by separate autoroute police.

Police Check Phone Tips

MONTREAL (CP) — The Combined Anti-Terrorist Squad is standing by two communiques allegedly from the Front de Libération du Québec, found Saturday night by newsmen acting on tips from anonymous phone callers.

The communiques were found after two French-language papers, Montreal Matin and Journal de Montreal, and French-language radio station CKAC received calls saying copies of the two communiques could be found in telephone booths.

A spokesman for the anti-terrorist squad said RCMP experts were trying to determine whether the notes are similar to those found during last October's kidnap crisis.

The communiques state that the FLQ was responsible for a Friday credit union robbery by six persons in Mascouche, Que., a bank holdup in Montreal two weeks ago and a bombing early Saturday of the Canadian Association of Independent Associations' offices here.

No one was hurt in the bombing.

He said the U.S. wants to remove from the Canada-U.S. auto pact trade agreement of 1965.

Pope Urges Rally

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Pope Paul, in one of his last public addresses before the opening of the Third World Synod of Bishops Thursday, called Sunday on Roman Catholics to the Roman Catholic Church.

Speaking on a day set aside for prayers for the success of the Synod, the pontiff expressed pain at criticism of the church from within and without, and at the imperfect life of defections from the priesthood.

It was also Pope Paul's 74th birthday, but according to Vatican custom there were no celebrations. Instead, the Pope left the white and yellow pontifical flag over Vatican buildings.

perhaps it [illegible] years ago a transitional [illegible] said, these might at long last have reached a point beyond the transition and they might be eliminated."

Connally stood firm on President Nixon's new economic program which has posed difficulty for many nations, including Canada.

The 10 countries agreed Sunday to set their experts on the task of trying to resolve the difficulty. They will meet again next month, and the finance ministers probably will reassemble in November.

President Nixon on Aug 15 announced a 90-day wage and price freeze, [illegible] inflation and make American products more competitive. He also introduced the import duty and freed the U.S. dollar from its long time tie to gold.

The latter action meant other countries had to let their currencies float in international markets, and nearly all of them became stronger, in effect devaluing the U.S. dollar. Canada's dollar has been floating since May, 1950, and now is near parity with the U.S. dollar.

The Group of Ten, and most other countries, want the import duty lifted. They also want the U.S. to meet the exchange hikes at least partway by raising the price of gold above its established $35 an ounce.

The consensus here is that the U.S. will not—at least, not until it has won some other concessions—raise the gold price.

"Personally," Benson said in an interview, "I don't think this week we expect to see any excessive steps towards a solution except an agreement that people will keep talking."

"It's a very interesting poker game," Benson said. "I don't think they can stretch on" to November, 1972, with these restrictionist measures.

"I very much doubt it, but if they do, the world is going to be in a hell of a mess and it will hurt the U.S. as well as other countries."

Benson drew a big audience among IMF delegates when he appeared Sunday on NBC's Meet the Press and said that after prolongation of unsettled monetary and trade conditions, "you will undoubtedly see some sort of trade war emerge."

"If the hopeful," he added, "we're right back to the conditions that existed in the 1930s and it can lead to a restriction in world trade which can do great damage to all countries of the world, and to the U.S. as well."

Benson said earlier that if the U.S. now turns inward and protectionist, Canadian industry will be hard hit before it can react.

Secretary Connally told a news conference three hours after Benson's television appearance that the import duty would be lifted only when the U.S. is convinced that the rest of the world is moving towards policies that will enable the U.S. to reverse its foreign deficit.

Benson plans to address the conference Tuesday.

C of E Archbishop Backs Irish RCs

LONDON (AP) — The Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsay, urged a greater say for Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority in the affairs of Ulster Saturday.

Ramsay, speaking in a radio interview to open a week of prayer for peace in Northern Ireland, said religion was being corrupted by history between Ulster's Roman Catholics and ruling Protestants.

FLQ Notes Take Responsibility for Robberies and Bombing

MONTREAL (CP) — Two notes purported to be from the Front de Liberation du Quebec say the FLQ was responsible for two recent robberies and a bombing here during the weekend.

The notes, found Saturday night in telephone booths following anonymous tips, are being studied by members of the combined anti-terrorist squad and RCMP experts to determine whether they are similar to others found during last October's kidnappings.

The communiques said that the FLQ was responsible for a credit union robbery Friday in Mascouche, Que., a Montreal bedtop two weeks ago and the bombing Saturday of the Canadian Federation of Independent Associations' office here.

The credit union robbery in Mascouche, 20 miles north of Montreal, left one of the suspected bandits, a young junior college student, dead.

Pierre-Louis Bourret was found Friday afternoon in suburban Laval slumped in a car and bleeding from the head. He died in hospital Saturday with out regaining consciousness.

Six people, including two women, drive into Mascouche and robbed a credit union in a commando like raid.

But when the bandits attempted to make their escape with $5,000, they found that townspeople who had witnessed the robbery had boxed in their getaway car with their own vehicles.

The bandits jumped in another car parked in front of the police station after opening fire upon the people sitting in their cars.

One local resident ran into his house, grabbed a shotgun and fired at the fleeing bandits wounding one of them, he said.

Two cars in which Bourret was found contained a briefcase with some money, police said. They also discovered two shotguns and several revolvers in the vehicle.

Police said the bomb blast occurred Saturday at 1:03 a.m.

Ready for Election

Trudeau's Stand Dishonest And Advice Bad: Stanfield

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says that Prime Minister Trudeau has been making dishonest statements about the reasons for unemployment.

Mr. Stanfield also said in an interview on the CTV network's Question Period that he has no confidence in the economic advice that has been given to Mr. Trudeau and that he would welcome an election at any time.

He said economic issues would likely dominate an election late this year or next spring.

The Trudeau government has been "persistently complacent in presenting a decline in unemployment," but this has not taken place, Mr. Stanfield said.

"And now Mr. Trudeau is saying that the reason things aren't working out statistically is that there are more young people looking for work than he foresaw or was foreseen.

"That is a dishonest statement."

Mr. Stanfield said the higher number of young persons moving into the labor picture was predicted by the Economic Council of Canada and many others "for years, and for the prime minister at this stage of affairs to say that the only thing that's gone wrong is that there's been an unforeseen number of youngsters come into the work force, that's a dishonest statement to make."

As far as he was concerned, "we can have an election any time."

"I think the issues this fall and, as far as I can see, next spring will be largely economic and I think we'd do very well on that issue."

It appeared to be essential that the Liberal government obtain some different economic advice.

"There needs to be a change in the advice the government gets on the economy. So far as the Bank of Canada is concerned, I'm not launching any attack against the governor for its proceedings and its policies; have got to be a lot more spent than they have been."

But the blame for the country's economic ills still rested on Prime Minister Trudeau and Finance Minister E. J. Benson.

"They can't put the blame on the people who are advising them. . . . I think the plain truth of the matter is that they've had a very simplified approach to the economic problems, both Benson and the prime minister."

Mr. Stanfield said the bad news pending could be used to stimulate the economy and to suppress some of the controversy surrounding wage and price controls. Holding wage rises to 8 per cent, the Labor Force

But Mr. Benson is quite down a budget that really had not much at all cuts. It would reduce some taxes but increase others.

"I've been one of the opposition people to suggest expenditure cuts. . . . I'm quite prepared to

Labor Walks Out

Waffle Splits Maritime NDP

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Labor delegates walked out of the annual meeting of the New Brunswick New Democratic Party here Saturday after a resolution to adopt the manifesto of the party's radical Waffle faction passed with a one-vote majority.

Party spokesmen said approval of the manifesto created a Canadian precedent for the NDP but some, including party leader J. Albert Richardson, predicted it will be revoked at a future meeting.

Mr. Richardson, who was not present when the manifesto passed 41-40 with four abstentions, said proper notification of the meeting had not been given to all party members and passage of the policy package will be "contested."

"Of course, it will be revoked," he said.

When the delegation left organizers found themselves with too few delegates for a quorum and the meeting dissolved into a session of the provincial NDP council with provincial president Patrick Callaghan announcement Waffle supporters would take over the New Democrats.

The controversial document among other things, calls for immediate withdrawal of all Canadian troops from NATO, withdrawal of Canada from NORAD, the phasing out of all foreign ownership in Canada and the nationalization of key industries.

Nixon Predicts 35-40 Seats With Chance at Another 40

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon predicted Sunday night that his party will win "35 to 40" seats in the Oct. 21 Ontario election.

Asked for a prediction in an interview on the CFRB radio program Let's Discuss It, Mr. Nixon, whose Liberals now form the official opposition, replied:

"I think we're looking at 35 to 75 (seats) where we're getting a substantial chance and our candidates are running first or second.

"I believe that we are going to win 35 to 40."

The Liberal leader agreed with an interviewer that there are a large number of undecided voters at this point and said his campaign was angled to attract those people.

"That's what all the campaign is about," he said.

Mr. Nixon said that "if anybody was going to support the NDP (New Democratic Party) they would have done so by now.

"I don't see much for NDP campaigns going for anything any more substantial than that."

Stephen Lewis, leader of the NDP, has also said he expects the election results — but he said the campaign is a battle between his party and the Liberals for the role of official Opposition party.

Premier William Davis has declined to speculate on election results, saying instead in statements that his program — the Conservative party's — be regarded as the government.

A spokesman for Mr. Davis said he expects a Progressive Conservative majority government.

President Speaks on Pipeline But Interpretations Varied

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (CP) — President Nixon issued a statement on the trans-Alaska pipeline on arrival here Sunday night that has been interpreted by himself as being in favor of the construction.

Another interpretation was that while pointing to the real need for oil, Nixon made no commitment to support the building of the pipeline.

Only a few hours before Nixon's statement, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton was quoted by The Associated Press as saying in a magazine interview that he had "hinted strongly" that a 1971 start on the pipeline is impossible and that oil from Alaska's North Slope may in the end go to market through a Canadian pipeline.

Reuter correspondent Michael Prentice, in Anchorage for the meeting between Nixon and Emperor Hirohito, said Nixon "gave a broad hint the United States government will shortly give the go-ahead for construction of a pipeline across Alaska to carry oil from rich new found deposits on the North Slope to the ice-free port of Valdez.

The Associated Press quoted the president's announcement as saying the decision "represents a permanent impasse."

Morton, who accompanied Nixon to Alaska, said a resolution Sunday night for members of the Alliance Daily Newspapers of Washington that his department may be able to issue a favorable environmental report on the pipeline because of changes agreed to by the proposed builders.

The pipeline "can be built compatibly with the environment" and a U.S. interior department report on the project should be issued by the end of the year, possibly before Dec. 1, Morton said. He said it would be March or mid-point before construction could start.

Morton said that the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the consortium of oil companies that would build the pipeline, has agreed to [illegible] environmental safeguards recommended by the department and several [illegible] Morton added, "I can't foresee any difficulty with that sort of thing."

[illegible] a conservationist [illegible] Environmental Defense Fund [illegible] Morton said [illegible] environmental protection could be achieved.

"Instead of pressuring a reluctant administration to [illegible] we should be working with [illegible] environmental concerns.

"I believe we can meet both objectives: preserve the natural resources in the Arctic and, where oil is developed and transported, do it in a manner that will be environmentally [illegible] mental values."

Election Roundup

Campaign Promises Capsuled After Week of Electioneering

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and New Democrat Stephen Lewis continued to detail policies last week as Premier William Davis asked voters to re-elect his government Oct. 21 on the basis of his record since he assumed the leadership.

Premier Davis began the week with the statement that Ontario is the key to the Canadian economy and that only he can provide the experienced leadership necessary to meet the responsibilities this position entails.

On Tuesday, he opened his official campaign—while acknowledging that he has, infact, been campaigning all along—with an appeal to the electorate to judge him only on the government's performance.

As for hard policies, the premier limited himself to saying he would seriously consider lifting the ceiling on development loans in favor of economically-depressed Cornwall, and announcing he has implemented a program to provide a big winter works program should it prove necessary.

Liberal Leader Nixon promised a "new broom" to clean up unnecessary costs, particularly "wasteful" spending on education, where he would adopt a year-round high school system and do away with Grade 13 in order to cut expenditures.

A "peace corps" for youth would give students the opportunity to take time off from accumulating parasites and work for the province in such fields as research, Indian affairs and conservation.

On social issues, he said government should take a "decisive step away" from welfare payments to persons such as drug users and those who over-indulge in alcohol, and he promised an Indian claims commission and a select legislature committee to carry out a "let's talk" policy toward Ontario's Indians.

Mr. Nixon also promised special grants to municipalities to make up for loss of tax revenue from provincial buildings; compensation for those whose livelihood is affected by mercury pollution; decentralization of government and a review board to control foreign investment.

NDP Leader Lewis re-iterated his party's opposition to present abortion laws and stressed the NDP policy of preventive medicine geared to community health clinics.

He also restated his opposition to utility breakers; said he would require branch plants to justify layoffs; promised a summer housing corporation; land said resource industries would face higher taxes to help pay for northern development.

An NDP government also would establish a review board with the power to roll back unjustified price increases in some sectors and would correlate increases in farm production costs with consumer prices.

One Day Visit

Lougheed Tours With Davis

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed joined Premier William Davis on the campaign trail during the weekend, telling Halton West riding workers: "I'm with you all the way."

Mr. Lougheed stood on a chair Mr. Davis had just vacated and told 200 workers he was "thrilled to be a part of this very, very important election."

But Mr. Lougheed said later in an interview his brief appearance here Saturday at the campaign headquarters of Environment Minister George Kerr. Seeking re-election in the riding, will be his only active campaigning on behalf of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party for the Oct. 21 provincial election. Burlington is just east of Hamilton.

The Alberta Tory was a weekend guest of Mr. Davis. They attended the Canadian Football League game in Toronto Saturday night between Toronto Argonauts and Calgary Stampeders.

Mr. Lougheed declined to comment on Mr. Davis' chances for re-election in the face of upsets of incumbent governments in six of the eight provincial elections held in Canada in the last two years.

Welfare 'Fetish' Criticized

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Someday voters may dial "9" for president.

Hillsborough County elections supervisor James Sebesta and General Telephone Co. officials are working on a pilot program that could eventually lead to voters casting their ballots via telephones in their own homes.

The program will involve installation of telephones instead of the regular voting booths at a limited number of polling places. The telephone lines will hook into a computer.

A voter will check a paper ballot, telling him the code number for each candidate of the major issues of the campaign for the Oct. 21 provincial election. Pollution.

He had planned to eat the fish he caught even though the provincial government has banned commercial fishing in the area.

But he didn't realize the magnitude of the mercury pollution in the game fish of the English River.

"If I catch one, I'm going to eat it, anyway," the Liberal leader had told Barrie Lamm a fishing camp operator, who closed his camp when the high levels of mercury pollution were discovered in April of 1970.

"You'd be real foolish," Mr. Lamm had replied. "The high levels of levels they should not be eaten."

Mr. Lamm said the level of mercury pollution in fish was 27 parts per million. The maximum level allowed by government is a half part per million.

Mr. Lamm said a number of people have left the area because they "didn't like to be told what to eat."

"The people who have left the area have definitely affected most are the Indians who gained in the summer. The whole area depends on tourists, on the fishing. Most of them come to the Dog Head."

Mr. Lamm said he operates a camping camp at God's Lake at Sandy Narrows, 150 miles north of Minaki, and nothing near the pulp and paper and chemical mills in Dryden. Ont., charging they dumped pollutants into the English River system.

As for the fishing lodges on the English River system, he can't foresee them opening again "in the near future."

There is the highest known level of fresh water mercury contamination in the world, he said.

On Sunday the Liberal leader visited Lonely Ont. where he spoke to the Ontario General Contractors Association on the subject of government planning.

He said he does know whether Ontario will be "fit to live in by the year 2000 . . . because astonishingly, there is no provincial plan for the development of the province."

He said government department "confuse and contradict Liberal government would create an urban affairs department prepare a comprehensive each other," and promised a 20 year development plan for all of Ontario, and establish a plan ning secretariat

French in Ontario

Lewis Pledges Cultural Aid

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, has promised that a government under his leadership would commit itself to preserving the French language and culture in this province.

Mr. Lewis, campaigning for the Oct. 21 election, was speaking Saturday to about 100 NDP supporters at a union hall in this community 42 miles north east of Timmins.

He said he believes that "influential events in Quebec are bringing that province closer to separation" from the rest of Canada.

"I cannot conceive of Canada without Quebec," he said. "I see the role of the NDP government in Ontario as one aimed at keeping Quebec in Confederation."

Mr. Lewis said Ontario must give its "commitment" to French - speaking residents could receive assurance for the rest of Canada in showing the country two two major cultural groups can live together.

He said his government would create "a Franco-Ontarian cultural council representing the artists and cultural disciplines of the French-speaking regions of Ontario."

An NDP government also would "negotiate official cultural agreements with Quebec and with national governments of the French-speaking world."

It also would "accelerate and extend the present government's plans to provide bilingual services" relating to the courts and the legislature.

"We shall initiate cultural exchanges, visits of artists and we shall work through the communities," Mr. Lewis said.

Dial 'O' For Candidate

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, expressed concern Sunday night that a "fetish" is developing in the province about clobbering those on welfare.

"It is becoming fashionable to look on welfare recipients as people taking something from society that they would not otherwise get," said Mr. Lewis.

The NDP leader was speaking at a meeting in his riding of Scarborough West.

"If you want to lower the costs of welfare, you stop abusing the recipients and start creating jobs," he said.

Nixon Fishes for Issue to Emphasize Mercury Pollution

SEPARATION LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon went fishing in the polluted waters of the English River system over the weekend but didn't get to keep the speckled he caught.

Th fish was possibly passing out.

Mr. Nixon flew into a fishing camp at this community 40 miles north of Kenora to illustrate what he believes to be one

TORONTO (CP) Charles Stewart announced Sunday night he is withdrawing as Social Credit candidate in York Centre in the Oct. 21 provincial election because of "domination of the party by the Edmund Burke Society."

"I don't wish to become associated with them at all," he said. "So I'll just stay out of it entirely."

In London Ont. Saturday, E. Peal Fountain, a former executive of the Edmund Burke Society was elected provincial leader of Social Credit Association.

Mr. Fountain, an opponent of the society, was nominated for the leadership of the organization at a convention in London Saturday.

George Wallace Critical Of Canada's Premier

NEW YORK (CP) — Gov. George Wallace of Alabama described Prime Minister Trudeau Saturday as a crypto Communist.

Wallace, testing the political temperature for perhaps another presidential campaign, did not actually refer to the Canadian prime minister by name in a speech to supporters.

The reference came after Wallace referred to communism in Latin American and Cuba. He then added:

"We've got a crypto Communist premier in Canada just about us. He's got a worse background and record than Cuban Premier Castro himself."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lohnes of Frankford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leonard, of Stirling.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of fortrel cotton with an empire waistline. It had a soft full skirt, and featured long sleeves, ending in a tight cuff, with open cuff-wedges down the sleeves. A lace veil fell from her Juliet cap which was embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a basket of red roses.

The bride's attendants were Miss Darlene Lohnes, matron of honor and Miss Carla Lohnes as bridesmaid. Sisters of the bride. They were dressed alike in floor length flowered gowns of organza and carried baskets of red low roses and daisies.

Deborah Smith, cousin of the bride was the flower girl and she was dressed in a blue floor length fortrel crepe gown. She carried a white basket of pink roses. Master Joey Gravelle, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

A reception was held in Rose Lowry Hall where the mother of the bride received the guests. She wore a blue brocaded coat and dress ensemble with a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom who wore a mauve printed silk dress with matching hat and purple accessories, and an autumn gold rose corsage.

After the reception a dance and buffet lunch was served in the Stirling town hall where the guests enjoyed an evening of dancing.

For a honeymoon trip to Niagara and points west, the bride chose a mauve crepe featured fortrel dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Leonard will reside in Stirling

MISS VETHA CONNER, daughter of Mrs. Marian Connor, Carrying Place and the late Mr. Harold Conner is recently graduated from the Ottawa General Hospital School of Radiography. Miss Conner also is a graduate of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Bloomfield School. She is on staff at the Ottawa Hospital in Peterborough.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE WI

The agriculture and Canadian Industries meeting of the Quinte Institute held in September was convened by Mrs. D. Atkins. The meeting was in the form of a dinner with 30 women enjoying dinner at the Tops Motor Hotel.

The business portion of the meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. A. Mitchell. This included thank you notes from Mrs. J. Ellis, Mrs. H. Grills, Mrs. A. Dowlator and Mrs. B. Reid for cards and flowers sent while ill.

Notes of appreciation were read from the Tufts and Sandercock families for flowers and donations in memory of deceased members.

It was announced that there will be a euchre on October 8 also the next meeting will be on October 12 in the form of a pot luck supper at 7 p.m. with special invitation to husbands and friend. Slides of Africa will be shown after the meeting.

The knack of sewing with kits is the short course chosen for fall. Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. J. McLaren were chosen as leaders to go to training school on October 12 and 13 in Foxboro.

It was decided that the 75th anniversary celebration of the FWIO be held as a district celebration of the FWIO rather than a Branch celebration.

During the business period it was decided that a new drop ceiling be installed in the Institute hall with the property committee to be responsible for getting a contractor to install it.

The Institute convention is to be held in Cody Centre on October 21 and 22. Mrs. Denyes and Mrs. E. Flynn are welcome delegates.

It was announced that Hastings Manor Tea and Bazaar will be held on October 20 from 2 to 4 p.m. Mrs. G. Lanier and Mrs. E. Morris were chosen to serve during the afternoon.

The president thanked Mrs. D. Atkins for arranging the dinner and for the home. The minutes were taken on after the close of the meeting.

The women toured the Hooke Bead plant on University Ave. The group was divided in two and taken round the plant where spools of all kinds and bullen cubes are manufactured.

The four groups were informed that spares keep much better in glass jars and should always be kept tightly closed as it never near heat which distracts from the flavor. They were shown cassia bark which is ground to make cinnamon and soya beans which had been greenness but they tasted like bacon. This could be added to foods in place of bacon.

In the other part of the plant bullion cubes were being processed. It takes six lbs. of beef to make one lb. of bullion. It is ground, cooked and aged in containers and then cut in strips and finally into cubes. There are many different flavors such as beef, chicken and onion.

It was an informative tour and was enjoyed by all. Mrs. D. Atkins thanked the guides for the tour.

Woman of 40 Finds Jobs Scarce

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is a woman supposed to do when she reaches 40? Kill herself? I'm too young for Social Security and too old to get a job. Personnel directors these days are interested only in girls under 30 with measurements of 36-25-36.

ANN LANDERS

I am an experienced secretary having worked for 14 years for two fine bosses. I quit work three years ago to travel with an elderly woman who needed a companion. Eight months ago the woman died. I've been trying unsuccessfully to get a job ever since. My shorthand is excellent, typing, spelling, and grammatical construction superb. I can manage an office and do bookkeeping if necessary.

Periodically I note campaigns to hire the handicapped, hire the veterans and hire members of minority groups. — How about a campaign to hire the 40-over-the-hill women? We need help. — RE-TREAD FROM PENSACOLA.

DEAR RE: Perhaps you haven't been back in the country long enough to catch up with the news, but the economy is in a slump and most firms are not hiring, they are firing. A woman with your experience and work record, however, should have an easier time than the chick fresh out of secretarial school — even with her 36-25-36. Check the employment agencies regularly, read the want ads in this paper and pass the word among your friends that you want work.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope the guy whose girlfriend keeps throwing his ring back in his face every time they have an argument will see this and get smart. When Maggie and I were going together she used throw her engagement ring in my face every two weeks. I used to think it was kind of cute the way her eyes blazed and her color would go up and she'd storm her tiny foot. I thought she'd outgrow her temper tantrums after we were married, but I was wrong. Maggie is still throwing things - - - oodles, frying pans, hockey sticks, anything handy. If we didn't have a house full of kids, I'd take off, but now it's out of the question.

I hope the young guys out there who have hot-tempered girls will see this and head for the hills. — CONSTRUCTION WORKER WHO WEARS HIS HARD HAT IN THE HOUSE.

DEAR HARD HAT: Thanks for the testimony. For those who came in late, I'll repeat. Don't expect marriage to sweeten the disposition or improve a lousy temper. Most changes after marriage are for the worse.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do people ever learn from the mistakes of others? I hope so because I have a story to tell. When I read the gripes from the women who didn't want to take time off from her high-paying job to go on a trip with her husband, I decided to sit down and write this letter.

My husband and I worked hard all our married life. We kept saving. "When we retire we're going on a three-month trip around the world. Ten months before retirement time my husband became ill. We kept hoping his health would improve enough so we could take that trip, but it didn't happen. Now he is bedridden. How I wish we could turn the calendar back a few years. But we can't, and neither can anyone else. I just want to tell all year readers that if they want to do something, don't put it off. Living for the future is a mistake. Today is all you have for sure. — IDAHO.

DEAR I.: Thanks for writing. On behalf of the travel agencies, the airlines, the hotels, motels and yours truly, you speak the truth.

Now Is the Time For Fall Apple Pie

By MARY MOORE

I want for the ideal occasion to make my one pie from fall apples. We have one friend who remembers helping his mother slice the Gravenstein or Duchess apples for this treat when he was a boy and when he comes to dinner in September or October we have one accompanied by old Cheddar Cheese.

FALL APPLE PIE
(One deep 9")
Pastry:
2 cups stirred but not sifted cake and pastry flour
1 tsp. salt
2/3 cup shortening
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. cold water
Filling:
3 med. Duchess apples (or about 3 or 4 Gravensteins)
¾ cup sugar
1 tbsp. minute tapioca

To make the pastry cut the shortening and butter into the flour and salt with pastry blender until the size of peas. Drizzle in water, tossing with fork. Pack into ball between your palms. Break in half. On well floured board roll out half with well floured rolling pin to fit deep 9" pie plate. Carefully mix in a bowl the apples which have been washed, pared, cored and sliced with the sugar, nutmeg, and tapioca. (Note: the tapioca is added to this pie because Fall apples are juicy and the tapioca prevents juice bubbling over in oven.) Top apple mixture into pastry-lined pie plate evenly. Roll or remaining pastry, fold over and gash at centre and cover apples and seal and crimp edges. Brush top generously with milk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 min. then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 min. longer.

Successful Living

Spouse Pouts Over Money Arguments

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I have been married 33 years. Have been faithful all these long years, spend very little on myself and am not allowed to say anything about our business, such as when we go into big debts for machinery.

Whenever I want something for our home I have to beg. More often I get angry and when I do I am pouted at for weeks and months.

This year, so that I would not have to ask for anything, I took in two young boys for the winter months. Now I am accused in front of everyone of pocketing all the money.

I am treated as a kitchen maid by the day and a mistress by night. — Broken Hearted

Dear Broken Hearted: Has it taken you 28 years to put into words something you should have huddled about and were first working out your adjustments to each other? It is going to take a major earthquake to change things now.

Thirty-eight years ago he promised to share his worldly goods with you. Now he begrudges every cent.

Pouting goes with childhood. Adults learn to talk things over and reach agreements. Remind him that you still have a long way to go together; and agree to be quiet about the machinery if he grants your needs in the grocery and homemaking department.

* * *

Dear Doris: Please send me the leaflet Don't Slump Into a Hump. As a leader of CGIT I would pass along some knowledge and gayety, help my own posture (29 cents enclosed). — Leader

Dear Leader: Posture is so closely linked up with good body functioning that you can't stress it too much. The chest needs room to breathe and expand. Circulation calls for good position of head on neck and all the way down.

Not to mention the way a nice, erect posture helps you to carry your clothes (Leaflet is on its way.)

* * *

Dear Doris: I am 14. My young sister snoops through every little thing I have and that makes my blood boil. I have run right out of hiding places. — Boiling

Dear Boiling: You need your privacy and right now you are fighting for it. But have you ever tried talking to Snoopy instead of snapping at her?

Doubtless she has reached the age of reason — in slight amounts, anyway — and could be appealed to on her own grounds. Try to engage her in an agreement that you will not pry into anything of hers as long as she leaves your things alone. Then seal bargain with a small gift from you to her, something she will prize. Like a purse or belt or book.

* * *

Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can put you on the way to more Successful Living.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

Don't neglect the second or third child when it comes to taking snapshots and home movies. Proud parents often take reels of photos of a first baby, then drift away from the picture-taking habit with the babies who come later. This could mean hurt feelings later on.

Women Like Clothes to Fit Certain Occasions

NEW YORK (CP) — Women have won another victory. This time in the fashion world. After several seasons of pushing non-fashion, off-the-street clothes, most trend-setting designers have bowed to the fact that women like and want clothes to fit certain occasions.

Functional clothes have returned to their rightful place on the fashion scene. There is even an interest in real at-home clothes. This season should end the casualness of the last few years when both hostess and guests seemingly just tossed on the first garments that came to hand. Now hostesses can look glamorous and feminine again, either in sophisticated separates or seductive clinging gowns.

The interest in plaids this season fits right into the new at-home category. It provides a smart casual effect, as a Scottish tartan kilt by Junior Sophisticates, topped by a black velvet blazer piped in red satin. Miss Sun Valley of Toronto combines a long, fringe-edged, wrap skirt in black-and-white plaid wool with a clinging V-neck black knit top. Or a hostess might like the ruffle of Gino Charles' bias plaid taffeta skirt topped by a white lace shirt.

Separates for at-home wear are a specialty with Claire Haddad of Toronto. This winter she introduces a floor length quilted skirt in a shocking pink red and purple scarf print. It is both a full skirt teamed by Mrs. Haddad with matching but non-quilted top and also a button-down version which Mrs. Haddad likes worn with a purple cat suit.

Actually at-home wear as such is a comparatively recent addition to wardrobes. In earlier days there was a strict code of dressing.

But two world wars changed all that. The younger set began asking friends in for a casual social evening. Designers began to introduce at-home clothes. They provided hostesses with confidence. Then the youth kick appeared.

Femininity was out and so were alluring at-home clothes. Now they're back, even if we still have some glamor but pants around. But the word is out, long and dramatic skirts.

Wobbly Giants Cling To One-Game Margin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco Giants, wounded and wobbly, are hanging in there in the wild and wacky National League West Division.

"This team reminds me of the Spirit of '76 with all our injuries," said San Francisco manager Charles Fox after the pain-plagued Giants smacked Cincinnati Reds 12-3 Sunday and maintained a shaky one-game lead over Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat Atlanta Braves 3-2.

In Sunday's other National League games, New York Mets trimmed Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 St. Louis Cardinals turned back Montreal Expos 7-1 and Philadelphia Phillies beat Chicago Cubs 5-1.

-In Saturday's games, Chicago defeated Philadelphia 4-2, Cincinnati edged the Giants 6-5, St. Louis outlasted the Expos 6-5, the Dodgers nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 and...Houston dumped San Diego 3-1.

With Willie McCovey's tortured knee and ripped hand and baseball victim Dick Dietz's bandaged head, the baseball season has resembled a war for the Giants. Those are some injuries, there have been others.

"Sunday was the first time that we've had our regular lineup together for a long time, maybe three or four weeks," said Fox. "In fact, I don't think we've had our regular lineup together for 50 per cent of the season."

Dietz's injury didn't appear to slow him down Sunday. He banged a grand slam home run, knocking in five runs to lead the Giants.

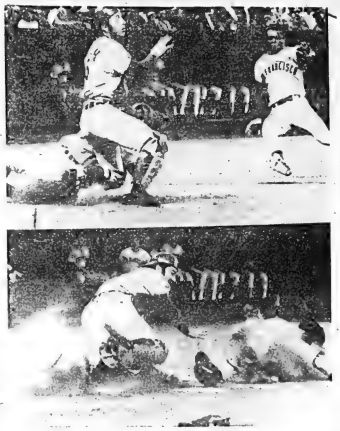
While the Giants were winning a key game, the hot Dodger kept things interesting by whipping the Braves for the third straight day as Richie Allen and Duke Sims hit home runs.

The Dodgers and Giants each have three games left in the regular season, which winds up Thursday.

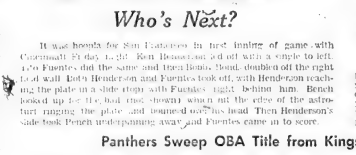
Dietz also had two other hits, including a run scoring single in the ninth.

"I think Dietz's grand slam did it," said Fox. "This was a real, real big game for us and that changes everyone's attitude. There's no question that everyone on this club was get ting up tight."

Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds applied the crusher with two run homers in a four-run Giant sixth.



Allen launched the Dodgers into a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his 23rd homer and Sims hit his fifth of the year a solo shot in the third. The Dodgers scored the thirtieth run on an unearned tally in the fourth.



Burt Wilhelm and Jim Brewer then pitched effectively the last three innings on relief of Los Angeles starter Bill Singer, who gave up Hank Aaron's 628th homer of the year and 639th lifetime run.

Tom Seaver allowed nine hits, Ray Daviault's seventh, in a strike-out effort, New York outpitched his 16th victory in the Mets' triumph over Eastern Division champion Pittsburgh.

Bonnie Bridge Roger Bossard has first game this season for St. Louis, banged three hits to help the Cardinals defeat Montreal.

Who's Next?

It was hoopla for Stu Thatcher in first inning of game with Cincinnati. Pitday, Leight. Ken Boswell led off with a single to left. Leo Fuentes did the same and then Bobby Bond, doubled off the right field wall. Bobby Henderson and Fuentes took off, with Henderson reaching the plate in a slide-dust with Fuentes right behind him. Bench looked up for the ball, had (not shown) wound up the elbow of the astronaut ringing the plate and bounced one to his head. Then Henderson's slide took Bench underspinning away and Fuentes came in to score.

Birds Boast Four Big Guns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Winning this one was very important to me," said Baltimore's Jim Palmer after beating Cleveland Indians 5-0 and joining Orioles team-mates Mike Cuellar, Pet Dobson and Dave McNally as 20-game winners this season.

"Heck, when the other guys win 20, I look bad if I don't," added Palmer.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, New York Yankees edged Detroit Tigers 3-2, Oakland Athletics blanked Milwaukee Brewers 7-0, Chicago White Sox defeated California Angels 6-5 in 10 innings, Boston Red Sox trounced Washington Senators 8-1 and Minnesota and Kansas City split a doubleheader, the Twins winning the opener 6-2 and the Royals taking the nightcap 5-3.

Palmer pitched brilliantly Sunday, thwarting the Indians on three hits and nine strikeouts in raising his record to 20-9 and making the Orioles who have won eight consecutive games, only the second team in major league history to have four 20 game winners in the same season.

The other was the 1920 Chicago White Sox who had Urban Faber, Claude Williams, Dickie Kerr and Ed Cicotte reach the coveted 20-victory circle.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich, the winningest pitcher in the majors, failed for the second straight time to win his 20th game as the Yankees overcame the Tigers' stubby left-hander on Rusty Torres' two-run homer, his first in the big leagues, and Roy White's game-breaking homer in the sixth inning.

Blue Oakland pitching rookies ground his 24th victim in his first major league start, pitching seven scoreless innings as the Athletics beat Milwaukee for their 99th triumph.

Houle Key to Hab Successes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

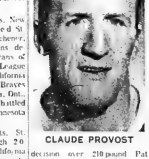
Rejean Houle scored only two goals but each one provided the key to a pair of ties registered by Montreal Canadiens, defeating champions, in National Hockey League exhibition games this weekend.

The Canadiens tied the Black Hawks 1-1 at Chicago Sunday, after rallying for a 2-2 deadlock with the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

In other Sunday games, New York Rangers defeated St. Louis Blues 6-5 at Kitchener, Ont., Pittsburgh Penguins defeated Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League 5-2 at Rochester, California Golden Seals tied Boston Bruins of the AHL 1-1 at Oshawa, Ont., and Vancouver Canucks battled to a 2-2 tie with Minnesota North Stars at Winnipeg.

In Saturday's contests, St. Louis blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, Buffalo Sabres beat California 4-2, Vancouver edged Minnesota 2-1 and Boston Bruins nipped Detroit Red Wings 4-3.

After Houle scored for Montreal Sunday, Stan Mikita got the tying goal for the Black Hawks at 2:45 of the third period. Montreal's pre-season record now stands at three wins and two ties.



Vic Hadfield paced the Rangers Sunday with three goals. Jack Egers, Rod Seiling and Jean Ratelle got the others. St. Louis' scorers were Garry Unger and Wayne Connelly, with two apiece, and Garry Sabourin.

All the scoring in the rough and tumble game between Canucks and North Stars was done in the first period. Danny Johnson and Andre Boudrias scored for Vancouver, Murray Oliver and Bob Nevin tallied for Minnesota.

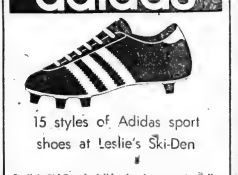
Minnesota centre Dennis Hextall was involved in two fights that enlivened the second and third periods.

Hextall, acquired in a trade from California, took on Vancouver defenceman Dale Tallon in the second period, then won a decision over 210-pound Pat Quinn in the third.

CLAUDE PROVOST

The fight with Quinn was returned in the penalty box and Quinn eventually received a major penalty for fighting, a 10-minute misconduct and a game misconduct. Hextall drew a major and a 10-minute misconduct.

In Toronto Saturday, the Leafs remained unbeaten in five games as Canadiens, needed a third period power play goal by Houle to salvage the tie.



Jacques Lemaire scored the other Montreal goal, also on a power play in the second period after Leafs had taken a 2-0 lead on goals by Denis Dupre and Paul Henderson.

Greg Polis and Keith Magnuson scored for Chicago. Cleary each scored once for host Pittsburgh to tie Chicago and St. Louis. For being the third man in a fight Ron Ratter of the Penguins was given a game misconduct in the first period.

All the scoring between Vancouver and Minnesota was confined to the second period Sunday and all goals came on power plays.

Reed Scores 92nd

Records Fall in Regina

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Records fell in Regina and the Blue Bombers fell in Vancouver.

British Columbia Lions posted a 23-18 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers Sunday night and Saskatchewan Roughriders dumped Edmonton Eskimos 28-14 Sunday in Western Football Conference games.

The key game was in Vancouver, where 28,063 fans were expecting an 18-18 deadlock with 51 seconds left to play. Bomber quarterback Don Jonas had just combined with Mack Herron for a 63-yard pass-and-run touchdown, and the second tie between the clubs in two games appeared a certainty.

But Winnipeg coach Jim Spavital elected to go with a short kickoff, in the hope that his Bombers could recover the ball and drive close enough to get at least the single point that would give them a win.

GEORGE REED

The attempt failed, and B.C. had it first and 10 on the Winnipeg 33 with 40 seconds to play. Lions quarterback Don Moorhead hit Jim Young for three yards, then sent halfback Larry Highbaugh deep on the next play. Highbaugh outsprinted Winnipeg's defensive backs to the 10-yard line, caught Moorhead's toss in the clear and breezed in for the winning touchdown.

Fullback Jim Evenson of the Lions carried 26 times for 183 yards and one touchdown, passing the 1,000-yard mark for the season.

B.C.'s other points came on two field goals, two converts and a single by Ken Phillips, and a field goal and single by Ted Gerela.

Herron scored both Winnipeg touchdowns, Jonas adding the other six points on two converts, a field goal and a single.

At Regina Sunday, Saskatchewan fullback George Reed scored a game-winning touchdown in the fourth quarter to run his career total to 92, a Canadian Football League record.

Reed, charging up the middle for 17 yards while 19,018 fans cheered, broke the record of 91 established by Dick Shatto, formerly of Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference.

Roughrider quarterback Ron Lancaster also made the CFL record book as he completed nine of 21 passes for 179 yards. They gave him a career total of 23,661 yards on passes, 79 more than the mark set by former Montreal Alouette Sam Etcheverry.

Allan Ford, on a 31-yard pass from Lancaster, and Bobby Thompson scored the other Saskatchewan touchdowns as the Roughriders extended their winning streak to five games.

Jack Abendschan kicked all three converts, added field goals from 33 and 42 yards and got a single on a missed field goal.

Newcomer John Embree, who came to Edmonton to replace Henry King, gathered in a 58-yard pass from Bruce Lemmerman for Edmonton's lone touchdown. Dave Cutler kicked the convert, as well as two field goals and Greg Thompson kicked a single.

MEL PROFIT

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts survived several injuries to defeat Calgary Stampeders 18-7 and Hamilton Tiger-Cats jolted Ottawa Rough Riders' playoff chances with a 19-7 victory in weekend Canadian Football League action.

Coach Leo Cahill and officials of the Argonauts spent an agonizing 24 hours after their home-field win Saturday before it was determined that star running back Leo McQuay, who suffered a knee injury, would not require surgery and may miss only one game.

But they lost the services of offensive tackle John Trapani, also through a knee injury. He was scheduled to undergo surgery today.

Also hurting, but not seriously, are defensive lineman Dave Krenbihl, suffering a sore located right elbow, and end of the Argo team, Mel Profit, who is badly bruised in a muscle.

The Bomb Riders regained Sunday after their setback Hamilton that allowed the back Terry Evans to undergo surgery on his knee. Evans early in the game, and the their examination will be required to determine the extent of a knee injury to centre Bill Bullock Jackson. Evans Giardino.

Tykes Start Softball Party on Right Foot

The Belleville tyke all-stars presented Maslco's all-Ontario champions with a 13-11 loss to kick off the Minor Softball Presentation ceremonies Saturday.

The victory gave the Belleville club two victories in a trio of exhibition contests between the two clubs this season.

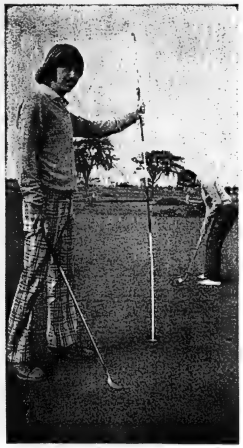
David Gee belted a homer and single for the winners with John Munkittrick, Doug Hailey and Jeff Soule adding two hits each. Brian Williamson homered and singled in a losing cause with George Buxton adding three singles.

Most of the association's 450 players, coaches and officials were on hand for the award presentations which brought an official finish to minor softball activities.

The Kinsmen Hawks under the coaching of Jack Hanna and Joe Sanford copped the tyke east hill division only to drop an inter - family duel to the Kinsmen Bobcats for the city championship. Larry Dalpee and Barrie Harris had guided the Bobcats to the west hill and city titles.

In East Hill squirt play, coach Steve McKay guided Stephen License to top honors, while Ennis Tuck Appliances took west hill honors and went on to provide coach Ken Brooks with the city championship.

Western Tire, under the direction of David Couch walked off with city honors in the peewee division, while Al Eros and Jack Bailey guided Conley's Grocery to the peewee "B" title.



Coach Doug McKay brought Foley Supply and Machine home in front as they won the bantam city championship, while the SACO squirts garnered title honors as the OASA Zone Four champions. The squirt all - stars were coached by Al Trent, Bert Trice and Larry Hedge.

Steven Lowry of the Kinsmen Hawks and Danny Rose of the Kinsmen Bobcats won individual honors in the tyke divisions. In squirt action Doug Sutherland of Stephen License was picked as the East's MVP with Ward Morrison taking West honors. The top player in the peewee section was Robert Chase of Western Tire, while Foley Machine's Bob McKay was bantam MVP.

Gleam in Their Eyes

The presentation stand was glittering with the spoils of the year's play at Saturday's annual Belleville Minor Softball Association presentation day. Here, association president Doug Phillips hands out crests and trophies to captain Peter Bisbee and the tyke city champion Kinsmen Bobcats.

Bill Stewart and Betty Kelsey enjoyed a rare experience Sunday — that of wining the first championships of a golf course. The pair won top honors in the first annual club championships of the new Belleville Golf and Country Club at Marysville.

Stewart Keeps Trophy Close

Bill Stewart won't have far to go to admire the handsome trophy he won Sunday as the first men's champion of the new Belleville Golf and Country Club.

Stewart, 18 - year - old proshop assistant at the Marysville layout, can peek around the corner into the members' lounge and look at it any time he wants after shooting a nifty 74 Sunday to wind up the 36-hole event with a winning 156 total.

Stewart went into Sunday's second round trailing co-leaders Harold Werkhoven and John Trendell by three shots but his four - over - par 74 eclipsed Werkhoven's closing 79 and Trendell's 84.

Stewart's consistent 37 37 74 round, including three birdies in the last five holes, made him the first winner of the three - foot - tall Earl K Johnson Trophy.

Doug Kingsman rebounded from a 92 in last week's first round and shot a 78 Sunday to take low net honors with a handicapped 142, two shots ahead of Werkhoven and Jim White.

Betty Kelsey shaved seven strokes off her opening round 87 to win the first club women's title with a 167 total.

Mrs Kelsey went into Sunday's play holding a one shot advantage over first - year golfer Mary Cousins, but her 40-40 80 effort gave her a final 22 shot advantage.

Mrs. Cousins' closing 101 gave her the low net title by a stroke, 149 to Barb Kings man's 150.

Res Manuel earned special recognition for admitting to a 227, while Marilyn Bennett's two-round 242 gave her the women's "most honest golfer" honors.

Number No Matter

TWEED (Staff)— The 13th inning certainly didn't hold any ill fortune for the Tweed Sawyer Stoll bantams Sunday. Tweed pushed across a single run in the 13th frame to give them a 10 9 win over Cayuga and the Ontario Rural Ionship of their division.

Jim Gaylord scored the winning run as well as took ing after the pitching chores for the winners. The seven had been deadlocked at one game apiece before Sunday's third and deciding contest.

Wimpy Eats Up Course

At least two crews from the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron showed that they were fall weather sailors at the squadron's annual Fall Rendezvous held Sunday.

The Mead Johnson trophy in Predicted Log Event went to the Wimpy skipped by Peter Burnett with Frank Wilson serving as crew. In this event the crew must estimate the time required to navigate a specified course.

The Ronald Keel competition for mixed crews went in the BETR N B4 skippered by Irene Reed with a crew of Bob Frederick, Lenore Yeal land and Lee Jourard.

Registration night for the squadron will take place Monday, Oct. 4th at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club for all those interested in learning safer power boating techniques. Starting time for the meeting will be 8 p.m.

Broncos Boot Way To Loss

The CFB Trenton Broncos fumbled away a 28 1 loss to CFHQ Trojans in a National Defence Football game played at the South Side Field Sunday afternoon.

Trenton trailed 1 0 at half time before the Trojans recovered a Bronco fumble for a touchdown. Quarterback Jim Simpson pulled his team to a 8 1 defeat by booting a single point, but five more touchdowns, three of which led directly to touchdowns cost Trenton any hopes of a win.

The Broncos' record now stands at two wins, two losses and one tie in five games played to date.

West Hill Coaches Show Minors How

Coaches and Umpires from the Belleville Minor Baseball Association showed how the West would win as they took a 10 2 decision from their East Hill counterparts at the Closing Day ceremonies Sunday.

The exhibition game highlighted a program involving close to 300 boys from the city in various baseball championships.

Plane's Concrete won their second straight tadpole championship this season for coach Lorne "Cronkwright while Ed McQuaid's Uniroyal squad took the trophy as tyke champs.

Vaders used their three hits to good advantage to come out with a 2 1 win Saturday, while Desereno bounced back with a 6 4 Sunday victory.

Craig Empey hurled the victory for Vaders with Bill Atkins cracking two hits to lead the offence.

Heffernan made up for a three - hit loss on the Desereno mound Saturday by pitching the victory the following day. Kemp had two doubles for Desereno with Breault blasting one. Dave Andrews rapped two singles for Vaders.

Triumphant Tads

Brian Cronkright and Robby Revoy were swinging from the rafter, or at least the bleachers, as they picked up their crests and plaques as members of the city champion Plane's Concrete tadpoles. The boys were just two of the 300 taking part in the Belleville Minor Baseball Association's closing ceremonies.

Colts, Vikings Supply Opponents with Gifts

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a bad day to stay home and root — particularly if you happened to be a National Football League club in Baltimore or Minnesota.

In nine of Sunday's dozen games the home team proved itself the perfect host by donating a victory to the visitor — and no guest was more gracious in accepting than the boys from Cleveland.

"When the defence gives you the ball in the field all the time, you have to do something with it," Browns quarterback Bill Nelsen observed.

He and running back Leroy Kelly did just enough with it, however, to give the lead and they had to go for the pass, our line could just lay back and blow in the backfield.

Two field goals was all the offence the Colts could generate but it was enough to give their only touchdown with a return of a blocked punt.

Six, taking over for injured quarterback Jack Concannon in the Bears trailing 17-3, engineered a pair of touchdown drives in the second half, the six-point, connecting on a 26-yarder to Dick Gordon midway in the fourth quarter. Then Sayer Gordon with the 19-yard winning touchdown just 1:42 from the end of the game.

The Cowboys intercepted a team record seven Philadelphia Bonatine Quarterback Craig Morton responded with two touchdown passes and one scoring run. The interceptors turned the game around," said the Eagles' Pete Liske, victim of five.

Redskins quarterback Billy Kilmer blasted the Giants' pass defence, hitting on 22 of 32 attempts for 309 yards and two touchdowns to Charley Taylor.

Deserre Takes Stock

CONSECON, Ont. (CP) — Edward Deserre of Utica, N.Y., won the main event Sunday of the Canadian national stock boat races on North Bay in Prince Edward County.

Pact Runs Out

Auto Union Says Advantages Lost

PORT ELGIN, Ont. (CP) — Most advantages of the Canada United States auto trade agreement over imports have been lost, the Canadian United Auto Workers union vice-president said Saturday.

Dennis McDermott, in a report to the Canadian UAW council at its quarterly meeting here, said time gained by the agreement during which the auto industry could have prepared itself for effective competition with imports, now has run out.

The industry now faces imports at pre-agreement levels, 16 per cent of the U.S. market and 25 per cent of the Canadian market, Mr. McDermott said.

He said the industry "has protected its financial interests by buying into the foreign competition and raising prices on its remaining portion of the domestic market to maintain the exceedingly high level of profits it had before the imports reached the present level."

The council, highest policy-recommending body in the Canadian section of the UAW, proposed meeting General Motors of Canada officials in Detroit to discuss scheduled heavy layoffs at GM plants on both sides of the border.

The council also criticized U.S. President Richard Nixon's 10 per cent import surcharge and the 90-day wage-and-price freeze.

The council also urged all Ontario locals to support the New Democratic Party in the Oct. 21 provincial election and called a vote for the NDP "the strongest demonstration" workers can make for their rights.

The council condemned a proposed U.S. underground nuclear test blast at Amchitka Island off Alaska, and urged the Canadian government to oppose the test as "an act of foreign aggression."

Ed Bruce of Ford Local 707, Oakville, was re-elected president of the council, beating Gordon Lambert, Local 199, St. Catharines, 665 to 220.

Charles Brock, Chrysler Local 444, Windsor, defeated Al Campbell, Local 27, London, for vice-president and James Peters, Local 1763, Brampton, was re-elected financial secretary over Jack Kirby, Douglas Local 1967, Mississauga.

Harry Guest, Local 438, Brantford, George Johnson, Local 444, Windsor and Roger Poudrette, Local 1163, Ste. Therese, Que., were elected to the resolutions committee

Parliament to Hear Proposals To Aid Surtax-Hurt Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — Measures to help Canadian firms that may be crippled by increased United States taxes on imports were to be put before the Commons this afternoon following committee approval last week.

Bryce Mackasey, parliamentary secretary to Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Pepin hopes one motion to have Labor-initiated incentives receive final Commons approval today.

Mr. Mackasey, member of Pepin's staff, the Senate could be recalled before its scheduled Oct. 7 re-opening to deal with the bills.

The proposed legislation would provide up to $30 million for industries affected by the U.S. 10 per cent surtax on most foreign imports.

Other measures that could be placed before the Commons were aimed at easing the tax burden on industry and individuals.

Mr. Pepin also announced the government would set up a trading

Japan's Emperor Hirohito First Ever to Leave Country

TOKYO (Reuter) — Emperor Hirohito, who broke Japanese tradition today by becoming the first reigning Japanese emperor ever to leave the country, is head of the oldest ruling dynasty in the world and was once regarded as divine by his people.

The 70-year-old emperor renounced his divinity in 1946 in a country-wide broadcast—only the second time the Japanese public had heard his voice.

The first time was in 1945, when he told the nation that the Second World War was over and Japan had lost.

He slipped easily into his new role, ruling over a country which grew in the next 25 years to become one of the most affluent in the world.

But memories of soldiers who suffered at the hands of the Japanese if the war died hard. Former British prisoners protested in April of this year against his visit to Britain as part of his current European tour.

Like Hitler, the emperor was reviled during the war. But his closest friends said he was a man of peace who was forced to accept the decision of the Japanese military government.

Born on April 29, 1901, the first of four sons of Emperor Yoshihito and Empress Teimei, the infant prince was taken away from his parents at the age of three months under an old court custom and spent the next four years at the home of a royal relative.

He was officially named heir-apparent in September, 1912, two years after his father acceded to the throne of Emperor Meiji.

On Jan. 26, 1924, he wed Princesa Nagako Kuni after an engagement of six years. He acceded to the throne upon the death of his father Dec. 25, 1926.

Empress Nagako gave birth to four daughters in the succeeding years. Her husband rejected suggestions that he take a concubine to produce a son. In Japan, only a male child can succeed to the throne. Later, the empress became the mother of two boys and another daughter. Two of the daughters died, one in infancy.

An indication of the emperor's character was given at the end of the war, when he visited Gen. Douglas Macarthur, commander of the Allied occupation forces, in Tokyo. He told the general that he and he alone should bear the responsibility for Japan's role in the war.

Hirohito is extremely short-sighted and walks carefully, looking down at times for any possible obstacle in his way.

Cousteau Special On Sea Otters Sunday Highlight

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the season when the television audience is supposed to be sampling the new shows and establishing new viewing habits. The networks are thus reluctant to pre-empt regularly scheduled shows for special programs for the next month or so—a critical period when the annual ratings race is at top speed.

The weekend, however, brought a couple of treats.

CBS invaded the Sunday afternoon preflick which is almost completely reserved for sports events and old movies with a Young People's Concert consisting of Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra, played by the New York Philharmonic. The orchestra was conducted by violinist Yehudi Menuhin, who described the work and reminisced about the composer. He lacks the wit and drama of Leonard Bernstein as commentator but he kept his remarks short, with the result there was more time than usual for the music.

ABC presented the first Jacques Cousteau special of the season Sunday night. It was a handsome and unusual study of the sea otter, seen mostly as it frolicked and hunted food on the ocean floor.

Cousteau and company filmed northern sea otters in the arctic waters—on land and in the frigid water. They moved south to the California coast and filmed them amid undersea forests of kelp, made friends by feeding some of the bolder ones and were even able to show their courting and mating rituals.

Cousteau's gentle philosophizing about the importance of preserving the "chain of nature" was extremely effective. He used as illustration the vital relationship among kelp, the otter and sea urchins, the latter's favorite food, to illustrate the need of maintaining a delicate balance. Scientists and concerned civilians talked of the enemies of the otters and the need of protecting them. Commercial fishermen, who maintain the mammals are destroying the abalone, also had their say. One felt certain that Cousteau was on the side of the otters in the controversy.

Multiple Weddings Join Hundreds

TOKYO (Reuter) — A huge wedding ceremony here Saturday joined 137 couples in what organizers said was the first such event in the world without religious or political overtones.

The Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Shimbun, which sponsored the ceremony, said many parents were opened to the service but that cost played a big factor.

Each couple paid $75 or about a fifth of the cost of the average traditional Japanese-style wedding.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The children, 4,450 of them, ran, laughed, cried and stared in awe in a Mexico City ballring as their parents got married.

The collective marriage Friday of 1,304 couples, largest ever performed in Mexico, was attended by Mexico's first lady, Mrs. Maria Esther Zuno de Echeverria, who symbolically served as maid of honor and godmother to all involved.

"I'm sure it's going to make us happier," beamed Viviano Servin Contreras, who at 64 was as thrilled as any young bridegroom but not nearly so nervous.

Most most, it was a chance to register their children and to avoid problems when they register for school—and also avoid any stigma they might have in adult life by not having the last names—that of their mother and fathir.

Socreds Support Death Penalty

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Social Credit Association approved a resolution Saturday calling for the death penalty for capital crimes and for second offenders in trafficking of hard narcotics.

Delegates also called for compulsory courses in Ontario schools that would stress Canadian history, heritage and culture.

Paul Fromm of Toronto, a co-founder of the right-wing Edmund Burke Society, was elected president of the association. Mr. Fromm is a diploma evaluator for the Ontario board of education.

Big Name Stars Out At Royal York Hotel

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal York Hotel's traditional big-name entertainment appears to be bowing to the tastes of the times—chorus girls and topless dancers.

Starting Nov. 1, the hitherto staid and decorous Imperial Room will have a show staged by Tibor Rudas, featuring an English comedian, a juggler and an adagio team in addition to the girls.

"This does not mean we're abandoning the value policy altogether," says hotel publicist Grace Carter, "But we're giving this a try."

With the change, bandleader Merle Whitney, who built the star policy, is resigning after 22 years although he will retain a small connection with the hotel as booking agent.

But with still some time left, Guy Lombardo opens in the Imperial Room tonight, followed by Al Martino and Anne Murray, Tony Bennett, perhaps the biggest star ever booked by the hotel, will appear for 10 days in December.

Symbolic Meeting

Nixon Flies 5,000 Miles for Visit with Emperor Hirohito

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuter) — President Nixon and Japanese Emperor Hirohito held an historic and highly symbolic 100-minute meeting Sunday night during which both pledged their friendship, pressed a desire for the relations between their two countries to become "more and more friendly."

Nixon, who flew 5,000 miles to meet the emperor on the latter's home territory, commented that "from friendly nations, economic competition can be healthy and can be beneficial to both countries."

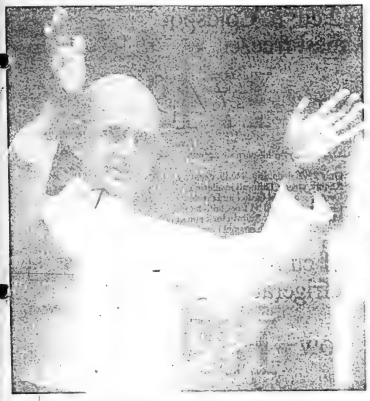
Nixon said Hirohito's visit to the United States and Japan's participation in the Asian Development Bank underlined Japan's growing importance in world affairs.

With the temperature hovering only slightly above freezing at the dark airbase, the president and the emperor took part in a 20-minute arrival ceremony including a 21 gun salute.

Hirohito said he and his people are constantly aware that the United States has given Japan unstinted help materially and morally, in its recovery since the Second World War.

"I take this opportunity to express my most sincere gratitude for it," Hirohito said. "I have no doubt whatever that the friendly relations between our two countries, cultivated during the past quarter of a century, are increasingly strengthened by close contact and cooperation between our governments and peoples."

After the colorful arrival ceremony, Nixon and Hirohito drove about a mile-long to a military guard to a house on the air base where they talked through an interpreter for 25 minutes.



The Nixons drove the royal people back to their aircraft and bade them farewell for their flight to Copenhagen, Den-

Chamber To Plan Policy Positions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce will make recommendations on matters ranging from political processes to foreign investment when it holds its annual meeting in Ottawa next week.

The policy sessions will be held behind closed doors and will be open only to delegates and a few invited guests.

The chamber, which represents about 100,000 businessmen and business firms across Canada, will discuss a wide range of issues including the Canada Development Corporation, the Canada Labour Code, the Law Reform Commission, the Canada Land Inventory and the Canada Water Act.

School Room Dilemma Stymies County Board

Colin Bisset

Peak to Ebb In Five Years

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings county school administrators took out their crystal balls last night and for 2½ hours tried to peer into the future.

The picture they saw, although somewhat murky and obscure, so concerned the trustees that they decided to defer discussion of future planning for a special meeting.

They learned that although the elementary school population is shrinking, the number of secondary school students remaining accommodation is increasing dramatically and another 1,829 pupils places will be required by 1977.

What do you do with 1,000 secondary school students for fourteen years?" asked director of education Eric Rumseyes.

The administrators are sure school trustees refused to consider until they had studied the proposals further. Construction of two new secondary schools — one at Stirling to be started in 1972 and one in East Belleville to be started in 1973.

Expanding the population envelope and for 18 year central building programs had been a "disturbing and frustrating experience for the old administrators. Mr. Rumseyes told trustees.

"We had to go through a lot of soul searching," he said. "You know better than we how the public will react to the simple and mathematical way of solving it the easiest way of taking it to put every kid in your area on a bus and move them around as pupils age, shift and accommodate any vacancies available.

There were emphatic cries of no from trustees.

It is inevitable that you build central facilities," the director said.

The capital building program recommended for 1972 "has to stand", he said.

It calls for:

Construction of a completely new secondary school at Stirling, at a cost estimated at $4,500,000;

Construction of a new kindergarten to Grade 8 elementary school at Foxboro to replace the present one, at a cost of $600,000;

Additions, renovations and alterations to Tweed Hungerford — Senior Elementary School (formerly the high school) at a cost of $440,000;

— Additions and alterations to Moira Secondary School at a cost of $180,000;

— Additions and alterations to Queen Elizabeth Senior School in Trenton to cost $320,000;

— Additions and alterations to Queen Alexandra School in Belleville to cost $500,000;

Alterations and additions in Maynooth Public School to cost $120,000;

Alterations to Bridgenal Public School for the trainable retarded to cost $150,000.

MORE

Further measures to accommodate the increasing number of secondary school pupils include the proposed new east Belleville secondary school to be under construction by 1973, the superficial of Quinte Secondary School, also in 1973; the complete renovation of BCI in 1974 and additions to Centennial Trenton and North Hastings secondary school's between 1975 and 1980.

A proposal to add a third storey on Moira to handle the increased enrolment in the east Belleville area had to be abandoned, trustees learned, when it was discovered recently that the building is resting on quicksand.

The construction proposals revealed in the trustees last night are based on an exhaustive set of population statistics compiled by associate superintendent T. E. Morris.

Rate of growth in Hastings county is about two per cent a year, he said. If there is no influx of people due to industrial development, the number of elementary school pupils will decrease from the actual 1970 enrolment of 15,581 to 13,875 by 1975 and to 11,667 by 1980.

Accurate 1971 enrolment figures are not yet available for secondary schools as students leaving summer jobs continued to register at their schools.

But in 1970 there were 7,417 students in county high

QPP Return To Job

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — The members of the Quebec Provincial Policemen's Association voted early today to return to work and accept Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer as mediator in their pay dispute with the Quebec government.

The men voted 791 to 345 in a secret ballot after a two-hour meeting with the QPPA executive who recommended that they end their walkout, which began at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Gilles Dube, an executive with the association, said the negotiations with the provincial government could resume as early as this afternoon with Mr. Cournoyer serving as intermediator.

Mr. Cournoyer was appointed as special mediator in the dispute by Premier Robert Bourassa late Monday night. He offered to resume negotiations in the dispute that is centred on compensation for Canadian time worked by the 4,000 man force during the then-threatened FLQ crisis that began last October.

The offer was made conditional on the decision by the executive to request their membership to return to their posts.

Just after the proposal was made, the QPPA announced 26 members did not want to return to work, but still wanted Mr. Cournoyer to act as mediator.

This sparked in four long distance between Mr. Cournoyer and the QPPA executive and third the executive met privately before returning to the main auditorium in the cultural centre here to address the members of the association.

The walkout was the first in the province with such minimal police protection. It began as a 24-hour walkout but was extended for an indefinite period Monday night.

15-year Exile At End

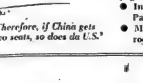
For five and a half years the Roman Catholic primate of Hungary has been living in the U.S. embassy building in Budapest. He fled there in 1956 after five days' freedom during the Hungarian uprising. The Communists in Hungary had sentenced him to life imprisonment in 1949 on charges of treason because of his opposition to their takeover.

He was to be received in a papal audience.

The cardinal, a stalwart anti-Communist, played a leading role in the struggle between the Catholic Church and the Communist government of Hungary.



There was no immediate information about the cardinal's statutes on his leaving the legation, but the Vatican spokesman had something to do with the opening Thursday of the third World Synod of Bishops.

Lady Fleming Jailed 16 Months

ATHENS (AP) — Lady Amalia Fleming was convicted today and sentenced to 16 months in prison Wednesday to avoid the prospect of a 1930s mother who died of starvation during the Greek resistance.

Four other defendants, including two Americans, received prison terms ranging from seven to 14 months.

Four of the defendants were charged with conspiracy together to form a gang and assault a prisoner's cousin. The fifth defendant was sentenced for not disclosing a prisoner's escape plans to his military superior.

Prosecutor Nicholas Petsopoulos stantinou, in demanding an 18 month jail term for Lady Fleming, spoke of the Socialist discoverer of penicillin, described her and Andreutsopoulos as "Jew grabbers" on the main Nazis' allies in the plot.

Both Lady Fleming and Andreutsopoulos pleaded guilty to charges Monday when the trial opened.

Mme. accustomed of having plotted against Mussolini, Panagoulis, a Sparta-old Greek soldier convicted of attempting to assassinate Premier George Papadopoulos in August, 1968. Panagoulis was sentenced to death but his execution was postponed after protests from Pope Paul and other world leaders.

Lady Fleming said she had done what she did because Panagoulis had been tortured in prison.

Giving testimony Monday she also stated because of ill health Lady Fleming said:

"I believe that Panagoulis is being tortured in an inhuman manner.

"He stayed handcuffed for months and stayed repeated hunger strikes," she said. "I wished very much to do something to liberate him."

Unemployment Talks Dec. 6

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 11 heads of governments will meet here Dec. 6-8 to discuss unemployment and other economic and fiscal matters, Prime Minister Trudeau said Monday.

The federal reporters hastened to arrange an earlier meeting but some premiers did not agree to several October dates he suggested, and New Democrat Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba was unable to attend November meetings.

The date of the meetings — hoped to exercise federal-provincial correspondence over the last several months — was revealed after Mr. Trudeau took an oral swipe in the Commons at Mr. Schreyer, saying he made outrageous statements in a letter to the prime minister.

Mr. Schreyer and New Democrat Leader David Lewis were trying to score political advantage from the unemployment issue.

Mr. Lewis replied that "no one in this House is more adept at political hypocrisy" than Mr. Trudeau.

Mr. Lewis asked in the Commons whether Mr. Trudeau received a telegram from the Manitoba premier asking for an earlier federal-provincial conference. The prime minister said he received a letter, dated Sept. 17, but he wasn't aware of a telegram.

He said statements in the letter, which he did not identify, indicated "a lack of confidence" in Mr. Schreyer's approach to the problem.

The prime minister said he regretted going into all these details on the consultations because these "have always been carried on in good faith in an honest attempt to meet the convenience of all concerned."

Picnic Suits Are Out

Men's Wear Fashions Swing to Hearty Look

NEW YORK (AP) — Some men's fashions this year look as though they belong on a weight lifter or a hearty back slapping man who just dashed in from a romp in the country.

Nobody's feeling around with his fur pick serge suits or frilly day shirts or flowing neck scarves anymore.

Whether it's the new "elegance" in the return of the grey flannel suit or the "rugging in the city" look of new jeans-cut trousers and suede patch jackets, the pitch is to the rugged action man. Manstyles smack of the cowboy and the hunter.

This theme turned up Monday in the first real "wear" collection from New York customs tailor Dimitri of Italy. He showed a selection of neatly tailored levi and-safari suits for men and women, in fabrics from white linen to grey flannel.

Some of his bold plaid city suits were called "Friday suits." A man can take off his shirt add a turtleneck sweater and leave for the country straight from his office on Fridays.

His pleated trousers as well as his jeans-cut slacks fit snugly. His jackets still hug the waist. Some are tucked and belted in back.

The sporting look turned up at the Alexanders department store fall men's show, with fall styles adopted from European designs. The big bold blanket plaid jackets and shearling coats bulging on a man fresh from a football game.

The grey flannel suit—three piece, two-button—got top billing, but there were plenty of quilted "leisure" suits and jackets with suede shoulder patches.

Classrooms Said To Be Substandard

Despite extensive upgrading efforts in the past few years, a considerable number of Hastings county pupils go to school in substandard buildings.

The county has 65 substandard classrooms now in use, associate superintendent Frank Tate told trustees last night. "Substandard', by department of education definition, means basement rooms or portables.

"We have 2,124 kids in substandard accommodation now." Mr. Tate said in outlining the capital works program facing the board in the future.

By mid-September of this year, total enrolment in all county schools stood at 24,223, but more are expected to drift in before the official count is taken on Sept. 30.

He recommended that no new elementary school be built until there are at least 210 more pupils in a community than the existing schools can hold. Until the 240 figure is reached, the overflow enrolment will be accommodated in portables attached to the existing school.

The recommendation was dictated by population shifts. Although the number of elementary school pupils is decreasing, some regions, like centre Hastings, are experiencing rapid population growth.

As classrooms empty in one region, they fill beyond capacity in another, compounding the confusion of planning school construction for the years to come.

School Room Crisis

schools. Another 1,366 will be knocking at the doors by 1975 and the peak increase of 1,781 will be reached by 1978. This will be followed by an "accelerating decrease" in secondary school enrolment.

The figures put trustees in a quandary as they pondered the necessity of providing new secondary school buildings for the peak enrolment period of the mid-1970s, build ings that would soon be nearly empty as enrolment falls off after 1980.

"There are alternatives," Mr. Runacres told them.

He gave the trustees a list of questions to consider before the special meeting on capital programs.

"Are we prepared to bus the children?" he asked.

"Are we prepared to move groups from one school to another as populations shift throughout the county? Are we prepared to move students and into accommodation altered with young children as elementary classrooms become vacant?"

The director suggested other choices — work study programs that would see high school students out of the school buildings for varying periods of time as they learn on the job in local industries and businesses, an independent study program for superior students that would see this group ending in at school only occasionally for assignments as they continue their education at home on their own, and a 12 month school year broken into three or more semesters so that the entire student body is not at school at the same time.

There is a new philosophy in school construction," associate superintendent Frank Tate told trustees.

"Relocatable facilities like that at Loyalist can be constructed of steel or pre-cast concrete, so up in one half the time required to build a regular school, cost one half the regular amount and last for 30 years."

This type of school can be taken apart and reassembled at another location if population shifts dictate that it could be built in 1½ years instead of the three years now required to build a conventional secondary school.

Trustees left the board meeting with a thick book entitled Planning Report, Capital Projects 1970 to to read and consider before the special meeting on planning is called.

The director of education also suggested looking into the possibility of putting up school buildings that could be sold eventually for conversion to factories or apartment buildings.

Sports Director Recalls Highlights of Career

PICTON (Staff — Jack Devine, sports director for radio station CJBQ for the past 23 years last night told Picton Kinsmans the highlights of his career "didn't enough have some relation, with Prince Edward County."

The former Intelligencer reporter who joined the radio station in 1946, observed the radio business since was "a lot more fun, perhaps because we were younger."

He recalled a visit from Dickenson to Picton when beginning was one summer and ended with a 5,000 person affair to several keen competitors.

The contest originated with a Deseronto girl whose father turned the 50 sports drive to 10 publicity now on.

Mr. Devine succeeded in arousing interest among a small group of local communities and provided the CJBQ with an interesting day for their stirred enthusiasm in the town.

Accompanied his Intelligencer reporter Harry Mal Bill Mr. Devine set out to swim an open 11-foot cedar strip boat carrying his lunch and a rainwear.

When the rains came down, the sports director was for ced 40 spread his raincoat over radio equipment borrow ed from Kingston. As for lunch, he recalled that report er Mulhall apparently grew hungry early in the voyage and ate it.

Wet and hungry, Mr. Devine remained enthusiastic to the end and provided progress reports by telephone from rest farms along the route between Deseronto and Picton.

"It was probably the largest crowd I ever saw in the harbor of the Yacht Club," said Mr. Devine describing the welcoming committee as interested in sheer the exhausted swimmers.

He moved to this county in 1945 emigrated "The first I heard on radio several years ago.

A swimmer age reached Mr. Devine following the Deseronto-Picton race and called it "a stuff" then answered on planned to swim from Belleville to Picton His starting time would be 2 p.m.

Mr. Devine remembered that at 1 a.m. the next day he was dressing around Cobourg when reporting to a glimpse of his athlete.

Later he learned the man had spent the night sleeping soundly with no intention of interrupting his slumbers with a swim.

A title recorded in 1953 was replayed for Kwantamics re-creation of the Battle of Britain in picture is the Allan Cup Championship way to the Belleville McFarlands.

Mr. Devine's plans for years of fresh goals was interrupted for moment when he became speechless with excitement as the emcee read aloud scores from the Mc Farlands.

Excerpts from the World Cup championships in 1963 also were replayed.

Mr. Devine described these episodes as a few of the many memorable moments he has experienced in his years in the broadcasting field.

Mr. Devine was born and educated in Toronto and excelled in swimming, a sport he still enjoys.

In Bill he joined the RCAF and then enlisted in the army as a private. He was discharged at Wainman Park and remained in the Reserves until 1946 when he became a reporter for The Intelligencer, joining radio station CJBQ, one of the first to employ a sports director.

Anti-dumping Duties Brighten Shoe Picture

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Of the two footwear producing companies in the Quinte area, one is definitely feeling the effects of the 10 per cent surtax on imported goods imposed by U.S. President Richard Nixon.

Kenneth McCoughen, secretary - treasurer of Laurine Footwear in Sterling, this morning said his company has experienced a loss of 40 per cent in sales directly attributable to the Nixon move.

Commenting on a statement made in Montreal by Ross Hahn, president of the Shoe Manufacturers Association of Canada, at the annual Canadian Shoe and Leather Fair, Mr. McCoughen said that his company has not "really felt any effect on application of the dumping duty".

Mr. Hahn said the anti-dumping duties levied against imported women's footwear imposed Aug. 25, had given Canadian manufacturers a psychological boost, although European and Asian imports still seriously affect the domestic industry.

The decision last month placed import duties on Spanish and Italian women's footwear, of 12 and 7.5 per cent respectively.

"We have been encouraged by the ruling," said Mr. Hahn, during a Montreal interview Monday, "but since it applies only to women's shoes from Spain and Italy, the actual effect won't be to turn the industry around."

Mr. McCoughen said his company's loss of business has resulted in the discontinuation of a line of shoes known as the "California process." This move caused the retreat of between 12 and 18 worker em ployees. The Sterling plant had ten in factory staff of 285 in July, plus between 10 and 20 home workers.

The secretary treasurer said the company is hoping to pick up business on another product line.

Although the smaller Sterling firm reports no direct effects caused by the anti-dumping duties, the larger area firms under the Bata Shoe banner have experienced serious problems from foreign imports in the increase in imported shoes.

However, these problems do not revolve around a direct monetary loss.

Bata has been stabilized because of an increase from 50 to 52 per cent in imports from the companies mentioned in the 45 per cent. Although gradual, the increase has been steady over the past half-dozen years, said John Lawrence, chief administrative officer for Bata Shoes.

Mr. Lawrence said the company does not manufacture the expensive, $30 to $40 line of women's wear imported to compete for the Canadian dollar, he said Bata has been frustrated in the development to manufacture this type of shoe.

The increase in imports has "curtailed us from moving into the market," he said in a telephone interview this morning.

Because Bata's three plants: one in Batawa, a second in Campbellford, and a third in Picton, produce inexpensive rubber and canvas footwear, products from Asian countries such as Taiwan, have "just about put us out of business" in this line, he stated.

"We may well be the only Canadian company left producing canvas footwear."

Asked why this particular line had not been discontinued, in light of his statement that materials were increasingly more costly, Mr. Lawrence said, "people still want to buy Canadian."

The Bata executive spokesman also indicated sales of snowmobile boots were off, partly due to imports.

However, other lines at the three Bata plants, are selling well, and the future for Bata seems bright.

"It's fair to say that if current trends continue, we will be opening our satellite stitching room within a number of months of here." This new workroom, had it been established in time for the unexpected inundation of orders, could have produced from 50,000 to 100,000 pairs of shoes during the present output, Mr. Loucks said.

Canadian manufacturers are fighting what their national association president, Mr. Hahn, describes as "low wage countries where wages are going 20 cents an hour to our $2.50".

Although Bata employs a healthy total of 1,000, and Eldon provides a payroll for slightly less than 135, none of the shoe - manufacturing plants joined a bidder's picture and have been forced to lay off their production people a nd shut down operations from the last 18 months, according to Mr. Hahn.

And if the anti-dumping duties have the psychologically beneficial effect on the manufacturers Association of Canada president predicts the future may be promising.

At least Eldine and Bata spokesmen say they have not been taking a beating. At the Montreal trade fair, 20 Bata designers, product i on and marketing people combined plus outfit from the Eldon company, attended the fair to see what and display new products.

Individuals Greatest Pollution Source-MPP

Decades of irresponsibility and exploitation by man has pushed the world almost to the point when it cannot return to a balanced ecology (PCB metcorologists were told Monday night.

"Since the advent of the industrial age, we have spoiled most natural resources and polluted our environment all in the name of progress," said Dr. B. T. Bower in an address to the meteorologists and research council of CFB, Trenton.

The Conservative candidate for Quinte riding and minister without portfolio in the present Ontario government, said there is a few encouraging signs beginning to be seen" in the fight against pollution, industries, notably Canada and Dunlar in this district, have co-operated fully in reduce their pollution of air and water, Dr. Potter said.

"But the individual is somethings else again," he warned.

"Perhaps the worst offender, and certainly the one who seems most reluctant to co operate, is the average citizen," he asserted. There seems to be a feeling that the small amount we added to the total pollution is of no account . . . but if we stop to consider our number it is not hard to envisage the mountains we can contribute as a species."

"Until people in general begin to appreciate the seriousness of our situation, we stand in grave danger of rendering this planet unhabitable."

Shifting to politics, Dr. Potter listed his record as a legislator as a member of the provincial parliament.

He reminded his listeners that he had untied the inclusion of nursing homes and extended care facilities under the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, and this will be done by April_1, 1972.

"There are, of course, still many improvements to be made, such as inclusion of drugs and dental care in the health program," he added.

"Convalescent facilities are also being increased, and at this very moment a pilot project in extended care facilities is under wry in Belleville. To improve communication integration of provincial land use studies, expansion of the anti-pollution agencies, establishment of a youth secretariat and more meaningful and relevant programs for elitera of retirement age.

WHAT IMPROVEMENTS BOOST THE SELLING PRICE ?

The ones that add to the warmth and charm and character of your home.

A little value? It is different to put it more explicitly. A home must be in a buyer's price range and located in a buyer's needs. Assuming this is so, these are the qualities that impress buyers most.

What makes intangible atmosphere important is that house buyers are at the same time HOME buyers and they cannot help but picture themselves living in prospective homes they inspect with the thought of buying:

If a house reflects "charm and warmth and character" in abundance, the image is pleasant and inviting and the impulse to take "mental possession" instant.

Don't spare the horses on paint and well-selected wallpaper, landscaping within reason, flower boxes, inexpensive partitions and good quality fixtures.

Do be cautious on major expenditures that are not absolutely necessary and may add little to the selling price.

An experienced Realtor can inspect your home as a stranger would and spot needed improvements while he may save you from overspending where the return would not justify the expense.

Picton Riders Coached By Kingston Horseman

PICTON (Staff) — Life always has represented a series of hurdles for Kingston horseman Col. H. A. (Arthur) McKibbon.

An expert rider and a skilled showman, he was a member of the horse cavalry before World War II—and now rides regularly with the Frontenac Hunt.

Col. McKibbon became interested in the hunter horse because he considers it "an excellent general purpose horse which can be used for dressage, cross-country events, hunter trials and hunting".

This veteran horseman now stables 30 horses at his home at RR1, Kingston, most of them boarders. He and his wife, Brenda, also a skilled rider own and hunter-jumper type animals, among them Strathcona.

Col. McKibbon admits this handsome 13-year-old gray hunter remains his favorite and rates he has owned the horse since it was a three-year old.

He has enjoyed hunting for many years and for five years was joint huntsman with the Ottawa Valley Hunt Club.

Col. McKibbon is now joint master of fox hounds with the Frontenac Hunt.

The dogs used are purebred English foxhounds raised at the kennels of Britton Smith, MPH, Kingston.

Members of the Frontenac Hunt ride twice weekly to the hounds but have been scattered for three reasons.

Col. McGibbon explains no live foxes are used by the hunters because there has been an anti-blood sport reaction to hounding some wily creatures.

Also, there is now a scarcity of foxes through past epidemics of rabies.

Finally, riders usually prefer to hunt over a "plotted course where they can follow jumps which have been set up earlier.

When a live-fox is used in the hunt, he-seldom considers the comfort of his pursuers and frequently dodges through marshy areas forcing riders to stoically tally ho over rough terrain.

What do hunters pursue during a fooless hunt? An artificial scent is laid using a dried bird, according to Col. McKibbon, the hounds enter the hunt with just as much enthusiasm as they might show if Reynard was actually there.

A horseman eager to pass his skills on to interested students, Col. McGibbon is an excellent instructor for riders concerned with mastering a correct hunt seat and taking their jumps in good form.

He was hired this fall by members of the newly formed Prince Edward Hack and Hunt Club to give weekly lessons in Picton.

This club, Prince Edward's first to promote good English riding, is open to all horse enthusiasts interested in learning basic equitation and developing a proper jumping style.

Col. McKibbon's job with the Hack and Hunt Club could be termed "assignment getting since he is confronted weekly with approximately 16 newcomers.

The club's male membership has regained low, indicating women generally tend to show greater interest in horses and horsemanship.

Riders fall into several different age and ability groups.

A number of horse owners have joined the club to improve their basic equitation which involves learning a proper hunt seat. Many point ers on better control of the horse also are offered by Col. McKibbon, who teaches the rider how to use the aids to best advantage at all times.

Several club members are concerned primarily with jumping and already have begun to take a few jumps during the weekly teaching sessions.

Prince Edward County council has approved use of the fairgrounds in Picton as a schooling centre for members of the Hack and Hunt Club. Jumps owned by the Prince Edward Agricultural Society also have been made available.

Riders are permitted to take instruction in a level grass-sown field at the rear of the County Centre. Monthly meetings of the club are held, if possible, at the County Centre.

The newly formed riding club has a membership of approximately 40 persons, although not all are actively involved in the weekly instruction periods.

All members who do ride share the cost of Col. McKibbon's fee, enjoying an economical way to receive expert instruction.

Col. McKibbon projects the theory "seeing is believing" by bringing his wife Brenda to Picton where she rides before students to demonstrate correct horsemanship. The couple is expected to remain in Picton as boarders members of the Hack and Hunt Club to teach in Picton again this weekend.

Hack and Hunt Instructor

Col. H. A. McKibbon of Kingston has been putting Prince Edward county horsemen and their mounts through their paces in once-a-week training sessions for the Prince Edward Hack and Hunt Club at Picton Fairgrounds. Chatting with him is Diane Grimmon, Milford, president of the club, astride her horse Victor.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institution has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching, and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that the improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Environmental

Now that the Ontario government reportedly is planning to acquire for public use the Sandbanks property owned by the Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd., the opportunity exists to open up again the old access route to the banks proper — to the dunes which jut out into Lake Ontario and form one of the natural wonders of this region and indeed, of the entire continent. Free really get to see the banks because of current restrictions on public access.

But trekking across the dunes is no easy matter, even when the visitor does set foot there, say after walking across from the public park area. It is physically tiring and only for the fit. For this reason, as well as the need to keep children from getting too close to the banks where they drop sharply away to the water's edge — and deep water at that — close supervision by park attendants would be necessary.

Maybe we could even look forward to guided tours by dune buggies, making possible more extensive, not to mention comfortable, inspection of this unique area of undulating, sandy terrain.

Meanwhile another environmental development that will be followed with interest is the proposed 20-mile man-made lake in North Hastings. Planned originally 30 years ago by Ontario Hydro as a reservoir there is a move now, involving the York River Development Committee, township authorities and Hastings county council, to interest the rural development body, ARDA, in taking on the project. This would involve a dam across the York River in Carlow township to create the lake which, with shoreline improvements, would encompass some 25,000 acres in four townships. Envisaged along the west side of the lake are miles of sandy beaches. Overall development would also provide many jobs.

But all this is for the future. There is no word as yet of either government approval or sanction of concrete steps to get such a project off the ground so to speak. It is a fascinating concept though and one which we should hear more of.

Irish Woes

It is difficult to foresee any concrete success for the tripartite talks in London between Prime Minister Heath and his counterparts in Northern Ireland, Brian Faulkner, and the Irish republic, Jack Lynch.

The divisions in Ireland are so fundamentally deep, the psychology of that segment of the population given to violence so intractable, so close to insanity, as to be beyond the powers of any three men, however well-meaning, to channel into more reasonable paths.

Time, hopefully, may be on the side of law and order, when the whole sorry business burns itself out — but for how long? It is a far cry from the days, not so long ago, when Terence O'Neill in the north got together with Dublin's Sean Lemass; but that was pre-1969 and the beginning of the civil rights demonstrations and the virtual end of a more hopeful relationship between the two Irelands.

An Old Story

So the Russians are up to their old tricks. It would have been too much to expect that they would ever desist, but this time they have been really caught flat-footed with the revelations of a defector about espionage in British Westminster had known all along of course that the big Soviet mission in London was not just engaged in diplomatic, pleasantries and had made a couple of formal complaints about its spy activities. The Soviets did not even bother to reply. Now the truth is known about no fewer than 105 members of the Soviet mission in London and they are being expelled. If Moscow retaliates in kind Britain may find itself without any representation at all in the Soviet capital.

River Blight

The Moira River as viewed from the Dundas Street bridge presents a rather sorry spectacle. A dirty film of accumulated debris lies stagnating on the surface. Sundry pieces of junk and litter abound; one might have thought the rain of the past few days would have cleaned it up somewhat, but all it did was spread the mess around. What to do about it is something else. Any takers for a clean-up?

Prime Minister's Dilemma
Creditistes Could Sweep Quebec in Next Election

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — There is an aged senior civil servant here, a truly Old House of Commons Hand, who insists that the only factor that will hold back Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau from going over the brink of an election — if it indeed does — is fear.

Fear of Social Credit Leader Real Caouette.

The very real and present danger that Real Caouette, becoming the focal point for all the anti-government forces in Quebec, would sweep at least 50 of the province's 75 federal seats.

This would destroy Pierre Trudeau's power base.

For in the last election in 1968 the Liberals took more than one third — 53 to be precise — of their total 152 seats in Quebec.

Except for Ontario where they won 63 and British Columbia where they got 15, the Liberals were nowhere in the other provinces, saving perhaps New Brunswick where they managed a five against five sawoff against the Conservatives.

And this time around there is no guarantee — in fact, some Liberals concede the going for them is tacky and getting slatier by the week — that Ontario will would give them the same strong backing as three years ago.

For after all, Ontario more than ever is supposed to be under grabs with the New Democrats fixing to do some of the grabbing, at least in the big cities where the Liberals have been strong.

But the way this Old Parliamentary Hand — whose on-the-scene perspective goes back to the days of former Conservative Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, 13 elections ago — sees it, if the Prime Minister's fear of encroaching bitter unemployment in a sluggish tax-hamstrung economy is greater than his mounting apprehension of Real Caouette, then he will go for broke.

This senior civil servant, known to every parliamentarian, backbencher and cabinet minister alike, even has the date circled on his office calendar: Monday, November 22.

But why should Real Caouette be such a threat?

Well, he has been around a long time and knows the business of politics. He entered Parliament as long ago as 1946, remained a brief three years, but kept politically hyperactive in Quebec and returned to Ottawa in 1957 to remain since and wield, often, some rather extraordinary power.

Caouette power peaked in 1962 with 26 seats, 26 of them from Quebec. It faded — but not away — in the 63 election to 24, with 20 of them from Quebec. In the '65 vote to 14, and in the '68 election, 14, all of them in French Quebec.

What has made him recently such a power in the Quebec federal scene that he is credited threaten Trudeau's bastion, or even appear to undermine the strength of the Prime Minister in the very province where he must remain strong or perish?

French Canadian parliamentarians — Liberal and Social Creditiste alike — agree it is discontent.

He and his capidates will get the completely undivided anti-Liberal vote.

And that includes not only the hard-core - - - with continuing depth and strength would get 13 MPs to this Parliament — Social Creditiste support.

But it takes in the nationalists, the separatists, the remnants of the shattered provincial Union Nationale people, the militant labor vote that in other provinces ordinarily would go New Democratic, and unless Robert Stanfield can pull an organization together in time, the Quebec Conservatives.

Enough, insists this aged in the knowing, veteran of 13 elections, to take at least 50 seats.

Caouette can then be calculated to become the federal king-maker if the arithmetic works out.

To whom would he give — or barter, bargaining for a piece of the decision-making action, his support?

Shrewd enough to tip the balance Liberal or Conservative?

It cannot be done?

A minority with the power balance cannot call the shot?

It has been done before.

The "Progressives" — they became Liberals later — did it for Mackenzie King through much of the 1920s, frustrating the Conservatives except for a brief little spell of powerless Arthur Meighen and the Tories for three months in 1926.

Caouette can do it too, and nobody knows it like Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Old Movies Enjoy Fresh Popularity

Hamilton Spectator

In the last few months old movies from the 1930s have been reappearing in the theatres and from all accounts most of them are finding good audiences. That older people should want to see Clark Gable, Jean Arthur, Greta Garbo, Fredric March and the other stars long faded from the limelight in Hollywood Heavens is understandable because they evoke memories, but there are many younger patrons, which is not so easily explained.

Since about 1960 hundreds of universities throughout the world have introduced courses on film. Film is now an Arts subject in most colleges in Canada. In addition, thousands of film societies have come into being in North America, showing talkies and movies made by the "modern" directors such as Buñuel, Fellini, Jean-Luc Godard, Visconti and others.

Thousands of young people are interested in film-making and assessments of movies that would astonish an older generation by their perception and understanding.

"I expect to see Citizen Kane (Orson Welles' 1941 masterpiece) every five years for as long as I live," said a student, overheard in a restaurant, talking about film.

The remark is interesting for it illustrates the keen appreciation of movie values that so many young people have today.

Government: A Need for Wider Representation of Our Society

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

As the provincial election campaign gathers momentum, voters are once more offered a paucity of choice from the usual slate of doctors, lawyers and wealthy businessmen.

The painters, plumbers, labourers, clerks etc. who make up the majority of our society are noticeable at each election by their almost complete absence from the list of candidates. It is fair to say that political office, in the main, is the preserve of the wealthy, or those able to command support from party funds.

Capitalism, or the free enterprise system with its doctrine of competition has been the staple diet of the western world for so long that we have come to accept as normal the regular cycles of inflation, recession and unemployment to be counterbalanced against periods of less inflation, less recession and less unemployment.

If one dares to suggest that the system has become obsolete and no longer, in a democratic society, serves the needs of the majority he is likely to find himself labelled as a communist, socialist, radicalist or some of the more pungent names reserved for those who rock the Establishment boat.

No one can honestly suggest that the doctors, lawyers and businessmen who are repeatedly elected to office lack intuitive education or motivation and yet, year after year the economy is plagued by the ever recurring problems of inflation, recession and unemployment. If all the above cannot be levelled at those elected to office then perhaps we should examine the system.

The first thing that comes to mind is overhauling the electoral system so as to enable a true representation of all the people. Far too many decisions are taken that affect the lives of millions without any consultation or debate, by those most affected.

As most of our elected representatives come from the professional or business world it follows that their decision-making processes are more likely to be biased by their professional backgrounds. Most people do not belong to either class, therefore their ideas and thoughts are seldom advanced, debated or listened to. How many of the ordinary people would have consented to the Bonaventure fiasco, or the costly regional government schemes of the provincial government?

Charles A. Reich points out in his book The Greening of America, how "we live with a sense of universal powerlessness in a society that no one created and no one wants". He asks, most pertinently, "Why, in the face of every warning have we been unable to act?". Is something wrong with the machinery of society? It apparently no longer works, or we no longer know how to make it work", it would appear to be so.

Regardless of the party or politicians elected to office, unless the present system is ruthlessly overhauled so that it allows for a true democracy, true representation of all the people in the decision-making process we must resign ourselves to watching our society rapidly disintegrate into a state of anarchy.

Sandbanks Decision

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

I read with amusement, the headline in The Intelligencer on Friday, September 24, regarding the Sandbanks.

Perhaps it has been fun following the controversy in the Globe and Mail will note that, in spite of a promise from Prince Edward County, Mr. Taylor has remained silent until now.

His attitude is a far cry from that of retiring member of the Legislature, Dr. Donald Mackay. One cannot help wondering if there would have been this vote face if an election had not been looming on the horizon.

Far from receiving kudos for this new policy, the Government of Ontario should receive severe censure for failing to preserve the natural resources of the province.

Premier and His Opposition

From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau
By DON O'BEARN

TORONTO — The sins of the fathers shall not be visited on the heads of the fathers are put out to pasture.

The wisdom of the Conservatives in changing leaders and then calling a fairly quick election is beginning to show through.

And I'm not thinking in the sense of the new image angle, but that of another advantage which tactically makes the government as hard to attack as a jellyfish.

He is preaching belt tightening, stressing the urgency of coping with unemployment and inflation and capitalizing the opposition for allegedly proposing new programs involving large expenditures.

The last point is an odd government ploy that is so hoary it's hairy.

There has not been an election within memory that this cry of doom has not come from front and centre of Tory platforms.

(Not to knock it down. Anything that advocates restraint in spending these days is not to be derided.)

But with the other two just think what the difference of a year has made.

If John Robarts was still premier there is no way he could possibly could take to a platform and preach unemployment and inflation.

For he had this problem to meet for years, or at least it was there in most, and except for trade development and industrial loan programs, programs which were started years before by Bob Macaulay, the last really bright man the government has seen, he did practically nothing about it.

But that was the "Robarts government."

Now we have the "Davis government," a "new" administration of hope and dreams.

And though it may have a touch of Rip Van Winkle preaching against the dangers of sleep, it can say: "Voters we must beware. We have a dire threat."

In politics attack that is effective tends to be against people, not parties or governments.

The only effective target is gone. John Robarts is surrounded by his new officers and board rooms. And Davis is protected.

The opposition knows it can accuse him of being a member of the government which neg-

But it also knows this would not get it far with the public for it really does not identify the Davis government with the Robarts government.

And with the Davis government, of course it has not been in office long enough to be effectively criticized.

This is a protection which will extend into other issue areas in the campaign and which will be a great help to the premier.

Oil 'Cartel' Criticized

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An attack on multi-national oil companies by Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, was the highlight of the Ontario election campaign Monday.

Meantime, Premier William Davis concentrated on the problem of unemployment, saying that tax credits and loans to private industry are the tools needed to provide jobs.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon became a purely local politician for the day and attended a series of all-candidates meetings in his home riding of Brant.

The NDP's Lewis told a Toronto news conference that an NDP government would establish a bill of rights for gasoline dealers to eliminate the "master-servant relationship" between dealers and the big oil companies.

The dealers would have the right of autonomy in the selection of the gasoline they buy, the accessories they sell and the promotions they offer, he said.

Dealers also would be protected from any arbitrary termination of leasing fees.

Mr. Lewis, who named his barbs at the "gasoline cartel" of Gulf, BP, Imperial Oil, Shell, Sun Oil and Texaco, said their "feudal rule" resulted in dealer bankruptcies, job disruption and high gasoline prices. He promised a price review board for the industry.

Premier Davis, speaking to a meeting of the Ontario General Contractors' Association at London, Ont., said the solution to unemployment is to work with the private sector which "will pay back what it gets."

Mr. Davis suggested more public funds for the Ontario Development Corp. which guides loans to industry, and tax credits to corporations for machinery and equipment purchases — a program which already is in effect.

Both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Lewis have called for a better funding program under the ODC, and both opposition party leaders have expressed opposition to tax credits, although for different reasons. Mr. Nixon says tax credits don't work fast enough. Mr. Lewis says that credits are a give-away to major companies which have enough money of their own.

Liberal Leader Nixon made no new statements of note during his meetings in Waterford, Paris and Buford with residents who also heard from the Progressive Conservative and NDP candidates in Brant.

Mr. Nixon defended his support of the principle of extended grants to separate schools beyond the public boards, and his plan for partial extension of Toronto district hydro to Brantford.

Mr. Nixon also met with local businessmen from Brantford, Simcoe and Brantford to discuss industrial problems.

In Buford he said that Ontario is the largest coal consumer in Canada, and that the province could institute a program of conversion to coal-burning generating stations. Hundreds of jobs would be created in Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, Thunder Bay, Nanticoke, Sudbury and Thunder Bay, Mr. Lewis said. Ontario General Boilers is located in Buford and Collingwood.

THE BETTER HALF

"I beg to differ with you — what that hearth does NOT need is a spittoon."

Parliament to Pass Surtax Bill Today

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons is expected to give third and final reading today to a government bill designed to soften the impact on Canadian industry of the 10-per-cent surcharge imposed by the United States.

A number of amendments to the bill, proposed at its report stage, were voted down Monday. The government announced that the first order of business today would be third reading of the bill.

The bill would establish an $80 million fund for the fiscal year ending March 31. Although a reaction specifically to the U.S. surcharge announced Aug. 15, the bill says the fund is to lessen the disruptive effect of such measures imposed by any foreign country.

Prime Minister Trudeau has said the U.S. action on imports could result in the loss of thousands of Canadian jobs. The creation of the fund is one step to try to save as many of these jobs as possible through financial aid to hard-hit industries.

Both J. Patrick Nowlan (PC — Annapolis Valley) and John Burton (NDP—Regina East) made unsuccessful attempts to have farmers and fishermen made eligible to draw money from the fund.

But Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled their proposed amendments out of order on procedural grounds. He indicated, however, that such amendments might be in order during the third reading stage.

Farmers and fishermen might get some relief from other government action. Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson already has told the Commons he will take steps to help farmers affected by the surcharge, including support price legislation already in effect.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, piloting the bill through the Commons, said Monday that world trade in farm and fishermen indirectly could benefit from it would help to keep processors of such products in business.

Defeated by a vote were two amendments by Nelson Lambert (PC - Edmonton West) that would have required the government to get approval of Parliament before negotiations proceed to cancel agreements or commitments under the act.

Otherwise, argued Mr. Lambert, Parliament would be giving the government a blank cheque to do as it wishes, he said.

"We have confidence that all wealth in Canada is not in the hands of the government," he said. "It is in the hands of many people."

Successful Living

One Won't Go Steady; Other Thinks He Owns Her

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: This boy says he won't go steady until he is out of school (two years). He doesn't want to get serious as he thinks he is still too young, although he is nearly 21.

I have another guy I've been going out with who likes me so well he wants to marry me. He gets mad when I go out with someone else. He thinks he owns me.

Doris, do you think I should wait for this other guy to get through school? I do like him but I'm wondering whether he will have found somebody else after two years. He says he enjoys my company. Should I keep — Waiting For Him?

Dear Waiting: What does your heart say? You don't marry a guy just because he asks you to, especially when there is someone else around you like better. I'd wait a while.

Many a man knows his mind about love well ahead of 21 yet your young man may be showing wisdom and discipline right now.

Bide your time, and keep on seeing others. One of these days, your feelings and his will become clearer.

• • •

Dear Doris: Do you have a diet especially for teens? My daughter is 14, strong and healthy, stands five-foot-two and weighs 145 pounds. She is sincere about losing weight but doesn't have much will power. I am away all day so I cannot govern what she eats.

I am 43, weigh 140 pounds. I would like to drop 10 pounds but also need energy to stand at my job all day. — Mother and Daughter.

Dear Girls: So what you both need is food energy sufficient for the day's needs but not enough to keep laying on the fat.

Your girl is 30 pounds overweight at least and you want to lose 10.

I am sending you a leaflet, Is Your Child A Fatty? written for me by a Canadian expert in nutrition — and in psychology too. She tells how to take the edge off appetite, gives ways of eating so that food is more satisfying. Explains that sometimes we eat to make up for a disappointment or to be polite. And supplies some first-rate reasons for banishing those extra pounds.

I'm sending it to you along with my Simple Reducing Diet. Each is 20 cents.

• • •

To Party Planners: Make your October 30 party a masquerade. I'm sending you two leaflets: Throwing a Hallowe'en Frolic, and Hallowe'en — A Night That's Meant For Fun. They supply ideas for rhyming invitations, games and food. (Available to other readers for 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

• • •

Dear Doris: I wrote to you about the phobia I had, about being housebound. Well, after your letter I have been trying to go out. I have been taking my little son for a walk. I will let you know if I ever get over it. — In a Web

Dear In a Web: You get it for effort. If you try, you'll make it. Having a friendly little companion should give you a happy incentive for extending yourself.

Make your walks interesting. Have an objective of some new sight to see or person to talk to at the other end — even if it is just a sociable storekeeper at an ice cream counter.

Don't just muddle along. Doris knows human behavior and can help. Write to her and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Ann Landers
A Vital Message From California Man

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a message for that 11-year-old boy whose father drinks. He was ashamed to sign his name. Please help me get to him. Ann.

DEAR BOY: You are 11 and I am 60, but I once stood where you are standing now. I want to reach out to you and say I understand every word you wrote. I know exactly how you feel — the shame, the despair and the bitterness.

Stop being ashamed. Stop hating. Your father is as crippled as if his legs were paralyzed. Your shame and hate will not touch him, but they will sap your strength and rob you of your energy. Instead of harboring negative, destructive thought, replace them with positive, constructive ideas. Every day do one good thing for your mother, out of love — anything at all — even if it is a small gesture or a kind word. And when the going gets rough say to yourself, "God will help me." He will help. You are His son, too. Keep pitching. You can make it. I did. I want you to. So do others. Good luck and God bless. — A FRIEND IN CALIFORNIA.

DEAR FRIEND: I can add nothing to your wonderful letter and I thank you for writing it. You have a vital message for every child who lives with alcoholism.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of five children and have been able to cope with most of the problems that have come my way. But I am running into some brick walls with my second eldest daughter.

Charlotte is 15, a large girl, but well-proportioned and not what you would call fat. In a couple of years she will be all right if she chooses the right clothes. Last year Charlotte started to sew. She is very sloppy about her sewing and we have gotten into several arguments over it. I just don't have the time to rip out everything she does and do it over. The last straw was the two-piece outfit she made from her own pattern — a blouse and cut pants. She looks just awful in it because she made the pot pants very tight and very short. Is there any way you can see to unstitch.

My question is this: Should I keep my mouth shut and allow her to wear the outfit and get laughed? Or should I forbid her wearing it? — WAITING IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

• • •

DEAR WAITING: A girl whose eyesight is good enough to sew should be able to see herself in the mirror. Say nothing. Let her wear whatever she makes. Her friends will tell her what she looks like — and from them she'll believe it. After all, what do you know? You're only her mother.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am interested in Women's Lib because I believe in their goals. Will you please tell me why they get so much rotten publicity? Much of it is unearned maligning based on fiction. For example, I keep hearing them referred to as "those crazy bra-burners." I have asked many well-informed women in the movement about this and no one knows of a single bra that has been burned. A committee of Women's Libbers threatened to burn a bra in 1968 at the Miss America contest but they couldn't get a fire permit so they abandoned the idea.

We would appreciate it very much if you would print this on your widely syndicated column and put to rest this ridiculous bit of repeated canard. Thank you. — NASSAU COUNTY.

• • •

DEAR NC: Here's your letter — and a pox on those mean-mouthed, loose-lipped canard perpetuating cads. I don't know where the bra-burning propaganda originated but I've been a lot of dames who may have burned their bras because they sure as heck weren't wearing them.

Kitchen Tested Recipes
Lesson in Technique Given by Economics Teacher

By MARY MOORE

Iris remembers that her mother used to serve this red tomato and pepper relish as a sort of vegetable and shade it by the dozens of pints for winter.

I was in Iris' kitchen when she made 8½ pints of the lovely red stuff. To watch a Home Economics teacher go through this canning operation is a lesson in technique. Never did one of her implements touch an unsterilized surface. It was a beautiful sight to behold.

GILLESPIE RED TOMATO AND PEPPER RELISH
(8½ pints)

10½ cups scalded, peeled, and coarsely chopped ripe tomatoes
4 cups chopped onions
2 sweet red peppers chopped
6¼ cups finely chopped celery (1 large head)
3 cups white cider vinegar
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. cassia buds tied in bag with string (or 1 stick cinnamon)
½ cup granulated sugar

Scald the tomatoes 1 min. in boiling water, drain and peel and chop and measure into preserving kettle. Chopping the [illegible] took Iris 1 hr. so sit down on a high stool to do this job with a sharp chef's knife. Add to tomatoes in kettle. Add all remaining ingredients and bring to boil stirring often. If cassia buds are in little cloth bag they should be attached to long string looped over side of kettle. If cinnamon stick is used it is easily found and removed. Boil steadily for 1 hr. or until a little thinner than relish consistency. (This thickens a little more when cold.)

Have ready eight Imperial pint jars sterilized with lids and rings. Lift to plate with sterilized tongs. Pour relish into jars to within ½" of tops. Cover at once and seal. If you have a little left over, cool it and serve with current meal with cold meat. I hope our readers will try your own gardens will see and try this for it is ideal for home gardeners. Even if you have to buy all of the ingredients from the market it makes a mighty economical all-purpose relish.

You and The Law

Dower Rights Reciprocal

"Dower rights" have two aspects—those rights that exist between husband and wife during their lifetimes and those rights that exist between the surviving spouse and the estate of the deceased spouse.

Although some people may not realize it, a husband has the same dower rights in respect of his wife and her estate as she has in respect of him and his estate.

During the lifetime of a husband and wife, the question of dower rights will arise chiefly in respect of their home property, whether it be a farm or an urban home. Neither spouse may sell or mortgage the home property, which is legally referred to as the "homestead," without the consent of the other.

However, dower rights do not arise in respect of property that is not the home — such as a second house owned for investment purposes. The owner of such a house can do as he or she pleases with it without the consent of the spouse.

On the death of a spouse, the surviving husband or wife is entitled by law to a share of the deceased's estate. The minimum share is genrally one-third plus a life interest in the homestead.

These dower rights operate regardless of what a person provides by will. Therefore if a spouse is left less in a will than he or she is entitled to, by virtue of dower rights, the spouse may elect to take the dower share rather than following the terms of the will.

Dower rights can be lost or waived under certain circumstances. For instance, a man whose wife has deserted him without reason, or vice versa, may apply to the courts for an order declaring that the spouse has disentitled him or her to dower rights in the others' estate. Or one spouse may voluntarily release all dower rights in the other's estate for reasons of convenience or personal choice.

Dower rights are one of the few exceptions to the basic premise that a person is free to dispose of his estate as he pleases. Allowing a person to disinherit his or her spouse without legal cause is considered contrary to public policy.

Another exception to the basic premise is found in the various provincial statutes relating to maintenance of the family of a deceased person.

These statutes vary in name from province to province, but basic effect of all of them is similar. They provide that a spouse or dependent child of a deceased person may apply for maintenance out of the estate if he or she would otherwise be left in financial dificulty.

Such an application may be made even though the provisions of the will comply with the Dower Act. This type of application may also generally be made in cases where the deceased person did not leave a will.

That's the law!

Committee to Make Choice

Traffic Study Gives Methods of Easing Downtown Congestion

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

City council Monday got its first look at proposals which could mean the alleviation of much of the present traffic congestion at the Upper Bridge and on the Canniffon Road route leading out of the downtown area.

The proposals were contained in a north-south corridor study done by consulting engineers Totten, Sims and Hubicki Associates which give three different methods to improve conditions at each of the two problem areas.

After brief discussion, council referred the report to the city traffic committee for recommendation on which of the proposals the city should proceed. The committee will consider the proposals at its meeting next Monday.

No cost estimates for the various alternatives proposed were contained in yesterday's report but rough figures will be available for next week's traffic committee meeting.

Main feature of proposals for the Upper Bridge area calls for the construction of either one or two bridges at the north end of Church and Pinnacle Streets.

Northbound traffic over the new bridge or bridges would move up Cameron Street and merge with North Front Street traffic at about Strachan Street.

Through southbound traffic on North Front Street would travel by way of Coleman Street or Pinnacle Street, the former to be widened to four lanes.

A grade separation at the CN double tracks on Canniffon Road is proposed against with three choices being given. Two would be for either an overpass or underpass at the present level crossing.

Another plan would call for reconstruction of the Station Street — Canniffon Road intersection with widening of Emily Street to Bleecker to provide a through artery to the southeast section of the city.

A second plan would have the same grade separation at the CN tracks but would have road extension south to Charles Street.

However, in view of the escapement which cuts across the city at this point, it was not known whether the roadway extension to Charles Street would be economically feasible.

The third choice would see the relocation of Canniffon Road slightly to the east with an overpass over the railway tracks.

The engineers said it was still to be determined whether a tunnel under the tracks at the present crossing on Canniffon Road is feasible.

However, there have been suggestions that drainage problems could be expected in a subway due to the closeness of the Moira River.

Also, it has been suggested that the proximity of the railway bridge over the Moira River would pose problems for diversion of rail traffic during the subway construction.

Only the various choices for relief of traffic at the two problem areas were contained in the engineers' initial report.

To come later would be detailed examination of the various methods with recommendations, and functional planning for the methods chosen.

Cost of the initial study done by the consulting firm is $3,600, of which the province will pay $4,500. The engineers were unable to say what planning costs would be for the second and third parts of the study.

At least two councillors, Aldermen Ben Corke and Robin Jeffrey expressed concern that the $5,000 covered only the first part of the study.

Alderman Jack Ireland, however, said there had been no misunderstanding. He understood the $5,000 was for the first part of the report only.

Alderman Donald Souster expressed concern over possible property acquisition costs for the proposed new bridge or bridges over the Moira River at the north end of Pinnacle and Church Streets.

He said the route passed directly through a new apartment building on the north side of the river.

He asked if the engineers had considered the possibility of one bridge at the north end of Pinnacle Street which might better facilitate movement of traffic downtown.

To this the engineers replied that thinking had been that it would be better to try and divert through traffic away from the downtown area.

UCS Canvassers Train for Drive

In preparation for the month-long United Appeal Campaign, canvassers have been and are being held to better acquaint the canvassers with the reason for the campaign, the services supplied through funds collected and how to most efficiently collect these funds.

Throughout the month of October, canvassers working on the principal of Give Where You Work will be operating in some 130 businesses and industries in the city, spreading the word and gathering funds for the campaign.

"This year, there will be no door - to - door canvassing," said Isidore Cooperman, Director of the United Community Services.

"It is through the funds gathered by the United Appeal, that 11 agencies, operating in the city and regionally, can continue to function and grow," said Mr. Cooperman.

Included in the list are the YMCA, the Belleville Minor Sports Association, Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children and the Victorian Order of Nursing.

"People ask why they should contribute to the appeal when they are not residents of the city," said Mr. Cooperman. "The reason is simple. The groups benefiting from the campaign are not confined to the city, but are regional."

"Children from all over the area surrounding Belleville participate in the minor sports activities, in fact almost all the agencies are applicable in outlying areas," said another spokesman for the canvassing team.

In each of the participating companies, there will be one or two representatives who will be responsible for 100 per cent staff involvement.

"Last year the United Appeal asked that contributors give at least 10 per cent more," said Mr. Cooperman. "We still need more, but more important we would like everyone to contribute what they can. We want complete participation from the members of the community."

Contributions can also be made in a variety of ways, including payroll deduction plans operated throughout the year, pledge cards where it is advised that those earning up to $7,500 a year contribute one hour's pay a month, or payment can be made by cheque or money order.

"If it is more convenient, payment can be made directly to a participating bank or trust company," said Mr. Cooperman.

Contributions can also be dropped directly at the United Community Services office at 224 John St., Belleville.

Canvassers Learn

Classes are, and have been, in session for the past week, training company representatives the techniques of running an in-plant United Appeal campaign. October is United Appeal month and so far as many as 150 companies have permitted the new appeal system of Give Where You Work.

Theatre Guild Director Seeks More Participants

By SUSAN KORAH
Staff Reporter

Bellevillians who wish to learn about acting and other aspects of theatre but who don't quite know how to set about it now have three choices open to them, neither of them is absolutely free of cost.

Anyone who buys subscription tickets to the four Theatre Guild productions scheduled for this year, not only automatically becomes a Guild member (whether he wishes to be an active member or not is up to him), but he can also get free lessons in acting and other aspects of theatre from the guild's professional director Ted Bairstow, by taking part in the weekly acting workshops.

Mr. Bairstow hopes to make these theatre-workshops a regular feature of the guild's activities. Conducted on Saturday afternoons from 12 to 2:30 to accommodate both students and working people, these workshops are mainly practical lessons in acting techniques imparted through theatre games. Mr. Bairstow hopes that eventually he will be able to develop these games into regular productions to make them more interesting for the participants. These will be staged as workshop productions, apart from the Guild's other productions.

But, he stresses that for these workshops to achieve anything worthwhile, a fairly large crowd must turn up regularly. He pointed out that at present there are a number of students who come to the workshops, partly because the student rate for a subscription ticket is only $3.50 (an adult subscription is $7.50) and partly because of the continued interest of those who took part in Colborne's first summer youth theatre program sponsored by the recreation - drama committee.

However, Mr. Bairstow maintains that more people should seize the opportunity of getting these free lessons. He said that once a month, instead of an acting workshop, he would like to conduct a production workshop so that participants can learn about costume design, makeup, lighting and other aspects of theatre.

Another way to learn about theatre is to join the extension course in drama for which starts at Loyalist College today. Mr. Bairstow will be teaching this course one night a week. He says a large number of people have shown an interest in this course and he hopes that many will register for it.

This term there is also a regular daytime course which Mr. Bairstow teaches at Loyalist. He says that these Loyalist courses will initiate people into acting, increase their appreciation of plays and perhaps get them started on acting careers.

One of Mr. Bairstow's aims is to get his students at Loyalist interested in joining the Theatre Guild, so that they can apply their knowledge to actual production work. At Loyalist there are also too many facilities for production work be pointed out, but the same, combined with practical experience in the guild should give many people a head start.

Mr. Bairstow emphasized that teaching at Loyalist is one way of reaching out to more people and getting them involved in community theatre. He feels that reaching out is an important part of his work because he feels that there are people in Belleville, both newcomers and older residents, who have an interest in theatre but who haven't "discovered" the local theatre guild.

He said that in Harvey, the Guild's forthcoming production, some of the cast members have not had much previous acting experience, but the fact that they came forward to take part is an encouraging sign.

Council's Vote Opens the Way For Convalescent Hospital Talk

City council yesterday approved a bylaw authorizing rezoning of the Belleville Motor Hotel Company property, in the city's east end, to allow operation of a convalescent hospital, but the issue could still conceivably result in an Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

The rezoning request has been before city council for several weeks but was referred to the Belleville Advisory Planning Committee, the traffic committee and parks board for recommendation.

The traffic committee has no objection to the rezoning and yesterday a report from the planning advisory board recommended approval of the requested rezoning with the proviso that uses be restricted to single family residences, motel or hospital use.

City solicitor John Miller said that the restricted use was acceptable to the owners.

But Alderman Paul Russell asked that the recommendation for rezoning be defeated by council.

He said that council giving three readings to the rezoning bylaw would only result in it being turned down by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Such action, he said, would be opposed in good planning as no consideration was being given to the best possible use of the property.

Without a recommendation from planners on the best use of the property, it would be planning for the individual, not for the city.

Also the alderman said the convalescent home would result in competition to existing nursing homes.

Ald. Arthur Keegan said there was no objection from a traffic point of view and urged that everything possible be done to expedite the rezoning.

"There is a possibility that the pilot hospital project might go to another municipality and we don't want that" he said.

But Ald. Ben Corke said passage of the bylaw would be defeating the whole purpose.

He said there was opposition by area residents to the rezoning and the request for rezoning of the entire property would mean that it wouldn't get OMB approval.

Mayor J. R. Scott took the same view.

He said that area residents should be given the opportunity of a hearing before the OMB.

Bylaw was given three readings.

If the objectors were given the opportunity of a hearing by the planning board, before the bylaw was passed, they might get the answers required and an OMB hearing might not be necessary, he said.

But Ald. Donald Souster, urging prompt passage of the rezoning bylaw, said there was no thought of taking away residents' privilege of objection.

He said there would still be no reason that a hearing could not be held by the planning advisory board.

Then, if there was no objection, the bylaw could go directly to the OMB for approval.

The alderman did not agree that the planned convalescent hospital would operate in competition to private nursing homes.

Actually, he said, it was a pilot project that would operate as an extended care unit of the hospital.

The idea would be to get patients out of a high cost hospital where rooms cost $66 a day to a facility cost ing possibly one half as much."

The convalescent hospital would delay any urgency for another addition to the present hospital, he said.

Council voted 6 to 3 to give the rezoning bylaw three readings, with Mayor Scott and Aldermen Corke and Russell casting opposition votes.

Council also voted to provide a two-storey limitation on any future structure that might be built at the motel property and also for the planning board to hold a public hearing on the rezoning.

The date of the public hearing was set for 7:30 p.m., Oct. 6 at city hall.

City Council OKs 74 Row Houses

Belleville city council yesterday gave approval for the construction of 74 family housing units to be erected by Ontario Housing Corporation on two sites, one on West Moira and the other on North Park Street.

Fifty-four of the two-storey units with from two to five bedrooms will be constructed on the south side of Moira at Elgin Street and Tripp Ave., and the other 20 at North Park and Marsh Street.

C.W. Lem, development officer for Ontario Housing Corporation told council that the general - to - income housing would be row-type with a cost slightly in excess of one million dollars.

Four tractors submitted proposals for the housing developments with that of Belleville contractor Maurice H. Rollins being accepted.

The lower storey of the structures will be brick with a mansard roof upper storey. All units will have full basements, gas heating, and 1.25 parking spaces per unit.

Slightly more than half of the total number of units will have three bedrooms; there will be 20 two - bedroom apartments, 10 four - bedroom units and five units with five bedrooms.

A feature of the West Moira Street development will be an enclosed communal playyard in a central area at the rear of the structures.

Mr. Lem said construction start was expected early next spring with occupancy late in the summer of 1972.

Apartment Battle Resumes Wednesday

Starting Wednesday morning, an Ontario Municipal Board hearing into a requested land split for an Albert Street property will be heard at city hall.

The city committee of adjustment a year ago approved two land splits in a B area for the Albert Street estate property to allow construction of an apartment and a single family residence on opposite sides of an existing dwelling building.

However, other area property owners have lodged objections and the OMB hearing was ordered.

Fire Code Adopted

A new fire code giving firemen more authority for property inspections and for control of fireworks displays, has been passed by city council.

City Fire Chief Leo Culhane said that it wasn't that the fire department wanted more laws but that the authority was now here if needed.

"In most instances we receive full co-operation," he said.

The new code gives the fire department control in the use of buildings, on the installation of equipment moved into build ings in connection with their use, and the maintenance of satisfactory conditions for exit, egress, fire fighting and fire prevention.

Rotarians Hear Editor

Davey's Facts Good, Presentation Was Bad

Senator Keith Davey's report on the mass media yesterday was termed "unquestionably the best documented research paper ever presented on the state of newspapers, radio and television in Canada."

"However, Senator Davey flubbed it," Rotarians were told by Donald M. Souster, managing editor of The Intelligencer.

Mr. Souster told the service club members that "the glib, flip, smug approach" of volume one was a "shallow generalization" which raised the hackles of the media in the news paper field and was the primary reason why the report failed to generate extensive enthusiasm among Canadians.

The speaker contended the superficial approach in volume one tended to obscure the genuine research material contained in the second and third volumes of the report.

Volume three, produced by research specialist Martin Goldfarb, reviewed the impact and influence of the mass media in Canada and is entitled Good, Bad or Simply Inevitable?

Mr. Souster pointed out the sampling was five times that taken, for example, by the Gallop poll and all interviews lasted from two to six hours.

The Goldfarb report "bares our Canadian philosophy", said Mr. Souster, as he presented a statistical comparison of the use of the mass media as news purveyors, violence, sex, love and drugs, control and censorship, advertising and the media image.

Mr. Souster said the report shows Canadians believe that television has the greatest influence on their attitudes toward travel, sex, love, marriage, family, political enthusiasm, clothes styles, student movements, personal habits and profanity. Newspapers are regarded as the most influential in that regard towards the law; the courts, security, the economic system, school systems, birth control, divorce and Canadian nationalism.

Mr. Souster said he was surprised that the report showed seven out of 10 Canadians believed outside influences color the reporting of news. He said he was also amazed that not only did 60 per cent of the people say they thought the federal government colored the news presented to them but half of this number thought this situation should continue.

The speaker said he agreed with Senator Davey that no matter how thoughtful an analysis might be undertaken, a definite answer was impossible. He echoed the sentiment also that sometimes "we have the press we need, or the press we deserve?

Bylaw Amendment Attempt Misses

Despite the fact that a notice of motion had been duly placed two weeks ago, a request for a bylaw amendment setting parking requirements and rear and front, yard coverage, failed yester day to get before council.

The motion was presented by Ald. Jean Smith to attempt to set requirements for apartment house construction.

Ald. Smith said the bylaw amendment would generally update existing standards.

The amendment to bylaw 6165 would have set a requirement of 1.25 parking spaces per unit, ruled out parking between the sidewalk and the front of the building and set front and side yard requirements.

Ald. Jack Ireland said he was in complete accord with the amendment but suggested the bylaw should first go to the planning board for comment.

Ald. Smith disagreed, however, claiming it was a city council responsibility, not that of an area planning board.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said the notice of motion two weeks ago should have asked for approval of the proposed amendments, with the bylaw to be brought in at the next meeting.

In another matter concerning planning, council voted against discussing the housing and residential land need report as had been agreed at the council meeting two weeks ago.

The report in question was the residential section of the city's official plan, prepared early in the summer by planning director Bert Kenny.

During the summer council referred the report to the planning board but Ald. Robin Jeffrey said it should be considered by council.

She said she had some ideas to suggest to the planning director in connection with the report, while a brief was also expected from the Quinte Home Builders.

The Quinte Planning Board has decided to retain consultants to prepare an area official plan and it was decided that council should wait until the consultants were available before holding the meeting to discuss the report.

Cleanup Planned

The operation, scheduled for Saturday, October 16 will be to clean up the Moira River from Highway 401 south to the new Dundas Street bridge.

Plans for the river cleanup were announced Monday at city council by Alderman Jean Smith who asked that the mayor issue a proclamation and also for the use of city owned trucks for pickup of debris and other refuse.

Bairstow teaches at Loyalist. He says that these Loyalist courses will initiate people into acting, increase their appreciation of plays and perhaps get them started on acting careers.

One of Mr. Bairstow's aims is to get his students at Loyalist interested in joining the Theatre Guild, so that they can apply their knowledge to actual production work. At Loyalist there are also too many facilities for production work be pointed out, but the same, combined with practical experience in the guild should give many people a head start.

Mr. Bairstow emphasized that teaching at Loyalist is one way of reaching out to more people and getting them involved in community theatre. He feels that reaching out is an important part of his work because he feels that there are people in Belleville, both newcomers and older residents, who have an interest in theatre but who haven't "discovered" the local theatre guild.

He said that in Harvey, the Guild's forthcoming production, some of the cast members have not had much previous acting experience, but the fact that they came forward to take part is an encouraging sign.

Argonauts First Eastern Team to Ensure Playoff Position

TORONTO (CP) — A glance at the Eastern Football Conference statistics is all that's needed to see why it was no surprise this weekend when Toronto Argonauts became the first EFC club to ensure a playoff position.

The Argos dumped Calgary Stampeders, Western Football Conference leaders, 18-7 Saturday for their eighth win against two losses this season and 18 points. Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats each have 10 points, five more than Ottawa Rough Riders.

EFC statistics released this week by the Canadian Football League show that the Argos have players either leading or among the leaders in almost all departments of individual efforts.

Argo kicker Ivan MacMillan is four points behind Ottawa kicker-flanker Gerry Organ who leads the EFC scoring department with 58 points. Organ has one touchdown, 21 converts, nine field goals and four singles compared with MacMillan's 21 converts, 10 field goals and three singles.

Toronto halfback Leon McQuay and Montreal placekicker Justin Canale follow MacMillan, each with 48 points.

McQuay leads the conference in rushing, averaging 7.4 yards on 127 carries and tallying just 40 yards short of becoming the CFL's first 1,000-yard gainer this season.

Montreal halfback Bill Massey, with 530 yards on 83 carries for a 6.4 yard average follows McQuay.

Argo offensive end Mel Profit tops the pass receiving department, gaining 637 yards on 33 receptions for an average of 19.3 yards. Terry Evanshen, Montreal's offensive end, is close on Profit's heels, averaging 18.5 yards on 32 receptions and 592 yards gained.

Alouette quarterback Sonny Wade heads EFC passers, completing 106 of 220 attempts for 1,330 yards and an average of .481.

Toronto's Joe Theismann follows with an average of .530. Theismann, who until Saturday shared Toronto's quarterback-ing duties with Greg Barton, has completed 80 of 165 attempts for 1,310 yards.

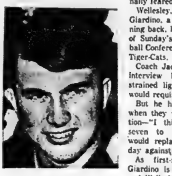
In punting, Toronto's Zenon Andruszyshyn ranks third, averaging 43.5 yards on 84 kicks for 3,657 yards. Hamilton's Joe Zuger heads that department, booting the ball 89 times for 4,200 yards and a 48.1 yard average. Ottawa's Marcel de-Leeuw follows Zuger, averaging 42.7 yards on 109 kicks and 4,774 yards.



The scoring leaders:

	TD	C	FG	S	P
Organ, O	1	21	9	4	58
MacMillan, T	0	21	10	3	54
McQuay, T	8	0	0	0	48

Oldham, O	5	0	0	0	30
Van Ness, M	4	0	0	0	24

(Six players tied at 18 points.)

No Surgery For Wellesley

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders received at least an element of good news Monday when told Wayne Giardino and Terry Wellesley would not require knee surgery as originally feared.

TERRY WELLESLEY

Wellesley, a halfback, and Giardino, a linebacker and running back, both were forced out of Sunday's 19-7 Eastern Football Conference loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Coach Jack Gotta said in an interview both had suffered strained ligaments and neither would require surgery.

But he had no certain idea when they would return to action—"I think something like even to 10 days"—or who would replace them here Sunday against Toronto Argonauts.

As first-string Canadian—Giardino is from Peterborough and Wellesley from Belleville—both are hard to replace.

Als' Desjardins On Disabled List

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference placed Canadian offensive guard Pierre Desjardins on the 30-day injury list Monday.

Desjardins suffered a knee injury that required an early season operation, and while dressed for the Als last two games, he had been used sparingly because of a recurring fluid problem...in the injured knee.

At the same time the club announced that Canadian halfback Bob Storey, on the injured list with an ankle problem all season, has been given his release.

A club spokesman said the removal of Desjardins from the active roster will allow the return of flanker Garry Lefebvre to the lineup in time for Saturday night's visit to Vancouver and a game against the Western Football Conference B.C. Lions. Lefebvre has been out for a month with a neck injury.

The Als' next game is Wednesday night in Edmonton against the WFC Eskimos.

HAMILTON (CP) — Bob Hudspeth, recently waived by Toronto Argonauts, was signed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats Monday, the Eastern Football Conference club that claimed him last week.

The offensive tackle, recently released by Houston Oilers of the National Football League, is expected to play when the Tiger-Cats visit Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders next week.

Walk Costly

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A walkoff by womens tennis stars Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals in Los Angeles last weekend ended with both women being fined $1,000 apiece, Gladys Heldman, founder of the women's professional tennis tour said Monday night.

She said both Mrs. King and Miss Casals had agreed to the fines.

The two walked off the court in Sunday's final match of the Southwest open tennis championships in Los Angeles when tournament officials refused to dismiss a lineman whose call drew objections from both women.

Tournament director Jack Kramer withheld prize money. Winner of the match would have received $4,000 and the runner-up, $2,500.

Russian's Record Includes 519-pound Jerk

LIMA, Peru (Reuter) — The Soviet Union dominated the 25th world weightlifting championships which ended Monday, capturing six of the nine gold medals.

Vasily Alexeyev climaxed the Soviet performance by improving two of his own world records when he won the super heavyweight gold medal in the closing round of the nine-day championships.

Earlier, Alexeyev twice broke his former 496-pound press record following a serious challenge by Belgian Serge Reding who also topped the former record. Alexeyev first beat the world record at 501½ pounds but was beaten by Reding with a 502½ pound lift.

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe and Harold Ballard, executives of Maple Leaf Gardens Ltd., were committed for trial Monday on theft and fraud charges.

Both elected trial without jury before a county court judge.

Trial date was set for Oct. 25. Smythe, 51, president of the Gardens, is charged with defrauding the company of $249,000 and stealing $146,000 in money and securities from the Gardens.

Ballard, 61, vice-president, is charged with defrauding the company of $83,000 and stealing $146,000 in money and securities.

John J. Robinette, counsel for the two, said they waived evidence at a preliminary hearing before provincial Judge Charles Opper because it would have been "a duplication" of evidence at a previous hearing on tax evasion charges against the two men.

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Two top stateside drivers, Mario Andretti and Mark Donohue, withdrew from the United States Grand Prix Monday because of a conflict in race schedules next weekend.

The two said they were officially named to compete in the Marlboro 300 for Indianapolis type cars at Trenton, N.J. That race, scheduled for last Sunday, was postponed for a week because of rain-placing it in direct conflict with the $265,000 Grand Prix here.

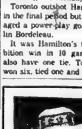
WASHINGTON (AP) — The justice department filed suit Monday against Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League for allegedly violating President Nixon's wage-price freeze by raising the price of football tickets.



A suit filed in United States District Court in Atlanta said regular-game admission prices were raised by $1.50 after the freeze took effect Aug. 15.

HAMILTON (CP) — Goalkeeper Mike Veisor made 49 saves Monday to lead Hamilton Red Wings to a 4-1 win over Toronto Marlboros in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A exhibition game Monday.

Toronto outshot Hamilton 21-8 in the final period but only managed a power-play goal by Paulin Bordeleau.

It was Hamilton's third exhibition win in 10 games. They also have one tie. Toronto has won six, tied one and lost two.

Rousseau Line Clicks As Rangers Blank Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers had Andy Brown wishing he was back with Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League Monday night.

Brown, up from the AHL to share Detroit's goaltending duties during the National Hockey League exhibition tour, allowed four goals as the Rangers blanked the Red Wings 4-0 in New York.

A new Ranger line of Bobby Rousseau, Jack Egers and rookie Pierre Jarry accounted for New York's first two goals. Rousseau, recently acquired from Minnesota in a trade for Bob Nevin, and Jarry, the leading scorer in the Central Hockey League last season with Omaha Knights, both scored on breakaways.

At Cleveland, the Penguins got third-period, power-play

BOBBY ROUSSEAU

The Barons took a 2-0 lead on Terry Holbrook's first-period tally and a second-period goal by Gordon Labossiere.

Elsewhere in the league, Toronto Maple Leafs traded centre Doug Brindley to Vancouver Canucks to regain Andre Hinse. Hinse was originally Toronto property, assigned to Phoenix Roadrunners of the Western Hockey League.

The Canucks drafted him two years ago, then lent him to Phoenix, where the Leafs will claim him. Vancouver sent Brindley to Tulsa Oilers of the Central Hockey League.

Centre Norm Ullman, defenceman Mike Polyk and goaltender Bernie Parent will not dress for the Leafs, who played to a 2-2 tie with Montreal Saturday.

Leaf coach John McLellan said the three were getting a rest.

Cards' Defence Holds Line

ST. LOUIS (CP-AP) — With the opposition inches away from the goal, the St. Louis defence held and the Cardinals went on to defeat New York Jets 17-10 in the second weekly National Football League Monday night televised game.

Boosted by an early surge, the Cardinals' biggest play came midway in the third quarter while they were protecting a 17-7 edge.

But there he was suspended in mid-air, first by Larry Wilson and later by right linebacker Rocky Rotema as the Cards held on and limited the Jets to a field goal the rest of the way.

"Give it to those guys down in front," said Wilson, whose play helped the Cards recover from the only interception thrown in an otherwise able performance by Pete Beathard.

Afterwards, St. Louis permitted only Bobby Howfield's 23-yard field goal near start of the fourth quarter.

During a hot, feverish night in Busch Stadium, the Cardinals had built a 14-0 lead 4:48 in the second quarter on the hot hand of Beathard.

The 29-year-old quarterback engineered drives of 83 and 83 yards, resulting in touchdowns both culminated by Cid Edwards' 10 one-yard plunges.

Woodall failed to drive the Jets across the goal until rookie Phil Wise's 41-yard kickoff return ignited a 53-yard push.

Woodall then hit the 23d point Riggins and veteran Don Maynard with sidelines passes and sent George Nock three yards to the touchdown.

St. Louis moved back with Jim Bakken's 19 yard field goal 23 seconds before the half and afterward made the key stop of rookie Riggins the big second-half play.

Derbyshire Farm Boy Welcomed Home as Hero

At 31, after nine years of slugging, the awkward-looking southpaw outpointed Joe Bugner over 15 rounds at Wembley Monday night to win the European, British and Commonwealth heavyweight titles.

Bugner, 21, had his dream of world supremacy shattered by an opponent who swung punches at him without pause and almost without subtlety.

"He was very awkward."

Bugner said after being humiliated before a wildly-excited crowd of 10,000.

Bugner's manager, Andy Smith, who had hoped to get his protege matched against Muhammad Ali, admitted: "It is a real setback. Joe just couldn't analyse Bodell's style. He looked like a big novice. I cannot understand what got into his head."

Bugner's reign as British, Commonwealth and European champion had lasted a mere six months. Last March he took the titles from Henry Cooper on points.

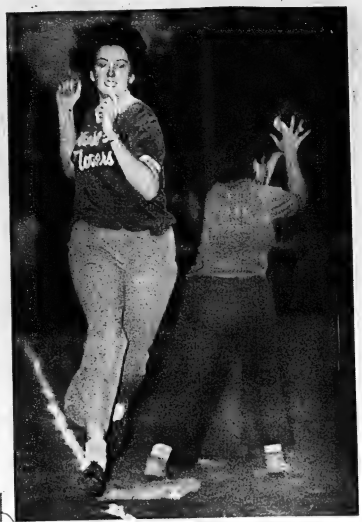
Juniors Open Camp



New Belleville Fairways' coach Murray "Moe" Hunter will get his first chance to survey the material available to him this season when the Junior B team holds its first practice session Thursday night.

The Fairways will work out every evening at the Belleville Memorial Arena until Friday, Oct. 8 when they will travel to Kingston for an exhibition game with the Frontenacs of the Eastern Ontario Junior B loop. Their first home ice appearance will be Sunday, Oct. 10 when they meet the Frontenacs in Belleville for a 7.30 p.m. exhibition contest.

The regular-season opener for last year's fourth-place finishers will take place Friday, Oct. 15 when the league champion Peterborough Lions invade the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Team manager Jim "Sniper" Mathews stresses that all positions on the team are wide open and asks that candidates trying out for the Fairways supply their own equipment.

Practice sessions will commence at 6 p.m. and run for two hours.

An all-out baserunning effort by Bev Clapp of Weese's Flowers went to no avail as Cosy Grill first baseman Marg Reid stretches in time to record the out in last night's Women's Softball League finals bout. Weese's battled back in their final at-bats to gain a 4-4 tie and hold Cosy to a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Weese's Pitcher Helps Avoid Cosy Grill Windup

Donna Brant came up with a two - way effort Monday night to help prevent Cosy Grill from capturing the Women's Softball League championship.

The Weese's Flower hurler added a clutch hitting effort to her seven - hit pitching performance to thwart Cosy's title aspirations. Cosy still holds a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series after the teams battled to a 4-4 tie in last night's contest.

Weese's trailed 4-2 going into the final inning but Lillian Barberstock's triple and doubles by Charlene Quinn and Brant earned them the deadlock.

Quinn paced her teams' batting efforts with two doubles while Brant and Irma Barberstock had a double and single each. Cosy pitcher Sandra Claus rapped three singles to lead the Grill batters while Sharon Francis added a triple and single.

The nine game in the series is scheduled for Wednesday at the Alemite beginning at 6.30 p.m.

Only Four Experienced Players

Bayside Starts on Right Foot

MADOC — Coach Gord Smith isn't predicting a league title, but at the same time he isn't about to play down a 14-6 win by his Bayside Secondary School charges.

"We've got a long way to go, but I think we'll improve with experience," noted Smith after his team's opening Bay of Quinte COSSA junior win over Centre Hastings. "It wasn't that bad, considering only four of our players had ever been in a football game before."

Keith Bogle got Bayside started on the right foot when he sprinted 20 yards off-tackle to score on his team's first play from scrimmage. The 6-0 Bayside lead, held up for the entire first half.

Chargers Christen New OSD Field

Centennial Secondary School's junior soccer team managed to spoil the opening of the new Ontario School for the Deaf athletic field, but Albert College wasn't able to wreck the senior Chargers' unbeaten record.

In the senior battle, Centennial's Tom Barriage counted three goals and Bill Leitch two in a 5-2 win. Albert's Gary Mutawaro scored two breakaway goals.

Bayside Juniors managed to break into the win column with a 2-0 blanking of Trenton, but the seniors were tripped 6-0 by the same school.

Trenton dominated the second period of play but were unable to beat Bayside goalie Fred Gregory.

Minor Hockey Losing Shirt

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association has been losing its shirts since last season, but the situation is one that can be readily remedied.

Minor hockey president Don Gavey reports that "a couple dozen" hockey sweaters have not been returned from last season. Some eight teams are short sweaters, with a number down to as few as 10 at the current time.

Those boys still holding sweaters from last season are asked to drop them into a box, which will be left in the Belleville Arrbories.

Three to Play

Dodgers Need One Giant Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winning the National League West pennant can be as easy as 1-2-3 for Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I'd like to win three in a row and take our chances," says Los Angeles manager Walt Alston.

That's just about what the Dodgers will have to do as they start their season-ending series with Houston Astros tonight.

In Monday night's only National League game, St. Louis Cardinals defeated New York Mets 6-1 in 10 innings. Pinch-hitter Matty Alou snapped a 1-1 tie with a two-run double as the Cardinals scored five runs in the 10th.

No American League games were scheduled.

It's not necessary that the Dodgers win all three. The Giants, who hold a one-game lead, begin a three-game set with the last-place San Diego Padres and a lot depends on what they do. The Giants hold an 11-4 advantage in their season series.

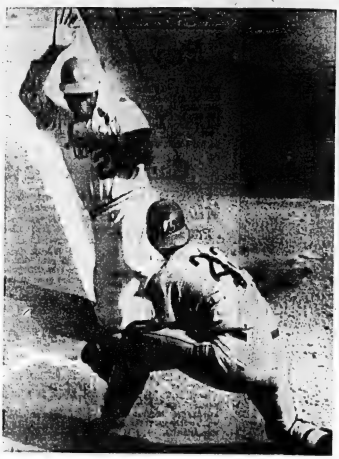
"We are one game behind with three to play so it's quite simple," says Los Angeles first baseman Wes Parker. "The Giants will have to lose at least one game—and beyond that, we're absolutely helpless to do anything."

The Giants find themselves in this do-or-die position because of an inability to win the big ones in September. They lost 15 of 22 games, including eight straight meetings with the Dodgers, and let slip most of an 8½-game lead.

It hasn't been all the Giants' fault, though. In the same span, the hot Dodgers won 15 of 22—including those crucial eight against the Giants and five straight over another West Division toughie, Atlanta Braves.

Singer Takes Stage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lucky rookie pitcher could take the steam out of Los Angeles Dodgers' bid to capture the National League West Division pennant.



Jeames Richard, a 6-foot-5, 22-pounder with a 1-2 record, starts for Houston Astros tonight against the Dodgers' Bill Singer, an off-injured hurler who has lost four of his last six starts.

If Richard wins and San Francisco defeats San Diego Padres the Giants would clinch at least a tie for the title.

Richard, claimed as a free agent after being drafted No. 1 in 1969, made his only winning effort a memorable one, shutting out 13 Giants Sept. 5 to tie a major league record.

Singer, who has beaten San Francisco twice in recent crucial games, has had a broken finger, muscle spasms in his back, the flu and a pulled groin muscle. At 4-11 his earned run average is the worst on the club.

The Dodgers must depend on Singer. Their other starting pitchers all worked—and were—last weekend in Atlanta against the Braves.

Out at Home

St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder Lou Brock is tagged out at home by Montreal Expos' catcher Terry Humphrey in the third inning of game in St. Louis. Expos' third baseman Bob Bailey threw to Humphrey on a fielders' choice hit by Cards' outfielder Luis Melendez.

Giants Play in Cellar

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Fighting desperately to remain on top of the National League West Division, San Francisco Giants begin a three-game series with San Diego Padres tonight which will end their regulation season.

And the Padres, at the bottom of the division, 25 games behind, would like nothing better than to end their 05 38 season by spoiling the Giants' shot at the National League playoffs against Pittsburgh Pirates.

If the two teams end in a tie, a playoff game will be played Friday in San Francisco.

But the Giants hope the three-game series against San Diego will clinch the championship.

"We've been packing champagne along ever since this road trip started," said Horace Stoneham, Giants president.

Even though the series here pits the best team against the worst, the Giants may not have such an easy time of it. They are 3-3 against the Padres in San Diego, and since Aug. 17 they have lost one more game than their opponents 14-23 compared to 14-19 for the Padres.

San Francisco manager Charlie Fox said:

"We're in good shape" and tabbed Gaylord Perry, 15-13, to start against the Padres tonight. Perry, who is 2-2 against San Diego this season, will face the Padres' rookie righthander, Ed Acosta.

Acosta, acquired and called up from the minors last month, is 3-2 in the majors with a 2.61 earned run average over 40 1-3 innings.

Knowing that the Giants cannot take the flag even if they win and the Dodgers lose tonight, San Diego manager Preston Gomez is saving his best hurlers for Wednesday and Thursday.

He plans to send Clay Kirby, 14-13, to the mound Wednesday against San Francisco's John Cumberland, and on Thursday he's counting on Dave Roberts, 14-16.

Roberts, who has a 2.81 era and is stiff and sore back as well, will face Juan Marichal if the championship is still at stake.

Astros Keep Same Hat

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Harry (The Hat) Walker, manager of Houston Astros of the National League, was rehired for the 1972 season Monday by Astros owner Judge Roy Hofheinz.

It was the third straight year there had been speculation about Walker's status. It started in 1969 after the Astros went into a season-ending tailspin and continued last year when he was given a one-year contract.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 628,000 shares, up sharply from 463,000 at the same time Monday.

Decliners held more than a three-to-one margin over advancers, 180 to 56 with 117 issues unchanged.

Benson on Exchange: Reason for Optimism

WASHINGTON (CP) — Finance Minister E. J. Benson goes before the International Monetary Fund today to recite Canada's worries about the world's money problems.

But if his optimistic mood after Monday's opening of the five-day meeting prevails, it is not expected he will be as harsh in his criticism of the United States as some other speakers at this year's conference are expected to be.

Benson told reporters after the opening session that more progress has been made among top economic officials towards resolving the difficulties than appeared at first on the surface.

Experts from 10 countries including Canada, are to meet in Paris next month to draw up a realignment of major currency exchange values, more flexibility in the exchange rate system, and terms that might be acceptable to the U.S. for removal of the 10 per cent extra duty on imports.

The finance ministers of the U.S., Germany, Britain, Japan, Sweden and five members of the European Common Market — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and The Netherlands —probably will meet in mid-November to see what progress comes from the experts' meeting, or press them on towards more concrete conclusions.

Benson said Monday he expects the process will take a few months — but not years. The trading world could not afford to face uncertainty in exchange values for long. He also said earlier he did not believe the current uncertainties will last as long as they did as long as another 13 months, or until after the U.S. elections in November, 1972.

One of the proposals put forward by influential delegates here is that the U.S. should raise the price of gold above its long-established price of $35 an ounce. This would have to be a direct American move towards devaluing the U.S. dollar by raising the exchange rate to the Nixon administration.

Benson told reporters Monday, however, he does no see the price of gold as of major importance to the whole question.

Some IMF authorities have suggested that the U.S. raise the gold price by, say, 10 per cent, to $38.50 an ounce. Benson spoke Monday of a $37.20 price. He said such an increase would make it politically more attractive for other countries to live with higher valuations of their currencies.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, IMF managing director, opened the meeting formally Monday with a call to the major countries to come to a decision quickly on the realignment of their exchange rates and adopt more flexibility for the system at least as a temporary measure.

He also urged immediate talks involving the U.S. on removal on the 10-per-cent supplementary duty on imports.

Jean B. Donnally, U.S. treasury secretary, in welcoming delegates, said that the world monetary crisis now gives the IMF its chance to make a fundamental reform for the first time in its 25-year history.

Schweitzer proposed that after the immediate issues of realignment, more flexibility and the U.S. import duty are dealt with, IMF members should take longer-range action to help the United States correct its big deficit in world commerce.

One of the problems is to determine how much of a foreign payments switch is needed by the U.S. on a long-term basis. The U.S. has said it wants a $13-billion improvement, but Canadian and some other officials doubt whether that great a correction is needed.

Finance Minister Karl Schiller of West Germany told Connally his country "may be compelled to come to a partial reappraisal of the economic and currency policy we have been pursuing."

Schiller said Monday that his government is not thinking of full-scale economic retaliation against the U.S.

"We are not crusaders," he said. "We are not thinking about countermeasures. We are not thinking about a trade war."

But, he added, "I have to ask at some point: What are the alternatives? I hope this time will not come."

While Schiller talked of a partial reappraisal, he pronounced a move that appeared designed to discourage the flow of U.S. dollars into West Germany and keep the value of the mark from rising in relation to the dollar.

He said West Germany will compel German firms that borrow money in the country to deposit part of their borrowing with the West German central bank. And German officials said the easing of domestic credit conditions also will be considered another measure to discourage borrowing outside West Germany.

Panther Leader In China

HONG KONG (Reuter) — American Black Panther leader Huey Newton crossed into China by train after quietly flying from Hong Kong from Vancouver during the night.

He was accompanied on the train journey to Canton in South China by Panther information officer Elaine Brown and a bodyguard, Robert Leonard Bay.

They arrived unannounced on a Canadian Pacific Airlines flight from Vancouver around midnight Monday night. A Hong Kong government spokesman said they crossed the border to China at noon.

Newton, 29, is scheduled to go on trial Oct. 12 on manslaughter charges arising from the killing of an Oakland police officer in 1967. He is free on $20,000 bail. Authorities said his travel is not restricted.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported that Newton, an ex-Marxist, may meet Chinese government leaders in Peking.

Peking in the past has expressed support for the Black Panthers which the official Neo-China news agency described as "an Afro-American organization which advocates armed struggle against violent repression."

Blow to Stomach Caused Girl's Death

TORONTO (CP) — An abdominal injury which led to the death of a 13-year-old Toronto girl May 19 was the worst he had ever seen, a staff surgeon at Hospital for Sick Children told a Supreme Court jury Monday.

Dr. Barry Shandling said the situation was desperate when Tracy Ann Brown was brought to the operating room May 18.

On trial charged with the girl's non-capital murder are Richard Lael Thurston, 22, who lived with the girl's mother, Jane Brown.

Dr. Shandling told the court Tracy Ann was given 14,000 cc of blood: "I've never seen a patient of that age get so much blood."

He said in his opinion the injuries were caused by a blow to the stomach from the heel of a shoe or boot and the girl had died to death inside her abdominal cavity.

Pathologist Margaret Norman testified that Tracy Ann had 12 cuts and different bruises on her body and said death was due to a lacerated liver and loss of blood.

Dr. David Smith said when he saw the girl at the Hospital for Sick Children her body was more or less bruised from head to toe and there was a semi-circular bruise over the upper right abdomen.

"We decided it fitted a heel print," he said.

Dr. Smith said he cared for the girl in an intensive care unit until she died at 8 a.m. May 19.

The trial continues.

Two Arrested

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Canadians have been charged in connection with seizure of 132 pounds of hashish at Ottawa's Uplands Airport, an external affairs department spokesman said Monday.

He said D. E. J. Rousseau, 20, son of Roger Rousseau, Canadian ambassador to the Congo-nun, has been charged by Dutch police with possession of hashish. R. W. Prust, 22, of Hamilton, has been charged with being an accessory to possession of hashish, the spokesman said.

The two were arrested at Schiphol Saturday night after police seized four suitcases containing hashish.

Some Imported TVs Ruled Being Dumped in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — A ruling Monday by a federal tribunal effectively raises the prices of some imported television sets by one-third to one-half. Canada-based makers an easier crack at the market for medium-sized sets.

The federal anti-dumping tribunal ruled that sets with 12-inch screens or bigger from most exporters of Japan and Taiwan had injured Canadian manufacturers.

Sony Corp. and Sharp Corp. of Japan were exempted from the ruling.

In the case of other makers the tribunal concluded that it is countered difficulty establishing the degree of damage on Canadian production and employment.

Nevertheless, the three-man tribunal headed by W. A. Buchanan, former tariff-board chairman, found that the imports were injurious.

The tribunal thereby recommended a June 30 finding by customs officials that sets had been imported at prices below fair-market value in the country of origin and should be subject to a special import levy. Investigations started last November.

The special anti-dumping levy, which ranges up to 33 per cent, was imposed provisionally pending the outcome of the final inquiry into whether the dumping had injured Canadian manufacturing.

With the special import levy confirmed, Canadian importers are also on notice that future imports in the specified category must carry price tags judged by customs authorities to be fair-market values.

The provisional anti-dumping ruling had applied to all sets of screen sizes eight inches or more. The tribunal, however, exempted from its ruling sets between eight and 42 inches—a range Canadian manufacturers are not worried about. Set sizes are the diagonal measurement of the TV screen from corner to corner.

Chamber Urges Support For Natural Resources

QUEBEC (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce adopted policy statements Monday firmly supporting heavy reliance on trade with the United States and urging greater support for natural resource development.

Delegates to the chamber's annual meeting endorsed two resolutions on natural resource development, one of which suggested that capital might be supplied in industries creating more jobs.

However, a general resolution on natural resources said growth in export should be promoted but "the potential effects of such action on other more labor-intensive Canadian industries" should be considered.

The policy session adopted a statement saying top priority should be given to improving access to U.S. markets and if

Playpark Closed

TORONTO (CP) — A $40,000 playground completed last summer was closed Monday and guarded by police after several children suffered broken arms and legs during the first few hours it was used.

Mrs. Frank MacDonald, whose son Bruce, 16, broke an arm in a nine-foot fall Friday, described the playground as a "deathtrap."

At least three more fractures were reported before the police and work crews could be form the playground, which features a cable slide nine feet high and a concrete ramp-bling a ski-lift, as well as a play house, a concrete wall, high timbers and a large sand pit.

Health Member

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada became the 29th member of the International Health Organization Monday, with Health Minister John Munro heading the delegation that was seated following a unanimous vote in Canada's favor at the opening of the 20th annual meeting.

In 1972, Canada's first full year of active membership, her assessment will be $1.2 million. Thus she would be the fourth largest contributor after the U.S., Mexico and Argentina.

Some Surprises in Early TV Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — The first Nielsen ratings of the new television season hit the industry Monday with an impact similar to the winds of a hurricane.

During the Sept. 13-19 period, when the new programs of all three networks were having their premieres, it appears that most viewers were visiting old friends and watching old movies instead of looking at new arrivals—and snubbing some movie stars newly arrived in television.

Most popular program of the week was Marcus Welby, M. D., a situation likely to prevail throughout the season since the ABC series not only has a lot of devotees but no network competition during the final 30 minutes of its hour.

Flip Wilson of NBC came in second, and CBS's broadcast of the 1967 hit movie, Guess Who's Coming to Dinner? was third. Other programs among the top 10 in popularity that week included Gunsmoke, Laugh-In, a Bob. Hope special, the ABC Movie of the Week and an old John Wayne western.

The only new program in that illustrious company was Columbo, starring Peter Falk, which is a part of NBC's Mystery Movie.

Audience measurements during premiere week are considered to be insignificant in terms of the ultimate success or failure of programs. They do hold, however, some fascinating clues about the public's interests.

For instance, a new situation comedy starring a teen-age singing idol, Bobby Sherman, and called Getting Together wound up almost on the bottom of the list of 68 programs. And Shirley's World starring Shirley MacLaine, a movie star, was 62 on the roster. The Jimmy Stewart Show, ranking 51, was obviously hurted by competition from the Katharine Hepburn-Spencer Tracy movie. Anthony Quinn's The Man and the City was also far down the list.

Glenn Ford and Cade's County, on the other hand, attracted a big audience—his premiere came in 11th. The new Dick Van Dyke Show was 14th and James Garner's Nichols was 19th. Both stars, however, are old friends of the TV audience.

Poisonous Substance Found in Food Cartons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A poisonous, DDT-like substance has been found in many foods, the Food and Drug Administration said Monday.

The U.S. government protects chickens and catfish from food containing more than a half part a million of the chemicals called PCBs—polychlorinated biphenyls. But people can eat chicken or catfish containing 10 times as much before the government does anything.

But then baby cereal and spaghetti dinners may not contain any more PCB's than chicken feed.

Why?

"We have to have some sort of action level," John T. Walden, press officer for the FDA said Monday.

Walden's explanation of the differing guidelines came after persistent, poisonous PCBs started the government anew on a trail that already led through chicken feed, chickens, turkeys and eggs.

Now the FDA has found the chemical in some shredded wheat, spaghetti dinners, mixed baby cereal, grits (ground corn meal), noodle dinners and pancake mix. In one sample of shredded wheat the PCB concentration was 48 times the safety level set by federal guidelines. In other foods the concentration ranged from less than the federal guideline to four times the limit.

The agency has seized none of the products. In the case of the shredded wheat, Walden explained that the high concentration was in only one sample and the FDA didn't find enough contaminated samples to justify seizure.

The FDA said the contamination originated in containers made from recycled cardboard. The recyclers apparently used a PCB-treated carbonless duplicating paper, Walden said.

The FDA is sampling 15 products packaged in such cardboard.

Walden said it's the speed with which the PCB problem has cropped up that has fostered the differing guidelines for foods. The poultry guidelines were set up first. As the pollutant became more widely cited, the lower guideline was set up for other foods.

"The truth is no scientists know about PCBs or what to do about it," said Walden. "This all leads us in why we called together these five agencies of government to look at the problem."

His reference was to a recently-established federal force on PCBs.

"We don't know where it comes from. . . . We don't know once it gets into the body what its problem might be.

"With mercury we had good, solid clinical evidence. With PCBs it's just we've got more questions than we've got answers."

PCBs have caused an outbreak of liver and skin ailments in Japan and have killed chick embryos in laboratory experiments.

One proptiol from Representative William F. Ryan, the New York Democrat who has been critical of FDA's handling of PCBs, is to ban the chemical—at least until scientists know more about it.

The products included in the FDA survey are crackers and bread crumbs; flours; dried pasta noodles; pretzels and snack chips; breakfast cereals; cake, pancake and gingerbread; dried milk and dried milk products; dessert and pudding mixes; baby cereals; cookies; refriger-

Penicillin Allergy Test Found

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about a test which has been found to discover whether a person is allergic to penicillin. Is this available to the public?

I had been taking penicillin when I broke out with hives. Could I have a more violent reaction if I took more? Does this allergy run in families? My father is also allergic. — Mrs. L. M.

A substance called PPL (penicilloyl polylysine) has been found effective in such testing, and if your own physician does not have it, an allergy specialist should.

Penicilling sensitivity is (or can be) a serious problem, and efforts are being made to find even more effective methods of identifying people who are sensitive to the drug.

Since you apparently have had one penicillin reaction, you certainly must be wary until you know definitely whether the penicillin caused you hives or something else did it. Subsequent exposures to penicillin are likely to be more severe.

Penicillin sensitivity does not necessarily run in families; however, individuals who are allergic in general are much more likely to be sensitive to penicillin, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I enclose 35 cents and a long self-addressed envelope for your booklet on rheumatoid arthritis. Are gold shots habit-forming? Are they of great benefit? — Mrs. C. J. S.

No, these shots are not habit-forming. They are very helpful in some cases of rheumatoid arthritis, but not in others, and there's no way to predict in advance.

It used to be pretty much the practice to give a series of the gold salts shots, then stop. More recently, some cases have responded more effectively if small amounts of the medication were continued for a longer time.

Too much can be toxic, so the amount as well as the patient's progress must be watched.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm in taking a hot shower and then switching immediately to ice-cold water? I love cold showers, but my mother has forbidden me to do this. — R. M. P.

For healthy youngsters, no harm. But for elderly people, my answer would be different: adequate time should be allowed to adjust gradually to the change.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl 15, and would like to know if you can get pregnant without complete sexual intercourse. I mean if the sperm is ejected outside of the vaginal area, as happened to me. I have read many books and I can't seem to find the answer anywhere.

My parents are both in their 60s, so I can't ask them. They'll take a very negative attitude toward sex. I'm really scared, so please answer my question. — L. M.

There is a chance of pregnancy under such conditions — not as great a chance as with the completed sex act, but still some chance since it is in the nature of sperm to travel some distance over appropriate, moist surfaces.

This, in fact, accounts for some of the girls who wind up in homes for unwed mothers while insisting that they are "virgins".

I hope that in your case it was not during your fertile time and that no pregnancy has resulted, but the fact remains that pregnancy is possible and pregnancies do occur because of the mobility of the sperm — their ability to "swim".

Welfare System

Cities Ready to Rebel

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Joseph Fabbro of Sudbury, president of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, said Monday that association members are ready to rebel against the present system of welfare payments.

Mr. Fabbro said in an interview that the current system "is psychologically acclimatizing a fellow to go on welfare as a way of life."

The Sudbury mayor said that under the system a man making about the minimum wage and supporting a large family actually loses $5 to $10 a week by working rather than accepting welfare.

The mayor and other members of the association's executive attended a weekend meeting in this community just west of Sudbury.

He said, the executive supported a committee report calling for the provincial government to define the level of assistance in combatting pollution in the lower Great Lakes.

Mr. Fabbro said some municipalities are afraid that the financial burden will fall on them and some will "buckle under."

Birds Fall Dead

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — Birds continued to fall dead from the sky here Monday as wildlife experts tried to figure out what has been killing hundreds of small birds since last Thursday.

Seventy-five bird carcasses were sent to the federal agriculture department laboratory at Vancouver and 25 more to the provincial fish and wildlife lab at Victoria. But officials said it could be a week before the results of tests are available.

Planes Needed

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir says the United States is undermining its own quest for a Middle East peace by denying Israel deliveries of warplanes.

Egypt is likely to see this as ground for not compromising in peace efforts, she says, and in a situation where Egypt is receiving a continuous injection of military aid from the Soviet Union, the imbalance might encourage Cairo into a new battle against Israel.

Quebec Bill 28 To Be Debated

QUEBEC (CP) — The national assembly education committee today opens three days of public hearings on Bill 28, the Quebec government's controversial legislation which proposes the replacing of Montreal Island's 42 Protestant and Roman Catholic school boards.

Claude Charron, PQ member of the national assembly for Montreal-St. Jacques, told news conference Monday the legislation goes too far in providing excessive guarantees to Montreal's English - speaking minority.

Job Roll Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal manpower offices have been finding fewer jobs for Canadians each year since 1966, despite an increase of more than 50 per cent in their expenditures in the same period.

An answer tabled in the Commons Monday to a question by David Orlikow (NDP-Winnipeg North) shows Canada man power centres placed 840,853 Canadians in jobs in the fiscal year 1966-67, excluding casual labor.

Dinner Cancelled

MOSCOW (AP) — A full-dress dinner at the Kremlin for Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India was called off Monday night apparently because of some urgent problem, confronting the leaders of the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Gandhi was informed of the cancellation just after she arrived to begin a visit designed to demonstrate Soviet-Indian solidarity.

Formal talks with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin were similarly cancelled.

The explanation given by informed sources indicated the Soviet leadership may have been busy with some urgent problem.

Right to Screen Doctors Said Need of Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — A committee on hospital privileges in Ontario was told Monday that hospitals should reserve the right to screen the qualifications and personality of every doctor that applies to join the staff.

Dr. Gerald Blanchet, chief of staff of Queensway General Hospital here, said it is not safe to assume that a person "is necessarily a good doctor" simply because he holds a medical degree and is licensed by the College of Physicians and Surgeons to practise.

Robert Kaplan, Liberal member of Parliament for Don Valley, said he found it "intriguing" that a specialist certified by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada cannot be regarded per se as competent to practise in a hospital.

He said the certificate of fellowship of the College should be an assurance of competence.

Dr. Blanchet disagreed. He said that at Queensway it once took six months of investigation and reports before the hospital could curtail the privileges of a doctor whose care was felt to be substandard. During those six months, the public was poorly served.

He also said personality is important. If a doctor is "a disturber," the patient is treated in an atmosphere of disturbance and confusion, which can disrupt hospital organization and patient care.

Dr. William Bryant of Kitchener said the medical profession has not taken the lead in placing doctors properly. He wondered whether there is a medical manpower shortage in the province or whether it is mainly a matter of distribution.

In Kitchener, he said, "We're loaded with general surgeons," adding that about six of the city's 36 or 27 surgeons do 70 per cent of the medical work because they are the ones to whom the family doctors refer patients.

Dr. Hugo Ewart of Hamilton, a committee member, asked whether there should be a mechanism to limit the number of doctors in an area.

Dr. James A. McPhee, president of the Ontario chapter of the College of Family Physicians of Canada, and Dr. Donald McAulay of Hamilton, said there could be danger in this type of move.

Dr. McAulay said pediatricians in Hamilton once tried to prevent a consultant pediatrician from establishing a practice there.

They had no power to stop him and he came anyway, he said. But if they had succeeded in stopping him, "the whole trend of pediatrics in Hamilton might have been stopped."

Great Grain War

PM Tells Farmers Take It Or Leave It

Bitter Debate Still Assured

OTTAWA (CP) — The great grain war continued inside and outside the Commons Tuesday.

Inside, the opposition accused the government of scandalous contempt for the law. Outside, Prime Minister Trudeau said the government was trying to legislate justice for the farmers and accused the opposition of "carping about legalistic questions."

Also outside, Mr. Trudeau said the government is giving Prairie farmers a chance to say, in the next few weeks, whether they want the government bill or not. If not, grains legislation now before Parliament would be dropped.

And Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson said "farmers have finally got the message" and any more parliamentary argument about the legality or lack of it in the government's procedures "is a bunch of garbage" as far as grain farmers are concerned.

Inside again, the Colleagues came up on the short end of a formal 116 to 65 vote, called on the grains legislation issue.

Standing in the 264-seat Commons is Liberal 131, Conservative 72, NDP 24, Social Credit 12, Independent two, Independent Liberal one and vacant one.

The vote was on the Conservative premise that since the government was ignoring the law regarding wheat storage payments, there was no sense in the House conducting any other business.

Also inside, New Democrat Leader David Lewis was unsuccessful in attempting to have what he termed the scandalous contempt of the government for the law referred to the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

Conservatives warned that they may force more formal votes each one takes about half an hour—perhaps even on a daily basis to point up the contention that the government is breaking the law.

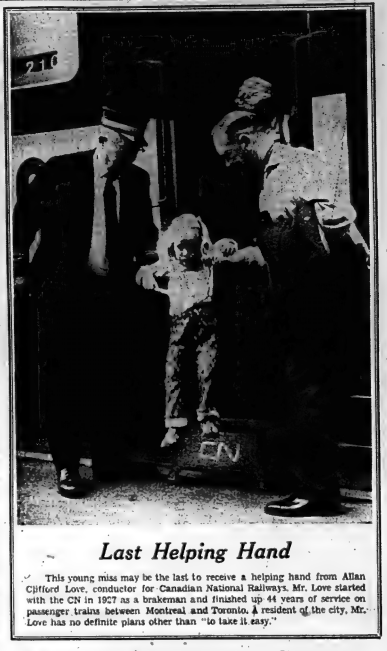
At the heart of the clash is the Temporary Wheat Reserves Act, a law passed in 1956 which sets out payments the government must make monthly to the Canadian wheat board for grain held in storage, and a bill to stabilize grain farmer income, still before the House.

The stabilization bill says among its clauses that, upon its passage, the reserves act is repealed. A transition payment to farmers is set out to cover the period between repeal of the reserves act and implementation of the new one.

No payments have been made under the reserves act since August 1970. Some $60 million would have been paid out last July, the end of the 1970-71 crop year, under the reserves act.

But instead of making these payments, the government has been pushing the stabilization bill, which includes provision for a $100 million payment to farmers to cover the 1970-71 crop year.

This would be a transition period before enactment of the stabilization bill, which would set up a farmer-financed pool from which farmers could draw in bad years. The government would also put money in when funds were insufficient in a bad year to maintain farmer income at the average level of the five previous years.



"We haven't been trying to fool the public or the farmer," Mr. Trudeau told reporters outside the House. The Liberals wanted to put it squarely before the farmers—they could have the $60 million under the reserves act or they could have the $100 million.

But he said anyone who thought the government would go along with the opposition game and wait for both was in a haze.

Mr. Trudeau admitted the government is in default on the reserves act payments and "we don't like being in default." So the period in which grains farm law would be allowed their choice was limited.

If there was no decision in the next few weeks, "we'll forget the new deal" and farmers could get along with the reserves act.

James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) put the Commons motion for adjournment. He said later the idea of having a Newfoundland MP propose it was to demonstrate that the government attitude has more than a regional ramification. "Tomorrow it could affect the fisheries."

Truck Firms Closing

TORONTO (CP) — Trucking companies across Ontario have begun shutting down operations and laying off truckers in the face of a possible strike Friday by 7,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Don Leatherdale, spokesman for the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said Tuesday night the 37 companies represented by the bureau have advised shippers they cannot accept shipments of perishables or goods that must be transported long distances.

"We will be operating at a minimum level by Thursday," Mr. Leatherdale said. Only local pickups would be made then.

Six Teamsters locals will be in a legal strike position Friday. The Toronto local, which represents about half the 7,000 truckers involved, has not yet voted authorization of a strike call, but the others—in London, Kingston, Ottawa, Windsor and Hamilton—approved such action Sunday.

Talks here Tuesday between the two parties, conducted by federal mediator William Kelly, produced no apparent break in the deadlock over wage parity with truckers in the United States.

A spokesman for the bureau said after Tuesday's talks the companies are not prepared to increase their last offer, made Friday and rejected at Sunday's local Teamsters meetings, of a $1.36 hourly increase over three years. Drivers earn a current base rate of $3.80.

Parity with U.S. drivers would involve an increase of $2.18 hourly over three years.

No Hint Of Irish Answer

LONDON (CP) — A top-level Anglo-Irish meeting aimed at finding new ways to end the bloodshed and violence in Northern Ireland has produced few indications of progress.

Officials stress however, that the conference of prime ministers from Britain, the Irish Republic and Ulster cleared diplomatic channels which had been closed since the division of Ireland into North and South 50 years ago.

The two-day meeting ended Tuesday as developments in riot-torn Ulster added a new dimension of horror to the deepening confrontation between factions representing the Roman Catholic minority and Protestant majority.

High-powered rocket launchers were used for the first time by dissidents to fire on an Ulster police station and an army position and Rev. Ian Paisley, militant Protestant leader, announced formation of "Third Force" to counter the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The Third Force organization and the 12,000-strong British Army force in Ulster are reported deeply troubled by the vastly-increased firepower of the rebel forces, although the bazooka shells fired late Monday and early today did not explode.

The formation of an independent, militant Protestant force has been feared by observers for some time as an indication that all-out civil war is in sight.

News Briefs

HONG KONG (CP) — The Canton television relayed more than two hours of programs originating in Peking today without making the "special and important" news program" it has promised. Watchers in Hong Kong believed the program represented a fill-in to replace — for some reason — what Canton television had billed as a program concerning the national day celebrations Friday.

CAPE KENNEDY (Reuter) — A delta rocket being used to orbit two space satellites malfunctioned today, sending a 132 million satellite into the wrong orbit. Officials said that instead of a circular orbit, the 1,400-pound Orbiting Solar Observatory, launched to study the sun, was placed in an elliptical orbit ranging from 266 to 335 miles above the earth.

CALGARY (CP) — The city has been chosen by the federal government for development of an experimental public transportation system using special buses travelling in special lanes, chief City Commissioner Geoff Hamilton said Tuesday. The plan calls for the development of transcity express buses that will provide greater comfort and speed than under the present bus system, he said.

Peking Banquet Cancelled

PEKING (Reuter) — The traditional banquet Thursday on the eve of China's national day — a vast gathering in Peking's Great Hall of People usually addressed by Premier Chou En-lai — will not be held this year, a foreign ministry spokesman said today.

Instead, a 24-hour reception will be held in the hall.

The spokesman said this departure from former practice was "another reform we have made."

Previously, the foreign ministry announced that the traditional massive parade on Oct. 1 marking the 22nd anniversary of the people's republic would not be held, despite rehearsals which had already been staged in the Chinese capital.

This led to widespread speculation abroad.

Asked if the premier's speech would be made Thursday night, as in past years, the spokesman said an answer to this would be given Thursday.

Dental Surgeons Seek Admitting Privileges

TORONTO (CP) — Dentists appointed to hospital staffs should not have "to go on bended knee" to a doctor for approval to admit and discharge their patients from hospital, Dr. Wesley Dunn, dean of dentistry at the University of Western Ontario in London, said Tuesday.

A brief from Western's faculty of dentistry was presented to the committee of inquiry into hospital privileges in Ontario.

Dr. A. G. Parnell, professor and chairman of oral (dental) surgery at Western, said "joint admission is a farce." The dentist should not have to go through this roundabout route to find someone to help admit the patient.

Dr Dunn said if a dentist's qualifications are approved by a hospital's medical advisory committee, the board of trustees must be able to invest considerable responsibility in him.

However, Dr. Dunn said that once in the hospital the patient must have full medical coverage.

He said a patient needs a thorough medical examination prior to surgery and the oral surgeon needs the co-operation of physicians in the patient's post-operative care.

The brief said discrimination against highly-qualified oral surgeons in the granting of hospital privileges denies patients the practitioner of their choice.

The brief also said that although the Public Hospitals Act authorizes hospital boards to provide dental services, relatively few hospitals in Ontario have done so. It said hospitals are increasingly becoming centres of health care but such care is incomplete until dental services are included.

It recommended "meaningful dental services" in all general hospitals.

The committee heard the brief but reserved decision on whether it falls within the scope of the inquiry.

The chairman of the policy committee of the Toronto and District Liberal Association told the committee that the public has handed the medical profession expensive hospital facilities on a silver platter to do what it likes with.

Greene Ill In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene of Canada suffered a mild stroke here Wednesday and was taken to hospital.

Physicians at Tokyo Women's Medical Centre said Greene was out of danger but still under observation."

Mrs. Greene was at his bedside, a hospital spokesman said.

Jack Austin, Greene's deputy, said the minister complained about dizziness and fell in his hotel room shortly before breakfast today. He was taken in an ambulance to the hospital.

Opposition Challenged to Set Jobless Date

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau challenged Commons critics Tuesday to convene a federal-provincial conference on unemployment earlier than the one he has arranged in December.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield and New Democrat Leader David Lewis both complained that a Dec. 6-8 conference is going to be far too late to do anything about winter unemployment.

The prime minister said that is exactly why he had been trying since last July to arrange an early date for January 10 or 11 governments.

Although he had not succeeded, it did not mean the federal government would not bring in programs to combat winter unemployment before the conference in areas of complete federal jurisdiction.

Mr. Lewis urged that the conference be rescheduled for late October or early November.

Mr. Trudeau said he would welcome an earlier date.

"If the leader of the NDP can arrange with the premiers for an earlier date, that would be perfectly satisfactory to us."

Mr. Trudeau dismissed suggestions that the government revive the federal winter works program dropped two years ago, saying municipalities had considered it wasteful.

But that didn't mean the government isn't examining programs to promote work during the winter.

Mr. Stanfield asked the prime minister whether the government had completed a study which he had said two weeks ago it would undertake, to examine the rate at which young people are entering the labor force.

The prime minister said Mr. Stanfield had it all wrong—it was the participation rate of young people in the labor force that the government is studying.

He didn't elaborate on how the study is progressing.

Mr. Trudeau accused Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer of revealing confidential information concerning the federal-provincial conference as a political ploy.

Mr. Schreyer released correspondence he had with Mr. Trudeau on the conference that showed the premier urging the conference be held earlier.

Outside the Commons Mr. Trudeau said it was obvious Mr. Schreyer had released the information for the benefit of his NDP comrade, Mr. Lewis.

'For want of a better word, I call it 'Fence'. Here's how it works.'

Farm Bargaining Rights Supported by Lewis

COLBORNE (Staff) — The province's farmers plan to be given collective bargaining rights if agricultural society is to be rescued from disaster, Ontario New Democratic Party Leader Stephen Lewis said here last night.

He told a crowd of 100 — largely from rural areas of Northumberland — that he feels the Conservative government has been party "to attacks on farm free enterprise and the NDP would reverse this trend."

Although he showed some respect for the system of agricultural marketing boards, he said he deplored the fact they have "no economic power" to bargain with the corporation to which they sell.

Mr. Lewis stated the accent of Conservative agriculture policy had been "to support agribusiness."

"Loans have always been available to the vast multinational corporations but not proportionately to the farmers and small businessmen . . . the Tories would give $500,000 to Kraft Foods but not to Wordsworth or Plum Hollow cheese factories," he said. During the evening he was presented with a block of Warkworth cheese as a gift, but auctioned it off to bolster local party funds.

He contended it is one of the great ironies of the Conservative administration that it has a largely rural base "but still rejects the farmer."

The price of milk has been raised by the large retail milk distributors in recent weeks, he said, "but these corporations have never had to open their books and explain why there should be an increase."

The NDP leader stated he is confident Ontario minister of agriculture William Stewart will be defeated in his home riding in Middlesex North because "he has clearly lost the farm support."

He charged that "a loving relationship between government and big business" is holding up adequate pollution abatement in a number of areas. He said the Ontario Water Resources Commission "will not touch International Nickel for its pollution of the Copper cliff and Lively Rivers (in the Sudbury region)."

In 62 consecutive suits filed against corporate polluters, he said, the average fine has been $353, adding, tongue-in-cheek, that representatives of these firms "are crawling from the courtrooms with their balance sheets in tatters."

He said an NDP government would not be unduly harsh with industry — an examination would be made to determine if necessary pollution controls could be afforded out of company resources. Long term, low - interest loans would be granted by the government, were the firm in financial straits.

Cleanup deadlines would be set and when not complied with, companies would be fined the maximum allowable penalty of $10,000 a day. Lewis stated "we honestly do not want to be harsh, we just want to call, their bluff."

Asked by a child in the audience what he would do for unemployment in Ontario, he replied, the NDP would initiate the 100,000 housing starts during the first year of government to provide jobs and give the economy a "shot in the arm."

"Don't you think $32,000 a year is too high as a salary for an administrator of education in this county?" asked another questioner.

Lewis answered that he was sure the administrator "is a man of creativity and intellect but his salary is probably a little high because it reflects the inflated costs of the new bureaucracy of regional boards."

He told the gathering in his two-hour discussion the NDP puts great emphasis on developing Eastern and Central Ontario but "I do not want to violate the recreational potential of the region." Mr. Lewis said a New Democratic government would expend efforts to steward secondary and service industry into the area "but only if it is wanted."

Commenting on the socialist aspect of his party, Lewis said it was clear the Conservatives are not trying "red scare tactics" in their bid to retain power.

"Rene Thatcher tried that in Saskatchewan," he recalled, "and it brought only disasterous results."

He indicated that some big business interests are afraid of the NDP but added that many have been relieved at explanation of the party's programs. Lewis explained that he has met with Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, service clubs and the Ontario Manufacturers Association with the conclusion "they can deal with us and we with them four-square."

The party leader said he can see the value of crown corporations being established in the fields of farm machinery manufacture, milk distribution, mining and the pulp and paper industry but to him "nationalization is not utopia — I can think of better ways to spend money."

Lewis was accompanied to Colborne by his wife, Michi, and two of their three children. They arrived by plane from Brockville at CFB Trenton and spent the night here before continuing their campaign tour in London today.

On hand to meet them was Art Cockerill, the Northumberland NDP candidate, who reported to the assembly he now has 300 people working on the campaign in each of the riding's 25 municipalities. "We may lack funds but we do not lack organization," he stated.

Tape Decks Thieves' Targets

Thieves overnight forced their way into four parked cars and made off with automobile radios, in stereo tape decks and recording tapes.

Cars owned by Harry Gurney, 31 Dunbar Street, Albert Bartley, Cedardale Motel on the Hamilton Road, and Floyd Taylor, 27 Grove Street had no-draft and side vent windows broken, allowing entry.

French Resistance Workers to Visit

PICTON (Staff) — Sixty-two former French resistance workers next Monday will be luncheon guests of members of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce at Prince Edward Yacht Club.

This group, now touring Ontario and Quebec will visit historic sites in Prince Edward after meeting with country warden Allan Anderson and Picton mayor Marcel Lemieux, chairman at the chamber luncheon.

Mayor Ackerman later will be hostess for a wine and cheese party for the resistance fighters held at PEYC.

The 30 women and 32 men who will arrive in Prince Edward next week were members of the Union Nationale des Evades de Guerre.

The primary purpose of this organization is to group together all those who successfully escaped enemy imprisonment, those who were under the domination of the enemy at the risk of their lives, those who left their homeland to join the Allied forces and those who risked their lives helping escapees to freedom.

The UNEG was founded in 1917 by Commandant Goya de Nezeyroz and famed aviator Roland Garros, under the name of The Brotherhood.

Water Cut Off

FRANKFORD (Staff) — Residents of this village were without water this morning following a break in the Mill Street water main, the principal line in the community.

Visit to Quinte By Lewis Is Out

COLBORNE (Staff) — Campaign organizers for Stephen Lewis disclosed here last night the New Democratic Party leader has no plans to visit Quinte riding before the October 21 Ontario election.

Lewis travelled from Brockville to CFB Trenton by air yesterday on his way to an evening rally at this East Northumberland town. His arrival and departure at the armed forces base in the riding may be his only sallies into Quinte.

The NDP leader told The Intelligencer he has not decided whether to accept the invitation of station CJBQ to be guest on the open line show What Do You Think. Premier William Davis was on the program through a telephone hookup from his Brampton home the day before he came to Belleville to kick off his election campaign before a capacity crowd in the Memorial Arena.

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon will be in Belleville tomorrow to appear on the confrontation radio program. On two occasions he held a Trenton press conference, discussed issues at Belleville's Quinte Secondary School and visited Quinte Mall.

Mr. Lewis says if he goes on the line Do You Think it will be through a telephone hookup similar to that used by the premier.

New Books Discuss Education

THE YEARS BEFORE SCHOOL — V. E. Todd and H. Heffernan

The authors discuss the pre-school group in terms of what the group can do to better serve the needs of both children and their families, and to explore the personalities of three, four and five year old children, and the mechanics of organizing an educational program for them.

THE SLOW LEARNER — Joseph S. Roucek

Leading educationalists and sociologists have recently been studying the effect of social and physical environments on backward and handicapped children. Their suggestions for improving teaching methods and providing new ways to challenge children is the theme of this comprehensive book; of social importance for all those concerned with education, as well as for parents themselves.

BORN FOR JOY — Mary R. Weeld

A graduate of Oxford University who vowed she would never be a teacher, finds herself in a Primary School classroom in a rural community in England. This is here account of what she taught, but more important, of what she learned from her pupils and fellow teachers. Having been part of the experimental school Summerhill, she brought with her no specific teacher's training, apart from being a mother of three; she was therefore in a unique position to assess the school system with an observant eye.

GAMES TO IMPROVE YOUR CHILD'S ENGLISH— Abraham B. Horwitz and Arthur Goddard

"Make learning fun' and stimulate your child's eagerness to learn. This book is filled with over 200 delightful and carefully planned word games which adults and children can play together.

TEACHING MONTESSORI IN THE HOME — Elizabeth G. Haustock

Many Montessori's method of teaching preschool children is widely used and accepted in the world today, but when she opened her first 'children's House' in the slums of Rome in 1907, her ideas were revolutionary, and many of them met with disapproval. Her methods of teaching were based on her belief that a child begins his education at birth and the first few years of life are the most formative and the most important physically and mentally. The author of this volume has successfully adapted Dr. Montessori's methods to the home environment. The mother who is interested in helping her preschooler build a solid foundation on which her child's future learning can grow, will find this book a carefully planned guide.

COMMONSENSE IN TEACHING READING — Dr. Rorna Gans

Reading. — one of our most powerful skills, one which opens the door on the universe is discussed by Dr. Gans in a positive human way. Parents with school age children will want to read this book as well as teachers. The author has outlined teaching programs suited to the child, whether at the slow reading achievement level or possibly too fast a progress for his grade. Each chapter is followed by a carefully selected bibliography for further study.

GEOMETRY IN THE CLASSROOM — NEW CONCEPTS AND METHODS

Until the advent of the 'New Mathematics' geometry was not taught until secondary school level, now an attempt is being made in Great Britain and Europe to introduce geometry at the elementary school level. The ultimate aim is to make geometry more interesting and relative to the world in which we live. Fully illustrated with projects and assignments for both elementary and secondary school students.

DYSLEXIA AND YOUR CHILD — Rudolph F. Wagner, Ph.D.

The reading handicap known as Dyslexia has only recently been recognized as the reason why some children, as many as three to five percent of the school population, have difficulty learning. It was once thought these children were retarded, but now we know their eye co-ordination will not permit them to learn to read in a normal way. Children living in large centres, are able to get help from experts trained to teach them. This book attempts to help those who are living in smaller communities where most of the onus for helping children rests with the parents in co-operation with the child's teacher.

A HISTORY OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION IN CANADA— F. Cosentino and Maxwell L. Howell

Physical education is now a recognized part of the school curricula in every province in Canada, and since early beginnings of Canada, some form of physical activity has been recognized. The authors of this book trace the growth and development of physical education in Canada from its early beginnings but confine their study to the programs of physical education in the classroom, gymnasium and playing fields during school hours.

More People Use Library Facilities

A marked increase in the use of films and reference material is the chief highlight of the Belleville Public Library's summer report.

The number of people using these materials more than doubled during June, July and August. Some 628 reference books and 154 films were consulted in 1970 while the corresponding figures—for 1971 jumped to 1,329 and 385.

Part of the revitalized interest in reference material was due to the acquisition of The Revised Statutes of Canada and Ontario. A continuing interest in genealogy and antiques also attracted many people to the reference room.

The Regional Film Library has added many new titles to its collection, enabling the library to provide small blocks of films to the larger libraries in the Belleville region. Among the new films are Pruning Practices at the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens; Kayak; Visit from Space and several films for children.

The library maintained a fairly high level of circulation during the summer months. Children were making more use of the facilities, the result of a staff campaign in local schools last June. Students from kindergarten to grade six were informed of the library's summer program. Adventure in Other Lands and the theme used to generate enthusiasm was Let's Read for Fun in the Summer.

A second meeting of the local audio - visual group held at Loyalist College, August 30, resulted in the clarification of many points involving co-operation in film purchases and circulation procedures. Among these attendinv were the audio - visual consultant for the Hastings County Board of Education; three members of the staff at Loyalist Directly concerned with films; film librarian Mrs. Skrill and chief librarian Miss Olive Delaney.

More on Pollution

Liberal leader Robert Nixon caught a pickerel the other day while fishing in the Kenora area, but is said to have tossed it back because it was contaminated by mercury poisoning. How does one tell these things? Is it on visual evidence or the fact that the lake is known to be polluted?

One thing is sure, Mr. Nixon may now be the only candidate to be able to speak with first-hand experience about the ravages of mercury poisoning of our lakes, even up there in the supposedly pristine fastness of the more isolated regions of the province.

Meanwhile it is interesting to note one more step in the international fight against pollution. It is contained in the West German government publication, The Bulletin, and sets out details of environmental control agreements worked out in Bonn by West German and British officials.

The agreements foresee combined research into the effects of lead on the human body, exchanges on water-quality control, a joint investigation into environmental problems involving, for example the petrochemical industry, exchanges on water-protection policy and joint observation of the effects of detergents on water.

There will be regular meetings at ministerial level between the two countries and The Bulletin emphasizes the fact that co-operation with other European countries will be a vital factor. In this regard there is a picture of the ever youthful-looking Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands making an appeal in the city of Rheydt for a concerted attack on pollution.

And let's not forget the problem on our own doorstep. Take a look at the Moira river, for example, in the vicinity of the Dundas Street bridge, not to mention the sudsy appearance of the Trent by the dam at Batawa.

FLQ Still Menace

A year ago next month we had the FLQ crisis and events which shook Canadians out of their complacency. Then came the War Measures Act and stern counter measures as well as the eventual arrest and conviction of men involved in the kidnap and murder of Quebec Justice Minister Pierre Laporte.

Today there are ominous signs of possible further terrorism, including a bombing and bank robberies linked with efforts to boost FLQ funds.

Events in Ireland undoubtedly have been an encouragement to the FLQ. The IRA there have become as bold as the proverbial brass and the forces of law and order seem virtually impotent against them. Could the same thing occur in Quebec? Well we know that Canadian military officers have been in Ulster studying British army tactics.

Others should not let down its guard. Intelligence work must be stepped up with a view to putting down the FLQ before it has a chance to open any campaign such as the IRA's. We cannot afford that sort of thing here any more than they can in Ireland. It is just possible the FLQ might try something on the anniversary of the Laporte affair, not to mention the kidnapping of James Cross before him.

Youngster Murdered

The kidnap-murder of a ten-year-old Hull youngster is one of those dreadful episodes which chill the blood and cannot be explained in terms of normal psychological processes.

One hears of "loners," like the youth accused of the murder of an RCMP constable in an isolated section of Manitoba, south of Winnipeg, and there was a case in Saskatchewan a couple of years ago, when a young man went berserk and shot a man, his wife, and several children in their farm home. Somehow, in the midst of such forbidding landscapes, far from the sense of belonging afforded, to some extent at least, by population density and city attractions, you can understand the going hard with certain temperaments and resulting in such horrors as this.

But here we have it occurring in the Ottawa-Hull area and of course the answer is that this kind of terror can happen anywhere — in remote prairie or equally lonely, for different reasons, big city.

All such crimes are despicable, but none more so than the slaying of Gilles Leblanc. Society must strive to prevent such terrible deeds and to weed out the perpetrators from our midst. Care should be taken, for instance, to check out phone callers such as the one who posed as young Leblanc's father and lured him away to his death.

Support Local Musical Talent Is Plea of Booking Agent

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

As an English booking agent I am astonished at the apathy in local talent. I find booking agents who have no idea what talent is. Music stores that edit music papers, yet do not understand that in selling many string instruments, there are other instruments also, and country people like country music. I know, because right now it is sweeping across Europe, and the instrument that started it, here and across there, was the good old harmonica. Yes, Harmonica!

In 1871, made by F. R. Hohner Company, in Germany, if you are interested: this little instrument has a very interesting history all of its own.

But more to the point, in this town, you have a guy called Ernie Hunter, yes, belonging to the other famous Hunter family but you do not use his talents. Many of you have heard him play and more to the point, most of you know him and at some time in your lives, have seen him. And yet, this same fellow has a chance to be on Thames T.V., if he were sponsored for an audition, for which he has a contract. And yet your own booking agents are not sufficiently interested in putting Belleville's own on the map.

It amazes me that the Sands of Time have reached such success through their own persecution, which is inexcusable.

Ernie Hunter is good enough for the local hotels, but rather than give that helping hand where it is needed, that would be asking the citizens of this town too much.

Ernie Hunter started playing the harmonica at the age of four years, by listening to records and being a personal friend of professionals in the home field, of which one was the old D. Ford Bailey. He was one of the original Grand Ole Opry artists and practically the only harmonica player on it.

Ernie Hunter understands every key in the harmonica and owns practically every type of harmonica, including an electric one, in fact, about $3,000 worth. Yet, this member of the musicians union pays the same fees as other singles, and is not pushed. I wonder why, would it be the instrument My guess would be yes.? Yet this musician holds this important contract.

If any agents are interested in reaching me, they may do so through Ernie Hunter and no one else. And in no way would I hand contracts to anyone else young or old, or well known groups, until you shake yourselves a little and look at your talents.

DEIDRE O'BRIEN

New Slant on Pollution

Windsor Star

What a peculiar approach to pollution control and environmental quality the United States has. The U.S. government is urging housewives to return to the use of high phosphate detergents.

Phosphates, as everyone knows, increase the growth of algae in water. Algae, in turn, use up the supply of oxygen, killing whatever body of water they grow in if allowed to multiply unchecked.

The Surgeon General of the U.S. says that the phosphate substitute chemicals being used (caustic soda and a compound called NTA) are harmful to humans. Meanwhile in Canada, Dr. Adrian Booth, the head of the federal health department's environmental division, says there is no immediate threat from chemicals used as substitutes for phosphates in detergents. But he also said that in Canada's such caustic products are not being used.

Does this mean that in Canada the detergent manufacturers, who are the subsidiaries of American companies, are not using the same formulae to eliminate phosphates? Surely our branch plants are not ahead of their parents in research?

There is only one solution. The necessary legislation must be passed to prevent escape of any harmful chemicals into the waterways of North America, particularly those which we share with the United States.

The U.S. solution to the continued use of phosphates (Canada plans to prohibit them by the end of 1972) is to build better sewage treatment plants. The only reasonable response to such a suggestion is a skeptical "Ha!"

Before we laugh it, someone will be suggesting that phosphate dumping is good for mankind, providing him with a new source of nutrition — algae. As soon as Lake Erie algae become a White House - sanctioned delicacy, we will know that the end, for all of us, is in sight.

U Thant's Decade at the UN

Montreal Gazette

It will be a fitting reward for a decade of unparalleled dedication to the cause of world peace and order if the departure of U Thant at the end of this year coincides with seating Communist China in the United Nations. He has steadfastly advocated this from the days when he was Burma's permanent UN representative before that crucial period in 1961 when he took over the job of Secretary General following the death of Dag Hammarskjold. Now, on the eve of a resignation which he declares this time to be an irrevocable decision, Mr. Thant seems to be expressing optimism that seating mainland China will be a much smoother operation than feared in many quarters.

This may appear surprising in view of the United States revolution directed towards ensuring that Taiwan retains its General Assembly seat, while ceding to Peking its place on the Security Council. The admittant stand by the People's Republic that there be only one China in the UN seemed to indicate that a head-on clash was inevitable and that the whole issue might not have been settled for perhaps two or three more years.

Mr. Thant, who should be able to take the pulse of the world body if anyone can, now tells us that "things are moving fast". He couples this with the statement that he knows Peking's thinking and takes its declared intention to refuse the UN seat as long as Taiwan is there as a firm statement of policy.

Candidates' Views Sought On Variety of Issues

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

An open letter to the candidates in the provincial election in Hastings County and Stirling area:

* * *

In the Hastings County and Stirling areas in particular, we are extremely interested in the assessment evaluations which are excessive, also regional-governmental aspirations.

Your farming area is fast becoming depleted, auction sales average three and four a week, plus the closing of cheese factories, which is inexcusable.

Your evaluations on real estate in the smaller communities is far out of line in respect to income and cost of maintenance it requires for average respectability.

As taxpayers, we ask that we be given prompt relief and action, which is badly lacking. Municipal affairs and Agricultural Departments fail to give understandable answers.

Your comments will be greatly appreciated.

Mexican Parish
From Bank to Anglican Priesthood in Guadalajara

Katie FitzRandolph in The Winnipeg Free Press

From the credit department of the Bank of Montreal to the Anglican priesthood in Mexico may seem like a drastic switch, but Rev. Thomas N. Dickson has found the change most agreeable.

"Basically they are both involved with people." Mr. Dickson said in an interview. "The credit work, involved judging character and the church work involves find out what's wrong with a person. They are both as divorced as they sound."

Mr. Dickson, 52, was born in Wynyard, Sask., and received most of his education in Winnipeg. He served in the Second World War with the Winnipeg Light Infantry and the Royal Winnipeg Rifles, dropping in rank from captain to lieutenant to get an overseas posting.

He retired from the bank as a credit supervisor, after 31 years with the bank, and went straight to the church, and was ordained a deacon last April.

His bank and army pensions have been supporting him in Guadalajara, as the Episcopal Church of Mexico can't afford a salary or even a contribution to living expenses.

His congregation of about 200 comprises mostly American and some Canadians. Mr. Dickson said. Services are in English, but he's working on his Spanish. Most of his parishioners are old-age pensioners and medical students attending the Autonomous University of Guadalajara. Most don't speak Spanish and don't trust the people around them, so the work is largely pastoral, he explained.

Mr. Dickson had high praise for a number of "Jesus freaks" in the Guadalajara area, who work like blazes, are really happy and have excellent results." There are also about 500 paraplegics in the area, most of them veterans of the Vietnam war who moved to Mexico as it is cheap to hire someone to look after them down there.

Mr. Dickson feels he is part of a real crisis, as the following is extremely alive in Mexico.

Much of his work centres around helping his parishioners with problems with anything official, from registering for university classes (a three-week process at times) to automobile accidents (in Mexico you leave the scene instantly and phone your lawyer, otherwise you go to jail).

Many of the students figure Guadalajara is a drug haven, and a glimpse of the local police given them confidence after they realize that the army and the federal police, which are more efficient and businesslike, administer the drug laws, so a good deal of time is involved bailing them out of jail, he said.

There are about six Episcopal congregations in Guadalajara, most serving desperately poor areas where a collection from the entire congregation for a whole year of $100 would be "damn good," he said. The Episcopal Church in Mexico, while the counterpart of the Anglican Church here, does not have the same social status.

Any wealthy Americans in Mexico don't usually go to church much, and they seem to leave their social obligations and community responsibilities at the border, although the need in Mexico is so much greater.

16-year-old Peterborough Girl's Personal War Against Pollution

From The Peterborough Examiner

Freya Sumbler, 16, of 235 Reid St., has found out fighting pollution can become a habit.

At the beginning of the summer, Freya decided to improve her June contribution of 21 bottles to the glass recycling program of Peterborough's Pollution Probe.

After the last glass collection on Sept. 15, she had collected more than 2,500 glass containers.

A mountain of cardboard boxes full of glass bottles ranging from pickle jars, soft drink bottles to a dog shampoo bottle, is her mark of a summer success.

Boyfriend, Ken Mark, 21, of Nevin Ave., offered helpful hands and words of encouragement to this anti - pollution venture. Most weekends were spent scouring the countryside for bottles from his car. "Anytime, we'd see a bottle on the side of the road, she'd make me stop," he said.

About 1,200 of the bottles were picked off the bottom of Lake Katchewanooka in Lakefield. Wearing her scuba diving equipment, Freya combed the lake bed for a distance of 25 feet from the government wharf in the village.

Some soft drink bottles from the lake bottom were stamped with the dates when they were manufactured. Covered in dark green slime, the dates of 1921 and 1925 were barely distinguishable.

"People have been throwing them off the wharf for 50 years," said Freya. Her underwater dives with a one-hour oxygen tank, usually brought 30 bottles for each of five trips.

For the other 1,200 glass containers, Freya and Ken walked and walked along roadsides. "You don't have to go far to get a bundle. Once we went about a mile along one road we got more than 100 bottles."

"I thought I was doing my part for pollution when I got 21 bottles. Once you get started, you can't stop. I was only going to collect about 500," she said. "I guess it got out of hand a bit," she said.

During the roadside collections, she noticed an overabundance of tin cans in all shapes and sizes. "Maybe if Pollution Probe collects them too it can be my project next year."

Why spend a whole summer cleaning-up a lake bottom and the roadsides of a bottle? Freya's answer was penetrating enough "If we don't no one else will".

Election '71

Land Bank Funds to Buy Escarpment

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier William Davis found the weather, political and otherwise, varied from stormy to sunny Tuesday as he took the Progressive Conservative election campaign into Northern Ontario.

Bucking fog and lightning, his chartered Air Canada aircraft developed radar trouble but managed to make its scheduled stop at Thunder Bay after a rocky trip from Sudbury.

Meanwhile, the traditionally-Tory stronghold in the eastern Ontario riding of Leeds was giving a cordial reception to Stephen Lewis, his New Democratic Party rival in the Oct. 21 election.

And Liberal Leader Robert Nixon told a Hamilton audience:

"When this election is over, you will find that the issue has been the economy and jobs, and particularly the threat of policies in the United States."

Campaigning in Sudbury and Capreol, Mr. Davis said the government has decided to spend about twice as much money in each of the next five years buying land on the Niagara escarpment as it had included in this year's budget.

A study conducted in 1968 by Prof. Leonard Gerdler of Waterloo University recommended that the province spend $30 million within five years to purchase land in the area for recreational purposes.

Mr. Davis said the province will spend between $4 million and $5 million annually on escarpment land. The government had budgeted $2.4 million for this year. The money, he said, will come out of the $20 million land bank set up this year and unused until now.

Before taking off for the storm-tossed trip to Thunder Bay, Mr. Davis stood in the rain to shake hands with workers entering and leaving the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. smelter at Copper Cliff. He was snubbed by about one-quarter of the workers who passed him, but said later he was satisfied with the over-all reception he received.

In Brockville in Leeds constituency, Mr. Lewis drew a crowd of 400, many of them farmers. Last week, Mr. Davis drew about 350 at a rally.

Leeds is held for the Conservatives by Public Works Minister James Auld, who won about 12,000 votes in the 1967 provincial election compared with 895 for the NDP.

Mr. Lewis promised that the NDP would restrict large corporations and non-residents from owning farm land, would reduce farm property taxes and create marketing boards for farmers.

Earlier, in Ottawa, he challenged Mr. Davis to show what benefits had been gained by the province's $125 million corporation-tax exemption.

In Colborne, 26 miles southwest of Belleville, Mr. Lewis said Tuesday night the federal and Ontario governments appear to be driving independent farmers out of business.

Mr. Nixon said in Hamilton economic pressures resulting from the supplementary 10-per-cent duty on exports to the U.S. could result in a further slack in the Canadian economy.

He said a Liberal government would co-operate with Ottawa to form an integrated policy to halt the binding of the U.S.-Canadian economies.

"This election is a test to maintain a strengthening Canadianism," he said. "We must charge out into the world and make markets for ourselves."

Later, Mr. Nixon told the Junior Investment Dealers Association in Toronto:

"The decision we face is not one of choosing extremes, but of choosing on which side of the border economic decisions are going to be made. We must establish firmly and forever that Canada is a country that can and will stand on her own two feet—economically, culturally and politically."

Mindszenty Starts Life of Exile

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, begins a life of foreign exile today after 15 years as a voluntary "prisoner" in the U.S. embassy in Budapest.

Although still retaining his position as archbishop of Esztergom, and primate of Hungary, the 79-year-old cardinal who finally bowed to Vatican pressure and flew to Rome Tuesday is unlikely ever to see his homeland again.

The Pope appointed Most Rev. Imre Kisberk as the new apostolic administrator of Esztergom, indicating that the appointment of new bishops in Hungary had been made easier by the departure of the cardinal.

After more than two decades as the most controversial Roman Catholic churchman in Eastern Europe, Cardinal Mindszenty now can look forward to living out his remaining years in tranquility as an honored guest of the Vatican.

The official Hungarian news agency MTI made clear that he had left the country for good under an agreement between the Vatican and the Hungarian government.

For the cardinal, the flight to Rome for a moving personal welcome from Pope Paul spelled the end of 24 years of imprisonment and voluntary confinement.

Arrested in 1948 on charges of treason, espionage and illegal currency dealings, and sentenced the following year to life imprisonment, he remained in jail until the outbreak of the 1956 revolt.

Released by the insurgents, he took refuge inside the U.S. legation when Soviet tanks rolled into Budapest four days later.

Since then, Cardinal Mindszenty had steadfastly refused to leave, despite Vatican persuasions and frequent visits from Franz Cardinal Koenig of Vienna, unless the Hungarian authorities quashed the results of the trial and fully rehabilitated him.

So far, the Vatican has not revealed the terms of the agreement under which the cardinal agreed to leave Budapest.

Widow Wins $480,000

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — "I can't really believe it yet," said a widowed registered nurse who won $480,000 today in the giant Irish sweepstakes super prize.

"I told my daughter I'd believe it when I had it in my hands," said Mrs. Ethelwyn J. Hitaman, 55, in an interview.

She said she'd had two telephone calls from Ireland to tell her of the windfall.

Mrs. Hitaman, who described herself as a working mother helping her three girls get an education, said the only plan she has made so far is to go on with this.

She bought the ticket some months ago from other nurses at Westminster Hospital, a department of veterans affairs institution.

Asked if she were going to Ireland to claim the money, she said: "I just have no plans at all. I'll just go on working for the moment."

Her 17-year-old daughter, Joan, in Grade 13 in Beck Secondary school, was as excited as she was.

Her oldest daughter, Lynn, 21, is a teacher at Carleton Place, Ont., Pauline, 18, is in her first year in social sciences at McMaster University, Hamilton, and stays in Brandon Hall.

Barbecued Spareribs A Picnic Highlight

By MARY MOORE

One of the picnic highlights of our summer was roasted spareribs. Six people, two of whom were children, ate 5 lbs. To add to that score we receive requests so often for barbecued spareribs that we realized a column about them was overdue.

Our cousin Irene was coming to town for the weekend so I baked and cooked all afternoon finishing up with a big Cornbrgware baking dish of barbecued spareribs. We tried to be dainty eating them from our fingers but there was much finger licking.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS (Serves 5)

3½ - 4 lbs. spareribs cut into one-rib pieces

BARBECUE SAUCE:

¾ cup catsup,
2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
3 tbsps. sugar
3 tbsps. vinegar
1-3 cup water
¾ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. garlic salt

Prepare the Sauce first by mixing all sauce ingredients in a bowl and letting them stand.

One and one-half hours before mealtime put cut - up spareribs on a rack in a large shallow roasting pan and roast them at 350 deg. Fahr. 1 hr. Then carefully drain off all fat. Reserve rack. Give the sauce a good stir and spoon it over all ribs. Return to oven and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for ½ hr. longer, turning ribs once during this period to be sure barbecue sauce coats all of them.

Encourage your guests to eat them from their fingers by setting an example first. Supply two large double-thickness paper napkins for each guest.

Would you please clip this recipe? It will save a lot of mailing from this office for this is a great favorite.

A Barbecue Favorite

Spareribs get the barbecue treatment. They are cut into one-rib pieces so that finger lickers can enjoy them right to the bone. Today Mary Moore gives details for this surprisingly easy favorite meat.

Successful Living

Physical Treatment for Emotional Illness

By DORIS CLARK

Psychiatrists are finding that in many cases an underlying cause of emotional upset is a biochemical or physical problem. They talk about ortho molecular illnesses; these include schizophrenia and alcoholism, and also hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), hormone and glandular problems, etc.

The director of the Canadian Schizophrenia Foundation reports the following case:

A - mother of three was irritable, tired, had crying spells, pains and unreasonable fears. On physical examination she was found to be low in blood sugar; and a high protein, low carbohydrate diet was prescribed.

After a few days this mother found that her problems were starting to disappear, and in about two weeks she was almost symptom-free. Her relationships with her husband, her children and her friends improved greatly and there was no more need for counselling services.

This is the sort of thing which research into diseases like schizophrenia is revealing. Chemical and physical treatment of such diseases is having the effect of mending personalities and saving marriages.

• • •

Dear Doris: Enclosed find 20 cents, for which please send the prayer Give Me Wisdom With The Years. God knows I need it!

I've had more problems than most and living one day at a time has been my constant help. Perhaps that prayer may help in a way I have not yet found. — Sixty.

Dear Sixty: Living one day at a time is a life saver. We cannot see into the future, so why burden ourselves with it? And all too often we learn too little from the past.

If you can let the ideas expressed in Give Me Wisdom With The Years, become a part of you, it may well give you the peace and serenity you long for, as well as to draw your friends closer to you as the years go by.

• • •

Dear Doris: I'm 15 years old and about 10 pounds underweight. I have a very noticeable double chin, facial lines and am not busty at all.

How do I correct these problems? — Depressed.

Dear Depressed: I'd suggest:

(1) Review your nutrition program and begin correcting it.

(2) Send for my leaflet with exercises for double chin.

(3) Begin skin care. If your skin is dry enough for facial lines to form at 15, it should not be.

(4) Send your right name next time, on an envelope with an address and a stamp on it, and 60 cents. Repeat questions and I will send along the leaflet which I think will help you most.

• • •

When writing in, allow Doris four weeks for private reply which will be sent if a seven-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

'Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow,' Theme of NSA Fashion Show

By SUSAN KORAH
Women's Reporter

A fashion show which offered the audience something more than a view of glamorous styles and was almost a sewing lesson for the incressing number of women who make their own clothes, was presented by the National Secretaries Association, Bay of Quinte Chapter on Tuesday night at the Christ Church Hall.

Sponsored by Dominion Simplicity Patterns Limited, the show was mainly a display of women's styles ranging from the casually elegant to the ultra - sophisticated, but also included some fashions for men and children. The other part of the program consisted of a hair cutting and styling demonstration by Terry Hebden and Carmen Guerrera of Carmen's Beauty Salon.

"Yesterday - Today - Tomorrow" was the theme of the fashion show. The commentator was Miss Martha R. Fortier, director adult educational fashion promotion, Dominion Simplicity Patterns Ltd., whose comments on the styles were liberally sprinkled with tips and advice for the home-sewer.

With background music provided by Dorothy Aitchison, the models Dicia Ellis, Linda Whitehead, Phyllis Graham, Kathryn Kosi, Barbara Miller, Mary Ellen Rowland, Iris Downing, Bonnie Foods and Moira Williams, all members of the NSA paraded down the ramp and back again. The other models were Linda Lovelace, Charles Rowbotham for the men's styles and Lisa Phillips and Rickie Duvall for the children's fashions.

Some of the outfits shown were a "warmpants" dress (longer than hot pants for fall and winter wear) in trevira knit accessorized by a belt and tote bag made of a new suede-look fabric called velpanne, a black wrap coat in luxurious wool and a nightgown in arnel knit jersey that could double as a hostess gown.

The classic blazer, expected to be an ineivible part of the fashion scene this fall was represented in a lush stable-ez velvet version in burnt orange with cuffed pants to match. An evening ensemble in rich printed velvet which gleamed under the bright lights was topped by a gold long - sleeved sheer blouse featuring batwing sleeves. Velpanne appeared again as a belt to accessorize this outfit.

Little Rickie Duvall appeared in a jacquard knit forted and cotton vest and short pant ensemble worn with a long - sleeved shirt. Lisa Phillips showed off an eyecatching outfit for little girls, an angel - sleeved dress in acrylic knit with matching pants topped by a hooded cape in acrylic pile.

Another eyecatching outfit was a russet mini dress inspired by an artist's smock with contrasting yoke and cuffs. The hot pants worn underneath matched the yoke and cuffs. The commentator suggested that this outfit could be mixed and matched with the russet blazer suit that was shown earlier.

Charles Rowbotham provided the audience with a rather unusual treat -- the pleasure of viewing an adult male model displaying a new style. His striped coat was of fake fur with leather collar and pockets.

Warm pants or city pants made their appearance again this time in a jacquard design cranberry red acrylic knit fabric with a matching jacket accessorized by a contrasting velpanne belt and cap to match.

The commentator remarked that cranberry would be a popular color right up to spring. A pant suit in cranberry double knit consisted of a knee length dress (by far the most commonly shown length for dresses in this fashion show) and matching pants. The accessories were a printed bead-hugging hat and matching bag which gave a new look to the dress when worn by itself.

Other outfits included a glamorous indigo hostess gown in velvet and a four piece suit in "bien" a leather look fabric with a silk skirt revealing hot pants underneath with matching vest and turtle necked sweater.

To show that the dress is back in all its glory as a fashion item the six own right and not as part of a suit or ensemble, a few regular length versions noteworthy for their classic simplicity were modelled.

Two dramatic outfits were a hooded full length robe in dazzling white quilted lace trimmed with gold braid worn with hot pink pajamas and an evening gown in brilliant red crushed velvet topped by a white hooded coat in luxurious furry pile. The hemline of the dress curved upwards in an inverted U shape in front.

Earlier, during the hair-styling demonstration, the two stylists showed how one basic cut known as the shag cut could be adapted to a short style straight style blown dry with a bend either and a short curly style set on curlers. A medium length curly style using the same basic cut was demonstrated also a longer shag transformed into a "hostess style" and two exotic styles using hairpieces.

Draws for door prizes and refreshments served at the end of the show were other features of the program. The show was convened by Mrs. Cathy Ellis.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT DAVID RENOUF

Renouf – Moran

FRANKFORD — Frankford United Church was the setting on Saturday, September 18 when Deborah Lynn Moran exchanged marriage vows with Robert David Renouf of Ottawa. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moran, Frankford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Renouf, Belleville.

Rev. John P. Weese of Frankford assisted by Rev. A. L. Sutherland of Belleville officiated at the doublering ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Miss Sharyl De Mille, cousin of the bride.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride wore a full-length gown of chiffon over net over peau de soie. The full sheer sleeves with long fitted cuffs were trimmed with Swiss lace. An empire waistline was also bordered by Swiss lace. The soft full skirt ended in a full train, and her waist-length veil of tulle illusion which was caught to a bow of velvet ribbon completed her bridal ensemble. She carried a continental crescent bouquet of autumn shades of chrysanthemums.

Maid of honor, Joan Renouf, sister of the bridegroom and bridesmaids Lisa, Kelly and Francine Moran, all sisters of the bride were matching full-length gowns of printed crepe in autumn shades and accented with orange velvet. The gowns also featured empire waistlines and had short puffy sleeves. All attendants carried nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums intermingled with orange ribbon.

The bridegroom was attended by Clifford Parcels of Belleville as best man and the ushers were Robert Dido of Kingston, Ross Smith of Belleville and Bruce De Mille of Trenton.

A reception was held in Rose Lowry Hall following the ceremony. The mother of the bride received the guests wearing a cream polyester satin dress with a ruffled stand-up collar and a cape of deep brown satin, brown accessories and a pale green orchid corsage. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom wearing a mint green polyester satin dress and matching jacket with shoes to match, beige accessories and a cream orchid corsage.

For a wedding trip to Cape Cod and the New England States, the bride chose a navy coat and dress ensemble of crepe and trimmed with red braid, with matching shoes and purse and a dainty corsage of red, navy and white mums.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Renouf will reside in Ottawa.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Before her marriage, Mrs. Robert Renouf, (Deborah Moran) was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Richard Reid, Frankford with co-hostesses Mrs. G. Gilmour, Mrs. R. My evaluation was: Interesting but pretty gamy.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

STIRLING HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

The initial autumn meeting of the Stirling Horticultural Society was held on Monday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School with 32 in attendance.

Mrs. Floyd Armstrong conducted the opening exercises and presided over the business meeting. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Raymond Mc-Connell and a synopsis of the June flower show was given.

The prize money was set as $70. The Stirling Fair Board was given $55 for prizes for the September fall fair. The prize list was reviewed and plans were laid for the 1972 fair.

A letter of thanks was read from the Masonic order for the lovely display of yellow marigolds along the lawn, planted and cared for by the Society.

Three of the members brought bouquets of roses, gladioli and dahlias and later the presidents and four members visited Mr. and Mrs. B. Belshaw who were observing their 66th wedding anniversary the next day. For many years they have been very active in horticultural work in the village and only recently Mr. Belshaw had to retire due to failing health.

Plans were completed for a bus trip to the plowing match at Jarvis, Ontario in October and a visit to the royal winter fair, Toronto in November.

At the close of the meeting, a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

BELLEVILLE WHITE CANE CLUB

The Belleville White Cane Club business meeting was held recently at the Recreation Centre. It was opened in the regular manner. Mrs. Maude Rollins was at the piano.

President Harvey Bailey welcomed the 34 members and friends. Craig Brownlie was introduced and entertained the group on his violin. Carl Gilbert, a member of the club, played his accordion and also several selections on the piano. They were thanked by Harvey Bailey for a most enjoyable program.

Mrs. Rollins read the correspondence and the September CCB council commentary. It was noted that any person legally blind as defined in the regulations of the blind persons act and who is registered with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and thus availing themselves of all services of that agency is a registered blind person.

A person may refuse under the Civil Liberties Act to be registered with the CNIB, but being legally blind, could participate in the club and council activities. He further could, by availing himself of a membership card, have full vote in Council matters.

The subject of a new name for the club, which would officially recognize the members from Trenton as well as from Belleville, was discussed at some length. Harper McElrath made a motion that the name be changed to The Quinte White Cane Club, seconded by Pat Hornbrook. The motion carried unanimously. A new club membership certificate will be issued by head office.

Two Fathers Pool Resources and Share One Home

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal fathers think that they have found a practical solution to the problems of the single-parent family.

Mike, a 28-year-old technical writer, and Don, a 34-year-old electronics technician, both divorced, each have three children.

And raising an energetic group of six youngsters ranging in age from six to 11 is quite a job.

"It gets a little noisy around here sometimes but we're, used to it," Mike says. "Besides, the children get along well. Usually their only squabbles are the pillow-fights they have every night."

The fathers take turns doing the shopping, housekeeping and laundry. Until the children went on a short summer holiday with their mothers, they had a housekeeper who gave them their lunch and took care of them after school.

"We'll need another housekeeper," Don says. "But the neighborhood babysitters help. And the children pitch in with the dish-washing, table-setting, lawn-cutting and so on. They'll have to learn anyhow sometime."

Occasionally one father takes his children away for the weekend, giving the others a chance to have the house to themselves. Th whole group often goes on outings together such as a recent camping trip to an island when "they got us up at 4:30 in the morning clamoring for breakfast."

Loneliness, finances and a need to be accepted in community life were the three major problems of the single-parent family cited in a 1968 survey by the Vallee Institute for the Family.

Don and Mike's arrangement, however, seems to have solved two of these problems: They are not lonely and don't fel segregated from community life.

As for finances, the survey recommended special tax exemptions, subsidized housing and low-cost day care, and guaranteed annual incomes or higher family allowances as three ways of helping single parents.

Because Don owns the house, they are not interested in subsidized housing or outside daycare.

They are in favor of higher allowances, however. At the moment they get about $40 a month for each child from the federal government and about $105 every six months from the provincial government.

"Even a special tax exemption would help defray the cost of hiring a housekeeper," say the two men. "And we've also got to think of the cost of educating the children."

Finance Minister Benson's good news for those men is that as of January, 1972, they will be able to deduct $500 per child under 14 to a total not exceeding $2,000.

Mike and Don do not claim that it is easy to be a single parent. But they do think that their solution to the problem is good and definitely practical.

WEDDING

WOOLFREY — CRAIGEN

A recent wedding was solemnized at St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, when Maureen Teresa Craigen, daughter of Mrs. Anthony Craigen and the late Mr. Craigen became the bride of Charles Richard Woolfrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Woolfrey, Tweed. Rev. Dean C. E. Baker officiated at the nuptial Mass and the double - ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mr. James McCormick with Mrs. Clive Kingston as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James Craigen, chose a full length gown of white peau de soie, covered by an overlay of white organza and featuring an empire bodice with sheer yoke, wedding band collar and bishop sleeves ending in lace trimmed cuffs. The dress was enhanced with white cut-out lace over ribbons of pink peau de soie. The detachable train extended from the back waistline. Her tiered nylon illusion veil was caught to a bandeau of rose buds. She carried a casual bouquet of roses and carnations entwined with long pink ribbons.

Mrs. Charles Graham of Chesterville, was matron of honor, for her sister and the bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. John Manson of Toronto. Miss Margaret Woolfrey, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Maureen Quinn.

All the attendants were full-length empire styled gowns of pink peau de soie featuring a wedding band collar, elbow length pink organza puffed sleeves ending in a narrow cuff of peau de soie. They wore matching head pieces and carried bouquets of carnations, roses and daisies.

Little Suzanne Craigen, niece of the bride, who was flower girl, wore a full-length gown of pink peau de soie designed similarly to those of the attendants.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Paul Woolfrey. The guests were ushered by Mr. Michael Craigen, Mr. Dick Beare, Mr. Gary Wolfe of Toronto and Mr. Nicholas Rivers-Moore of Toronto.

The reception was held at the Land O'Lakes Curling Club.

The mother of the bride wore a street - length ensemble consisting of a multi-colored dress with a long vest of deep pink crimplene and a corsage of white mums.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a turquoise crimplene sleeveless dress and coat ensemble with a corsage of pink roses.

The newly married couple took up residence in Toronto where the bridegroom is a student at Osgoode Hall and the bride will attend Toronto Teachers' College.

Some Fur Species Refused by Furriers

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian furriers say they are not making coats from the pelts of any endangered animal species.

At the same time, most of them agree with Holt, Renfrew president Leonard Shavick, who says: "Any businessman with any kind of conscience believes in conservation to a practical point, but we must resist mass hysteria."

Most furriers take their information about threatened animals from the Red Data Book, published by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources. It currently lists five endangered species: tiger, snow and cloud leopards, La Plata and giant otters.

The Swiss Fur Industry Association has stopped dealing in all of them. Canadian retailers say they see no need for such an agreement here, but Eaton's, Simpsons, Creed's and Holt Renfrew have stoped purchasing these pelts voluntarily. Spokesmen say they believe there are only a few bundles of mink in the country, purchased before the danger was known.

Eaton's took its stand at the beginning of this year and announced it would no longer carry anything made of or trimmed with leopard, ocelot, cheetah, tiger or jaguar.

John Williams, Toronto-area fashion merchandise manager, says the store went further than the Red Book because "a couple of these animals were on the borderline. We have sided with the conservationists."

He says the store did not make its move just for publicity.

"It's true the consumer twigged our conscience, but it's also true that our conscience responded."

Mr. Shavick says: "If it's endangered, if it's proven, of course we wouldn't sell it. It's questionable if the normal African leopard is endangered. Mexican and Brazilian ocelots are not endangered, they're most plentiful."

He estimates the cost of a fine leopard coat at upwards of $30,000. Ocelot coats range from $2,500 to $8,000 with an occasional $9,000 for a clear blue Mexican.

Al Simpson, Gene Fecteau, Toronto-area fur buyer, says: "There was no decision taken that we would not handle the spotty furs, but we have not anyway. There are very few furs in this category, very few sales anyway."

No furrier will agree with the wildlife protectors who say it is wrong for any animal to be killed for clothing.

Creed president Edmond Creed puts their case clearly. He says his stores use the Red Book as their guide.

"All the other species on lists are on the lists of various other organizations. I question whether they have the complete scientific facts.

"What they have done is scared the hell out of the public and created an environment that makes it unpopular to buy certain furs."

He says the cause has been taken up by "people concerned with wildlife and by groups of women who have nothing better to do. It happens to be a good committee to work on, it's popular at the moment."

"Canada was weaned on the fur industry. If pressures continue unrestricted they could seriously hurt a multi-million dollar business in Canada. There must be thousands of people involved from the trappers through all parts of the fur industry.

"As far as wild furs are concerned, there's a legal season on hunting and trapping. The government keeps a pretty good eye on that situation. Most governments do."

Mr. Williams says many of the best furs are especially grown on ranches.

He says the St. Lawrence baby seal pelts are never used in the fur industry.

"They're only used for bric-a-brac."

Despite the flack, all four spokesmen say fur sales have not suffered. Mr. Creed says his sales are up over last year.

Women's Role In Church To Be Studied

REGINA (CP) — The Catholic Women's League of Canada decided Thursday to study the role of women in the administration of the Roman Catholic Church but not all of the members agreed women should get out of the home.

Mary Dobell of Toronto, national chairman of the church life committee, said during presentation of a report at the league's annual meeting that the role of women in the church should be studied.

But two delegates rose to say "God created men and women different" and "the league should pay tribute to women's role as mothers in the home."

Members of the executive quickly rose to suggest that the study would also look into the rights of women as mothers and give recognition to that role. But they were firm in believing that equality should be recognized.

A nun said God created men and women "and gave them dominion over the earth." She said that the men and women were equal but were given different functions. They could perform these separately, but they were given equal status.

Equality of women was approved in voting, however, when delegates, who represent 106,000 Roman Catholic women across Canada, voted to support a telegram sent earlier in the week by the executive to the Canadian Catholic Conference of bishops in Edmonton. The telegram asked that Canadian bishops ask a council of synod in Rome later this month to remove discriminatory barriers against women in canon law, tradition and practice.

Today, delegates were to debate about 30 other resolutions, already approved by the executive.

These include resolutions asking the federal government to include unborn babies as human beings in the Canadian Bill of Rights. This would ensure the unborn of protection against abortion, the resolution says.

The league believes that abortion is murder.

Mrs J. J. Matthews of Toronto, second vice-president, said the league is seeking to express its responsibility to women with unwanted pregnancies and to children who are born unwanted by natural parents by assisting local agencies.

ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION LADIES' AUXILIARY

The first regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion held after the summer recess was in the new Legion hall on September 21 with a good attendance.

President Gwen Semark presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner. There were 14 applications for membership favorably received. They will be notified to attend the next meeting.

Marg Lewis reported on the sick who had cards sent to them and Dorothy Rashotte reported on the pot luck supper...ill will be held on Friday October 22 at 6.30 p.m. Those who have raffle tickets for sale are reminded to bring the money and left-over tickets to the next meeting.

Elizabeth Hunter asked the members to collect articles for the rummage sale in November. Lola Templeton reported on sports. Three baseball games were played with Desmond in summer with the Belleville women winning two out of three games to win the trophy.

Gwen Semark reported that a number of banquets are coming up this month. The bus trip has been cancelled in favor of a dinner out, and a social in the Legion hall afterwards.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by Dolores Cunningham and committee. Members are reminded of the next general meeting on October 19.

LEGION LADIES' AUXILIARY

FRANKFORD — The Legion Ladies' Auxiliary September meeting was opened by the president Edna Patrick who welcomed all the members back. The secretary's and the treasurer's reports were given.

The secretary read letters of thanks from the Bank of Montreal, Trenton, for catering for their dinner and from Brian Hand for sponsoring a girls' ball team. A letter of resignation was received from vice - president Mrs. Phil Butland who has moved from this area. A letter of thanks was written to Tom Patrick for the donation of a three-can garbage container.

The banquet report was read by Leah Pittman. Through July and August she conveyed four wedding banquets and two lunches; one for the Zone F 2 meeting; and one for the baseball game between the Branch men and the ladies auxiliary. The proceeds went toward sports.

It was reported that flowers and cards went to the sick. The entertainment committee reported on a bus trip planned for November 6 to Maple Leaf Gardens to see the Icecapades.

The bingo report was given by Gwen Chard. Bingo is now played every Tuesday night and a few changes have been made to favor the player.

Two new members were welcomed to the Auxiliary, Mrs. Edna Wilson and Mrs. Marie Leash of Frankford.

Leah Pittman was nominated for first vice - president.

The door prize was won by Clafa Blow and the attendance draw by Glenda Tolan.

A social half hour and lunch were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

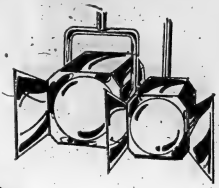
Club Activities

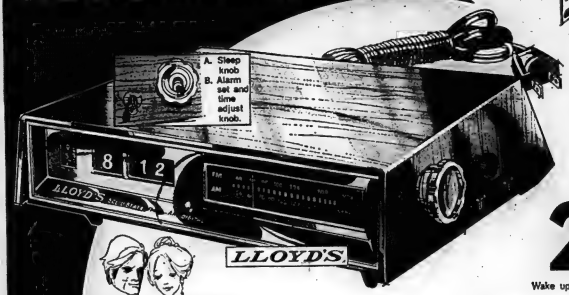
WEDDING RING CLUB

The first fall meeting of the Wedding Ring Club was held at Riverside Park, recently, where group one with leaders Ken and Lela Belcour, entertained the club with a corn roast. Members were heartily welcomed by the new season's presidents, Bill and Louise Sellars, with Bill opening the meeting with a poem.

Devotions were in charge of the first group also, with Boyd Moorcroft and Monty Moorcroft assisting, also joining Boyd in a duet. Boyd Moorcroft read the story of the great runner Glenn Cunningham.



During the business period of the meeting, Florence and Donald Watson were appointed press reporters for the coming seasons. It was decided to send a new style hymnal to ex-members Doris and Carmen Sine who have left the city to reside in Bancroft.



It was reported there will be Hallowe'en pumpkins for sale again this year at the October meeting. All reports for the summer were in order and the meeting closed, followed by a delicious corn roast, good fellowship and the 'friendship circle'.

Hijacker Non-existent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — A student pilot who radioed that he was being hijacked in a light plane admitted Tuesday that his story was a hoax, the FBI said.

He was a student pilot and apparently he was drunk," a spokesman for the FBI said.

"He got the plane up in the air and then realized he didn't have sufficient training to get the thing down."

Eye on U.S.

House Grudgingly Approves Support Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Uneasiness on the part of both Liberal and Conservative speakers and un-yielding criticism of New Democrats and Social Credit benches marked Commons passage Tuesday of legislation to help firms affected by the supplementary duty on imports imposed by the United States.

The bill received final Commons approval by 138 votes to 24 as Conservatives and Liberals overwhelmed New Democrats and Social Crediters.

Bruce Howard, parliamentary secretary to Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, seemed to have one eye on Washington as he described the nature of the bill that would provide $80 million for Canadian exporters.

He noted the possibility of the United States imposing additional duties on imports from Canada to cancel the effects of the Canadian legislation. The U.S. government had taken inconsistent measures in this area in the past.

The $80 million, he said, "is not an export subsidy."

"There is no obligation on the part of a company receiving assistance to maintain any export level."

The grants "will not give Canadian firms an unfair competitive advantage in export markets."

Conservative uneasiness was based on other considerations.

Harold Danforth (PC—Kent-Essex) said "we are deliberately asking for more trouble because of direct government intervention in the affairs of the business community."

The grants would not increase Canada's gross national product, but could well create a glut of export goods. He said he would vote for the bill but felt reluctant and uneasy doing so.

"One of the reasons for my uneasiness is that this bill is explicit —it is an act in support of employment. In other words, it is just another adherent to the whole program of unemployment insurance and is not, as we pictured it, a bold and determined effort to sustain our industry when faced with the problem of the surcharge."

He remained disappointed that the bill provided no assistance to primary producers such as farmers, fishermen, mining firms or pulp and paper companies.

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) said that since the bill makes no provision for farmers and fishermen it should be sent back to committee for reconsideration. A motion to that effect was defeated 137 to 24.

He also criticized the legislation for being a "corporate welfare assistance act" and called on the government to make public the names of firms receiving grants, the amount of each grant, and information showing how many jobs were saved in each case.

Roland Godin (SC—Portneuf) said the program is designed to subsidize the U.S. consumer with the money of Canadian taxpayers. The plan was also conducive to political patronage.

Mr. Pepin rose midway through the debate to appeal for unanimous passage of the bill. Such unanimity, he said, would show the United States government that Canadians are united in their disapproval of the supplementary duty and other protectionist economic measures announced Aug. 15 by President Nixon.

He said the bill covers 85 per cent of Canadian industry that will be hurt by the duty and the government would bring in special legislation to help farmers affected.

Norman Cafik (L—Ontario) stressed that "this is not some kind of giveaway program involving large sums of money in most cases."

A firm with $500,000 worth of exports to the United States would face a U.S. supplementary duty of $50,000 and could get two-thirds of that amount —$33,000—in a Canadian government grant.

He praised the bill for empowering the board which supervises the grants to recommend grants to firms in cases where the normal guidelines are not met.

The guidelines are that 20 per cent of the firm's production in the base year of 1970 must have gone to the United States and the maximum grant would be two-thirds of the applicable surtax.

NATO Okays Canadian Oil Spill Proposals

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian contention that international law needs revision to cope with oil spills from supertankers has been endorsed by the North Atlantic Assembly, a grouping of legislators from the member-states of NATO.

At its windup session here Tuesday, the assembly adopted a recommendation calling for support of a new law-of-the-sea conference aimed at producing "more effective international law—concerning shipments of cargoes dangerous to the environment."

The recommendation, directed at the policy-making North Atlantic Council, originally was proposed by Canadian MP Paul St. Pierre (L—Coast Chilcotin) to the assembly's scientific and technical committee.

Addressing the assembly in plenary session Tuesday, Mr. St. Pierre said present international law is hopelessly outdated from the standpoint of protecting coastal states from the consequences of major oil spills by giant tankers.

"In its present form, the law is 'an ass,' " he declared.

The meeting, which opened last Thursday, originally was to adjourn at noon today. But it finished its work ahead of time.

The close to 200 delegates were to leave today for Edmonton where they will watch a demonstration Thursday by the 1st Canadian Airborne Regiment.

The sessions were dominated by the current international trade and monetary crisis, which produced a resolution earlier Tuesday expressing concern at emergency measures taken by President Nixon to improve the U.S. balance-of-payments position.

But in its final stages, dealing with the report of the scientific committee, the assembly adopted a series of recommendations having to do with quality of life.

Besides the one on oil pollution, these tackled the problems of noise and narcotics.

The assembly described illicit use of drugs as a menace to "the security of all NATO nations and the health and welfare of all mankind" and urged international co-operation in eliminating the menace.

It said noise has become "a great threat to the welfare of mankind," and called for application of international noise-tolerance standards before supersonic airliners enter commercial service at the end of 1975.

Too many people, said one resolution, look at technical progress "without considering their responsibilities vis-a-vis the environment."

"No, you can't help me, I'm beyond help!"

Pesticide Blamed for Deaths

VICTORIA (CP) — The deaths of hundreds of birds at Prince Rupert, B.C., may have been caused by DDT or some other organic pesticide, a provincial wildlife biologist said Tuesday.

Rory Finnegan said the birds' behavior before their deaths indicated that a pesticide was to blame. He said he believes 2, 4-D, a herbicide used to kill alder trees, was used in a spraying program this year on the Skeena River, which flows into the sea near Prince Rupert.

Government Course Praised by Businessman

QUEBEC (CP) — The federal government was commended Tuesday for "outstanding work" in the economic field by a business representative speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

E. H. Davis, the new provincial vice-president of the national organization for Alberta, said businessmen should recognize that government has "ultimate responsibility" for the economy.

He urged his colleagues to "seriously consider entering government service, regardless of remuneration" in order to influence government policy.

Mr. Davis, president of Systems Investments Ltd., Calgary, was a speaker at a panel session on government-business relations.

"There is a growing antagonism between government and business," Mr. Davis said.

Part of the conflict stemmed from the fact that business must make long-term plans for investments while governments are under short-term pressures from the electorate.

Mr. Davis disagreed with some government programs but stressed a positive approach to change.

"Government, and particularly the incumbent government is doing outstanding work and showing great courage in its examination of various phases of the Canadian economy."

However, he said, current sweeping economic conditions dictate that certain decisions cannot be delayed.

"The federal government should give consideration to changes in tax law which will allow the phasing out of some sections of the economy and encourage the phasing in of those parts of our economy which study has indicated have a reasonable prospect of growth."

Mr. Davis said he did not agree with the policy of the current federal government of introducing draft legislation or issuing white papers as a means of inviting public debate.

Marc Lalonde, principal secretary to the prime minister and the other speaker on the panel, told a questioner the draft legislation or white paper approach is a calculated government policy.

"I will not confirm that these are extreme statements . . . that are put up there to be shot down."

Mr. Davis' contention was that "government must stand or fall on its policies, as the public can exercise its democratic right by udging after the fact."

Mr. Davis said Canadian businessmen frequently lean heavily on government in emergency situations and this leads to an increase in the public sector of the economy. The restrictions on Canadian exports due to increased U.S. tariffs is an example of such an emergency situation.

Picton Kiwanians Present Cheques

Capt. Kenneth Crewe of the Salvation Army, Picton, accepted a donation toward the sponsorship of youngsters attending Robbin Lake summer camp in Amelasburg township.

Land for the camp was purchased and donated to the Salvation Army by former Picton mayor H. J. McFarland and Senator William Ross.

A cheque for $500 was presented to Picton recreation director Wayne Ring to assist in supporting a recreation program in Picton.

This popular event is cosponsored by the Picton Kiwanis Club and the Prince Edward Agricultural Society.

A $100 donation to offset the cost of heat installation at the County Centre was presented to Kiwanis president Leslie Tolley who is a member of the arena commission.

Third Try Brings Jail

William Kenneth DeShane of 509 Dundas Street, pleaded guilty in provincial court yesterday, to a charge of common assault against Mrs. Irmgard Krippendorf of the same address and was sentenced to a six-month jail term. He also pleaded guilty to causing wilful damage by breaking a window in an attempt to get into the Krippendorf apartment. He will serve a term of one month concurrent with the lengthier sentence.

Evidence submitted by the crown stated that DeShane had struck Mrs. Kripendorf several times in the face, mouth and body and although the defendant refuted this statement, charging he only shoved the woman, the evidence was accepted by Judge T. Y. Wills.

"Already fined $50 and sentenced to a probationary period of July 5, for attacking the same woman, DeShane was a remanded on his own recognizance Aug. 24 on the repeat charge.

While out on bail, he once again returned to the apartment building they both share and broke a window in an attempt to gain entry. He was again arrested.

Nixon Here Tomorrow

TRENTON (Staff) — Opposition leader Robert Nixon will make his third trip to Quinte riding in recent weeks to accept the invitation of CJBQ radio to appear on the Open Line What Do You Think program.

Arriving at CFB Trenton by air at 9:40 a.m. tomorrow, he will be greeted by civic leaders from Belleville, Sidney Township and Trenton, Liberal candidate Gerald Weaver, and a delegation of Liberal doctors.

Campaign organizers said today plans call for Mr. Nixon to travel to Belleville by motorcade to be greeted on the steps of The Intelligencer - CJBQ building by Mayor J. Russell Scott, to sign the city guest book.

Following the official greeting, he will enter CJBQ studios for the radio broadcast, returning to Trenton at noon, for his departure to London, Ontario.

$15,000 Damage In Barn Blaze

SOPHIASBURG (Staff) — A Prince Edward County farmer lost his barn and partial contents last night in a fire that caused an estimated $15,000 damage.

The barn, owned by Perry Roddick, RR2, Demorestville, burned to the ground as members of the Amelasburg township fire department fought to keep flames from spreading to nearby buildings.

Lost in the blaze were three calves, three milking machines, a milk cooler, a bale elevator, 3,000 bales of hay and 600 bales of straw. The fire broke out shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday.

A second fire in Sophiasburg township less than two weeks ago destroyed a farm barn owned by Herbert Allison, RR8, Picton and caused an estimated $11,000 damage.

Police said the transport and its load was extensively damaged in the mishap which occurred shortly before 7 a.m.

Jamaicans Help With Harvest

Later Than Usual

Apple Harvest Now On

AMELIASBURG (Staff) — Although apples reportedly are ripening slowly in Prince Edward this fall, everything seems rosy at Bayview Orchards, operated by Ameliasburg grower Harold Bonter.

Mr. Bonter said yesterday that "mostly everything is being picked in some places in the orchard" and remarked that less than 10 per cent of the harvest, on the average, is being left on the trees.

Twice as many McIntosh apples are sold, however, as those of other varieties. Approximately 20 pickers were at work yesterday in Bayview Orchards harvesting this year's crop.

Ten of these pickers were men from the British West Indies who will remain in Prince Edward during the apple harvest. Five of them arrived at the Bonter Orchards a month ago and now are living in resident quarters nearby.

Mr. Bonter observed that he finds it difficult to hire dependable pickers throughout the harvest season.

He commented that this work can be done by high school students eager to earn money but pointed out apple picking begins soon after the fall school term opens. For this reason students cannot work steadily in the orchards.

The grower added it is not feasible to hire a student group for just weekends since it becomes "almost impossible" to organize them in such a short time.

The Jamaicans now picking in Bayview Orchards have proved generally reliable and can work steadily at their jobs.

Mr. Bonter explained these workers come to Canada during the apple harvest apparently because of job scarcity on their home island.

Several of these men, however, do have jobs in Jamaica and in some cases have taken leaves of absence to pick apples in Prince Edward.

A personable worker named Jim commented that this is the slow season at the Jamaican hotel where he works as a waiter. He spoke with the hotel manager and was told he could take a temporary leave to work in Canada.

Jim noted he does not directly make more money picking apples than he does working at the hotel, he simply likes Prince Edward County.

"It's very good experience to come here," he remarked, "but it also is very cold."

A second Jamaican worker said he works a small farm of his own and raises sugar cane and bananas.

All of the pickers seemed to agree that they enjoy visiting Prince Edward and Canada.

In other county orchards warm nights and cloudy days have conspired to slow the coloring of apples.

Robert Cobbledick, Ontario fruit and vegetable specialist in Prince Edward said yesterday maturity tests show apples generally are ripening more slowly than usual.

He reported spot picking in several orchards on Redners-ville Road and said the apple crop is about a week late.

"Normally by the week of September 25th, apples are well into the mature stage," he remarked.

Mr. Cobbledick attributed crop lateness to a slow spring which held back the apple crop.

He said a test using the mean average of the maximum and minimum temperatures 40 days after petal fall was plotted on a graph to indicate a picking date locally.

Guns Stolen From Shop

An undisclosed quantity of what city police describe as "high-powered guns" was stolen from the shelves and racks of Griffin's Guns and Sports Shop at 180 North Front Street last night.

Until the manager of the store returns from a business trip, police will not be able to give an exact figure or description of the stolen weapons, but believe the number stolen to be 10.

A spokesman for the gun shop said this morning if any ammunition was taken as well, there was "not a great deal."

Police believe the thief or thieves rammed a foot through the glass door of the shop.

The shop employee stated Griffin's has approximately 100 rifles, shotguns and hand guns on hand, especially for the busy hunting season.

Quiet Night For Police

Following a hefty weekend of police activity, the city force had few problems of major importance Monday.

Although night crawlers broke a window and gained entry at City Cleaners, 160 Moira Street east, only a casual attempt was made to break into the soft drink dispenser. Little damage was sustained by the machine.

Police also believe their presence frightened away a would-be thief attempting to enter a window at Ruddy Electric.

Storm Sewer Start Possible This Winter

An early winter construction start on a proposed half-million-dollar storm sewer to run from Treacy Street across North Front Street and east to the Moira River, is seen possible by city engineer Wilbur Purcell.

The storm sewer, in the planning stage for several years, would drain the area west of North Front Street and empty into the river just north of Lazier's dam.

The design for the 66-inch storm sewer has been completed although detailed specifications are still to be drawn and tenders called.

But before work can commence, expropriation proceedings to obtain an easement, over Belleville Livestock Sales Company Ltd. land on the east side of North Front Street have to be completed.

Earlier this month, a hearing was held to determine the "fairness, soundness and reasonable necessity" of the city taking the lands, with the decision being in favor of the city.

However, it could be three months or more before the city could obtain possession.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell told the hearing that the route chosen for the sewer was the best route possible from the viewpoint of engineering, cost to the taxpayer and lack of inconvenience.

Alternative routes have been considered but had been considered to be impractical.

The proposed storm sewer would be a minimum of 16 feet below grade at North Front Street while at North Park Street it would be about 30 feet below grade.

Construction of the sewer would not prevent the erection of buildings directly over the pipe, provided footings were so constructed that the weight of the building did not fall directly on the sewer.

Quinte Riding Voters Increase 30 Per Cent

With release of a preliminary, unaudited voters' list, the provincial riding of Quinte has realized a 30 per cent increase in voters since the last provincial elections in 1967.

This preliminary list, compiled by the returning officer's office, shows that electoral districts in Belleville, Trenton, CFB Trenton and Middleton Park, Frankford, and Sidney Township, have a total of 38,254 voters. The revised list of 1967 for the same districts shows only 29,478 voters.

Described by provincial returning officer for Quinte, Gerald Joyce, as "the first barometer of what the population figures will be", the preliminary list indicates the most extreme increase has been experienced in the rural ridings.

These increases are as follows:

- CFB Trenton and Middleton Park: 1,650 from 923. (80 per cent)
- Sidney Township: 5,129 from 3,616. (65 per cent)
- Frankford: 1,300 from 871. (38 per cent)

The total increases for Belleville is from 17,986 to 21,814. The increase for Trenton is from 6,172 to 8,443, up by 37 per cent.

While the 1967 figures are final, the 1971 revised poll will not be complete until Oct. 18. At that time, Mr. Joyce anticipates the 38,254 figure will jump to the 39,000 mark.

Although the lowering of the legal voting age from 21 to 18 has had an effect of increasing the number of voters, Mr. Joyce says poll trends indicate the major increase has been prompted by the influx of apartment dwellings, new single family units and senior citizens homes.

"Certainly some portion of the increase is prompted by young people, but not all," he told The Intelligencer this morning.

Mr. Joyce also said that, while the federal government have conducted a canvas, the preliminary polls being audited throughout the province have provided the first samplers of current population increases in Canadian adults residing in the province over the last 12 months.

A release from the central returning office, received in Belleville this morning, advises all returning officers to obtain proper oaths from proxy voters.

This notice, directly concerned with transient university and college students, also applies to members of the armed services, physically handicapped voters unable to attend voting stations, and such transportation employees as truckers, railroaders, seamen, and airline personnel.

If these voters do not vote by proxy for their home ridings, special oaths must be obtained, cutting off ties from previous residences. This oath, received at the discretion of the returning officer, will allow voters to be re-enumerated.

Mr. Joyce said that Quinte riding has had a good record for getting voters to the polls. He said, of the 29,478 voters in the 1971, a total of 21,846 voted.

Girl Missing

DESERONTO (Staff) — Deseronto police have issued a province-wide missing person bulletin for 15-year-old Deona Arlene White, a five-foot two-inch, 90-pound girl with light brown hair.

The provincial report, released over teletype machines at the Belleville Police Department, was received at 9:40 p.m. yesterday.

Police advise the girl may be accompanying three other youths to Western Canada.

Stop! The Man Says

While a crewman holds a stop sign used for oncoming traffic, fellow workers last night install safety fencing at the road-widening site on Dundas Street East. The $214,570 contract for widening of Dundas Street from Bleecker Ave. to the firehall, from a two-lane, 30-foot width, to four lanes, has been under way since Sept. 2. McFarland Construction crews have relaid 150 feet of the 1,200 foot storm sewer section involved and the nine men employed will work on curbs, gutters, sidewalks and road surface until the mid-December cold weather halt. Total work, including installation of cement Public Utilities poles and traffic lights at MacDonald and Dufferin Avenues, is expected to be concluded by May of 1972. In the meantime, traffic moves slowly over the work-roughened street, many drivers detouring along Bridge Street.

Fans Cheer Effigy

The 3,242 Washington fans in the Robert F. Kennedy Stadium Tuesday were not in a friendly mood, despite the Senators' 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the start of the Senators' final home stand of the season.

The fans' biggest cheers of the night didn't go to Dick Billings and Jeff Borroughs, whose run-scoring hits in the seventh inning gave Washington its margin of victory.

Nor were they reserved for Joe Grzenda, who pitched three innings of one-hit relief for the victory.

They didn't even go to New York's Roy White, who set an American League record with his 17th sacrifice fly of the season.

The ovation went instead to one of the fans—who spent the better part of the game parading around the stadium with an effigy of Senators' owner Bob Short.

It was a week ago that Short was given permission by the rest of the league owners to move his team to Dallas-Fort Worth next season.

In other American League games, Cleveland Indians beat Detroit Tigers 8-7 in the conclusion of a June 20 suspended game before the Tigers won 4-3 in the regularly-scheduled contest, Baltimore Orioles swept a twi-night doubleheader from Boston Red Sox 10-3 and 3-4, Oakland Athletics edged Kansas City Royals 1-0, Milwaukee Brewers nipped Chicago White Sox 3-2 and California Angels beat Minnesota Twins 6-2.

Vada Pinson's single and Ted Uhlaender's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning gave the Indians their victory in the game halted more than three months ago by a power failure.

But the Tigers had all the power the rest of the night as Norm Cash belted two home runs, his 31st and 32nd of the year, and Gates Brown and Bill Freehan hit one apiece to give Joe Coleman his 20th victory.

It gave Detroit its first double 20-game winners—Mickey Lolich has 25—since Billy Hoeft and Frank Lary did it in 1956.

Dave McNally raised his record to 21-5 in the Orioles' opening-game victory as Boog Powell drove in three runs and Ellie Hendricks and Jerry DaVanon knocked in two apiece.

Dodger Veteran, Giant Rookie Keep Pennant Race Cooking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One year after Chris Speier was born, Maury Wills was playing his first season of professional baseball.

Tuesday night the two shortstops—Speier, the 21-year-old rookie with San Francisco Giants and the 38-year-old veteran of Los Angeles Dodgers—had the key hits for their teams as the National League's slimline West Division race continued to boil.

Speier whacked a three-run homer, leading San Francisco to a 7-1 victory over San Diego Padres, keeping the Giants one game ahead of the Dodgers with two games remaining.

Wills cracked a run-scoring single, breaking a tie in the eighth inning and giving the Dodgers a 3-1 triumph over Houston Astros.

The Dodgers were locked in a 1-1 struggle with Houston and had been held to two hits by Don Wilson when Wills came to bat in the eighth inning with Bobby Valentine on second after drawing a one-out walk and being sacrificed by pitcher Bill Singer.

Wills then sledged sharply off the glove of shortstop Roger Metzger. The ball rolled behind Metzger and into short centre field as Valentine raced home with the decisive run.

The Dodgers' other run came on Duke Sims' homer leading off the sixth inning. It was his third homer in the last three games and his fourth homer in the last four games he has started. It also made him the first baseburner against Wilson, who had retired the first 15 Dodger batters.

Wilson, 16-10, and Singer, 10-11, both finished with three-hitters in the rapidly-played game which lasted only one hour and 37 minutes.

While the Giants and Dodgers were continuing their torrid duel for the West championship, Philadelphia Phillies defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3, Atlanta Braves blanked Cincinnati Reds 4-0, Montreal Expos edged Chicago Cubs 5-4 and St. Louis Cardinals downed New York Mets 5-2 in other National League games.

Singer, who has been hampered by arm injuries through most of the season, rallied his performance against the Astros one of the best games he has ever pitched.

The only run Houston managed off the Dodgers' right-hander came in the fourth inning when Joe Morgan walked, took second on Cesar Cedeno's single and scored on Bob Watson's hit. Cedeno, who had taken second on a passed ball by Sims, also tried to score on the play but was thrown out by centre fielder Willie Davis.

Speier's homer, his eighth of the season, capped a four-run San Francisco uprising in the sixth inning and eased Gaylord Perry's 14th victory.

Speier said he tried to call time just before Padres' rookie Ed Acosta threw the pitch which he smashed over the left field wall, but the plate umpire apparently didn't hear him.

"As soon as I saw the ball I swung," he said.

The Giants had scored twice in the first inning when Tito Fuentes singled and Willie Mays and Willie McCovey walked. Fuentes came home as Bobby Bonds grounded into a force out and Mays also scored when Enzo Hernandez threw the ball wild to first in trying for a double play.

McCovey doubled to start San Francisco's burst. After Dick Dietz was intentionally walked with two out, Alan Gallagher singled in McCovey and Speier followed with his decisive homer, giving the Giants a 6-1 lead.

Perry, 16-12, checked the Padres on seven hits.

Two-run homers by Deron Johnson and Greg Luzinski plus a solo shot by Mike Anderson helped Philadelphia's Rick Wise post his 17th victory as he beat Pittsburgh with a nine-hitter, foiling Dock Ellis' bid for his 20th victory. The Pirates' Willie Stargell walloped his 48th homer and tripled at the major-league head.

Knuckleballer Phil Niekro baffled Cincinnati on three hits and Ralph Garr extended his hitting streak to 22 games as Atlanta beat the Reds and clinched third place in the West. Garr doubled home the only run Niekro needed in the third inning, then Earl Williams doubled in two more runs in the fourth and scored on Dusty Baker's double.

Rusty Staub's run-scoring single in the seventh of the ninth carried Montreal past Chicago. The Expos' Ron Hunt tied a 75-year-old major league record when he was hit by a pitch for the 49th time this season.

Steve Carlton, a 19-game loser last year, became a 20-game winner for St. Louis this season, stopping the Mets on seven hits.

Orioles at Home For Playoff Opener

Baltimore Orioles, boasting 20-game winners in Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar, Jim Palmer and Pat Dobson, and seeking their third consecutive American League pennant, begin the American League playoffs at home Saturday against the title-hungry Oakland Athletics, led by brilliant young Vida Blue.

The National League playoffs also start Saturday, with Pittsburgh Pirates meeting San Francisco Giants or Los Angeles Dodgers in the home of the West Division champion.

The Orioles, winners of 100 games for the second year in a row, will be aiming for their third straight three-game sweep in the playoffs. They swept Minnesota Twins in the best-of-five series in both 1969 and 1970.

After beating the Twins two years ago, the Orioles lost the World Series to New York Mets in five games, but last year they defeated Cincinnati Reds in five games in the Series.

This year, the Orioles probably will loom as favorites to repeat as world champions because of their brilliant pitching staff. Only one other club in major league history—the 1929 Chicago White Sox—had four 20-game winners in the same year.

McNally, who is scheduled to pitch the opening playoff game against the Athletics, is the Orioles' top winner with 21 victories, the fourth consecutive year he has reached the 20-victory mark. Cuellar, the probable second-game starter against Oakland; Palmer, the likely third-game starter, and Dobson have each won 20.

Blue, a 24 game winner in his first full season in the majors, the American League leader in earned run average and tied for the strikeout lead with Detroit's Mickey Lolich, each with 301, is slated to pitch against McNally.

Games three, four and five are scheduled for Oakland on Oct. 5, 6 and 7, following a day for travel. Chuck Dobson, a 15-game winner, probably will be the Oakland starter in game three.

This is Oakland's first title since the club moved west from Kansas City in 1968. And it is the Athletics first year under Williams, who piloted Boston to the American League championship in 1967.

Pittsburgh, National League East Division champion for the second year in a row, will be trying to avenge its three-game elimination by Cincinnati in last year's playoffs against either San Francisco or Los Angeles.

The Pirates, however, will open the playoffs on the road. Games one and two are scheduled Saturday and Sunday in the city of the West Division winner. After a day off for travel, the series moves to Pittsburgh for games three, four and five on Oct. 5, 6 and 7.

With two games remaining in the wild West race, the Giants lead the Dodgers by one game.

Following the playoffs, the World Series begins Oct. 9 in the park of the American League champion. The second game also will be played there Oct. 10, then the scene shifts to the home of the National League champion for the next three games on Oct. 12, 13 and 14. If games six and seven are necessary, they will be held Oct. 16 and 17 in Baltimore or Oakland.

McQuay Making Bid to Join Exclusive CFL Rushing Club

TORONTO (CP) — There was a time when one of the most coveted honors for running backs in Canadian professional football was rushing for 1,000 yards in a season.

The honor is still sought after by most backs but the 1,000-yard club has become less exclusive since Howard Waugh of Calgary first broke the barrier in 1956.

Since that time, 27 players have done it 58 times, with at least two each season, Canadian Football League statistics show.

In four seasons between 1958 and 1961, five backs have rushed for 1,000 yards or more in one season but in recent years only two or three have succeeded in one season.

Western backs have dominated the 1,000-yard club since 1954, with 38 of them reaching that coveted level 43 times compared to nine doing so 15 times in the East. Of the 43 times the barrier was broken in the West, Edmonton backs did it 10 times, as did Calgary's. Backs from Saskatchewan and Winnipeg did it eight times each while British Columbia backs did it seven times.

Johnny Bright rushed 1,000 yards or more five times for the Eskimos and Normie Kwong four. Jim Thomas was the other Edmonton 1,000 yarder. For Calgary, Earl Lunsford, now general manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, rushed for 1,000 yards or more five times and Lowell Coleman three times. Waugh and Hugh McKinnis each did it once.

George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders holds the Canadian record with six 1,000-yard seasons. The other two Roughriders to break the barrier were Ed Buchanan and Cookie Gilchrist.

Winnipeg's eight were made up of Gerry James, Leo Lewis and Dave Raimey, each twice, and Charlie Shepard and Bob McNamara, one each.Rdimey now is playing as a defensive back with Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference.

Jim Evenson did it three times for British Columbia Lions and Willie Fleming twice while Nub Beamer and Bob Swift, now with Winnipeg, did it once each.

In the East, Pat Abbruzzi, George Dixon and Don Clark each did it twice for Montreal and Don Clark, Don Lisbon and Dennis Duncan once each. Dave Thelen accomplished it three times for Ottawa and Ron Stewart once. Gerry McDougall was three times for Hamilton and Bill Symons once for Toronto.

At this date this season, at least three players have a chance to rush 1,000 yards, two in the West and one in the East. Evenson of B.C. so far has rushed 908 yards in 176 carries, tops in the Western Conference while Reed of Saskatchewan is second with 758 yards in 148 carries. Each team has six games to play.

Leon McQuay of Toronto Argonauts is away in front in the EFC with 990 yards in 127 carries. However, two other WFC backs also have a chance to crack the barrier. They are Mack Herron of Winnipeg, third with 698 yards in 128 carries, and Jessie Mims of Calgary, fourth with 671 in 112 carries.

In scoring, quarterback Don Jonas of Winnipeg still is way ahead with 85 points on three touchdowns, 29 converts, 13 field goals and nine singles.

Jauch Ponders Plight

No Laughing Matter

EDMONTON (CP) — The Eskimos have become a joke in Edmonton, but coach Ray Jauch isn't laughing—he's still bringing in players he hopes can make his team a winner.

Rough Riders Seek 'Hoss' Power

OTTAWA (CP) — The search by Ottawa Rough Riders for an offensive continued today with fullback Bob Houmard reporting for practice trial after being cut Tuesday by Edmonton Eskimos.

The Riders made the announcement Tuesday night.

Last in the Eastern Football Conference, the Riders earlier tried Al Pitcaithley—another Edmonton cut—at the fullback slot before deciding not to keep him.

Houmard, at 6-3 and 220 pounds, joined the Eskimos last December in a trade with Montreal Alouettes following two solid years with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Ottawa fullback now is Dennis Duncan, who played last season with Montreal.

Sport Briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — Ken (The Hawk) Harrelson, who retired from baseball's American League Cleveland Indians this year to follow a golf career, will make his first appearance here as a golf pro Saturday and Sunday.

The controversial Harrelson will tee off for Southern Sunports in the inaugural match of the International Professional Golf League along with teammates Bob Toski, Julius Boros, Tommy Bolt, Chuck Courtney and Ed Furgol, against NorEast Lynx.

Playing for the Lynx in the first-ever IPGL game will be Mike Hill, Chi Chi Rodriguez, R. H. Sikes, Lionel Hebert, Bob Goalby and Toronto's George Knudson.

The Lynx represent New York and New England, the Sunsports—playing out of Florida—the Southeastern United States.

Three Quebec professionals will serve as alternates for the U.S. players. They are Phil Giroux, Jack Binnger and Gerry Proulx, all of Montreal.

TORONTO (CP) — A man who helped introduce mixed curling to Ontario 28 years ago died Monday.

Dr. H. (Charley) Brereton, also a noted lawn bowler who won the Ontario singles titles in 1955 and 1956, joined with Frank Raw in starting the first mixed bonspiel at the Granite Club in 1931.

Dr. Brereton, 83, was a native of Bethany, Ont., 15 miles southwest of Peterborough.

WELLAND (CP) — Welland Dyck's Standard Oshawa Gnats 2-0 Tuesday night to capture the Ontario Amateur Softball Association 'Senior B' championship for the first time.

Welland won the best-of-three series two straight. The team now plays the Northern Ontario champions for the all-Ontario championship in Welland in October.

TORONTO (CP) — Joerg Bruder of Brazil won the North American Finn sailing championships Tuesday after a six-race series completed on Lake Ontario.

Bruder, the Pan-American champion whose Rio Grande do Sol pine Finn masts are ranked among the best in the world, dominated the series, scoring two firsts and four seconds in the three days of competition. He had nine Olympic penalty points for the five races he is required to count.

Bret de Thier of Christchurch, New Zealand, despite finishing 27th and 14th Tuesday, placed second with 52.7 points

TORONTO (CP) — Irv Ungerman says he is all for George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, meeting Jack Bodell for the Commonwealth title.

"I know I've been after Chuvalo to retire, but I know also that he's always wanted a chance at that title," Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager, said Tuesday after Bodell offered to go to New York and defend his newly-acquired Commonwealth title against Chuvalo.

Bodell, 31-year-old farmer from the village of Swadlincote, Derbyshire, made the challenge through his manager after outpointing Joe Bugner Monday night at Wembley Stadium to win the Commonwealth title.

"It's honorable for Bodell to suggest the match," said Ungerman. "But I think I know why he wants the bout in New York.

"If he can get a win over Chuvalo there, it would put him in line for a world title fight."

With just one win in 11 starts and losers of eight in a row, the Eskimo chances of making the Western Football Conference playoffs are strictly mathematical.

Tonight, Montreal Alouettes take on the Eskimos in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

A win for the Als would give them sole possession of second place in the Eastern Football Conference and leave the Eskimos buried in the Western Conference cellar with two points, seven behind Winnipeg Blue Bombers and British Columbia Lions who are fighting for the last playoff spot.

The Edmonton airlift continued Tuesday as imports Homer Cavitte, a defensive and offensive halfback, and Mike Sivek, a defensive tackle, arrived for five-day trials. Cavitte was cut by Saskatchewan Roughriders and Sivek by St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

Jauch will go again at quarterback with Bruce Lemmerman, who went all the way in Sunday's 28-14 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Also back for a second look will be John Embree, a receiver whose first pass reception as an Eskimo was for a touchdown against Saskatchewan, and Gene Fuster, a halfback.

Only receiver George McGowan remains of the backfield that started the season. Bob (Hoss) Houmard was cut Tuesday and Sam Scarber will take his fullback spot.

Scarber was the third-round draft choice of Dallas Cowboys, but was traded to Los Angeles Rams before the season started. He was a late Rams cut.

Montreal will make the trip west without Pierre Desjardins, placed on the 30-day injury list because of recurring knee trouble.

Garry Lefebvre a former Eskimo, will make the trip with Montreal although he won't play. He has been on the injured list for a month because of a neck injury and will play in Vancouver Saturday night. To make room for Lefebvre, the Als cut halfback Bob Storey.

Sonny Wade, after a shaky start, now leads EFC passers and newcomer Bill Massey is second in rushing which should ensure that Edmonton's defence will get a good workout—something it's used to because of the offence's impotency.

Ottawa Pilot Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Now that Ottawa Rough Riders have virtually clinched last place in the Eastern Football Conference, the thoughts of football writers and fans here have turned to thoughts of firing coach Jack Gotta.

Since this would be the second-straight year under Gotta that Ottawa failed to make the EFC playoffs, no one, including Gotta, is surprised.

"Sure I've heard the talk," Gotta said recently. "And I don't blame the fans. I want to win too."

Owner David Loeb said:

"I can assure you that I want to be a contender. I don't want to be fourth year after year. If it happens again, we'll give every consideration to the entire operation to see what has to be done to produce a product to satisfy my fans."

One of the knocks against Gotta is the Ottawa quarterbacking. In two seasons here, ex-New York Giant Gary Wood hasn't looked like the answer.

Gotta indicated last Sunday he was through round to this way of thinking. In a must game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Wood was kept on the bench all day while his backup man, Rick Cassata, went all the way in the loss.

Cassata himself runs well but has fumbled in key plays. He also has thrown too many interceptions.

When Paul Brothers, a cut from the British Columbia Lions, was given a five-day trial last week, it was generally assumed that the desperate Riders would sign him and let either Wood or Cassata go.

Gotta decided at the last moment, however, to go with his regulars.

Now the word is that Gotta is talking trade with three Western Conference clubs, hoping to deal off Wood. He also is reported to be dickering for the services of Bob Houmard, Edmonton Eskimo fullback.

But any changes now probably won't help Riders this year.

Boucher points to poor recruiting, what he calls Gotta's lack of communication with his players, especially his quarterbacks.

"There's nothing personal in this thing," Boucher says. "Jack is a great guy."

"But nice guys join service clubs, they don't coach football teams."

Rexe Signed Already

Quinte Pieces Fit Into Place Faster

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Area senior hockey followers are going away from Belleville Quinte practice sessions here with the impression the team is ahead of its usual training camp pace.

And they're right.

Not only is new coach Gene Poirier whipping his charges into shape much quicker than has been the case in the past several years of Belleville senior hockey history, but other pieces are starting to fit into place earlier than usual.

A case in point is the signing of goalie Steve Rexe, announced Tuesday by the Quintes.

The year before last, Rexe didn't sign until the eve of the first game of the OHA Senior A schedule. Last winter, the redhead didn't join the now - defunct Mo-Hawks until nearly a month into the season.

Poirier was obviously pleased with the signing of Rexe. He didn't have to look up any statistics (a 3.77 goals-against average last year in the high-scoring senior league) to recognize Rexe's puck-stopping capacities.

But the signing created another sort of problem for Poirier.

"I had counted on Ron Jury as our backup — he's a real boner," Poirier praised the Belleville Junior B grad, "but I got to thinking that wouldn't be fair to him."

"I tried to place Ron with the Syracuse Stars, but they say they have all the goalies they need. So I suggested to him that he play intermediate hockey — we'll probably be affiliated with one of them — and practice with us. He seemed to agree."

"I didn't think it would be fair to a kid of Ron's calibre to be sitting on the bench."

The Quintes' spare goaltender may wind up being Don Ogden, who played in his Intermediate hockey heydays with the Trenton Globe-trotters and will be familiar to Belleville senior hockey-goers as a linesman. Ogden chuckled at the suggestion his officiating experience might affect his goaltending eyesight.

Tuesday, Ogden and Rexe played in a refereed scrimmage which Poirier has made a first-half fixture of the Quintes' two-hour workouts.

The new coach indicated he will take all four lines and six defencemen that have survived the cuts to Saturday night's first exhibition game in Kingston against the Aces, an 8 o'clock affair.

Something New

Goalie Steve Rexe is no stranger to Belleville senior hockey fans, but the Belleville Quintes will sport some brand new wearing apparel when they skate out onto the Memorial Arena ice for their season opener Oct. 8 against Kingston Aces.

Moira Trojans Had Horses

The Trojans of Moira Secondary School proved they had the football horses as they swept a Bay of Quinte COSSA doubleheader from BCI yesterday. In the senior contest Moira rolled to a 33-7 victory, while the juniors were hanging a 48-0 horse collar on the Collegians.

Fullback Pete Stalkovich got the senior Trojans running on the right foot as he barged over for a pair of first quarter touchdowns to help his team build a 19-0 half time lead.

The winners showed no inclination to let up in the second half as Brian Cousins hauled in a 69-yard option pass from Dave Rutherford for a major score on the first play of the third period. Rutherford and Peter Hart counted the other touchdowns for the winners, while Mike Akey kicked three converts.

The lone BCI score came late in the third quarter with John Tracy counting the six-pointer. Tracy was the leading Collegian ground gainer in the game.

Moira displayed a balance attack with Rutherford, Stalkovich and Hart leading the ground game and quarterback Bill Henry hitting for 12 of 23 passes. Losing quarterback Peter LeBaron was good for four completions in nine attempts for 127 yards.

Corner linebacker Brian Wainwright was a standout for Moira, along with defensive tackles Jim Stathers and John Hogle. For BCI, the defensive stars were John Robbin and Joe Bonier who were in on 10 tackles each.

In the junior contest the defending champion Trojans ran wild for the 48-0 win. Mike McClelland counted two touchdowns, including a 35-yard gallop, while Bob Bernier also added two majors for the winners.

John Loder scooted 45 yards for yet another Moira score with the others going to John Ross and Steve Kirby. Mike Meagher hauled in a pair of two-point conversion attempts with McClelland picking up another. Middie guard Mike Olsen was the defensive standout for the winners.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We have heard that Cooperstown, New York, is a good place to go for the Thanksgiving weekend. Will you tell us something about it and give us a good route from this area, please?

ANSWER: Cooperstown is interesting for young and old. Men especially enjoy the National Baseball Museum. Cooperstown is the place where baseball was officially born, in 1839. Among the many things on show are Babe Ruth's locker and uniform, Ty Cobb's sheepskin sliding pads worn under his pants when he stole 96 bases in 1915 are also on display. Open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. There's also a Farmers' Museum, similar to our Upper Canada Village at Morrisburg Ontario. Older people will be interested in Fenimore House (open 9 - 6) associated with novelist James Fenimore Cooper whose Last of the Mohicans became a classic. James' father founded the town in 1786.

A good scenic route in the fall is as follows — Interstate 81 to Watertown, N.Y., route 12 to Utica, N.Y., route 8 to route 20 and east to Springfield, N.Y., then south on No. 80 to Cooperstown. The distance is about 285 miles. If you have the time you can continue south through the Catskill mountains offering a riot of color at this time of year. However, if you are pressed for time, a quicker route back would be No. 20 west to interstate 81 and north on 81 to the Ivy Lea Bridge. This trip should be lovely around the early part of October.

QUESTION: We are planning a trip through the Blue Ridge Mountains in the near future. Could you give us the mileage, a description, and also a good route?

ANSWER: The Blue Ridge Parkway is a 472-mile scenic drive connecting Shenandoah National Park in Virginia and Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Carolina and Tennessee. It follows the crest of the Blue Ridge at elevations from 649 to 6,000 feet. At intervals along the drive are parking overlooks, which afford panoramic views of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The Skyline Caverns is one of the first attractions on the Blue Ridge Parkway. These caverns are the world's only known anthracite formations. These snow white calcite formations have excited geologists since their discovery in 1937. You will be thrilled by other sights on your guided tour of the Skyline Caverns—Capital Dome, Trout stream, Rainbow Trail, the Painted Desert, Rainbow Falls, The Grotto of the Nativity, Cathedral Hall, the Shrine, and Fairyland Lake.

Luray Caverns are just west of the Parkway on No. 211. The famous stalacpipe organ plays a symphony on stone. The 117 foot Carillon Tower contains 47 bells, the largest weighting 7,646 pounds.

Mabry Mill is an interesting restored water-powered grist mill. Cornmeal and buckwheat flour, ground the old-time way, are packaged and sold in the mill.

Endless Caverns on U.S. 11 are just west of the Parkway. These are renowned for their vivid coloring and fantastic formations.

Fall is a beautiful time of year to visit this area but don't leave it later than the first two weeks of October as they have freezing rain at this time in these high altitudes, making driving very treacherous. This area has a speed limit of 45 miles an hour. Due to its inaccessability. It is advisable to keep gas tanks at least half-full at all times.

A good fast route is 401 to Ivy Lea Bridge, Interstate 81 to Winchester, Virginia and route 522 to the Blue Ridge Parkway. If you should wish a different scenic route back, then take route 340 to Frederick, Maryland and route 15 to Corning, N.Y., route 11 to Cortland, N.Y., and Interstate 81 to Ivy Lea Bridge. The approximate distance from Belleville to the beginning of the Blue Ridge Parkway is 550 miles.

Auto Pact Talks Sought

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Nixon administration is urging early trade talks with Canada aimed at revising the U.S.-Canada auto free trade pact to remove certain clauses the Americans consider too restrictive.

The U.S. is ready to begin new trade negotiations with Canada next week after the business of the current meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank are out of the way, says a high U.S. official.

John Petty, U.S. treasury undersecretary for international affairs, told Canadian reporters at a news conference Tuesday that the Canadian safeguard clauses in the 1965 pact have outlived the need for them.

The clauses ensure that certain amounts of Canadian parts are built into American cars assembled in Canada for the North American market.

A recent report by a U.S. presidential commission on international trade and investment policy noted a drastic change in automotive trade between the countries since the pact was signed six years ago, turning a chronic large deficit for Canada into a substantial surplus.

The auto agreement "has thus fallen well short of the goal of free automotive trade" and its resulting benefits, the commission said. It blamed the "unwillingness of the Canadian government to allow the expiration of arrangements which were viewed by U.S. officials as transitional at the time the agreement was reached."

The U.S. has been trying to get Canada to eliminate the safeguard clauses since 1968. But the Canadian government has refused, expressing concern that many smaller Canadian producers would not be able to stay in business without them.

The commission recommended that the U.S. urge the Canadian government to remove remaining Canadian restrictions on automotive imports from the U.S.

Petty in his news conference did not tie removal of the special 10-per-cent U.S. import levy to Canadian acceptance of U.S. demands. But he did repeat the conditions listed Sunday by Treasury Secretary John Connally, who insisted the surcharge will not be lifted until the U.S. gets firm promise of agreement among all Western countries to take measures to help correct the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit.

Hellyer Attracts Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — Action Canada, the political movement founded by Paul Hellyer last spring, is drawing members from all walks of life, but the biggest single groupings involve unemployed persons and those between the age of 45 and 49.

The movement, which holds its first convention in Toronto this weekend, is keeping its membership figures secret until that meeting begins, but a computer study of the membership cards shows that 21 per cent are held by unemployed persons. The next biggest group, representing 13 per cent, are held by professional persons.

Regular membership costs $10. It is free to persons unemployed.

By age group, 28 per cent of the membership is in the 45-49 age range, about 23 per cent are 30-44, some 20 per cent are 60 or over, another 17 per cent are from 21 to 29 and eight per cent are under 21. An estimated nine per cent did not give their ages.

Mr. Hellyer, a former cabinet minister and a Liberal leadership candidate in 1968, has declined to give membership figures on the grounds that Action Canada would be tipping its hand prior to a federal election — which he still expects this fall.

But he says these figures will be released at the Toronto convention to give more meaning to the various votes to be held.

There is no indication how many will attend Action Canada's first convention, since there is no pre-registration system, and the convention is open to everyone.

"I know there'll be a good turnout," says Mr. Hellyer, "but I wouldn't want to estimate specific figures."

Expo Fans Love Hunt's Hurts

MONTREAL (CP) — Ron Hunt tied a leg-standing major league record and received a standing ovation from 10,252 fans at Jarry Park Tuesday night as Montreal Expos downed Chicago Cubs 5-4 in National League play.

Hunt was hit by a pitch in the fourth inning—the 49th time he has been hit this season. It tied the all time major league mark set by Hugh Jennings of Baltimore way back in 1896.

It was McAnally's 11th win against 12 losses. The loser was Phil Regan, 5-5.

"Pitchers seems to like hitting me," said Hunt after Cubs' pitcher Bill Bonham ticked him on the sleeve.

When he reached the, Expos' clubhouse after the game, Hunt learned he had been chosen the Expos most valuable player in a vote by the Montreal chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

It was the fourth time in his career that Hunt has been picked MVP on his team.

He had the same honor with New York Mets in 1963, 1964 and 1966.

Ever since he established the modern-day record on Aug. 7 at Cincinnati with his 32nd "hit," the Jarry Park scoreboard had been keeping close count on the numbers of times Hunt had been hit by pitches.

"You've got to be proud of getting your name in the record books, but I would have much preferred doing it with some other formidable record," a smiling Hunt said.

"I just take these things as they come. I won't change my style because if I start balling out, I won't be an effective hitter."

Hunt has kept his cool this season, except for one night last month in San Diego when he and Bob Barton of the Padres fought.

Canucks, Habs Pace NHL Pack

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks and the defending Stanley Cup champions Montreal Canadiens continued to set the pace in National Hockey League exhibition games Tuesday.

Both teams maintained their undefeated records as Vancouver tied Minnesota, Stars 3-3 in Vancouver before 15,570 fans and Montreal topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3 in Halifax, where the crowd was 8,000.

The Canucks have won three games and tied four while the Canadiens have scored four victories and earned two ties.

Bob Nevin's goal, with fewer than five minutes remaining, salvaged the Leafs' appearance after Vancouver went ahead 3-2 on Andre Boudrias's goal early in the third period.

Bobby Schmautz and Dale Tallon were the other Vancouver goal-getters.

Dennis Hextall and Bill Goldsworthy also scored for Minnesota.

Prior to the game, general manager Bud Poile said the Canucks had purchased defenceman Bob Blackburn from Pittsburgh Penguins. Blackburn, who played with the Canucks for three years in the Western Hockey League, will report to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

Left winger Peter Mahovlich was the big gun for the Canadiens at Halifax, scoring twice. Chuck Lefley, Jacques Lemaire and Marc Tardif were the other Montreal snipers.

Canadiens forged ahead in the second period after the teams battled to a 2-2 tie in the first period. There was no scoring in the third.

Leafs, without regulars Mike Pelyk, Rick Ley, Norm Ullman and Bill MacMillan, lost the services of Keon, team captain, who limped off the ice in the second period.

Canadiens were also without several injured regulars: J. C. Tremblay, Guy Lapointe, Yvan Cournoyer and Henri Richard.

Injuries also continued to plague goaltenders as Gary Smith of Chicago Black Hawks suffered a broken finger in practice at the Chicago Stadium Tuesday.

Smith was recently acquired by the Hawks from California but has been a controversial swap that saw Chicago give up goalie Gerry Desjardins and forward Ivan Boldirev.

The Seals have asked Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, to void the deal because Desjardins has complications from a fractured arm he suffered last season.

Smith, backup goalie for Tony Esposito, stopped a shot that broke the top finger of his left hand. He will be sidelined about three weeks.

In off-ice activity, the head of St. Louis Blues indicated his club would defy the United States wage-price freeze by increasing the price of tickets.

The U.S. department of justice filed suit Monday to force the Atlanta Falcons football team to reduce prices, but Sidney Salomon Jr., Blues' president and board chairman, said he regarded his team's ticket price increase as different from the Falcons.

Both the Blues and the Falcons increased prices before the Aug. 15 freeze. However, the first games to be played under the higher prices fall within the 30-day freeze limits.

"If we didn't increase prices we couldn't survive," Salomon said. "The people of St. Louis just wouldn't have hockey."

Bunning Takes Walk

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia pitcher Jim Bunning, architect of two no-hit, no-run games, including a perfect game, and the second-best strikeout pitcher of all-time, announced his retirement from baseball Tuesday.

The 6-foot-3 right-hander leaves behind one of the great active pitching careers in the history of baseball. He posted a 16-year major league career record of 224 victories and 184 defeats, with a lifetime ERA of 3.27-17th on all-time list.

Moira Boots Both Wins

The Moira Secondary School soccer teams showed that they have tough feet to beat as the seniors edged Picton 2-1 while the juniors were taking a 3-0 decision from the Prince Edward school.

Rob Guay and Don Moore counted goals for the seniors, while Bruce Kite with two goals and Dave Cuff with one sparked a team effort by the Moira Juniors.

Mother Admits Lying At Earlier Hearing

TORONTO (CP) — The mother of a two-year-old girl beaten to death May 18 testified Tuesday she lied at a preliminary hearing into a charge of non-capital murder against 20-year-old David Carl Thurston.

Jane Brown testified that Thurston, charged with non-capital murder of Tracy Ann Brown, stepped on the child and hit her because she would not go to sleep.

Mrs. Brown said she did not recall saying anything about his stepping on the child in some earlier statements and didn't tell the entire truth at the preliminary hearing.

"On the crucial part you were lying — is that right?" John O'Driscoll asked for Thurston, asked Mrs. Brown.

"I guess it is," Mrs. Brown replied.

Dr. Barry Shandling, staff surgeon at the Hospital for Sick Children, testified earlier that Tracy Ann virtually bled to death inside her abdominal cavity. He said he believed her injuries were caused by a blow to the stomach from the heel of a shoe or boot.

Mrs. Brown, 20, told the jury of 11 men and one woman she had been living with Thurston since the first day they met, when he came to Toronto from Belleville with him May 15.

Mrs. Brown testified Tuesday that Thurston put Tracy Ann to bed May 18 but later took her out to light fireworks.

"She was in a tantrum and he spanked her. He was really drunk. He was biting her and stepped on her. He came at me and choked me. I pointed at her over his shoulder," Mrs. Brown said.

Tracy Ann became unconscious and Thurston applied a tourniquet to her head and neck, she added.

Mrs. Brown said she told police at the hospital that Thurston had hit Trace Ann about five times.

She said she often visited Thurston while he was in jail.

"I love him deep down inside but I hate him," she testified.

"Which is uppermost, the hate or the love?" Mr. O'Driscol asked.

"I think the love," Mrs. Brown replied.

"When they get ready to fire you around here I wish they wouldn't get cute about it!"

OFF THE RECORD By Ed Reed

"Oh, Bob—your suit is back from the cleaners."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For September 30

Your birthday today: This promises to be the year for you to put your life together along more philosophic patterns. Past experience becomes more meaningful and useful. Today's natives respond directly to the urgings of destiny, frequently benefit from strange "coincidence".

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Do what seems to you the most logical thing; expect nothing really to settle down before the weekend. Listening carefully pays better than sounding off.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Answer demands on your time and energy within reason. Trying too anticipate matters only lends confusion.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): For once you have the most to gain by a passive and calm response to all provocations and encouragements. Do the least you can; conserve your resources.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Cheer up, take people as they happen to be, seek out their virtues for praise and see how they react.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Striving to get all the details complicates everything to the point of getting nothing done at all. Do what is the most simple and obvious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Gathering information and past history adds much drama and a great deal of confusion and contradiction. Defer decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct 22): Serious promotions fal victim distractions. You may as well to distractions. You may as well take time out for carnival moods and celebrations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 22): The temptation to try too much too soon is widespread. One step at a time is enough, and preferably let things come to you rather than have to pursue matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Creativity scatters and ideas catch on all about you. Where you adopt anything, give full credit as you go, and shares with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Quick-decisions snarl previous plans — and not just your own. An idea good enough can await checking and preparation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Being left out on things may be a blessing in disguise. Use every chance for placid reflection on how wonderful life may be.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Budgetting time and energy as well as cash is essential. Some projects seem beyond reach for the moment.

Insomnia Frequently Means You Do Not Need Any More Sleep

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a man, 64, in fairly good health, except for insomnia. I can take tranquilizers, sleeping capsules, be nothing at all, but try as I may, about two hours is as much sleep as I can get.

This lack of sleep makes me sick to my stomach.

I exercise, work outside, get plenty of fresh air, but nothing seems to help. — H. E. M.

I'll give you several thoughts on this, hoping that at least one will help you, but I wish you would give some attention to the first remark I'll make. You'll probably scoff at first, but think it over.

It is known that most people who complain of lack of sleep get more than they realize. Nurses have observed it often: patients say they can't sleep, but the nurses repeatedly find these "sleepless" patients snoozing and sometimes snoring.

Ill admit that it's no fun to wake up repeatedly; it's no fun to feel that you want to go to sleep and can't. But what actually happens in many cases is that a person is consciously awake, drops off to sleep for a time, again becomes conscious of being awake without realizing that a period of sleep has intervened.

This may be your answer. Since you "work outside, get plenty of fresh air," you may in truth be getting enough more sleep — in snatches — to amount to substantially more than two hours. Anyway, it would look as though you must be getting enough for you needs. And as we grow older, we often don't need as much sleep. You may not really need the six to eight hours you used to get!

One important factor in insomnia is psychological: depression, anxiety, and worry, often not recognized by the individual.

Stimulating beverages (coffee, tea, or any of the cola drinks, which contain caffeine) should be avoided late in the day.

Vague aches and pains can disturb sleep, but you don't mention any except to say that loss of sleep makes you "sick to your stomach." I'd recommend having your doctor check you over in case it's the reverse. Could you be having some stomach disturbance that bothers your sleep?

Breathing difficulty (as with emphysema or with heart disease) can be a factor in disturbed sleep, although you give me no indication that you are troubled with either.

Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) can cause a restlessness that can disturb sleep. A bedtime snack such as a glass of warm milk and a meat or cheese sandwich can offset that trouble.

Finally, have you tried different pillow arrangments, using two or three pillows if you customarily use one? A different sleeping position can sometimes make quite a difference.

Professions Stick to Own Field in Britain

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was lunching with a physician from London who has been lecturing in America for the last six months, and he made several observations that I found more than passing interest.

"It seems to me," he remarked, "that the professions — especially law and medicine — are given more respect in England than in America. At home, they are looked up to; here they are given a kind of grudging respect, mixed with a good deal of contempt or dislike."

"Why do you suppose that is?" I inquired.

"It puzzled me at first," he said, "but I think I've discovered part of the answer. It's because in England — for the most part, although not entirely, of course — the professional man concentrates on his profession; and in America he aspires to be a businessman as well."

"In what way?" I pursued.

"Many — if not most — American doctors are as busy with their investments as they are with their patients, if not more so.

"They read the investment guides as thoroughly as they read the medical journals, and when they talk shop, it is more likely to be about stocks than about symptoms."

"And lawyers?" I prompted.

"The really influential lawyers I've met here," he continued, "are much more involved in real estate and commercial holdings than they are in practicing law. Most of the affluent ones have made their money through buying property or businesses, or by becoming involved in the directorship of corporations."

"Surely there's nothing wrong with any of this," I suggested.

"Nothing wrong," he agreed. "But then you can't expect the public to regard the professional man in exactly the same light as we do in England. The main object of business is to make a profit. The main object of a profession is to render a service. So when the professional man becomes more interested in profit than in service, he naturally forfeits some of the esteem he used to be given."

"Do you think the professional men here feel that?" I inquired.

"Of course they do," he shrugged. "That's why they are so touchy and sensitive to the slightest criticism. They want to have their cake of prestige, and eat it, too. A fine, generous people, you Americans — but I can't make out whether you're hypocritical or just naive."

Resist Gently Says Pope

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Pope Paul, in an opening address to the third world synod of bishops today, advised the church leaders not to be overanxious to confirm to modern trends for fear of appearing out of date.

Urging them not to be influenced by accusations of anachronism or legalism which were said to stunt spontaneous development, the pontiff condemned outside pressure, saying "its guises are many and its power is penetrating and dangerous."

The Pope was addressing the synod in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel before concelebrating mass there with five bishops, including Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, who came to Rome Tuesday after 23 years of confinement in his native Hungary.

The synod, which will last for a month, will debate the issues of the crisis-ridden priesthood and the church's role in combating social injustice.

Waffle Group Lashes Back

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve members of the New Democratic Party's Waffle wing criticized NDP Leader Stephen Lewis Wednesday for what they called his "unprovoked" attack on them in Galt Monday.

Mr. Lewis said the Waffle group, headed by economist Melville Watkins of the University of Toronto, accounts for no more than 10 to 20 per cent of the NDP's Ontario following and will be kept at that level as long as he remains party leader.

"We deplore this unprovoked attack," said the 12 Waffle members in a news release. "We remind him that it will be the rank and file members of the party and not its leader who will determine future party policy."

Regional Delay OK Says Kerr

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A Progressive Conservative government will delay any further regional government experiments while it evaluates the performance of the five already established, Environment Minister George Kerr said Wednesday night.

At a citizens' forum he and NDP challenger Walter Mulkewich backed establishment of a single Halton regional government, following the boundaries of the existing county and including Burlington, Oakville and Milton.

Robert McNutt, Liberal candidate for Halton in the Oct. 21 Ontario election, refused to back any specific local government structure.

Burlington has disputed its inclusion in either a Halton-Peel region or Hamilton-Wentworth, as recommended in reports to the government.

Liberal Chat

Important That MPPs Express Views: Nixon

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

It is more important for members of the provincial parliament to express their own views than it is for them to conform to party lines said Opposition Leader. Robert Nixon today on a radio open-line show here.

"Sometimes I have been accused of allowing too much of this," he said during an appearance on the What Do You Think program.

The statement followed a comment from a caller that the present MPP for Quinte, minister without portfolio Dr. Richard Potter is not as outspoken as he used to be now he is part of the cabinet.

Mr. Nixon said he feels caucus discussion is the usual place for divergent party views but at times differences among a party should come to the floor of the legislature. He said that on the issue of Sunday operation of racetracks he approved such freedom, explaining "we (Liberals) all took our own stands is accord with our own views".

The opposition leader had arrived at CFB Trenton in mid-morning to be greeted by Quinte Liberal candidate Gerald Weaver, a delegation of

Carnival Mood

One China Sought

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp used some of the bluntest language so far in the new General Assembly Wednesday to expouse the cause of Communist China and complain about nuclear tests.

In a speech the minister:

—Called for an end of nuclear tests and became the first Western spokesman to point the finger at the United States and the Soviet Union.

—Said in effect that the General Assembly should not support the United States' two-China proposals and should seat the People's Republic of China.

—Countered arguments, mainly from Brazil, that underdeveloped countries should concentrate on development and forget about worries of pollution.

Canada, particularly Sharp, is not known for fighting speeches in the General Assembly. In the last couple of years the Canadian speeches have been flat, with major emphasis on Canada's warning that the UN could drown in a sea of words.

But the speech was the strongest Western statement so far on China and nuclear tests.

And it continued in the assembly a Canadian effort to get and keep the underdeveloped countries interested in protecting the environment.

On disarmament, Sharp spoke out against "competitive testing" of nuclear devices.

He said there is a danger that these will lead to a "justification for maintaining the momentum of the arms race."

He reiterated Canadian statements that there is an urgent need for a nuclear test ban.

Sharp's call for prompt and effective action by the assembly to seat China and his statement that there is only one candidate for the China seat here—Communist China—was the strongest opposition yet given by a Western country to U.S. China proposals.

I stopped short of saying delegates should vote against the U.S. idea of giving seats to both the Communists and the Nationalists on Taiwan, but the implication was clear.

'I'm warning you, Sam!'

Sharp Congratulated

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally, United States treasury secretary, said today the U.S. will be prepared to remove its 10-per-cent additional levy on dutiable imports if other governments "make tangible progress" in coming weeks to dismantle their trade barriers and permit the establishment of realistic currency exchange rates. But Connally's address to the annual meeting of the 118-nation International Monetary Fund discouraged proposals from the major trading nations that the U.S. dollar be devalued directly in terms of gold.

LONDON (AP) — Daily doses of vitamins can cut down the number of cases of schizophrenia, one of the most widespread mental disorders, a Canadian scientist told an international conference Wednesday. Dr. Abram Hoffer of Saskatoon said "If we were to add to our diet at least one gram of vitamin B3 a day we could, in the next decade or two, see a very significant decrease in the incidence of the disease."

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A U.S. district court judge in Anchorage says he will decide in five or six days whether to block the five-megaton underground nuclear explosion on Amchitka Island. Judge Raymond Plummer reserved decision Tuesday in a suit filed by the Aleut League against the blast.

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Able-bodied "freeloaders" should be kicked off the welfare rolls and made to work for their dollars, says Environment Minister George Kerr. "I believe that anybody who is able to work and who has the health and ability should be required to work," Mr. Kerr said Wednesday night. He admitted that the able-bodied must have jobs to be kicked into.

TORONTO (CP) — The three leaders of the major parties vying for seats in the Oct. 21 Ontario election have agreed in a one-hour television debate, a CBC spokesman said today. The spokesman said the debate will be carried next Monday night on both the CBC and the CTV Ontario networks. He said details were pending concerning the exact time of broadcast, the debate format and whether it would be live or taped. Taking part in the debate will be Premier William Davis, Liberal leader Robert Nixon and New Democratic Party leader Stephen Lewis.

Peking Actions Still Puzzle China Watchers

PEKING (Reuter) — Hundreds of red flags unfurled today in Peking's vast Tien An Men Square made a vivid spectacle on the eve of China's national day as diplomats in Peking puzzled over the apparent mystery of a government decision not to hold the traditional banquet tonight.

Peking is in a carnival mood despite the earlier decision not to stage the customary parade Friday, a decision that led to widespread speculation abroad.

The further decision to hold a reception tonight at the invitation of the foreign ministry, instead of a banquet with Premier Chou En-lai as host as in former years, is likely to lead to further speculation.

Diplomatic sources said in Peking it is unlikely that Chou will attend the reception in the Great Hall of the People and the other members of the Chinese leadership probably will not be present.

A foreign ministry spokesman said Wednesday night the decision not to hold the banquet was another reform measure in keeping with the decision not to hold a parade marking the 22nd anniversary of the People's Republic.

Observers noted that the new format for tonight's gathering meant that the Chinese leadership need not be on display as in past years.

Leading members of the politburo of the Chinese Communist party were present at last year's banquet including senior

But Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Vice-Chairman Lin Piao, his heir apparent, have not in past years attended this function.

Diplomats in Peking noted again today that the high military leadership, including the chief of the general staff, Huang Yung-sheng, had not been seen recently in the capital.

Premier Chou, however, has been visible almost every day. Tuesday night, the urbane Chinese leader watched for more than two hours an elaborate gymnastic show staged by Chinese and Albanian athletes.

Diplomats in Peking are doubly nonplussed in that they say Chinese officials told them at the time of the announcement that the national day parade would not be held that the banquet would go ahead as usual.

Autos, Tax Not Linked - Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Wednesday that any renegotiation of the Canada-U.S. auto pact and removal of the U.S. surcharge on imports from Canada "are not linked in our mind."

But he declined in the Commons to give requested assurances that the employment safeguards for Canada in the pact will not be surrendered in any renegotiation.

Mr. Trudeau was replying to questions by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, former NDP leader T. C. Douglas and Derek Blackburn (NDP—Brant)

Mr Stanfield quoted a U.S treasury department official as saying that removal of the 1965 pact's safeguards for Canadian employment is a precondition of the surtax removal.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson said this is not the case. The pact was under continuing discussion by the two governments but the U.S. referred to it simply as an unsolved factor.

Mr. Stanfield asked whether the government insists on retention of the safeguards in the auto pact.

Mr. Trudeau said he, Mr. Benson and Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin had replied to this several times.

"You have not," interjected George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings).

Jackson Had Gun In Escape Try

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — George Jackson was shot in the back from 271 feet away by a guard who didn't know he was gunning down the black revolutionary convict, San Quentin Warden Louis Nelson has disclosed.

Jackson was killed last Aug. 21 in what prison officials said was a prison break attempt. Two other prisoners and three guards were killed in the incident.

He had prison investigators found that Jackson was first hit in the left ankle, stumbled then began to race toward the 30-foot north wall of the prison.

Nelson said the guard, who was prone on the gun wall, saw a gun in Jackson's hands and opened fire as the prisoner ran in a crouch.

Terrorism Bomb Kills Two

BELFAST (CP) — Northern Ireland mourned today the deaths of two more victims of terrorism, killed when a bomb wrecked a crowded bar. Twenty-seven persons including five women were injured by the blast.

The two men killed by the bomb, biggest used so far in Belfast by terrorists, were Protestants

Police feared the bombing was a terrorist attempt to provoke Protestants into an angry backlash that would run the risk of spilling over into civil war with Roman Catholics.

Several thousand Protestants gathered outside the wreckage of the Four Step Inn after the blast late Wednesday night but militant community leaders including Revd Ian Paisley persuaded them to go home peacefully.

Other bombs wrecked a trucking depot and a bar, both in or near Catholic areas in Belfast, but caused no casualties.

Snipers wounded a British soldier in the lower abdomen while he was patrolling the Catholic Ardoyne area of the capital.

The two deaths from the bar blast swelled the two-year toll to 112, including 34 troops sent to keep the peace. In the last seven weeks, 47 persons have been killed.

Dr. R. T. Potter Tours Quaker Oats Assembly Line

Days Long on Campaign Trail

The name of the game is votes, and each one must be gathered up individually through face-to-face meetings with as many of the electorate as possible.

This is the key to the campaign now under way by Quinte riding candidate Dr. R. T. Potter, minister without portfolio in the Ontario cabinet.

Just three weeks remain before election day, Oct. 21, and Dr. Potter is launched into a seven-day week of hard work to get out the vote.

His days are divided between Toronto, Trenton and Belleville. Every Sunday he is at Queen's Park for a weekly cabinet meeting. Mondays the Treasury Board meets, also in Toronto. On Tuesdays, it's back to Belleville to campaign, with the objective of meeting as many people as possible. Wednesdays and Fridays, Dr. Potter spends in Trenton. Thursdays are also given to Belleville and Saturdays are unscheduled — devoted to fitting in all the extra appointments and invitations that have spilled over from the week's back-log.

He began at 9 a.m. by visiting Pape's Steak House to meet the patrons. At 11 a.m. he was off to a coffee party, in the afternoon he toured two industries — Wilson's Sporting Goods and Electronic Controls.

At 4 p.m. he taped his radio commercials and at 7 in the evening he was on hand for a coffee party for the voters from a city polling division.

"I can't afford to waste a day," said Dr. Potter in drawing up his campaign schedule.

Yesterday, on one of his tours of Trenton, he called at the Factorien The first, Moore Business Forms Ltd. is one of six new industries brought to this area since Dr Potter was elected, through the government's industrial assistance loans. The other is an established Trenton firm, Quaker Oats, one of seven industries that received favourable loans for expansion with Dr. Potter's assistance.

At the three-year-old Moore plant the candidate was told it employs about 149 people and will be expanding next year and adding another 40 employees By 1976 the eyes, pays or costs to have 200 people on its Trenton payroll.

At Quaker Oats, the candidate saw the plant operating at peak production level to turn out the 87 pet foods it cans and packages. The plant now employs 750 people, 40 of them hired in the last two weeks to help get out a new package.

Thanks to the forgivable loan from the government, the pet food plant has doubled its work force in the last four years and is expanding again to put on more employees. Soon, the manager told Dr. Potter, the plant will need its own private facilities to buried cereal, now shipped in from Guelph.

Benefits of the pet food company's expansion radiate in all directions from Trenton. To the east coast, where four railway cars of herring and alewives are shipped each week for fish cat feed, to the fishermen of Lake Ontario, who net a million pounds of alewives each winter to supply the plant. And to meat packers and chicken processors across the province who sell pork and beef liver and kidneys and chicken necks and backs to the plant.

The candidate's hectic pace will continue until election eve. The next day, Oct. 21, the focus will shift to the polling booths, when the democratic process will be put into operation and the Xs on the ballots will send the people's choice back to Queen's Park.

Richard Lunn NDP Candidate For Hastings

The New Democratic Party has selected 45 - year - old Journalist and teacher Richard Lunn, as its candidate in the provincial riding of Hastings for the upcoming Oct. 21 provincial election.

Mr. Lunn, a native of Hillier in Prince Edward County, is a strong supporter of Premier Davis.

"Hastings is a natural area to absorb the flood of tourists and vacationers from the Toronto Metropolitan area," says Mr. Lunn, "and the provincial government has failed dismally to promote the natural beauties and tourist possibilities of this area."

Mr. Lunn is vice - chairman of the Journalism Department of Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto. Mr. Lunn still maintains his home on the second concession of Hillier with his wife Janet, and five children.

As a resident of Prince Edward county, which has recently batiled the kraft paper mill issue, Mr. Lunn charges the provincial government "is almost completely industry - oriented and because of this has failed to spend the kind of money and use the kind of talent necessary to develop tourism in this province."

Following his interests in the problems of population and environment, the Hastings riding candidate was a Canadian delegate to the 1970 United Nations conference at The Hague, Netherlands, and has worked for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN as an information officer in India.

Educated in Wellington, and following service in the Royal Canadian Air Force from 1941 to 1945, he attended Queen's University, graduating with an honors degree in history.

As a journalist, Mr. Lunn has worked as reporter, copy editor and staff writer for The Kingston Whig - Standard, The Globe and Mail, The Toronto Daily Star and Star Weekly.

Both Mr. Lunn and his wife are interested in history and writing. In 1967, they published The County, a history of Prince Edward County, written for the Centennial of Canadian Confederation. Mr. Lunn has published two other books, both high school English literature texts, and Mrs. Lunn is author of a children's novel.

Mr. Lunn will appear on CJBQ's open line program, What Do You Think, on Oct. 5.

Expert on Antiques Is Loyalist Lecturer

There's treasure waiting to be discovered in the bottoms of those boxes and barrels at county auctions.

If you know what to look for, that is.

Loyalist College is helping out with the search this winter, by running a course on Early Canadian paintings and how to recognize them.

The lecturer is Gerald Stevens, long recognized as an expert on Canadiana, especially the early art of this country.

Mr. Stevens was here last winter to conduct a course on Canadian antiques, and he will return by popular demand to give the same course again and conduct another on paintings.

He is the former owner of the Stevens Art Gallery in Montreal and is now associated with the Canadiana Department of the Royal Ontario Museum. Mr. Stevens is already known to local antique buffs through his books: In A Canadian Attic, The Canadian Collector and Early Canadian Glass.

In his new course on art, Mr. Stevens deals with pictographs and petroglyphs relating to early prehistoric carvings and paintings done by the aborigines.

He continues, during the 10-lecture series, to discuss early European art executed in Canada up to the modern paintings of Paul Kane, Cornelius Krieghoff, F. S. Coburn, Clarence Gagnon, Maurice Cullen and the Group of Seven.

The course begins Oct. 5 in the lecture theatre of B building at the college. It continues every Tuesday night, from 8:30 to 10:30 for 10 weeks.

Those interested are urged to register now by mail or in person with Loyalist College, telephone 962-9501. Late registration will be accepted on the night of the first lecture until classes are filled.

The popular lecture series by Mr. Stevens on Canadian antiques will also be offered this year. Anyone wishing to enrol should telephone the college without delay.

Nixon Fields Questions

six Liberal doctors including Dr. W. W. Weaver of Trenton, brother of the candidate. Also on hand to welcome him were Sidney reeve Jack Bush and Belleville alderman Art Keegan.

Seventeen - year - old Karen Russell emerged from the small crowd gathered at the AMDU side of the military installations. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Russell of Belleville presented Mr. Nixon with a bouquet of white and blue waistcoat, which she called "a good luck charm".

After a brief discussion with the cluster of party faithful, the Liberal chief was hustled into a car at the head of a 10-car motorcade for the nine mile trip to Belleville.

Emerging from his car at the Intelligencer - CJBQ building on Belleville's Front Street, Nixon was officially welcomed to the city by Mayor J. Russell Scott who escorted him to sign the city guest book which he was carrying. After a brief tete-a-tete with the mayor and Mr. Weaver and a quick survey of Mike's Mosaic of Belleville presented to him by the mayor, that Liberal leader spent 15 CJBQ radio studios minutes before the Mill Johnston show began at 12:30.

Nixon faced a series of what host Johnston called "well though out questions" on such subjects as the high cost of living, education, guaranteed income and regional government.

He pointed out in his replies that all parties are concerned with the state of the Canadian and provincial economies but said he personally does not believe in rigid government - imposed wage and price controls.

Liberals, he said, would establish a committee to review price and wage increases (a power he said he comes review board) "to ask the same questions the people would like to ask." He called the firm measures taken by U.S. President Nixon "a lid on a boiling kettle."

On unemployment in the province, he said a Liberal government would use public funds to create more jobs, saying "dollars spent now to create jobs is better than dollars spent the winter to pay welfare costs."

One caller bemoaning the price of living in Ontario said that instead of the former deputy minister of education being charged with heading an investigation of education costs, a "select committee of the legislature should have been formed" to look into the situation. "Surely members of legislature should have something to do with this," he said.

Mr. Nixon said his party, if elected, would transfer 50 per cent of the cost of education away from the property tax base within four years.

"Welfare kills incentive," he told one caller, explaining Liberals would institute a guaranteed income program with "built-in work incentives."

He called for homes for the retarded to be added to a greater extent into the communities instead of having these people "warehoused miles from anywhere — community facilities would keep the families involved" in the well-being of their children.

"A financial fiasco" was his assessment of Conservative government establishment of regional governments. In Nigeria, he said, the seat of administration has close up 49 per cent since regional government was established.

Nixon advocated "reform to the tax base of municipalities" and a decentralization that would permit "local governments a chance to make its own decisions."

At the conclusion of the radio show, Nixon returned to CFB Trenton and took off for London, Ont., next stop on the Liberal campaign trail.

Trenton Highrise Will Be Defended

TRENTON (Staff) — The soon - to - be - disbanded Trenton and Suburban Planning Board will meet tonight for one of its last sessions and plans to tackle a major issue.

A member of the board told The Intelligencer yesterday action will be taken in a bid to have the Ontario Municipal Board decision on Glenmeckie highrise reversed.

In a bearing decision this summer, the OMB decided to defer a zoning change to permit construction of a proposed apartment tower on the old Fraser estate on Dundas West.

This evening's discussion is expected to deal with ways of negating the reasons given by the OMB for holding off on the rezoning before presenting the matter once more to a hearing.

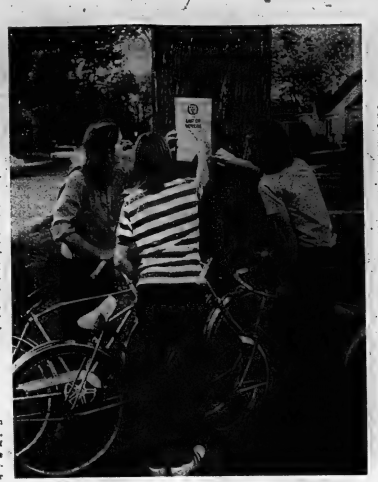
Power Failure Caused by Stake

The entire west side of Belleville, portions f the downtown area and part of the East Hill were without power yesterday after a workman drove a corner stake through a 44,000 - volt line on Cascade Boulevard.



Traffic lights blinked out at 2.13 p.m. turning traffic at numerous intersections. Bay few temporary repairs could completely be effected by 3.30, several agencies experienced setbacks in their operations.

The Belleville Fire Department radio communications network had to be supplemented by auxiliary equipment and the Bell Canada electronic switchboard at the business office was out of commission for approximately an hour.

E. L. Burnham, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission, said this morning 5 sub-stations were affected when the stake cut through the underground line. The workman, uninjured in the accident, heard the noise of gas escaping from the underground duct, followed by a "bit of an explosion." This eruption was powerful enough to open a breaker in the Ontario Hydro transformer station on Centre Street.

PUC trucks sped in all directions in an effort to locate the actual break and by hooking up overhead power lines, were able to effect temporary repairs by 3.03 p.m. and by 3.30, the entire city had power again.

Final repairs will not be made until a supply of power cables is received by the PUC.

Where's My Name?

With the enumeration complete for the coming provincial election, it has been found that there will be approximately 10,000 new names added to the list. Three 18 year olds, part of the 4,000 18 to 20 group given the right to vote, make a final check to se e that their names have been included on the list.

Motel-Hospital Care Concept Explained by Health Minister

Rezoning of the Queen's Motel property on Dundas St. East will permit Ontario's health department to "get down to work with a sensible pilot project in total health care", the province's health minister said today.

Hon. Bert Lawrence spoke to The Intelligencer from his headquarters to outline the province, to provide the most efficient health services in the east end.

"This is part of an experimental health services in the most economical way" said the minister of health.

The existing Queen's Motel will be leased by the government together with its furnishings and present staff, for use as a convalescent or "extended care" hospital.

"The department of health is only interested in using the site and buildings as they are now stand, in using the existing facilities in an efficient way," said Mr. Lawrence. "We are only renting the motel. The department has no intention of building elaborate hospital facilities on the site."

This guarantee was written into the special zoning put on the motel site by city council Tuesday night. The by-law limits buildings to two storeys in height.

In fact, said the health minister, in outlining plans for the motel, its use as an extended care hospital is designed to limit the building of more expensive, high-rise hospital facilities in the city in the foreseeable future.

The minister explained the use of the motel as an extended care hospital was part of the total health care package his department has promoted since he took office six months ago.

The total health care package wraps up five needs in one Ontario Hospital Service premium.

It provides active treatment beds in Belleville General Hospital, convalescent beds in the extended care hospital at the motel, home care, in operation in the city since last April, nursing home care in existing private nursing homes and facilities for the chronically ill in nursing homes and other institutions both local a nd scattered across the province.

"The extended care hospital will operate to complement nursing homes, not in opposition to them," said Mr. Lawrence.

After the new hospital is opened in the motel, Belleville will have two extended care units. One is the present unit in operation in the old wing of BGH for non-ambulatory patients. Those who cannot get about on their own and require special equipment for lifting and moving and more personal attention than these convalescents who can move around on their own.

The second unit will be the motel - hospital, for ambulatory patients who can take care of most of their needs themselves but are still too ill to be on their own at home.

These will include people in the last stages of recovery from cardiac diseases and strokes and those "in for tests", who must spend a few hours every day in the hospital for lab work and X rays, but who are not ill enough to need confinement to an active treatment bed at BGH.

One of the reasons the department of health is using extended-life extended care facilities is to give there "transitional patients" an opportunity to live in a more normal environment, with ready access to the out - of - doors, during the time they need care between hospital and home, or home and hospital.

Mr. Lawrence gave three reasons for the decision to institue pilot projects in extended care for a three-year period in Belleville, Hamilton and, perhaps, Thunder Bay.

The cost for each patient for a day is less than half the cost of confining him in an active treatment bed. At present, active treatment care amounts to about $50 a day at BGH.

The use of the motel for extended care facilities eliminates capital expenditure on buildings — the government is entering into a leasing arrangement with the motel's owner.

will free active treatment

The extended care hospital beds at BGH and cancel the necessity for a multi - million dollar expenditure on a new hospital in the future.

Figures released locally give a picture of the impact the total health care package will have on the Belleville community. e

The Belleville General now has about 350 active treatment beds[illegible] which 122 are used for medical and surgical cases. The remainder are used for children, obstetrical patients, intensive care and the like. Of these 122 active treatment beds, 49 are now occupied by patients who could be moved to an extended care unit if one were available.

Since home care was initiated last April, allowing many patients to go home under close nursing supervision at an earlier date, the waiting list for admission of non-emergency surgical patients has been cut by one-half.

OMB Reserves Decision On Albert St. Land Split

The still unapproved bylaw covering the residential chapter of Belleville's proposed official plan which would bar new apartment construction in much of the city's present B section, was referred to at yesterday's Ontario Municipal Board hearing on a land split request for the Albert - Street district.

The hearing was an appeal against a decision a year ago by the Belleville Committee of Adjustment approving the land split to allow construction of a single.

Decision on yesterday's appeal was reserved by the OMB members and area residents will have to wait a bit longer to learn whether the land split will be approved.

Under the existing bylaw 6495, construction of the apartment would permissible.

The hearing was on a request from local builder Maurice H. Rollins for two land splits at 184 Albert Street — one to allow construction of a single-s and the other to build a two-storey single family residence.

Fred D. Ethier, 183 Albert Street, who lives diagonally across from the subject property said the hearing he objected to the land split for the apartment and questioned the adequacy of the sanitary sewer to handle the additional housing units.

He was also concerned about the proposed lot coverage, the amount of offstreet parking to be provided and the possible disappearance of trees and green area.

He said he would not oppose the land split if one or two family residences were to be built. .

Other area residents who supported the objections were Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn G e e n and Mrs. Beaurley Boyce.'

Both Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. Geen were concerned about possible increased traffic and the resulting danger to small children.

Testifying in support of his land split application, Mr. Rollins said that plans for both the single family dwelling and the six-plex provided for more sideyard allowance than was required under the existing bylaw.

He said the proposed 24-storey six-plex would cover only 1,700 square feet of the lot having a total area of more than 6,000 feet.

Even after the required number of parking spaces were provided, approximately 30 per cent of the lot would remain in green area.

Mr. Rollins said the existing house in the centre of the present lot would remain and denied any intention of constructing a highrise.

Planner Richard Danziger said the staff of the former Belleville and Suburban Planning Board had no objection from a planning standpoint, but later under questioning by the OMB member Mr. McGuire admitted the present bylaw requirements for B zone districts were not completely adequate.

He said the planning staff had proposed a revision of land use plan for the city as the residential chapter of the city's official plan but noted this still had not been approved, either by the Quinte Planning Board or city council.

The proposed new plan envisages the Albert S t r e e t area as a low density single residential use area but with the plan still not formally adopted, planning staff, under the terms of the existing bylaw, could not oppose the requested land split.

To a further question by Mr. McGuire, the witness said that in the 10 years he had been in the city there had been quite a number of applications for land splits in the B district.

Yule Stamp Motif Is Snowflakes

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

With only 87 days left until Christmass, thoughts turn to purchasing appropriate gifts and cards for the holiday season.

To commemorate this season, the Canada Post Office

While all but the original Canarian 1898 World Map Christmas issue design have been based on a religious theme, the 1971 series will be the first traditional break in 73 years.

Designed by Miss Lisl Leyfmahn of Toronto, the four-stamp series, with values of six, seven, 10 and 15 cents, features artistically designed snowflakes.

Her intricate pen drawings are considered by many artists, collectors and connoisseurs, to be among the best of the kind in the world. In reproducing the snowflake designs, the contemporary style and fine delineation of line have been preserved by special printing techniques.

The lower denominations, in dark blue and dark green, respectively, are examples of creating a reverse image through the use of engraving. Higher values in silver and red, employ the technique of engraving in superimposed lines of silver ink upon a background reproduced by the lithographic process.

Miss Levinson emigrated to Canada in 1954 from the United States where she lived after leaving her native Vienna, Austria, as a young child in 1937. Prior to coming to Canada as her home, professional figure skating, painting, advertising, designing a nd mathematics 2had occupied her time, principally in the New York area.

Although earlier indications seemed to have Miss Levinsohn slated for a writing career, she began producing the miniature, frequently consisting of some 47,000 carefully plotted lines.

The lowest denominaton 24 by 30 millimetre issues will be released in two plates while the largest, 40 by 50 millimetre high - values will be printed with only one marginal plate inscription.

If collectors' trends follow the pattern of middle-1900 issues, the first day cover blocks of the regular mail, seven cent, issue, will become valuable philatelic items.

To be released Oct. 6, the Canadian Bank Note Company issues are available to collectors from the Philatelic Service, Ottawa Post Office, Confederation Heights, Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0B5.

Duck Hunter Drowns Trying to Retrieve

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — A Prince Edward County duck hunter was drowned near Bloomfield last night when he fell into a pond while attempting to retrieve a duck he had bagged.

Dead is 27-year-old William Samuel Lindle, RR 1, Bloomfield, who was hunting at 7.15 p.m. with friends Victor Godfrey, 18, of Mountain Grove, when the fatal accident occurred.

The men were hunting near Mr. Lindle's home at a manmade pond on the property of David Levitt. RR 1, Bloomfield.

Victor Godfrey also plunged into the steeply-banked pond in an effort to rescue his fellow hunter. He urged Mr. Lindle to grab a stick, which he had been using to retrieve the dead duck. Lindle, however, disappeared from the surface before he could reach the stick

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Mr. Godfrey apparently remained in the water for approximately two hours, struggling to climb the eight-foot walls of the pond.

He had managed to remove his shoes and had also taken off his belt and thrown its buckle against the clay banks of the pond in an effort to give a grip.

Finally, he stuggled to safety and remained at the pond for a time, calling for Mr. Lindle, whom he thought might have climbed from the water earlier. He later ran to the Lindle residence and members of the Picton OPP were notified of the missing hunter.

At 10:45 p.m., searchers discovered Lindle's body about about 10 feet east of the duck carcass. His body was recovered shortly before 1 a.m. today.

A police spokesman said Mr. Lindle could swim, but apparently encountered problems trying to escape from the pond.

The OPP search was conducted using a small aluminum boat loaned by George Hanna, Picton, and a portable generator and lamps owned by the Picton Fire Department

Prince Edward County Coroner, Dr C. R. Hazlewood, said today that no inquest would be held into the hunter's death.

Decline and Fall

The following is an extract from a confessional, as it might be termed, by an anonymous U.S. citizen. We have encountered it before elsewhere — it was apparently in a number of American newspapers — and it turned up again the other day in Bruce West's column in The Globe and Mail.

The writer admits that in our so-called "sick society" perhaps many of us are, indeed, sick — and for good reasons that are as relevant here as they are across the border.

"I am sick," he writes, "of having policemen ridiculed and called 'pigs' while cop killers are hailed as some kind of folk hero. I am sick of being told that religion is the opiate of the people, but marijuana should be legalized. I am sick of commentators and columnists canonizing anarchists, revolutionaries and criminal rapists but condemning law enforcement when such criminals are brought to justice. . . I am sick of riots, marches, protests, demonstrations, confrontations and the other mob temper tantrums of people intellectually incapable of working within the system. . . I am sick of permissiveness. I am sick of the foul-mouthed, the unwashed. I am sick of the decline of personal honesty, personal integrity and human sincerity. . ."

These observations are very pertinent to our day and they may be linked with another aspect of social degeneracy today — the problem of drug abuse. It has been said that one of the ways in which international Communism works at undermining western society is through drug pushing. The late Soviet dictator, Stalin, once expounded this very theory and we have further confirmation of it in an interesting little publication on drugs put out by The Pentecostal Hour in Halifax, N.S., and sent to us by a reader. In it Shirley Burgess writes:

"Communism sure knows how to get a wedge in for its own advantage. The communist world has expressed itself time and again as being unalterably dedicated to a militant program of world revolution. Drugs are part of that program. It is all included in their scheme to break down the moral standards of the youth of our nation. The new morality is a part of that program. They believe that once they have a generation of youth that has lost the influence of its parents and grandparents, Bible and Church, they are well on their way to a takeover."

We have seen how the Soviet Union is still heavily engaged in the espionage business. They are busy in other subversive ways, as we have indicated here, and by means so subtle that the great mass of the public are unaware of what is happening.

Movie Interlude

Movie actor Robert Mitchum is one of the old guard of Hollywood movie actors still soldiering on in these rather lean times for the industry. And how the man is progressing and looking even younger than of old when he used to play the heavy in westerns and gangster films.

Versatile he is proving himself to be, moving from those tough guy roles to the Australian outback man, accent and all, with Deborah Kerr in The Sundowners, and now to the part of the handsome Irish storekeeper opposite Sarah Miles in Ryan's Daughter. And sounding authentically southern Irish as well. A widower, he marries this wild and wayward girl and endures her lies and deceit against a background of political intrigue and gun-running. In Ireland they are accustomed to this sort of thing, to the intrigue and gun-running at least, and the recovery of the German weapons and ammunition from the sea may well have been patterned after the activities of Sir Roger Casement back in the first world war, only the real-life locale for that was the coast of Ireland and the place the Germans attempted to get the guns in by submarine. Casement was arrested and subsequently executed for treason.

In Ryan's Daughter the scene is County Kerry. Its changing sands, its savage shoreline and offshore islands, a wild, incredible grandeur whose beauty is so at odds with "the troubles" which for so long have plagued this land.

Robert Mitchum, very much the good guy in this story, was born in Bridgeport, Connecticut, in 1917, ironically not long after Dublin was wrecked by the 1916 Easter Rebellion. County Kerry is a far cry from the American States, a far cry even from Northern Ireland where today's "troubles" are concentrated, but in the mountains and the sea actor Mitchum would have found similarities to home; and fine performer that he is, drawn the necessary inspiration. As the publican, Ryan, playing both sides of the political fence, said to his daughter, concerning the man she married, "When you married him I thought you could have done better . . . now I don't know if they come any better."

A Fall Election?

Political Jitters as Opposition Awaits Word from P.M.

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — He still has not said yes, and he has not said no, he has only said maybe, and time is running out on Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau if he still ponders in the secret recesses of his mind the possibility of a late fall election.

And as time runs out, anxiety creeps in, tension tightens, pressure mounts.

On everyone, including the ruling Liberals, but especially on the Conservatives, New Democrats and the Real Caucrists' Social Crédistes.

The Liberals are getting increasingly jumpy about not only the state of the economy and the darkening sky of a bad political winter, but condition of the charisma that only three years ago glittered with such blinding brilliance around the handsome head that wears their crown.

Was it itself after all: and now darkly tarnished?

Or is it still burning bright?

But if the Liberals are uncertain, the Conservatives are in such a state even they can not define it, although from the sidelines the word pundits best concerning it might be confusion.

They have company, though, with the New Democrats similarly torn by internal tensions and pounded by party pressure groups.

Only Real Caouette, big little bloc of 13 parliamentarians and his increasingly strengthening army of candidates mean service.

Or all four parties they have the least to lose and the most to gain, and to talk to them you get the overall feeling that somehow, in their political bones they know they will sweep Quebec, and perhaps, with luck running full for them, even pack up a seat or two in the French ridings of Eastern and maybe even Northern Ontario.

Whatever these last three years of power have done to Pierre Trudeau, he remains the party kite to which all liberal candidates will attach themselves like a tail.

Every last one of them from External Affairs Minister Sharp who stands in as "Acting Prime Minister" when there is away at work or play, to the most obscure backbencher will be identifying in every possible way they can contrive with the PM.

To listen to them now, even with an election still only in the rumor stage and perhaps as far off as next spring or even the fall of 1972, it is the exchange-by-the "PM and Me" appeal from TV through newspapers, billboards, and on through to those signs that deface too many suburban lawns.

With the Tories, it is going to be different.

But candidate "personal" identification, too, with plenty of emphasis on local issues.

All Opposition candidates, but especially the Conservatives, will be trying to get maximum mileage out of the economic issues because, for these last three years, the economy — the whole broad range including taxes and inflation, and not, as with the New Democrats, simply unemployment — has been their political target. But they have had to be careful to maximize alive and working for them in every constituency.

Leaders and issues aside, important as they are, all parties, candidates and backroom boys alike know that enthusiasm is the real key to success.

The leader has to have the wild-to-win and make the whole party structure — from sitting-members, the first-time candidates, to the campaign executive, the field workers who knock on doors and the contributors who put up the cash from the individual's $5 or $10 to the corporation's big cheque writers — believe they can not lose.

The vast majority of any party's army of voluntary workers manning the local constituency organizations seldom if ever receive any tangible recognition of their efforts.

That is why enthusiasm — high, wild-to-win morale — not only is so essential it is positively indispensable.

Building this cannot lose spirit is difficult.

Success depends simply and without question on the reflection by the leader and the party of realistic chances for success.

If he looks like a winner, talks like a winner, runs like a winner, then the odds are that the workers will believe they are the winning team.

Winning, as in any competition, is the object of the exercise, the fun thing, the good and rewarding and self-satisfying part of it all.

It is the only credible, persuasive, compelling incentive.

It cannot be bought, it can only be built.

Mercenaries going through the motions for the money can not pull it off. Workers enjoying the thrill of going with the winner can and always do.

If the leader or the party looks or sounds uncertain, that is the end of the vote game.

For the workers will take their cue as it appears to reflect down from the top, and if the "feel" and "sense" — sometimes instinctively — is discouraging, they are not going to go out in the rain touring those neighborhood doorbells and talk it up.

At this point in political time, as Parliament Hill waits word from the Prime Minister, no major party yet has the key. It remains up for grabs.

"Now we wait till it dies of indigestion!"

TV Debate Still Uncertain

From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau, Toronto.
By DON O'HEARN

At time of writing there still has been no final decision on the proposed television debate between the party leaders in the election.

Toronto station CFTO and the CTV Ontario network talked about the debate before the election was even called.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party leader, quickly agreed.

But Premier Davis has held back, his position being that he would have to see whether the debate would be worthwhile.

It is quite understandable that Mr. Davis would hold off.

Under any formats known to date a government leader is at a great disadvantage in a television "debate," so-called.

Firstly, he is almost automatically the accused in the witness box. Other leaders have their programs to talk about. But he goes to the people on his record. And in a debate he has to defend this.

Then the time can't be adequate. In the hour or so that would be available, only a few issues could be touched on. And inevitably it would be questions the opposition leaders felt had set appeal that would be discussed. Then such as election spending which, though of some importance, relative to the main questions are non-issues.

Finally, the premier by even accepting makes the real interest and gives his opponents an audience they otherwise would never get.

One possibility that might alter this would be to take an entirely different approach to those used to date.

This would be to make it a "defensive" debate. Let the other leaders be put in the same position as the premier and have to defend their policies rather than propound them.

Preferably this would be done in three or four separate shows. Let each leader go on the mat for one and have his two opponents question him on the positions he has taken in the campaign period prior to it.

Then there could be a wind-up session in which each would get a set time to summarize.

This at least would tend to put all three on a fairly equal footing. It also should be an interesting and a valuable series.

The last is important. I was a participant in the only major attempt at such a TV debate in Ontario, in 1963. It was deadly. Enough to arrived public respect for politics.

Incidentally, Davis would probably come out pretty well in a debate in which the ground rules weren't loaded against him. He is good at handling attack.

Example for the Aged

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

The extent of the success of the Opportunities for Youth program may still be impossible to assess fully and finally, but in a great many of its projects it has encouraged much positive and creative work, some of which benefitted not only the youths who participated but also a wide variety of the neglected aspects of Canadian life.

There is another possible beneficiary. There is now growing pressure for an "opportunities for the aged" program which will do something positive for the older portion of the populace.

It would be intriguing indeed if the government initiative which focused on the youthful part of the population were to result in a much more creative attitude to the useful and unwillingly - retired elderly section of the population. Intriguing and welcomed.

The most obvious move in this direction is now initiated by Barry Mather, the NDP member of Parliament from British Columbia, who is to be placed a resolution on the Commons order paper calling for an opportunities for the aged program, which he says would improve health, economic, occupational, recreational and cultural opportunities for senior citizens.

The Mathers initiative is only the most obvious of many which are apparently developing at the federal level. Several cabinet ministers are said to support the idea, one which has been present at least since the formation of the Company of Young Canadians, when Liberal James Walker urged the formation of a "company of old Canadians."

So the idea is at work, and whether or not the Mathers resolution itself gets government support, it seems inevitable that some initiative of this kind will have to be considered by State Secretary Pelletier's department, which was responsible for the Opportunities for Youth programs.

For the bureaucrats, it may seem quite a switch to turn off some of the concern for youth and apply it instead to the elderly, but there is much to be said for it.

The two concepts are, of course, not quite the same, just as youth and age are not the same thing. But there seems no reason why the experience gained in the Opportunities for Youth program cannot be turned toward giving similar opportunities to the ambitious and still-vigorous elderly.

The benefits possible from the latter concept would prove just as valuable and perhaps less costly and less controversial than the Opportunities for Youth program.

Attica Affair

Excess—and Patience Too

Montreal La Presse

It would be defending the absurd to refuse to see that at Attica the forces of order resisted with monstrous excess.

This said, however, it would also be absurd to refuse to see that at Attica the higher authorities exercised great patience. They granted the mutineers an injunction preventing lower authorities from precipitating events, they tried to negotiate with the inmates for four days; they accepted 28 of their 30 demands.

There are not many examples of countries where such steps are possible.

Sandbanks, Ecology and Election

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The sentiments expressed by Betty Sadler regarding the attitude of Mr. Taylor in respect to the Sandbanks are understandable.

A tenuous situation developed at a most inopportune time during an election campaign. Mr. Davis kicked off his campaign by telling us the Provincial government has acted to protect our provincial parks. Then came the embarrassing disclosure that the government was permitting a private company to remove thousands of tons of sand to a point endangering the ecological balance of the area.

By the gravity MPP Norris Whitney did nothing to stop the damage during his term in office. Now Mr. Taylor is trying to votes tells us the government of Ontario will buy back what is left and assist the company to find an alternative source of supply.

By the government of Ontario Mrs. Taylor means you and I, the same taxpayers that provided the funds to develop the area in the first place.

Mr. Davis, nor his predecessor John Robarts, has not consult us when they made this arrangement to allow private enterprise to destroy the beauty of the Sandbanks, nor, I suspect, if re-elected will we be consulted as to recompense to the Sandbanks are undertandable.

Mr. Davis told us the government would not until they had introduced, enacted and would enforce "the most comprehensive pollution control program in Canada". He also made mention of the "teeth" in the measures.

Isn't it about time that the teeth were put to work taking to task the fellows who are in the industrial polluters instead of the nibbles that have characterized their action in this respect to date?

In their Blueprint for Government, the Liberals say they will create they would increase penalties for polluters, make it perhaps liable for jail and introduced action was taken. This approach was resorted to in England and almost overnight the pollution problem was on its way to being licked."

Such action would undoubtedly bring howls of wrath from the corporations and might adversely affect the party bagmen's collection I suppose, but we have reached that point in time where we can no longer continue to pussyfoot around in our handling of those who put profit today above survival tomorrow.

The Clods Of This World

Letter in the Hamilton Spectator

We hear so much criticism of the younger generation. I would like to give an instance where the young generation put the older generation to shame.

Recently I had occasion to ride the Main West bus from the Institute for the Blind to the Hamilton terminal. After I got on a young man around 20 got on followed by a middle-aged man coming from work. The middle-aged man found he had no money or ticket and wondered how he would get home. The young lad came forward and paid his fare.

Would you believe it? — the clod didn't even say thanks.

New Minister Takes Tough Line

Provincial Department to Control Community College Spending

TORONTO (Special)—John Wilte, minister of the new department of colleges and university affairs, says he intends to bring costs of community colleges under control.

"Lack of guidelines at the community college level has resulted in some waste in the areas of equipment and class facilities. People went out and bought everything in sight because there were no spending controls," said the minister.

Mr. White will assume the college and university portfolio when the department is formed Friday, October 1. The change results from Prime Minister William Davis' decision to shift the community colleges branch to the department of university affairs from the education department.

The minister told the Toronto bureau of The Intelligencer he expects a 20 per cent increase in the number of full-time students and 20 per cent in part-time evening students.

He said the department is awaiting statistical reports from the community colleges to indicate how many third year students found jobs last summer. The reports are important, he said, as they will give the first indication of the success of the college program. The third year students who graduated last year were the first in the community college program.

"Seneca College in Toronto has already submitted a job report showing 92 per cent of the third year graduates are employed," he said.

Mr. Jackson says the majority of the reports from the 20 community colleges in Ontario will come in slowly as the students have to be contacted. There has been no serious problem in students finding jobs in preliminary reports, he said.

Last year, 100,000 students were enrolled. The enrolment included 31,500 full-time students in the three year program which follows a secondary school education; 20,500 in the adult retraining program; 2,500 in the apprentice programs sponsored by the department of labor; and 45,000 in general interest night school courses.

Enrolment Increase Expected

TORONTO (Special) — Enrolment in community colleges will exceed 125,000 people this year, says H. W. Jackson, director of applied arts and technology branch of the new department of colleges and universities.

Mr. Jackson told the Toronto bureau of The Intelligencer he expects a 20 per cent increase in the number of full-time students and 20 per cent in part-time evening students.

He said the department is awaiting statistical reports from the community colleges to indicate how many third year students found jobs last summer. White Starts Tomorrow guidelines are similar to those in universities, based on the number of students and usable space.

He said the department will permit less than a two per cent increase in operating costs from student grants. The minister said he is considering no increase in the 1973 school year.

The provincial budget for operating the 20 community colleges is $105.6 million this year. Last year the budget was $77 million. The increase results from the additional students enrolled in colleges and the rising costs per student.

Mr. White said administrators will have to find ways to use existing equipment to develop their courses.

The minister comes to the department with an academic and business background. He was a part-time lecturer at the University of Western Ontario, London, and Waterloo University, Kitchener, and president of a London heavy equipment firm. Prior to his appointment as minister of university affairs, Mr. White was revenue minister.

Community colleges are broadening their programs away from technical and vocational trades to involve more people in the community, he said.

The minister says expansion in the courses results from more people between 40 and 60 attending community night courses. The community colleges have to open their doors as education is not the exclusive right of people between 16 and 20, he said.

Additional guidelines for the use of community colleges are expected in the report of the Committee on Post Secondary School Education. The report is scheduled for release in November, said the minister.

Community colleges were built to provide the next step following graduation from technical and vocational secondary schools. The secondary schools were built in the early 1960s at no cost to the municipalities involved because of full financial backing from the federal and provincial governments.

Mr. White says the college system is important as students obtain technical and trade skills. With these skills they can compete for jobs with European tradesmen, he said.

"An extensive and expensive building program for community colleges in the province was undertaken to compete with universities for student enrolment," he said.

Original plans by the province to use existing buildings for colleges in order to keep costs down did not work. Students were not interested. They wanted handsome buildings, as universities offered.

Mr. White says confusion exists between the community college program and the federal government's short-term retraining program. The federal program, which uses vacant factories and buildings is designed for times of high unemployment. The provincial community college program uses buildings built to last for decades. The minister said community colleges were neither built to keep young people off the labor market or off the streets.

Trade and technical courses at community colleges are set by the board of governors at the college and then sent to the council of regents in Toronto for approval. Courses are set generally because of local interest and need, said Mr. White.

Stress is placed on the number of courses offered by colleges in day and evening classes to attract students. Better use of facilities is made when the enrolment is at maximum, he said.

Staff for colleges are hired from business and trade professions in most instances. The minister said he emphasizes practical experience rather than degrees in hiring staff for the colleges.

Mr. White said administrators are concerned the new department will change community colleges into carbon copies of universities. The department will give each system as a separate unit, he said.

HURRY (Hurry, hurry, hurry, hurry)

It won't last forever, but right now is a fantastic time to buy a new 1972 Chevrolet, Chevelle, Monte Carlo, Nova, Vega, Camaro, Cutlass or Oldsmobile. President Nixon's price freeze stopped the price increase that was on the way (an average of $175. per car). But it didn't stop the cars! To our surprise and delight a shipment of 25 beautiful, shiny new 1972 cars just arrived at our door.

If you buy before the freeze comes unfrozen, we can let you have one of these beauties (or two or three, if you like) at the 1971 price. Now, we know the prices are going to go up eventually, probably within weeks. Because the cars are costing more to make. But right now you're definitely ahead of the game if you deal.

Our used car business is very important to us. And right now we're not doing any because we just don't have the cars. So our new car department wants to sell, and our used car department wants to buy. And that makes a very, very good situation for you.

Secondary Students Lack Goals

TORONTO (Special) — An increasing number of secondary school students lack goals for their future because they are seldom required to make decisions which affect their lives, says Mrs. Jean Acetl, president of the On-Teachers' Federation.

The Sudbury home economics teacher says she is concerned that many students do not have even tentative future plans.

Mrs. Acetl said in an interview students know they will go to university or work when they leave school. The problem exists because these students are not acting why, she says. The attitude among students is that, they go along without future plans. She calls the attitude a destructive factor. Today students are following their peers without setting a goal, she says.

Mrs. Acetl said she plans throughout the province during her term as president to discuss the question of what society expects of the school system.

The public is demanding more services through education, particularly in the area of social values, health and welfare, she says.

In recent years the public has started to look to the schools to assume traditional functions of the family in developing work habits and a sense of responsibility.

Teachers now have to consider two aspects in education. The teachers have to train the student following programs of English, history and mathematics, and also develop the student through the social values for life, as preparation for the future, When looking at education studies are required on how to live in a consumer world, she said.

Important message to Ontario residents aged 65 and over

On January 1, 1972, hospital and medical insurance premium payments will be abolished for all residents of Ontario 65 years of age and over. This is in keeping with recently announced Ontario Government policy.

This policy will apply to the age of the certificate holder and will include coverage for eligible dependents. Premium-free coverage becomes effective on the first of the month during which a resident becomes 65.

HOW IT WILL WORK

Under the new plan combined coverage will be continued under the resident's present Ontario Hospital Insurance number. The OHSIP billing system will be discontinued. All residents 65 or over who remit Ontario Hospital Insurance premiums on a pay-direct basis will be requested to complete a premium exemption application.

As the insurance records do not identify those who will be eligible for premium-free coverage, the application, when received, should be completed by those 65 and over and returned as soon as possible in the envelope which will be provided.

If you qualify and have already paid premiums to cover benefits after January 1, 1972, a refund will be made for the over-payment.

Unfortunately, until exemption applications are processed we cannot avoid routine mailing of normal premium notices. However, residents 65 or over should not be concerned. If the notice applies entirely to coverage in 1972, please hold it until the application for free coverage is received.

IF YOU PAY YOUR PREMIUMS THROUGH A GROUP

Persons enrolled in groups will be reported to us by the group and transferred to our "Premium Exemption" file.

Groups will be fully informed about this in the near future.

Mrs. Donald Evans, panelist, (foreground), ponders a point while Mrs. Barrie Summers, moderator, (second from right), puts a question to the other panel members, Dr. James Birchard and Mrs. Sheila Richards. The discussion on abortion, led by the UW, took place at Bridge Street United Church on Wednesday night.

Bridge St. UCW Sponsors Abortion Discussion

By SUSAN KORAH
Women's Reporter

That abortion is not morally acceptable as a method of population control but if it has to be done due to various circumstances, the earlier it is done the better is a guideline provided by the United Church of Canada on this controversial issue. Mrs. Donald Evans of Toronto, chairman of the committee that prepared the report on abortion for the United Church explained this stand during a panel discussion held on Wednesday night at Bridge Street United Church, under the leadership of the UCW. She stressed, however, that this was not an absolute law, but a guideline.

The moderator was Mrs. Barl Summers, a lay woman of the Church, while the other panel members were Mrs. Sheila Richards, supervisor of the adoption and unmarried parents department, Family and Children's Services and Dr. James Birchard, Obstetrician.

The discussion took the form of a question and answer session with questions being put to the panelists by the moderator.

Before delving into the moral and philosophical aspects of abortion, Mrs. Summers asked Dr. Birchard to define abortion which he did as the "intentional termination of pregnancy before the stage of viability" and pointed out that what the "stage of viability" means is a debatable point in itself.

In response to other questions Dr. Birchard said that two years ago there was no legal abortion in Canada but during the last two years the law has been changed to allow a woman to get an abortion if the continuation of her pregnancy would jeopardize her life or health.

He pointed out that since health covers such a wide term ... / and includes mental as well as physical health, the medical profession had conceived around that word to allow certain abortions. He said that the law further states that abortions must be done in accredited hospitals and committees in accredited hospitals go through three qualified people who comprise the hospital's abortion committee. Theoretically, the three must not have any personal dealings with the applicant.

Both Dr. Birchard and Mrs. Evans strongly emphasized that the committee system is one of the weaknesses of the law. Dr. Birchard stated that it is against medical principles to make medical decision without actually examining the patient, which the committee is expected to do.

About the grounds on which abortions are permitted, Dr. Birchard said it varies from hospital to hospital and area to area. He said that in the Belleville General Hospital for example, the term health is interpreted to include mental health and applications are successful if it is felt that the continuation of the pregnancy would cause serious psychological damage, also in the cases of pregnancies that result from rape.

Mrs. Evans felt that those who wished to get an abortion should not have to go through so much red tape because the time element is very important and she pointed out that many women go to New York and certain other States where the abortion laws are more permissive. She said that according to the "theory of accruing value" endorsed by the United Church of Canada, the foetus, since it develops from a simple cell to a complex human baby, gathers increasing value as time goes on, So if an abortion had to be done, the sooner it is done, the better.

Mrs. Richards pointed out that even if the law was liberalized, it does not necessarily mean that many more people would take advantage of it. She said that to get an abortion is a very painful decision for most women brought up on the Christian ethic.

But the consensus of opinion was that the law should be liberalized to allow women the choice of continuing or terminating a pregnancy. But Mrs. Evans said she could not foresee the law being changed in the near future because abortion legislation is so controversial that the government is afraid to touch it.

The panelists also generally agreed that counselling on abortion and contraception must be made available to all those who require it.

Questions and comments were invited from the audience. The question was raised whether the UCW's stand should be put in the form of a resolution. The decision was to get the executive to draw up a resolution. Mrs. Evans suggested that the UCW's opinion should be made known to the local member of parliament.

The panelists were thanked by Mrs. Robin Jeffrey.

Irate Mother Irked By Ann's Advice

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your ridiculous answer to the mother whose 18-year-old son was getting "experience" from the 35-year-old lady next door leads me to believe that someone threw a cherry bomb in your crib on July 4, 1917 and caused permanent brain damage.

You said to make sure the boy was "plenty well informed." It seems to me that he is already too well informed. What he needs is a severe tongue lashing from his father — not more information. As for that wench next door, she should be horse-whipped within an inch of her life. And you, Ann Landers, should be bolted in oil for your ba- ANN LANDERS hum attitude toward the boy's immoral behavior. — MOTHER OF FIVE IN COVINGTON, KY.

DEAR MOTHER: Ho hum, my Aunt Ethel. I'm realistic, and I hope you'll join the real world soon, for the sake of your five kids. An 18-year-old boy who is romping around next door with the middle-aged wife of a tired business man is not about to give it up and go back to Scrabble just because his father gives him a scolding.

I told the mother to make sure the boy gets a tough lecture from his dad on the moral and social aspects of his behavior and to make certain he is well informed on the biological aspects as well. That was good, practical advice and I stand behind it. No matter what you think, Mother, you just can't keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Paree.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've never had a problem like this one. I hope you'll know what to do with it.

I left the state two years ago to work overseas in construction. I said goodbye to a great looking girl I had dated all through high school. We were not engaged because I didn't think it would be fair to her, but Sybil said she'd wait for me. Not a week went by that I didn't get at least three letters from her. Usually four. I kept asking for snapshots but she stopped sending them about 18 months ago. Now I know why.

I got home yesterday and there she was — all 176 pounds of her. My sis and mom had written that Syb was putting on a lot of weight but I thought they were exaggerating. I was so shocked when I saw her I couldn't speak. Her first words were, "I'll diet." We had a long talk and she told me she had eaten herself into blimphood because she was lonesome. I feel awfully guilty, but I must admit this chick leaves me cold. I hate fat women. Would it be lousy of me if I told Syb to call me when she drops the 50 pounds she put on in my absence? — TOO MUCH TO LOVE.

* * *

DEAR T.M.: If you dump her she might gain another 50. Urge Syb to see a doctor and get back in shape. If she sticks with her diet, fine. If she can't, with an incentive like this — well — she's a compulsive eater, destined to be broad where a broad shouldn't be broad. I would not tell a man who hates fat women to stick around just to be a nice guy. It wouldn't work.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am ten years old and am trying to learn the facts of life as I go along. My mother still thinks I believe she bought me in the hospital. She refuses to answer questions. Please tell me if they kiss different in France. Is this what is meant by French kissing? Thank you — SELF-LEARNER.

* * *

DEAR LEARNER: So far as I know, kissing in France is the same as everywhere else. French kissing is soul kissing or kissing between people who have romantic feelings for each other — not relatives.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH ABRAMS

Abrams – Buckley

Joan Anne Buckley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Buckley, Marysville recently became the bride of Kenneth Patrick Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Abrams, Belleville at Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville. The ceremony was conducted by Father Dwyre with Miss Anne Walsh, organist and Mrs. F. Seamish, soloist, supplying music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length veil of silk illusion peau styled along sheath lines with a wedding band collar covered with guipure lace, long lace sleeves and a cumberbund covered with lace appliques. Matching lace adorned the hem and also the cathedral train which was further enhanced with a crystal peau bow. The floor length veil of silk illusion with lace scalloped edges flowed from a cluster of Alencon lace and baby's breath. She carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses, baby's breath, fern, stephanotis and white lace ribbon.

The maid of honor Miss Betty Lou Abrams the bridegroom's sister wore a mint green crepe dress with green and white daisy trim accenting the empire waistline and cuffs of the long full sleeves. She wore a large white floppy hat trimmed also with green and white daisies and carried a basket of green and white 'mums with trailing ribbon.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Wayne Latchford and flower girl Carolyn Walsh wore yellow crepe dresses similar to that of the maid of honor. They wore white floppy hats trimmed with yellow and white daisies and carried baskets of yellow and white 'mums with trailing ribbon.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother Edward Abrams. The ushers were Fred Abrams, Reg Abrams and Brian Buckley. The ring bearer was Paul Roach, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a dinner and reception were held at Read Parish hall. Receiving guests was the bride's mother dressed in a floor length gown of eggshell blue crepe. It was trimmed with blue and green flowers and complemented by white accessories and a corsage of white and blue 'mums.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother wearing a floor length gown of pale pink chiffon over taffeta trimmed with white daisies and complemented by white accessories and a corsage of white and pink 'mums.

For the wedding trip to points South and East, the bride wore a white lace hot pants ensemble trimmed with mauve and green flowers on the collar and cuffs. She wore mauve accessories and an orchid corsage.

Upon return the couple will reside at 166 Ann Street, Apt. 3, Belleville.

Successful Living

Group Gives Aid To Single Parents

By DORIS CLARK

From the newsletter of Parents Without Partners:

"As a single parent I have known despair, felt pity, loneliness. Friends disappear in one's time of need, sometimes.

"My children are my main concern. They too have to overcome the changes in family status and the change in me, when I am left to cope alone.

"At that first meeting of Parents Without Partners a friend and I became two of the first 12 that started our chapter. From then on life became a challenge as I realized I was not the only pebble on the beach. I have friends again and my children can look forward to events which were omitted from their lives before."

This active international organization is surely needed at a time when the divorce rate is rising every year and families breaking up. PWP is the only organization devoted to the interests of single parents and their children. There is social contact, outdoor life, educational discussions with qualified leaders.

In many cases belonging to PWP provides one with the courage and insight to once again marry. There are branches in some Canadian cities and help may be had in forming new chapters where there are none. Write me for details.

Eggplants Vary Vegetable Menus

By MARY MOORE

We pulled off the highway at a farmer's fruit stand to find bushels of eggplants just waiting for us. Medium-large ones were 15 cents each so we bought two because it seems like a very good year for eggplants and I am always seeking ways of varying your vegetable menus.

I will give you the common crumbed method first. Then I will give you an eggplant casserole for those who have tired of that and want the new.

CRUMBED EGGPLANT

(Serves 4 eggplant lovers)
1 med.-large eggplant
1 egg yolk
1 whole egg
1 tbsp. water
1 tsp. salt
3 slices day - old bread crumbed in blender finely
About 4 or 5 tbsps. butter or margarine

Wash and cut eggplants into ¾" slices. Pare thin. If wide cut each slice in half crosswise. Parboil in minimum of salted water 1 min. Drain well. Beat together yolk, whole egg, water and salt. Tip crumbs onto large dinner plate. Dip eggplant slices in egg mixture then coat on both sides with crumbs. Fry in melted butter or margarine turning carefully when under side is gold and finish other side.

THURSDAY

Dinner Menus

Barbecued Spareribs (see Wednesday); Green Limas with Sweet Red Pepper; Zucchi; Tossed Garden Salad; Applesauce; Sugar Cookies; Coffee.

SUNDAY

EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

(Serves 4)

NOTE: This just may convert some objectors to eggplant approvers.

1 med.-large eggplant
1 bay leaf
1 clove
½ tbsp. butter
1 egg slightly beaten
½ cup grated med. Cheddar cheese (loosely packed)
½ cup soft breadcrumbs
¼ cup milk
½ tsp. salt

Few grains pepper
½ tbsp. melted butter
½ cup soft breadcrumbs, (one slice in blender—second amount)

Wash, pare and slice eggplant. Cook in small amount boiling water with bay leaf and clove, with lid on for 10 min. Drain well. Remove bay leaf and clove. Mash. Add butter, beaten egg, cheese, first amount breadcrumbs, milk, salt and pepper and mix well. Turn into buttered medbaking dish. Mix melted butter with second amount of breadcrumbs, sprinkle over top and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about ½ hr. or until bubbly at edges and lightly browned on top.

Now all you have to do is find a couple of lovely fresh eggplants.

Write clearly and carefully. Your finished product is good deal about you. Don't be sloppy.

Bourassa Is Speaker

Stay Cool Is Chamber Appeal

QUEBEC (CP) — Pleas for co-operation both in domestic and international trade marked the concluding session Wednesday of the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Premier Robert Bourassa, speaking at the annual dinner, said English Canada should maintain confidence in Quebec. He appealed for economic federalism while saying Quebec wanted more autonomy in cultural and social fields.

The new president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Neil V. German, of Calgary, told a news conference earlier that he believed the most important thing the Canadian businessmen must do during the coming months is to refrain from making inflammatory statements about United States economic controls.

Mr. German said there is considerable protectionist sentiment in the U.S. and any such statements by Canadians would hinder trade relations with Canada's most important trading partner.

Mr. German said the U.S. accounts for about 75 per cent of Canada's export trade and it was the market in which Canadians could most easily operate.

Mr. German said the Canadian Chamber of Commerce would attempt to enlist the support of its U.S. counterpart. He was encouraged by statements made Monday by Archie K. Davis, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Davis told a luncheon session of the annual meeting that the U.S. chamber remained committed to the philosophy of free world trade and would work for an early and to additional tariffs imposed recently by the U.S. administration.

Premier Bourassa told the evening banquet session that his government had a three-part approach to its relations with the rest of Canada.

"In the economic sphere, Quebec intends to work within the federal system.

The province wants a "decentralized federal system" in the social field. It wants control over policies and distribution of funds for major programs.

"On cultural grounds we cannot consider Quebec a province like the others.

"There is no contradiction between cultural security and working within the federal system."

Pilot Project

TORONTO (CP) — Eight welfare agencies are expected to have offices in Mount Sinai Hospital's new building, now under construction and expected to be completed by the end of 1972.

Sidney Linwood, executive director of the hospital, said in an interview Wednesday that it is the first time in North America that a hospital has combined both health and welfare services in the same building.

He said the welfare agencies involved agreed last spring that the idea of situating themselves in the hospital was sound. Detailed planning begins next week.

'Greedy' Doctors Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — A doctor who has admitting rights at two Toronto hospitals but this difficulty admitting patients into either blamed his problem Wednesday on "a tight clique of greedy doctors."

Dr. E. S. V. Williams, a surgeon, testified before the committee of inquiry into hospital privileges in Ontario that "a few doctors have a monopoly," and don't hesitate to book their patients into beds previously reserved by a doctor not part of the "in" group.

He said he did not think the fact that he was a Negro had anything to do with the circumvention of his admission privileges.

"It's economics," he said. "Greed. The more beds a doctor controls, the more his income."

Dr. Williams said if he gets his few patients in hospital to operate on, his surgical skills may become rusty.

Prof. J. F. McLeod, associate professor of political economy at the University of Toronto, told the committee that concentrating on hospital privileges for doctors "to the exclusion of non-medical and para-medical personnel" may be to miss the whole point and nature of the hospital and health care.

He said that hospitals, particularly long-term chronic-care institutions, leave the patient without other vital skilled healers such as dentists, chiropodists, pharmacists, optometrists, clinical psychologists and medical social workers.

Among his recommendations, the professor suggested that hospital privileges be made available to bearing practitioners other than doctors to serve the interests of patients, taxpayers and the community.

Liberal MP Proposes Equivalent Tax Credit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may lose 20,000 jobs and eventually "revert back to an agricultural nation" if manufacturing plants in Canada are not given an equal chance to compete with firms in the United States, Hyliard Chappell told the Commons Wednesday.

The Liberal MP for Peel South urged an amendment to the government's proposed income tax changes to give tax advantages to firms making machinery in Canada for use in Canada. This would be equivalent to the U.S. "job development tax credit."

The U.S. tax benefit was designed to increase productivity by modernizing equipment and to make U.S. industries more competitive in domestic and international markets.

"This in turn would supply more jobs, provide a sound basis for future wage increases where productivity has increased and decrease inflationary pressures on prices. This means that no United States industry would buy a piece of machinery or mechanical equipment in Canada if it or a substitute can be made in the United States.

"Last year we exported about $833 million worth of machinery and mechanical equipment to the United States. If nothing is done to replace these sales we will lose 20,000 skilled and semi-skilled jobs almost immediately."

Mr. Chappell said an equivalent tax credit for firms in Canada would not only save the 20,000 jobs but would create another 20,000 as exports to the United States increased.

The tax bill is at second-reading stage. The next stage is committee of the whole, in which specific amendments will be considered.

The Progressive Conservatives already have moved a general amendment condemning the government for not making enough tax cuts to stimulate the economy adequately.

The bill would increase basic exemptions for single persons to $1,500 from $1,000 and for couples to $2,850 from $2,000. Everyone with taxable income of less than $500 would pay no tax. Other and more complex changes include institution of a capital gains tax.

Both Conservative and New Democrat speakers Wednesday criticized the removal of certain tax exemptions for co-operatives and credit unions.

Richard R. Southam (PC—Qu'Appelle-Moose Mountain) said less of a co-operative's earnings will be distributed as patronage dividends on purchases. Co-operatives would become similar to investor-owned corporations.

"It is unbelievable that the government of Canada wants to kill the co-op system in this way."

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) said that either nobody in the finance department understands the co-operative movement or "somebody got to the minister of finance or to the government and brought undue influence to bear."

"If the government continues on the course which will result in the destruction of the co-operative and credit union movements in Canada," he said, "I suggest it will be taking a major step towards destroying Canadian society and democracy."

J. Angus MacLean (PC—Malpeque) said Canadians are suffering from a staggering tax load.

"We keep on piling these hidden taxes on everyone and there is no escape.

"I do not care whether a taxpayer's income is high or low, he pays through the nose day in and day out to all three levels of government.

"There is no escape for him and the taxes that are imposed on corporations or on the so-called rich filter down through all income groups."

Postmaster - General Jean-Pierre Cote was unsuccessful in an attempt to have the House sit past the normal 6 p.m. Wednesday adjournment.

Under Commons rules, his motion was rejected when more than 10 MPs opposed it.

Courts Can't Ignore Change Says Justice

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Emmett Hall of the Supreme Court of Canada, said Wednesday Canada's courts must not ignore social and economic facts in the cases they are asked to decide.

He told a group of Osgoode Hall law students faith in the courts and faith in the day-by-day dispensation of justice will increase if the courts lay down new interpretations of laws from time to time.

The 72-year-old jurist said: "The courts taking into consideration the existing social and economic conditions as a definition of the rule of law is not only permissible but perhaps indispensible."

The courts must balance the demand for certainty, predictability and stability with the notion that social conditions are changing, he said.

The law must provide certainty so that people can foresee the consequences of their acts, "but I see no reason why certainty should be an absolute value," he added.

Mr. Justice Hall said the common law has become a civilizing force in our society only because the courts have considered social, political and economic facts.

Before you look at their new ones, look at their old ones.

Now that new car time is upon us, gosh knows, we hate to be the ones to spoil all the fun.

After all, what's more exciting than taking the family down to see the shiny new models or maybe even to pick up a free balloon?

It's just that during all that hoopla, you may not want to pick up one of those exciting new cars.

For the unpleasant fact of the matter is that junkyards are doing a thriving business on automobiles that seemingly just yesterday were showroom stars.

Which is why we suggest a trip to the junkyard before you decide to get a new car is your own yard.

And why we suggest that that new car be a Volkswagen.

For while we can't promise you how long one will last, we can tell you that over 13 million Volkswagens are still on the road.

We owe it all to a decision we made 24 years ago. To spend very little time making our little car look better.

And a great deal of time making it work better.

So far, that one decision has kept us out of a lot of trouble.

Mindszenty Joins In Papal Mass

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, self-exiled Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, joined Pope Paul today in celebrating mass at the opening of the third world synod of bishops in the Sistine Chapel.

Four other bishops joined the Pope and cardinal, who came to Rome from Budapest Tuesday after 23 years of confinement, in celebrating the mass.

But the 79-year-old Hungarian primate will play no further part in the synod, which has gathered some 214 bishops from throughout the world to discuss two major problems facing the Catholic Church.

These are the crisis in the priesthood and the stance which the church should take when confronted with situations of social injustice in the world.

The discussion of the priesthood issue will start in earnest Friday with a report by Joseph Cardinal Hoeffner, archbishop of Cologne, West Germany.

The bishops will be trying to find ways of curbing the growing number of defections from the priesthood, which last year ran to about 3,800, one estimate says.

The synod is the third to be held since Pope Paul announced the revival of the early church institution in 1965.

The twin themes of this synod are of great concern and interest to millions of Catholics, with those in developing areas perhaps more interested in the problem of justice, and those in advanced industrialized countries, such as Western Europe and North America, concerned about the priesthood as the church's most dramatic problem.

During discussions of the priesthood observers believe the subject of widespread demands within the church for an end to the ban on married priests is certain to be raised.

Experienced observers consider that a majority of bishops are likely to come out in favor of the ordination of married men in special cases.

But a large majority also is expected against allowing men who already are priests to get married, and against the reintegration of priests who have renounced their vows.

Grain Crunch Ahead

OTTAWA (CP) — The grain debate moved toward a crunch in the Commons Wednesday as the government countered increased opposition pressure with legal arguments taken Justice Minister John Turner.

The day after Prime Minister Trudeau accused the opposition of trying to block justice with legalisms, Mr. Turner said the government cessation of payments under the Temporary Wheat Reserves Act was not illegal at all.

The opposition continued its claim that the government is using a flagrant breach of the law to pass through legislation Prairie farmers don't want.

The Progressive Conservatives moved two motions to adjourn debate in the House but the Liberals defeated both handily.

The issue: The reserves act, which pays storage cost of wheat in commercial stockpiles of over 178 million bushels, is still legally in force, but the government has not made payments called for under the act for the 1970-71 crop year.

The government's grain income stabilization bill would have replaced the Reserves Act last spring but it's been passed by Parliament.

But it wasn't, and the opposition, claiming it has the support of western farmers, has continued to fight the bill since the House resumed sitting a month ago.

Until Tuesday the government was writing the debate off as a simple question of economics: Did the western farmers want the $82 million they were owed under the Reserves Act or the $100-odd million they would receive under the stabilization bill.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield asked Mr. Turner whether he had "advised the government . . . that it is obliged by the law of Canada to comply with the statutes on the books" and whether he intended to "dissociate himself from the government which is not complying with the law."

Mr. Turner ignored the legal question and said: "The question which farmers in Saskatchewan are asking is why this Parliament is not passing the bill."

Pressed further by Mr. Stanfield, Mr. Turner said the government reconsulted it owed western farmers $38.5 million—apparently a confusion with the $82 million figure—but "we are suggesting that payment of $100 million should satisfy that."

Conservative Justice critic Eldon Woolliams said outside the House the justice minister should resign. There is no doubt that the government is breaking the law, he said.

At stake are western votes, where the Liberals are weak. There will be a federal by-election in Assiniboia Nov. 8.

But more significant appear to be questions of principle. The opposition is trying to convince the electorate the government will go to any lengths to get its own way—including breaking the law.

In private, at least two Liberals admit that, legally at least, the government is in the wrong.

One government MP said bluntly: "Legally they've got us. But it's a political issue."

An official from a cabinet minister's office agreed the opposition was legally correct. The government, he said, had taken bad advice from the bureaucracy.

The opposition has selected motions to adjourn—apparently on a daily basis—as the device most likely to bring the issue to public attention.

The motions are not debatable, but call for a formal, time consuming vote.

Population Estimate 21,681,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Statistics Canada took an educated guess Wednesday that 21,681,000 people were living in Canada on June 1 this year.

The federal statistics bureau can check its accuracy when results are known later this year from the federal census conducted in June.

The population estimate is based on the 1966 census with births and immigration since then added and deaths and emigration taken off the total.

The estimate for Ontario, with June 1, 1970 figures in brackets, was 7,815,000 (7,537,000).

J. J. Greene Partially Paralyzed

TOKYO (CP-Reuter) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene of Canada is recovering from a stroke he suffered Wednesday, a Japanese doctor said today.

Dr. Katsuhiko Hiramori of the Japan Heart Institute of the Tokyo Women's Medical College, who examined the minister, said the left side of his body was still paralyzed, but Greene could answer questions and sometimes joked.

Dr. Hiramori said Greene, 51, would have to stay in hospital at least a week.

Dr. Hiramori described the attack as a cerebro-fascular accident. He quoted Mrs. Greene as saying her husband collapsed while shaving Wednesday at their hotel.

Jack Austin, Greene's deputy, said the party now will split up, leaving the Greenes and Wayne Thomson, special assistant to the energy minister, here. Austin and the others including Lorne Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., will go on to Iran and Western Europe to fulfil planned engagements.

Finance Talks Tough Going

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Finance ministers and central bankers faced the prospect today of more tough bargaining —especially with the U.S.—as they grappled with the problem of refashioning the world's monetary system.

President Nixon warned them that the measures he imposed last month, which brought the current economic crisis to a head, will remain in force until present monetary woes are resolved.

The measures, which included a 10-per-cent extra charge on imports into the United States, are temporary, he told a White House reception Wednesday night for delegates to the International Monetary Fund's annual conference.

"How long temporary is depends on what we want to come up with," he told them. "If we want to go to another temporary system it would be very, very short."

"But if we want to build permanently for the future and build well, then we must have that kind of discussion in which all sides bargain not in their own interest—we expect you to, we expect to—and then have an understanding which is in all our mutual interests," the president said.

Nixon assured them of American co-operation in reducing trade barriers, such as the 10-per-cent charge, and in sharing the burden of defence costs, U.S. would co-operate in monetary reform.

He also promised that the U.S. would co-operate in monetary reform.

He justified the sweeping reforms of Aug. 15 on the grounds that without them the U.S. would be weak, and "a weak United States would be isolationista without any question."

"A strong United States will continue to play a role that is responsible in the world," Nixon told his guests.

"That is the reason I had to take some of these actions, actions that I know were distressing to some of you, but actions that we felt were essential to strengthen the position of the United States so that we could continue to be as forthcoming in world affairs in the future as we have in the past."

Nixon made no reference to gold although many delegates to the IMF conference have demanded that the U.S. raise its official price from $35 an ounce and thus effectively devalue the dollar.

Conference sources said the Nixon administration is preparing a three-point proposal aimed at solving the present financial deadlock.

They said the plan calls for an initial agreement on a realignment of currencies and suspension of the import surcharge, followed by an undertaking by other countries to shoulder more of the international defence burden and to liberalize their trade policies.

Under the plan, the U.S. would reimpose the surcharge if the others failed to honor their undertakings, the source said.

Nelissen wants a new, lower value set for the dollar in terms of the average price it brings against other major currencies in the open market. The price of the dollar has dropped about 10 per cent in terms of the West German mark since the mark began floating on the open market in May.

UK Threatens to Disclose Spy Details If Retaliatory Action Taken by Moscow

LONDON (CP) — Britain will make public full details of the spy information provided by Soviet defector Oleg Lialine if Russia takes retaliatory action against British diplomats in Moscow, a well-placed information said today.

This source also confirmed that Lialine, 34, was in fact the KGB secret police officer who defected to Britain at the beginning of September after he had been brought up on a drunken-driving charge.

Lialine, masquerading as a member of the Soviet trade mission, was out on bail and was to have come up before a magistrate's court today but as expected, he did not appear. The informant said, before the court convened, that the man would not make a public appearance for some time.

Last Friday the foreign office announced that 90 Soviet officials were being ordered to leave the country within two weeks and that another 15 who are abroad but still hold British visas will not be allowed to return.

That sudden announcement, coupled with disclosure that a KGB officer had defected, raised speculation in Britain that the government may be deliberately stirring spy fever for political purposes other than internal security.

The speculation increased when the BBC announced that it will show television film tonight including actual photographs of a Soviet spy collecting intelligence material from a "dead letter box," in this case near a tree.

Newspapers reported that this film was made available to the BBC by government security sources.

Soviet officials have warned that if Britain insists on the expulsion of the 90 Russians, action will be taken against British diplomats in Moscow.

The informant said it was made clear to the Russians that if any expulsion moves against the Britons would be countered by further British action later. The information that Lialine provided when he asked for political asylum has not been made public but the informant said it was extensive. In fact, he had disclosed names and details of the full KGB "apparatus" working in London.

British officials had pondered for some weeks what action to take and whether expulsions of Soviet officials should be ordered piecemeal. The decision taken was that the whole network would be ordered out at one time.

The reasoning was that if Britain had expelled, say, 10 Russians, the Soviet Union would have countered with expulsion of a similar number of Britons and since Britain has only a small staff in Moscow, the embassy soon would become ineffective. The Russians have an estimated 500 officials here.

The Daily Express said a bid, dropped by a Soviet diplomat Wednesday night led it to identify the defector as Lialine.

The Express said the hint came from the Soviet embassy press chief Secretary Vladimir Pavlov, who told a reporter that the defector was a trade official recently involved in a traffic case.

After checking police records, the newspaper concluded he meant Lialine, and splashed the story under a giant headline: "Super Spy Oleg."

The Express said that after Lialine was arrested Aug. 20 he feared he would be in trouble with his superiors in Moscow and decided to defect.

Not being a high-ranking member of the Soviet trade mission, Lialine did not qualify for diplomatic immunity, The Express said, and the next day he pleaded innocent to the traffic charge He was released on $120 bail.

Australian Police Battle Students

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuter) — More than 100 policemen smashed their way at dawn today into the heavily-barricaded students union building at Melbourne University and fought a running battle with students in an attempt to arrest four Australian draft-dodgers believed to be hiding there.

Three policemen were injured in the battle as they swept into the building, smashing plate-glass windows with chairs and using bolt cutters, crow bars and sledge-hammers to clear away student barricades.

Damage was put at thousands of dollars as door frames were ripped from walls and a trail of splintered wood, rubble, plaster and blood spread over three floors of the building.

The draft-dodgers were not arrested and a spokesman for the Draft Resisters Association later claimed they had slipped away and reached Adelaide. They now are hidden on the campus of the university there, the spokesman said.

Student leaders and police later traded angry accusation over the raid.

The students said police used unnecessary force and accused them of vandalism.

Deputy Police Commission J. D. Davies, who led the raid said students had resisted his men "with horrible violence."

A Melbourne University spokesman said several plate glass windows and at least 50 doors were smashed in the raid, which started when police swooped on the campus by bus and car at 5 a.m.

Students fired rockets from the roof and sounded a ship's siren as the battle for the building began.

Student supporters of the Draft Resisters Union pa[illegible]ling on bicycles also sounded the alarm as police poured into the area.

Sawchuk, Howe Two of Southern Junior League's Big Names

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

This could be a year for big names in the Southern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Close relatives of former Detroit Red Wing stars are on the rosters of three teams in the expanded eight-team league which opens an ambitious 56-game schedule tonight.

Gerry Sawchuk, a goalie for Guelph Cubs, is the son of the late Terry Sawchuk, generally regarded as one of the best National Hockey League goaltenders of all time.

Last year's scoring champion, Mark Howe of Detroit Junior Red Wings, is back. His father, Gordie, holds most of the NHL's all-time scoring records.

Tonight's opener has Welland Sabres travelling to Brantford to play the Majors.

The schedule gets under way in earnest Friday night when Detroit plays at Welland, Chatham visits St. Thomas, and Windsor journeys to Guelph.

Windsor and Sarnia are additions to the league, launched last year with six teams.

An inter-locking schedule involving the SOHA and the four-team Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series is another new wrinkle in this year's operation.

George Aitken, who led Chatham to a first-place finish last year, shifted to Windsor during the off-season.

New coaches in the league are Marty Zorica of Sarnia, Art Sullivan of St. Thomas, and Jack Douglas of Chatham.

Returning from last year are Carl Lindstrom of Detroit, Billy Taylor of Guelph and Jack Carson of Brantford.

Detroit lost Mark Howe's brother Marty to OHA ranks, but Mark, goaltender Steve Miskiewicz and centre Bob Dobek (36 points) are back to anchor a club that may carry only Michigan residents.

Ottawa Juniors Team to Beat?

By NEIL CAMPBELL

If experience means anything, Ottawa 67s should be team to beat in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series this season.

The 67s, who finished third last season, have the top five scorers back from last year's club, including defenceman Denis Potvin.

But, despite the holdover talent, Howard J. Darwin, manager of the Ottawa club, says he is not taking anything for granted.

"In junior hockey, anything can happen," he said.

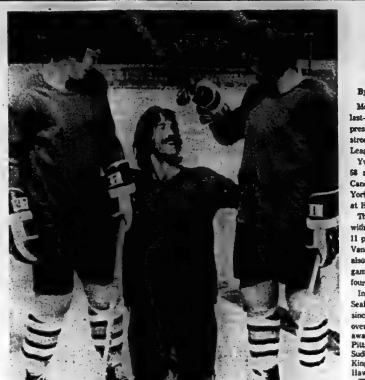
The 10-team league begins its 63-game schedule tonight with last year's top two clubs, Peterborough Petes and St. Catharines Black Hawks, meeting at Peterborough.

Some of last year's biggest stars are overage for junior hockey and are expected to play professional hockey this winter, including Marcel Dionne, who won the scoring championship at St. Catharines, Richard Martin, who scored a record 71 goals for Montreal Junior Canadiens, and John Garrett of Peterborough, the league's leading goaltender.

But some top stars are back, notably goaltender Michel Larocque of Ottawa, and the Toronto Marlboros line of Dave Gardner, Steve Shutt and Bill Harris that just missed scoring more points than any other forward line in league history.

Interest is up around the league, Ottawa expects to top last year's league-leading attendance average of 7,200 a game and St. Catharines has already set season's tickets for half its seats in tiny Garden City Arena.

Off-season coaching changes resulted in Harry Neale replacing Billy Harris at Hamilton, former National Hockey League star Bronco Horvath taking over for Bep Guidolin at London and ex-Toronto coach Gus Bodnar replacing Eddie Reigle at Oshawa.



Holdover coaches are Roger Neilson, Peterborough, Frank Milne, St. Catharines, Bill Long, Ottawa, Roger Bedard, Montreal, Frank Bonello, Toronto, Ron Murphy, Kitchener, and Paul Emms, Niagara Falls.

Returning to the Petes are 26-goal scorers Doug Gibson, Dan Gloor, Skip Foster, and Ron Lalonde, along with Paul Raymer, a 32-goal scorer.

Four of last year's top five scorers, including Dionne, are missing from the St. Catharines Black Hawks, who won the league playoffs after placing second behind Peterborough.

And the best drawing-card in the league could be rookie defenceman Mike Howe of Toronto Marlboros, son of the all-time NHL scoring leader Gordie Howe.

Eleventh-hour Goal Preserves Hab Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens needed a last-minute rally Wednesday to preserve their undefeated streak in the National Hockey League exhibition series.

Yvan Cournoyer scored with 58 seconds remaining to yield Canadiens a 3-3 tie with New York Rangers before 3,350 fans at Halifax.

The victory left Canadiens with four wins and three ties for 11 points, one ahead of the idle Vancouver Canucks, who are also unbeaten in pre-season games with three victories and four ties.

In other games, California Seals scored their first win since training camp opened, 5-4, over Detroit Red Wings at Oshawa, Ont.; Buffalo Sabres and Pittsburgh Penguins tied 4-4 at Sudbury, Ont., and Los Angeles Kings upset Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 at Victoria.

The first penalty shot of the season was also awarded Wednesday night, but Jacques Laperriere was unable to capitalize for Canadiens when his shot was stopped by Rangers' goalie Gilles Villeneuve.

Rejean Houle and Phil Roberts were the other Montreal marksmen. Pierre Jarry, Rod Gilbert and Ted Irvine connected for New York.

Only 2,619 fans were present at Oshawa to cheer the underdog Seals as they overcame a 4-1 deficit to trim the Wings. Former Boston Bruin Wayne Carleton netted the winning goal with less than three minutes remaining.

Other California scorers were Walt McKechnie, Bert Marshall, Tom Williams and Gerry Pinder.

Tim Ecclestone, Nick Libett and Mickey Redmond scored for Detroit.

Schinkel got the other goals for Pittsburgh.

Eddie Shack tallied twice for Buffalo with Gil Perreault providing one goal.

There were few dramatics during the Kings surprising victory over the listless Hawks. Dale Hoganson's goal, early in the second period, was the winner. Other snipers for the Kings were Real Lemieux, Mike Byers, Bob Berry and Ross Lonsberry.

Danny O'Shea and Bobby Hull supplied Chicago's goals, both of which came late in the second period.

In Toronto, Maple Leafs reported that defenceman Jim Dorey and centre Dave Keon would miss tonight's game at Maple Leaf Gardens against Minnesota North Stars and also weekend games in St. Louis and Chicago.

Dorey is in hospital with pulled muscles in his back and Keon has a bruised thigh muscle. Leafs' coach Johnny McLellan has called up Cal Swenson from Tulsa Oilers to help bolster the team.

YVAN COURNOYER

The Penguins also had to make a comeback to earn their tie with the Sabres. Nick Harbaruk scored at 19:42 of the third period after goaltender Jim Rutherford was removed for an extra attacker.

Eskies Catch Fire Against Als

EDMONTON (CP) — The Eskimos finally won Wednesday night, as Larry Lawrence ignited a fourth-quarter comeback that pushed Edmonton past Montreal Alouettes 12-11 in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

Cold as the weather for three quarters, and down 8-0, the Eskimos caught fire when Lawrence came on to relieve Bruce Lemmerman.

Dave Cutler warmed the hearts of 13,246 fans who turned out in rain, snow, wind and temperatures in the '30s when he kicked a 52-yard field goal with 10 seconds left to give Edmonton its second win of the season. The Eskimos have lost 15.

Edmonton's previous victory, back on Aug. 4, was also a heart-stopping affair. On that occasion, Cutler kicked a 39-yard field goal with 35 seconds left to give the Eskimos a 20-19 win over British Columbia Lions.

The long-haired Lawrence had muffed earlier opportunities to become Edmonton's first-string quarterback. But he got another chance after the Alouettes intercepted four of Lemmerman's 29 pass attempts.

Lawrence promptly threw a 51-yard touchdown pass to George McGowan and the Eskimos were on their way to snapping an eight-game losing streak.

DAVE CUTLER

Bayne Norrie's interception led to a 24-yard field goal by Cutler that put Edmonton ahead for the first time.

Montreal fought back on Sonny Wade's passing and kicked a field goal to go ahead again with one minute and 17 seconds left to play.

But the Eskimos, who had blown a couple of other games this season in the dying minutes, refused to give up this time.

Lawrence threw 17 yards to John Embree, then sent Gene Foster 11 yards on a draw play. Lawrence pushed over centre for three yards, then turned things over to Cutler.

With the wind at his back, Cutler was right on target, and Montreal was kept out of sole possession of second place in the Eastern Conference. The Alouettes, who play the Lions in Vancouver Saturday, remain in a tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Edmonton coach Ray Jauch was happy, but not ecstatic.

"It's nice to win," he said, "but we didn't exactly blow them over."

The statistics indicate the Alouettes contributed to their own downfall after scoring ahead on a touchdown by Terry Evanshen, two singles and a field goal by Justin Canale.

Montreal controlled play for the first 50 minutes, producing 21 first downs on 294 yards passing and 142 rushing, but frittered the advantage away by committing 11 infractions that cost them 85 yards.

University of Ottawa Gee-Gees remain the only undefeated football team in the Ontario University Athletic Association, blanking Laurentian Voyageurs 34-0 at Ottawa Wednesday night.

The victory preserved Ottawa's unblemished record at four wins, good for eight points in the Northern Division.

In other games, Queen's University Golden Gaels scored 41 points in the first six minutes to defeat Carleton University Ravens 48-25.

At Ottawa, home teams split a doubleheader. John Rodrigue led the Gee-Gees with two touchdowns. David Gibbs kicked two field goals and four converts. For Queen's, Gord McLellan counted three touchdowns. Douglas Gozac kicked six converts. Ron Nutt ran in three touchdowns for the Ravens.

Rodrigue and quarterback Don Smith proved almost unbeatable for Ottawa, combining on pass and-run scoring plays that covered 182 and 94 yards.

Dodgers, Giants Lose

Playoff Not Out of Picture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After 161 games of the regular season, the hectic National League's West Division pennant race boils down to one game . . . or possibly two.

The 162-game schedule reaches its climax tonight, with San Francisco Giants holding a precarious one-game lead over Los Angeles Dodgers.

A San Francisco victory over the Padres at San Diego or a Dodger loss at home against Houston Astros would make the Giants champions and send them into the NL playoffs against Pittsburgh Pirates, beginning Saturday on the West Coast

However, a Giant setback and a Dodger victory would leave the teams in a tie for the lead and force a one-game playoff Friday at San Francisco.

The Giants, who have led since April 12, muffed an opportunity to clinch the title Wednesday night, bowing to San Diego 6-1 on Nate Colbert's three-run homer in the 10th inning. However, they were assured of no worse than a tie for first place when the Dodgers were trounced by Houston 11-0.

The Giants will use their ace right-hander, Juan Marichal, 17-11, against San Diego's Dave Roberts, a tough left-hander with a 14-18 record, in an attempt to win their first title since 1962. However, Marichal has been seeing a doctor about a sore hip and the injury could curtail his effectiveness. Marichal is 3-0 against the Padres this season, while Roberts is 0-3 against the Giants.

Los Angeles' imperturbable manager, Walt Alston, took the Dodgers' defeat as calmly as could be expected. "They just beat the hell out of us," he said. "But it's no worse than losing 1-0. It also was nice to have the Giants lose, but we're still disgusted with our own score."

Alston will send right-hander Don Sutton, 16-12, against former Dodger Jack Billingham, 10-16, in tonight's windup.

Colbert, San Diego's big slugger, said he hit an inside, belthigh fastball of Giants' relief ace, Jerry Johnson, 12-3, over the left field wall in the 10th inning for his 27th homer of the season, breaking a 1-1 deadlock.

Houston unleashed a 16-hit assault against Los Angeles, including a homer and two singles by Bob Watson in support of Ken Forsch's nine-hit shutout pitching.

The Astros erupted for four runs in the first inning against 20-game winner Al Downing. Watson singled in the first run, Jesus Alou doubled in another and Larry Howard capped the outburst with a two-run single. Watson homered with one on in the fourth for a 6-0 lead and the Astros added two runs in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Ron Hunt, who had set a major league record when he was hit by a pitch for the 50th time this season in the second inning by Chicago's Milt Pappas, delivered a run-scoring single in the ninth to lift Montreal past the Cubs. Chicago's Billy Williams drove in four runs with a pair of two-run homers.

Blefary Loaded for Orioles

"I hope nothing like that is necessary against Baltimore—but if it is we can do it." Oakland's Curt Blefary commented.

"That" was a bases-loaded, two-run, two-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday that provided the Athletics with a come-from-behind 8-7 victory over Kansas City Royals in their final regular-season game.

The As, West Division champions in the American League, begin the best-of-five playoffs Saturday in Baltimore—and Oakland Manager Dick Williams says he is happy to be facing the Orioles, who won the Eastern title—and the American League pennant—in 1969 and 1970.

"They're the world champs," Williams pointed out. "They beat the best there was last year. If we beat 'em in the playoffs, we'll feel we've proven something going into the World Series."

Baltimore tuned up for the league showdown by winning its regular-season finale and 11th in a row—equalling the club mark set at the end of the 1970 season —with a 1-0 squeaker over Boston Red Sox.

Bob Oliver slammed two home runs and Paul Schaal belted one as the Royals rocked belted one as the Royals rocked Chuck Dobson, slated to start Oakland's third playoff game.

Williams confirmed he would still go with Dobson, but added: "We'll watch him a lot closer than the other two." Vida Blue, 24-8 and Jim (Catfish) Hunter, 21-12.

Dobson, 15-5, who "couldn't get loose" during the six innings he worked, said it "isn't too cheery, but with five days rest I'll be ready."

The Orioles, resting their quartet of 20-game winners—Dave McNally, Jim Palmer, Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson—gave Grant Jackson his fourth victory, compliments of Brooks Robinson's 20th home run of the year in the second inning.

Mickey Lolich of Detroit failed to gain his 25th victory for the third straight time but did manager to take the league victory title with one more than Blue. He also struck out seven to finish with 308, tops in the majors.

Reduce Cosy Margin

Weese Gals Just Won't Wilt!

Flowers wilt and die in autumn but someone forgot to mention that fact to the Weese's Flowers women's softball squad.

Weese's slapped Cosy Grill 11-5 last night to stave off elimination from the championship round for the third consecutive time. Cosy now holds a 3-2 lead in the series with one game tied.

Donny Brant went the distance for the winners, yielding 13 hits and one walk, while striking out three batters. Sandra Claus was the victim of a 21-hit barrage on the Cosy mound. She struck out six batters and did not issue a walk.

Lillian Barberstock struck the big blow for Weese's with a three-run homer. Irma Barberstock powered a triple and two singles with Brant and Bev Clapp adding a double and two base hits to the winning effort.

For the losers, Verna Hill paced the batting attack with a triple and two singles. Left fielder Marg Reid rapped a double among her three hits, and turned in the game's outstanding defensive play with a brilliant shoestring catch in the fifth inning.

The next game in the series is scheduled for Monday night at the Airmile beginning at 6.30 p.m.

Weese's Flowers' first baseman Leah Harper had more to be up in the air about than just an errant throw as her team came up with an 11-5 win over Cosy Grill last night. Weese's have now battled back from a 3-0 deficit to trail Cosy three games to two, with one tie.

Griffin Big Gun

It was a banner day for the Napanee Juniors in Wednesday's Bay of Quinte COSSA football doubleheader, but it was Picton who carried the winning senior banner.

In the junior contest T l m Griffin counted two touchdowns to spark Napanee to a 28-1 victory and square their record at 1-1.

Picton seniors also evened their record as they handed Napanee a 19-0 setback for the second straight loss.

Net Big Fairway Gap

Close to a dozen familiar Junior B faces are expected to be on hand when the Belleville Fairways open their training camp at the Memorial Arena tonight, but perhaps the most significant factor will be a missing face.

Ron Jury, Belleville's runaway choice as Most Valuable Player for the past two seasons has graduated from the junior ranks and is currently working out with the Quintes' Senior A entry. This leaves goaltending as the most pressing problem for new Fairways coach Murray Hunter and the Belleville mentor will undoubtedly be taking an especially keen look at netminding candidates.

One of the players battling for the starting goalie's will be Arnie Istead, who saw action in three Eastern Ontario Junior B bouts last year as backup to Jury.

The team is slated for a two-hour workout beginning at 6 p.m. Practices will continue every night until next Friday when the club has an exhibition game booked against the Kingston Frontenacs.

Youngest Pupils Will Stick to Basics

The youngest pupils at the upcoming Minor Hockey School won't be studying hockey.

"The seven and eight-year-olds will be given skating instruction only; how can you tell a boy that age how to shoot the puck when he's concentrating on standing up?" explained school director Robb Burrowes, who will be accepting registrations by the first 300 applicants Oct. 4 - 13 from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. at the Pinnacle St. Recreation Centre.

The school, to be held at the Dick Ellis Rink Oct. 19-30, carries a registration fee of $7.50 for boys 7 - 14 inclusive, and $5 for girls 12 and over.

A new feature of this year's school will be the screening of films of past Stanley Cup series.

Aid Sought for Lost Dog Project

By GEORGE H. CARVER

The Belleville District Fish and Game Club will seek governmental financial aid in continuing its lost hunting-dog project in the area.

For a number of years the club has maintained seven-dog pounds in the district where lost animals can be taken, and reclaimed by owners.

Reclamation of the dogs assists in reducing the number of deer killed by dogs lost in the bust and which roam the deer country at large.

Last year, club president George Hammett told his directors at the recent monthly meeting, some 175 dogs were returned to their owners by this method.

"This is the only club in the nine East Central Ontario Association of Sportsmens' Clubs that is financing such a project" he said. "It's time some of the others helped defray the expenses."

Directors approved a motion to call a meeting of the member clubs of the ECASC, the Ontario Humane Society, Department of Lands and Forests and Mr. Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings to discuss asking for governmental financial aid.

To aid the reclamation of lost dogs the club voted the purchase of 5,000 dog "stripes" at a cost of $25.

The strips are an inch wide and 18 inches long. They will contain the name and address of the dog's owner and will be placed around the animal's neck. They will be placed in district gun shops and sports stores for free distribution to hunters.

"We have asked the East Central organization to help us in this dog business" President Hammett said "but they have done nothing. Madoc has helped but the rest do not seem to be interested. We'll put it up to them squarely at the meeting and ask their help in obtaining government aid."

RC Students Follow Bill Davis During Tour of Algoma Riding

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP) — A group of determined separate school students from Sault Ste. Marie followed Premier William Davis's campaign buses through Algoma riding Wednesday protesting his refusal to extend aid to separate schools beyond Grade 10.

The students confronted the premier first at a bear pit session at Cambrian College of Applied Arts and Sciences in the Sault.

Carrying signs saying "Why not just rights for separate schools?", and "Roman Catholics care," they questioned the premier and the Progressive Conservative candidate, Mayor John Rhodes of the Sault, on the decision not to extend aid.

The premier held out no hope that a Conservative government would ever extend grants to Grades 11, 12 and 13 in the separate school system.

"You can't say that the government is opposed to separate schools," he said, however.

In the last six years as minister of education and premier, he said, he had done more to put the separate system on an equal footing with the public system than was done at any time in the history of this province.

Premier Davis began the day with a news conference in the Sault at which he said his government has been considering appointing an ombudsman for some years, but is not yet convinced it would be a practical way for people to get problems solved.

He told students at Cambrian College that an ombudsman might result in yet another bureaucracy.

When he went on to visit Cambrian College he was met by separate school students from Mount St. Joseph Academy and St. Mary's College in the Sault who waved a sign that said:

"Uncle Bill went up the hill to cover the Catholic grants. Bill fell down and broke his crown and equal rights came after."

Evelynne Lukenda, 18, a member of the board of governors of the Ontario Catholic Students Association, said the students agreed with the New Democratic Party and Liberal policies to extend aid.

"The PCs are trying to get rid of us all together," said Miss Lukenda. "They are trying to create a totalitarian state, or so it seems."

Stephen Nicholson, 17, said bitterly: "We're not doing badly. We have about 150 books in our library. Every time another school closes down we get more books."

The pickets followed his buses to Echo Bay public school where about 200 children clamored around the premier and Bernt Gilbertson, sitting member for Algoma.

Principal Robert Gautier said the reception was organized by the local PC association.

"It's a chance for the children to see the premier, especially when they have rather limited experiences up here. They are thrilled."

At Thessalon, Ont., about 400 adults and school children turned out to give the premier three cheers at the intersection of Main and Huron streets, while the high school girls marching band paraded up and down under the sunny fall skies.

The separate school students waved goodbye there and headed back to the Sault.

Too Little, Too Late: Nixon

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon charged Wednesday night that the Ontario government plan to increase facilities for treatment of the mentally retarded within five years will be too little too late.

Speaking to a service club during his campaign for the Oct. 21 provincial election, Mr. Nixon noted that the report on the province's mentally retarded, prepared by Toronto lawyer Walter Williston and released last month, showed that three out of every four retarded children, teen-agers and adults live without government help.

"There are about 200,000 retarded people in our province and only 30,000 of them receive assistance," Mr. Nixon said. "Little more than a third of Ontario's 75,000 retarded children are helped and only a tenth of those of 18 and over are served by government."

Noting that Mr. Williston had recommended a $35 million building program, Mr. Nixon said the Progressive Conservative government said such a program would take "at least five years."

"Williston noted that responsibility for the care of Ontario's retarded people is scattered among six provincial government ministries and urged that these responsibilities be consolidated into a single department," Mr. Nixon added.

"The health minister, who would delay the building program, rejected out of hand the Williston report's key recommendation (Consolidation)," Mr. Nixon said.

Earlier Wednesday, Mr. Nixon met with 300 students at Carleton University, where one student charged that a Liberal television commercial attempted to infer that the Progressive Conservative government is responsible for air pollution.

The commercial shows a woman attempting to sing the theme song Ontario from the provincially-sponsored film A Place to Stand. As the length of commercial draws to an end, the woman is choking on polluted air.

"You are making fun of yourself while your are distorting the facts," the student told the Liberal leader.

Mr. Nixon replied that the commercial was "designed to bring public attention to the fact that we have these problems."

Underground Repartee

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis conceded 2,400 feet at the rate of 1,500 feet a minute down Denison Mines No. 2 shaft Wednesday and seemed happy to get back up.

Mr. Davis donned blue overalls, white hard hat, plastic gobbles, rubber boots and a shoulder strap holding a battery powered lamp.

Albany Kenny, a shop foreman, told the premier: "It will be very nice to work for a new government pretty soon."

"Don't count on it," Mr. Davis shot back.

"Up and away," Mr. Davis said cheerfully as he re-entered the cage for the trip back to the surface.

Land Delay Costly: Lewis

BARRIE (CP) — Delays by the provincial government in purchasing land on the Niagara Escarpment have cost Ontario taxpayers between $15 million and $30 million, New Democratic Party Leader Stephen Lewis charged Wednesday.

Mr. Lewis was speaking at a news conference at the headquarters of Bruce Bonnell, party candidate for Simcoe Centre in the Oct. 21 provincial election.

He said the Ontario government could have saved that amount of money by accepting recommendations of Prof. Leonard Gertler of the University of Waterloo in June, 1968.

Mr. Lewis was commenting on Premier William Davis's statement Tuesday that the government intends to purchase within the next four years a substantial amount of escarpment land.

The NDP leader said the premier conceded in his statement that the government has spent $6.8 million in escarpment purchases where Prof. Gertler had advocated the spending of $21.5 million.

But he said the province has acquired only 16,500 acres where the Gertler report recommended purchase of 90,000 acres over a five-year period expiring in June, 1973.

Mr. Lewis said his party, if elected, would implement every recommendation of the Gertler report. The NDP would also impose a land-use freeze on the escarpment to prevent speculative profits.

Mr. Lewis said there must be an inventory of all recreational land in the province to determine future needs.

Mr. Lewis ended the day in London, where he commented on a story in a Toronto newspaper which said Premier Davis's campaign was being run by an American "political management company."

"The selling of the premier in Ontario has become the selling of Ontario," Mr. Lewis told a rally of NDP supporters.

"Here's a party which has talked so strongly about cultural erosion in Ontario, about preserving an Ontario cultural identity and they turn for advice on conducting a political campaign in the province of Ontario, in the nation of Canada, to the American way, the slickest, glossiest, facsimile of American presidential politics," the NDP leader said.

Barrie Students to Forecast Election

BARRIE (CP) — A group of Barrie high school students hopes to find out in advance the winner of the Oct. 21 Ontario election and the reasons behind the victory.

The students, aided by a computer, are involved in a political science project which they expect will give them the winner's name at least five days before the election.

O. J. Perri, a teacher at the Eastview secondary school, suggested the students conduct a poll of voters across the province and then use a computer to project the final election results.

The cross-section poll of almost 400 voters is a joint effort of several classes. Mr. Perry's Grade 12 advanced history class devised a set of questions for the poll, two Grade 13 French classes translated the questions into French, and the computer science department will tabulate the results when the answers come back.

Accompanied by a short letter of introduction and explanation, the questionnaire consists of 13 questions concerning age, occupation, nationality, religion, whom the respondent intends to vote for and what he considers the main issues.

Bell Canada made its directory library available to the students so they could compose a cross-section of voters from every social stratum.

Questionnaires have been sent to a wide range of persons — doctors, businessmen, blue-collar workers and those on welfare and unemployment.

The number of questionnaires was scaled to correspond with population figures. That is, an area with a population of 100,000 received 10 questionnaires while smaller areas received only one or two.

Sheldon Sutton, a Grade 13 student, will feed the results into a computer when the questionnaires are returned.

The students hope to have the questionnaires back by Oct. 16 and the results ready by Oct. 18.

Hurricane Ginger Smacks Into Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hurricane Ginger pounded the North Carolina coast with 80-mile-an-hour winds today, knocking out electric and telephone service, smashing windows and flooding low-lying areas.

The eye of the monster hurricane, the oldest and one of the largest in size on record, was expected to invade the coast shortly before noon EDT in an area where hundreds of island and coastal residents were huddled in Red Cross shelters set up in schools, churches and National Guard armories.

The U.S. weather service said 90 m.p.h. winds were reported as early as 4:30 a.m. at Atlantic Beach near Morehead City. A civil defence official said the town evacuated half of its 1,500 area residents.

Gale-force winds, which had extended 250 miles in all directions from the eye of the storm, began knocking down power lines and blowing out windows during the night along the coast. Weather forecasters said Ginger would continue her onslaught of the area for up to 50 hours.

At New Bern, torrential rains pushed the Neuse and Trent rivers out of their banks and left a foot of water in a street near their confluence. The water was rising at 18 inches an hour.

Ginger, born in the Atlantic 21 days ago, already has been blamed for one drowning in S. Augustine, Fla., and two young swimmers were missing in heavy surf off Neptune Beach.

At the Fort Macon coast guard station across Bogue Sound from Morehead City, a spokesman said radio contact was being maintained with a vessel weathering heavy seas and strong winds off Cape Hatteras.

The coast guard said the vessel, identified as the Caribbean Enterprise of the Dominican Republic, had altered course seeking to avoid the direct path of the storm.

To Your Good Health:

Bones Changing Shape Causes Pain

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told by my orthopedic doctor four years ago that I have Paget's disease. He said he was sorry there was nothing that could be done for me.

He never did explain what it was, aside from being a bone disease. What causes it? Is it ever possible to get better? I am in constant pain and my pills don't help any more. I am 61. — E. T. G.

We think of our bones as being solid and permanent. Actually, the bone substance is constantly being changed. The calcium (the principal constituent of bone; is being carried away ("resorbed" by the body) and new calcium replaces it.

This occurs a cell at a time, and the bone structure and shape remains relatively unchanged.

With Paget's disease, this process is very rapid instead of being gradual. The result is that the bone can be rebuilt into an abnormal structure. In fact, that is what you expect with Paget's disease. Shape and density of bone in various areas can change, putting stress on adjacent organs and causing the pain that goes with the disease.

The cause of the disease is not known; therefore we are at a loss to combat it except by such methods as may be discovered pretty much accidentally.

When your trouble was diagnosed four years ago, there was little that could (or needed to) be done except to relieve pain. The condition, after all, is bothersome to you because of the pain, not so much for any other reason.

In the last few years it has been noted that an antibiotic, mithramycin, is very effective in treating Paget's disease.

This action is quite apart from the drug's essential purpose, which is to subdue bacterial infections. For reasons we do not understand, the mithramycin has some effect on calcium metabolism which appears to arrest the process involved in Paget's disease and relieve the painful symptoms. You might discuss this with your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any way possible for someone like me to get medication for being allergic to cats? Every time I'm near one my eyes water. I sneeze breathing becomes difficult and a small rash appears.

I love cats, but it's really impossible when you have a condition like this. Any cure? — J. C.

I think you'd better give up cats.

There is such a thing as having a series of desensitization injections given by an allergist, but at best this can only protect you against mild exposure.

I would predict that even if you had very good results from the desensitization you'd probably overestimate your tolerance, pet a cat or two — and find your allergy suddenly just as bad as ever. You'd be right back where you started.

Your best bet is to avoid cats. Love 'em at a distance.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss undescended testicle in young males? My son is 12 and we are worried as to his masculine development. Should we seek hormone shots or is surgery recommended? — T. A. V.

I wouldn't worry about his "masculine development," but I would have the undescended testicle corrected. Best policy is to try hormones first. If that fails, then surgery is the answer. But let your physician decide on the proper timing. You should not delay treatment much longer.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For October 1

Your birthday (today: Adjustment is both necessary and very productive this year. Carry forward an open mind on events and setbacks of the recent past; take use of public enterprises. Expect benefits and responsibility to develop from tending other peoples resources. Today's natives like to talk and are much given to speculation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Business dealings tend to be complex. Pushing directly what comes naturally—overdoing is the big temptation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): One word too many and what you've assembled begins coming apart. The dig off and silence is more like it.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Resistance and rivalry, practically evaporate now — there's plenty of news to stir curiosity and odd receptions. Once you're into the afternoon you're in clover!

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): The tendency is to start the day on the wrong foot and get it all suddenly straightened out fairly late. Reflect on your blessings and good luck.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): As full as today is, tomorrow will be fuller, busy with revision of whatever is done now. Stretch it out a bit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Observation, checking out what you see should be your main interest. Later hours promise lively social or romantic challenges.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your daily living pattern departs from the habitual. Long hoped - for changes and surprises come to reality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Pay heed to advice, moderate your pressure and demands to fit current conditions. You have a turning point coming up shortly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Social activity blossoms all about. Your own restless mood contributes little for the moment. Relax early.

Jan. 19): Curiosity may be in-CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — convenient but certainly offers special answers if diligently pursued. There are so many fresh angles you'll need a couple of days to reset your sights.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Dilemma is normal. For most the choice is between deferred, possibly more ideal solutions and practical adjustment here and now.

Sydney J. Harris Says

City Flight at Panic Proportions

Will we witness the death of the city in our lifetime? It seems entirely possible to me — and to the men who know most about the structure of society.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I cleaned out the closet so Herbert could have his own room for the football season."

The flight to the suburbs from the typical American city has almost reached panic proportions — even though such cities as Detroit and Pittsburgh have embarked on vast and imaginative rebuilding programs in the downtown areas.

We forget that the great urban centres represent 40 per cent of the invested wealth, and yet they are decaying at so fast a rate that many planning experts fear that investment will be ruined in a few decades.

Human values as well as property values are threatened by this wild and senseless flight. If the central city collapses, the new outer suburbs themselves will have lost their way of life.

Taxes are already becoming sky-high in many suburbs. Adequate recreational facilities are lacking. People move from the city to find space and recreation — but there are no park acquisitions in the suburban areas where the greatest growth is taking place.

I seriously doubt whether any suburb can be self-sufficient, financially or culturally. Its lifeblood comes from the city, and this blood is being pumped out at a frantic rate.

As I travel through the hinterlands of Chicago, for example, I see vast suburban slums arising. There has been no central planning, no forethought, no long-range consideration of population problems — just fear and greed and a mindless refusal to face the future.

At the same time, the city itself (behind the proud and gleaming facade) is allowed to deteriorate with alarming speed.

It is a most vicious circle: schools get worse; as schools get worse, families move further out. Finally, neither the city nor the suburb can afford to sustain the way of life it desires.

Some sensible planning for the whole region is imperative. Otherwise, the city will become a place occupied only by the very rich and the very poor; and the suburbs will become middle-class slums, with all the urban problems they sought to escape — plus fantastic taxes.

Unless the inner city and the suburb can find a way to work and live co-operatively, only the termites will inherit the earth.
